Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1886.

MAYOR OF NEW YORK.

HEWITT, DEM., ELECTED BY 32,000 PLURALITY OVER GEORGE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Probably no election that ever took place in this city has equalled in interest that for Mayor to-day. Everywhere throughout the city the election was the one topic of interest. The newspaper bulletins were watched by large crowds until the result of the vote for Mayor was known. With one precinct missing the returns are: Roosevelt (Rep.) 60,342; Hewitt (Dem.) 90,296; George (Labor) 67,096; Wardwell (Prohibition) 314. Richelieu Robinson contested as an independent candidate for Congress and was hardly recognized in the voting.

George's Vote Challenged.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Henry George, accompanied by a number of friends, went to the 23d Assembly District to cast his vote. He walked up to the man who was peddling labor tickets, and after getting his ballots went up to vote. He was challenged by a Tammany "heeler," on the ground that he was not registered and had not resided in his district long enough to vote. George swore his vote in. It was claimed that he had been to Europe and thereby lost his residence. He swore that his family had resided in the state during his absence. It was discovered that the inspectors had changed both his son's name and his own from George to Gorge without authority, to defeat his voting.

The Elections Generally.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 2.—South Carolina elects the Democratic state ticket. The Legislature will be: Democrats 148, Republicans 8 on a joint ballot.

Partial returns from California favor the election of Swift, Republican as Governor.

Alabama went Democratic almost by default.

All reports from North Carolina are of Democratic gains and Louisiana reports a quiet day and a light vote, the Democrats having little or no opposition.

Returns from Iowa are slow and scattered, generally showing slight Republican gains.

Indiana on meagre reports shows slight Republican gains.

Wisconsin evidences small Republican gain. Gov. Rusk (Rep.) has been re-elected by 10,000 plurality.

In Virginia the apathy of the Democrats has probably resulted in the Republicans electing 6 of the 10 Congressmen.

Tennessee returns are that the Democrats have carried everything.

Georgia reports the lightest vote in years, the Democratic ticket being unopposed.

Massachusetts returns indicate that the Republicans elect the Governor by about 2000 plurality. The Democrats gain two Congressmen.

New Jersey reports tend to show that Greene (Dem.) is elected governor, and that the Legislature is in doubt.

The present indications are that no choice has been made for governor in New Hampshire on the popular vote, no candidate having a majority. The election will devolve on the Legislature where Republican gains give the Republicans a majority of 24 on a joint ballot.

Beaver carries Pennsylvania for the Republicans for governor by about 30,000.

Ohio shows considerable gains for the Republicans over 1884, when Foraker was elected Governor by about 18,000. Frank Hurd (Democrat free trade candidate for Congress from Toledo district) is again defeated, Romeis carrying the seat by a larger majority than at the last election.

Florida shows Democratic gains.

Minnesota reports that the election has been the liveliest known in the State, and that an unusually large vote was polled. The indications are that Ames for governor, and the entire Democratic state ticket are elected.

Kentucky returns report the re-election of Speaker Carlisle and six others of the eleven Congressional delegates.

In the Toledo, Ohio, District Frank Hurd was badly beaten by Romeis (Protectionist) for Congress.

The Massachusetts delegation adds a number of Fair Traders to the next Congress.

The Republicans gain four Congressmen and lose one in New York State. The Legislature will be Republican. On the head ticket for Supreme Court Judge it is thought Daniels is elected over Peckham (Dem.), but the contest is close and no definite statement can be furnished on the meagre returns at hand.

Chairman Cooper of the Republican State Committee claims 40,000 plurality for Beaver in Pennsylvania.

"Bob" Taylor (Dem.) is elected Governor of Tennessee by from 30,000 to 25,000. There was a light vote through the State, but it showed Democratic gains in all the districts.

Arrests for Bribery.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 2.—Ralph Foster, a prominent Republican and Chairman of the Seventh Ward Committee, and also a select man, was arrested at noon on a charge of bribery at the polls. He was bailed. It is stated that several other arrests have been made. Patrick McGovern, Chairman of the Republican Town Committee, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of bribery at the polls. He was released on bail.

Against Contract Convict Labor.

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Scattering returns throughout Illinois indicate that the proposed amendment to the constitution, making it unlawful to let by contract the labor by convicts, has been carried by a large majority.

EUROPEAN TROUBLES.

RUSSIAN OFFICIALS REMOVE BULGARIAN PLACARDS IN VARNA.

VARNA, Nov. 2.—The Russian Consular officials, with the help of sailors from the Russian men-of-war, to-day tore down a number of placards which had been posted in the city by order of the Bulgarian Government. The Russian Consul threatened to land troops if the authorities attempted to prevent the removal of the placards.

Instructions From the Czar.

SOFIA, Nov. 2.—The Czar has sent the following despatch to Gen. Kaulbars:

"Leave at the first case occurring of a Russian subject being molested. The Consul, unarmed, to witness the ceremony of lowering the flag, for which the Bulgarian Government will be asked to give the signal by gun fire. If they refuse, let the cavasses fire a volley of musketry, then let the flag be lowered three times; at the last time folded and handed to Gen. Kaulbars by his secretary, when all will enter carriages and go to Varna wearing the medals. When Gen. Kaulbars and all the Russian Consuls leave Varna Russia will occupy Bulgaria with two divisions and order new elections, the troops remaining until a new Prince has been chosen."

THE PRINCE INVOLVED.

His Royal Highness of Wales Mixed up in the Campbell Scandal.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—What has hitherto been whispered in society concerning the connection of the Prince of Wales with the scandal attached to the marital relations of Lord and Lady Colin Campbell has been confirmed by excellent authority. Lord Colin has long suspected the Prince of carrying on an intrigue with his wife, and, finally, becoming convinced of the correctness of his suspicions, threatened to include the heir to the British throne among the numerous co-respondents.

Last year, while in search of evidence against Lady Campbell and her alleged paramour, Lord Colin, found in her ladyship's desk a package of letters which had from time to time been addressed to her by the Prince of Wales. These letters were not couched in the orthodox language of a lover, but were sufficiently cordial in tone, and betrayed ample solicitude for the lady's happiness to justify the suspicion of her husband that the discreetly-phrased notes really meant more than they expressed.

Lord Campbell immediately divulged the fact and nature of his discovery to his father, the Duke of Argyll, and the latter made haste to lay the matter before the Queen, between whom and the Duke there was held a long consultation, resulting in the summoning of the Prince into the royal presence. His Royal Highness admitted without hesitation that he had written the letters in question, but protested his innocence of any motive in writing them other than a feeling of friendly interest in a brilliant young American lady whom everybody pitied, because of her husband's notorious neglect, and, rumor said, worse.

Finally Lord Colin Campbell placed himself and his case entirely in his father's hands, and the Duke, presumably in obedience to the royal command, obtained the letters and forwarded them to the Queen. It is understood that the letters have since been destroyed, and the only tangible evidence of the Prince's interest in the beautiful respondent thus passed forever out of sight.

ATTACKS ON THE ARMY.

The Salvationists Having a Hard Road to Travel in Quebec.

QUEBEC, Nov. 2.—Another disgraceful scene occurred at Jeffery Hale's school-house last evening during the Salvation Army meeting. An immense crowd of rowdies surrounded the building, hooting, yelling and throwing stones. A strong force of police was on hand, but no arrests were made. The Mayor was present, and addressed the crowd in the interest of order, but, notwithstanding, a number of panes in the school-room windows were smashed. At a largely-attended meeting of the members of the Evangelical Alliance a deputation was appointed to wait upon the Mayor and represent to him the necessity which existed for the proper protection for the female soldiers of the Salvation Army. The Mayor promised that all possible protection should be afforded.

Sam Small's Weakness.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 2.—In reference to the suit entered by Abraham Steinau against Rev. Sam Small to collect a note for $330 for jewelry, Mr. Small wrote from Toronto that the revival work has been so pressing upon him that he forgot all about the note. Rev. Dr. Joyce, of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church, speaking of the matter, said: "I have no doubt that Small has a mania for purchasing such things, a fact which a keen dealer could, no doubt, very easily discover. I know him very well, and I have never seen anything in his conduct that was not consistent with his Christian character. Nearly every man has some weakness that it is difficult to resist, and that appears to be Small's. But he is honest, and I don't think any fear was felt by Steinau of the loss of his money. I think had he come to me I could have assured him that I would get the money from Small for him. I know there have been reports that these men, Small and Jones, have been loose in their expenditures, but I happen to know that Jones has expended $4500 in charities; that he is now supporting four young men in college for the ministry, who otherwise would be unable to graduate, and that Jones gave the $1500 which purchased the camp ground at Cartersville, Ga."

A Negro Rising Threatened.

RALEIGH, N.C., Nov. 2.—The incendiary speeches of a negro in Randolph County last week caused excitement and led to his arrest. There were current on Saturday reports of his lynching. This morning Gov. Scales received a telegram from Capt. W. F. Johns of the Third Regiment, State Guard, that a negro insurrection was imminent and offering the services of his company there. Gov. Scales instructed him to hold his men in readiness, and to take no action until ordered to do so.

Revived and Died.

ORBET BAY, Mass., Nov. 2.—Commander Chandler, a retired officer of the United States navy, being prostrated by a paralytic shock, was laid out out on Sunday for dead. He revived as the undertaker was manipulating him for burial and wanted to know what all the fuss was about. He asked for something to eat and was given an oyster stew. Having tucked that away he went to sleep and slept calmly all night. On Monday he was again prostrated and died in earnest.

Fears for the Result.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The determination of the Socialists to make a demonstration on the occasion of the Lord Mayor's Day is causing the authorities much anxiety. The police fear that the gathering of the Socialists will end in a riot. They have warned shopkeepers in the line of march to close their doors and barricade their windows.

Believed to be in Canada.

BOSTON, Nov. 2.—Richard Preston, dealer in worsted goods and tailors' trimmings, has disappeared. He has been dabbling in stocks and has borrowed sums from personal friends to the amount of $150,000. His principal creditor is Thos. Cogg, of Lawrence, Mass. Preston is believed to be in Canada.

STRUCK ON A SHOAL.

Probable Loss of the Propeller Myles Near Kingston.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 2.—Following are the particulars of the sinking of the propeller Myles. Shortly before noon to-day, while running into the harbor, she struck on the Allen shoal. Capt. Thomas Green, who was at the wheel, said he was coming down under a good head of steam and was endeavoring to keep outside the reef when he hit it a glancing blow, knocking a hole in her side. The crush was so severe that after the vessel had passed over, the propeller's wheel tossed up ran of the vessel's planks. People on the shore who noticed the accident say that the propeller heeled over and many feared she would upset. Capt. Green, as soon as he noticed what had occurred, and finding that the vessel was making water very fast steered for a wharf. He ran alongside that owned by Davidson & Doran, the propeller's bow plunging in the mud there and sticking. The water caused the vessel to settle and she now lies in about forty feet at the stern. Her hurricane deck is partially under water. She heeled over on her side, touched the end of the wharf, and tore out part of her side forward. There is five feet of water in her cabin at one end. The Allen shoal, where the Myles struck, is a small reef about forty by seventy feet in extent. There is fourteen feet of water over it now. There is no insurance on the Myles. The cargo is insured in American companies.

ADAM DARLING'S ABSENCE.

A Liquidator Appointed—The Principal Creditors—A Letter From the Absentee.

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—In connection with Adam Darling's absence from the city, Mr. Benning, of the firm of Benning & Barsalou, believing that Mr. Darling has abandoned the estate, made the necessary affidavit this morning justifying the intervention of a liquidator on behalf of the creditors, and stating that Mr. P. S. Ross had been asked to act. A well known business man stated today that he saw a letter from Mr. Darling a few days ago, dated Kansas City, and addressed to a business friend in town, suggesting the appointment of a liquidator in the interest of his creditors. This gentleman further stated that it was well known among his friends that Mr. Darling's finances had been going behind for several years past, and that his business would not justify his manner of living. The protracted law suit with Wm. Darling, this gentleman considered, had largely to do with the present circumstances. It is understood that the largest creditors are Meechan Bros., Staffordshire, England, to whom Mr. Darling owes £4000 sterling. Mr. Benning's claim is for $5000 on an accommodation note, which was renewed about three weeks ago, and the Bank of Montreal is considerably interested.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

Deaths from Asiatic cholera have occurred in Mayence and Vienna.

The Art School at Ottawa opened on Monday with sixty-four pupils.

It is stated that twelve Russian men-of-war have left Sebastopol for Varna.

The Salvation Army claims to have made two hundred converts in Ottawa.

It is expected that the lumber shipping by rail will be greater this year than ever.

The recount in Montreal East has confirmed Mr. David in his seat for the Legislature.

Numerous arrests were made yesterday on the east side of New York city for illegal registration.

The Knights of Labor biscuit factory at Chatham has been exempted from taxation for nine years.

Trenton has contracted for sixteen electric lights, and thirty lights have been ordered by merchants of the town.

Surveyor Beattie, of New York, who was shot by a discharged inspector, was much improved yesterday.

The Journal de St. Petersburg says M. Laboulaye's appointment is a guarantee of good relations between Russia and France.

Patrick Finegan, a Hamilton cab driver, while sitting on his box yesterday was stricken with apoplexy and fell to the ground dead.

The Presbytery of Ottawa at their quarterly meeting, held yesterday, passed a resolution expressing disapprobation of Sunday funerals.

The returns of the municipal elections held throughout England and Wales on Monday show Conservative gains of 89 and Liberal gains of 76.

Three patients who were dismissed as cured by Dr. Chamales, late assistant of M. Pasteur, have since died in Odessa with the usual hydrophobia paroxysms.

The Rochester Herald heads the announcement of the discovery by Prof. Peters of Clinton, N.Y., of a new eleventh magnitude asteroid, "A New Ass to Ride."

James Caffrey, aged 7, James Dougherty, aged 7, John Dougherty, aged 6, and Ellen Dougherty, aged 3, were suffocated in a sand pit at Scranton, Pa., Monday evening.

The London officers of the chartered Mercantile Bank of India, London and China know nothing of an attack on their institution at Shanghai and its robbery of a large amount of specie.

A round drum connecting the boilers in the Charleston, S.C., cotton factory exploded yesterday. Wm. Oakes, fireman, was literally steamed to death. Richardson, a coal roller was fatally injured.

At a meeting of the Montreal City Council a statement was submitted which showed that the city revenue returns up to the 31st October were $1,464,184, against $1,518,322 for 1885, showing an increase of $135,062 for 1886.

A new club, to be known as the Metropolitan, has been formed at Ottawa, principally by members of the defunct Rideau Club. Its headquarters are on Metcalfe street. Col. Brown Chamberlain has been elected president.

The Indian Government has received news from Afghanistan confirming the reports of the rising of the Ghilzai tribe and stating that the movement is spreading. The Ameer is sending a large force to Ghuzai to suppress the revolt.

The schooner Ralph, Capt. Park, was seized at Halifax yesterday by the customs authorities for infraction of the revenue regulations. She was subsequently released, $400 being deposited. The matter has been reported to the Customs Department.

An Englishman named Lyddon, charged with defrauding his creditors in England and flying to Canada, was arrested at Quebec on Monday. He travelled under the name of King, and was accompanied by his wife and two children. He had only £9 sterling on him, but in his personal baggage was found a quantity of dutiable goods, which he was trying to smuggle through.

Samuel R. Stern, Attorney of the Syracuse Baseball Club, went to Cincinnati on Saturday to move for injunctions in the United States Court to restrain the Cincinnati Club from employing or playing certain players already under contract with the Syracuse Club. The managers of the Syracuse Club have determined this course to protect themselves against the clubs of the National League and American Association. Word was received at Syracuse on Saturday that A. A. Stern, the owner of the Cincinnati Club, had signed Crothers, Buckley, Hittman, Marr, Watson and Knepel, all of whom are under engagement with the Syracuse Club, and have advance money. Nothing has yet been heard at Syracuse from Lawyer Stern.

In the course of a few days Toronto's baseball team for next year will probably be announced. Another letter was received from Humphries yesterday asking for his release, but there are certain matters that he is required to settle up before any definite answer can be given. It is supposed he is anxious to sign with Rochester. Pasis and Kearns have signed with Toronto for next year to play first and second base respectively. Everybody will be glad to see Jay in his old position, for an honester, more conscientious, harder working player never stood on the diamond. Kearns has the reputation of being one of the same kidney. The nucleus of the team can, therefore, be pronounced good. The directors are expecting a letter by every mail from Manager Cashman, giving more information.

The Georgetown (Demerara) Argosy says that at Hamilton the West Indian cricketers met their only defeat in Canada. The members of the team speak in the most appreciative terms of the warm reception they ever where received and the lavish hospitality extended towards them from the time they arrived in Montreal until their re-embarkation at New York.

MAKING READY.

Reference to advertisement elsewhere will inform the members of the Liberal party throughout West Peterborough that a mass meeting is called for Wednesday, Nov. 10th, in the Old Music Hall, Peterborough, for the purpose of nominating candidates to contest the riding in the Liberal interest at the approaching Dominion and Local elections. It is perhaps, not necessary to insist on the importance of there being a full representation of the party on the occasion, since it is desirable that the action taken should result in the selection of candidates, who will enter the field with the full endorsation of the party, in which case their chance of success will be largely increased, and their return made sure. It is desired that every member of the party shall have a voice in the decision of the questions to be dealt with, and therefore let every member who can make it convenient be present on Wednesday, November 10th.

ACCOUNTS from all parts of the country indicate the growing importance of the Young Liberals as a factor in political affairs.

THE elections for the mayoralty of New York were held yesterday. Hewell, the Democratic candidate, was elected. Wardell, the prohibition candidate, potted only 514 out of a total of 213,531 votes cast.

MR. ALDERMAN NORTHRUP, of Belleville, is stumping East Hastings, and it is said he is organizing the party against Mr. John White. Mr. White, with his "blind shares," is more of a burden than the Conservative electors think they can carry to the head of the poll.

THERE are over twenty Revising Barristers (under the Dominion Franchise Act) who have not returned their lists to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery. An amendment to the Act, passed last session, practically gives them all the time they choose to take.

WHENEVER it may please Sir John to bring on the Dominion elections, he will not catch the Liberals napping. In thirty-five constituencies in the Dominion, the Liberals have candidates in the field, while the Conservatives have made nominations in only twenty ridings. In North Bruce, North Essex, East Elgin, South and North Grey, East Huron, Lennox, North Lanark, West Middlesex, South Perth, East Simcoe, Welland, North Wentworth, North Wellington, and East York, all in Ontario, both parties have candidates in the field. There are besides nine Liberal nomination meetings announced for the present month.

SIR JOHN is trying to play a double game in the race and religion feud matter. He has an organ, in Ontario, which has instructions to stir up enmity and strife between persons of differing religious faith, and he has an organ in Quebec which is busily engaged in consolidating the French against the English. While one journal preaches the doctrine of French domination in Ontario, another preaches that of English domination in Quebec, and, yet, as the Toronto News points out, the "funny part of the business" is that both organs solidly support the Tory party, as the one probable to check both French and English "domination" at the same time.

Board of Education.

A Short Meeting and Little Business—A Teacher Resigns.

At the regular meeting of the School Board Tuesday evening the following members were present: Mr. James Stevenson, in the chair; and Messrs. Henry, Weir, Kendry, Denne, Errett, McWilliams and Rutherford.

After the minutes had been read and confirmed, Mr. Denne rose to enquire if anything was deducted from a teacher's pay for loss of time. His children had frequently been sent home because their teachers were absent. He wanted information.

The Chairman replied that the teachers had not complied with a motion of the Board to that effect.

Mr. ERRETT claimed that teachers had no right to leave the schools at their own pleasure.

The following accounts were presented:—Review office, printing, $2.40, referred to the Finance Committee; No. 11 Douro school, rate bill for six months, $24.00, ordered to be paid as soon as the account was certified to by the chairman of the Finance Committee.

The total of fees collected from the schools last month were presented amounting to $121.50. The report was received.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The reports of attendance at the various schools were presented, as follows:

	On Roll.	Ave. Att.
Central School	627	520
South Ward School	148	126
West Ward School	221	185

The report was received.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication was read from the Dereroato Chemical Works, calling the attention of the Board to the cedar oil made by them, for use in preventing incrustation of boilers, etc.—Referred to the Property Committee.

From the Boiler Inspection Co., reporting having examined the steam boiler in the school building, on which some slight repairs were necessary. Referred to the Property Committee with instruction to take action.

From Mr. F. B. Yokeene, on behalf of the ladies of St. John's church, thanking the Board for the use of a room in the south ward school for the purpose of holding mission Sunday school meetings. The communication was received.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S MEDAL.

Mr. H. C. T. Hamilton laid claim to the Governor-General's medal, recently awarded to Mr. T. G. Armstrong for general proficiency. He advanced numerous arguments in support of his claim. The communication was received.

The resignation by Elim Johnston of her position as teacher in the Public school was referred to the committee on appointments. Applications for the vacant place were read from D. J. Hall, Ada Graham and Lizzie Keye, and referred to the same committee.

STATE OF THE SCHOOLS.

Mr. Stratton, Public School Inspector, presented his report, stating that in all the schools good order prevailed. The teachers had arranged to meet once a month for discussion of the best modes of teaching. He asked that the teachers be granted an hour on one Friday in each month for the purpose of holding this meeting.

THE MEDAL AGAIN.

Mr. McWilliams moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that the secretary be instructed to correspond with the Registrar of the Toronto University, asking for the name of the candidate from this Institute ranking highest in general proficiency at the last summer matriculation examination in arts.

There was considerable discussion on this motion, which was finally carried, after which the Board adjourned.

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

Not Wrong, But Impossible.

An exchange thinks that it is not wrong to cheat a lawyer. May be not wrong, but certainly impossible.

Try it.

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in these, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

A Radical Change.

Daniel Sullivan, of Malcolm, Ont., takes pleasure in recommending Burdock Blood Bitters for dyspepsia. It cured him after years of suffering. From being a sceptic he is now a confirmed believer in that medicine. 2w44d

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:
ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.
GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 20 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia.
I have worn your truss for four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.
This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

LUMINOUS

ALARM CLOCKS.

The Handiest thing in the World Can be seen as well in the Dark as the Light.

EVERYBODY should have One.

R. W. MUNCASTER.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

Mrs. Westerfield's habitual neglect of her eldest child was known to every person in the house. Even the new servant had heard of it. Interested by what she saw, on opening the garret door, she stopped on the threshold and looked in.

The lumber in the room consisted of two rotten old trunks, a broken chair, and a dirty volume of sermons of the old-fashioned quarto size. The grimy ceiling, slanting downward to a cracked window, was stained with rain that had found its way through the roof. The faded wall-paper, loosened by damp, was torn away in some places and bulged loose in others. There were holes in the skirting-board, and from one of them peeped the brightly timid eyes of the child's one living companion in the garret—a mouse, feeding on crumbs which she had saved from her breakfast.

Syd looked up when the mouse darted back into its hole, on the opening of the door. "Lizzie! Lizzie!" she said, gravely, "you ought to have come in without making a noise. You have frightened away my youngest child."

The good-natured servant burst out laughing. "Have you got a large family, miss?" she inquired, humoring the joke.

Syd failed to see the joke. "Only two more," she answered, as gravely as ever—and lifted up from the floor two miserable dolls, reduced to the last extremity of dirt and dilapidation. "My two eldest," this strange child resumed, setting up the dolls against one of the empty trunks. "The eldest is a girl, and her name is Syd. The other is a boy, untidy in his clothes, as you see. Their kind mamma forgives them when they are naughty, and buys ponies for them to ride on, and always has something nice for them to eat when they are hungry. Have you got a kind mamma, Lizzie? And are you very fond of her?"

Those innocent allusions to the neglect which was the one sad experience of Syd's young life touched the servant's heart. A bygone time was present to her memory, when she, too, had been left without a playfellow to keep her company or a fire to warm her, and had not endured it patiently.

"Oh, my dear," she said, "your poor little arms are red with cold. Come to me, and let me rub them."

But Syd's bright imagination was a better protection against the cold than all the rubbing that the hands of a merciful woman could offer. "You are very kind, Lizzie," she answered. "I don't feel the cold when I am playing with my children. I am very careful to give them plenty of exercise. We are going to walk in the park."

She gave a hand to each of the dolls, and walked slowly round and round the miserable room, pointing out visionary persons of distinction, and objects of interest. "Here's the queen, my dears, in her gilt coach drawn by six horses. Do you see her scepter poking out of the carriage window? She governs the nation with that. Bow to the queen. And now look at the beautiful bright water. There's the island where the ducks live. Ducks are happy creatures. They have their own way in everything, and they're good to eat when they're dead. At least they used to be good when we had nice dinners in papa's time. I try to amuse the poor little things, Lizzie. Their papa is dead. I'm obliged to be papa and mamma to them, both in one. Do you feel the cold, my dears?" She shivered as she questioned her imaginary children. "Now we are at home again," she said, and led the dolls to the empty fireplace. "Roaring fires always in my house," cried the resolute little creature, rubbing her cold hands cheerfully before the bleak, blank grate.

Warm-hearted Lizzie could control herself no longer.

"If the child would only make some complaint," she burst out, "it wouldn't be so dreadful! Oh, what a shame! what a shame!" she cried, to the astonishment of little Syd. "Come down, my dear, to the nice warm room where your brother is. Oh, your mother? I don't care if your mother sees us; I should like to give your mother a piece of my mind. There! I don't mean to frighten you; I'm one of your bad children—I fly into a passion. You carry the dolls, and I'll carry you. Oh, how she shivered! Give us a kiss."

Sympathy which expressed itself in this way was new to Syd. Her eyes opened wide in childish wonder—and suddenly closed again in childish terror when her good friend, the servant, passed Mrs. Westerfield's door on the way down-stairs. "If mamma bounces out on us," she whispered, "pretend we don't see her." The nice, warm room received them in safety. Under no stress of circumstances had Mrs. Westerfield ever been known to dress herself in a hurry. A good half-hour more had passed before the house door was heard to bang, and the pleasant landlady, peeping through the window, said: "There she goes. Now we'll enjoy ourselves!"

5.—The Landlord.

Mrs. Westerfield's destination was the public house in which she had been once employed as a barmaid. Entering the place without hesitation, she sent in her card to the landlord. He opened the parlor door himself and invited her to walk in.

"You wear well," he said, admiring her. "Have you come here to be my barmaid again?"

"Do you think I am reduced to that?" she answered.

"Well, my dear, more unlikely things have happened. They tell me you depend for your income on Lord le Basque—and his lordship's death was in the newspapers last week."

"And his lordship's lawyers continue my allowance."

Having smartly set the landlord right in those words, she had not thought it necessary to add that Lady le Basque, continuing the allowance at her husband's request, had also notified that it would cease if Mrs. Westerfield married again.

"You're a lucky woman," the landlord replied. "Well, I'm glad to hear it. What will you take to drink?"

"Nothing, thank you. I want to know if you have heard anything lately of James Bellbridge."

The landlord was a popular person in his own circle; not unaccustomed to entertain himself when he saw his way to a joke. "Here's constancy!" he said. "She's sweet on James, after having jilted him (I've yiddn sich!"

Mrs. Westerfield rose with dignity. "I am accustomed to be treated respectfully," she replied. "I wish you good-morning."

The easy landlord pressed her back into her chair. "Don't be a fool," he said. "James is in London; James is staying in my house. What do you think of that?"

Mrs. Westerfield's hard gray eyes expressed eager curiosity and interest. "You don't mean that he is going to be barman here again?"

"No such luck, my dear; he is a gentleman at large, who patronizes my house."

Mrs. Westerfield went on with her questions.

"Has he left America for good?"

"Not he! James Bellbridge is going back to New York, to open a saloon (as they call it), in partnership with another man. He's in England, he says, on business. It's my belief that he wants money for this new venture, on bad security. They're smart people in New York. His only chance of getting his bills discounted is to humbug his relations down in the country."

"When does he go to the country?"

"He's there now."

"When does he come back?"

"You're determined to see him. It appears! He comes back to-morrow."

"Is he married?"

"Aha! now we're coming to the point. Make your mind easy. Plenty of women have set the trap for him, but he has not walked into it yet. Shall I give him your love?"

"Yes," she said, coolly; "as much love as you please."

"Meaning marriage?" the landlord inquired.

"And money," Mrs. Westerfield added.

"Lord le Basque's money?"

"Lord le Basque's money may go to the devil!"

"Hullo! Your language reminds me of the time when you were barmaid. You don't mean to say you have had a fortune left you?"

"I do! Will you give a message to James?"

"I'll do anything for a lady with a fortune."

"Tell him to come and drink tea with his old sweetheart to-morrow at 6 o'clock."

"He won't do it."

"He will."

With that difference of opinion they parted.

Mr. Hoover's Concert.

The celebrated German violin virtuoso, Herr Jacobsen, and Mrs. Caldwell, the celebrated Canadian soprano, so well known and so highly admired in Peterborough, have been engaged for Mr. A. F. Hoover's concert, to be held at an early date.

Painful Accident.

Tuesday afternoon, Mr. John Fowler was on a scaffold with workmen engaged at finishing a house on King Street. The scaffolding fell, and Mr. Fowler, striking the sharp angle of a piece of timber, sustained a severe bruise on the hip, bone, and other injuries. He was carried to his brother's residence, Park street, and surgical aid was summoned. His injuries are painful but are not considered serious.

Tavernier Dramatic Company.

Mr. E. S. Laughton, the manager of the Tavernier Dramatic Company, is in town. He has made arrangements for a two week's season on Monday, October 8th. The company includes the well-known artists Miss Ida Van Courtland, Mr. Drew, Mr. Albert Tavernier, and Miss Alice Andrews. The season opens with a "Rash Marriage," followed by "Queena" and "Nobody's Daughter." A complete change of programme nightly, and Saturday afternoon matinee. Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The Political Conundrum.

There are several questions about which there is still uncertainty and doubt. When will the general elections be brought on? Who will be the candidates! When will city incorporation come? Who will be the first mayor? There is doubt and uncertainty about all these, but there is no doubt as to the fact that Gough, the Wonderful Cheap Man, is the ready made clothing king of Ontario, and that in his announcements in respect of his stock and prices, his word is as good as his bond. Gough makes great promises and Gough always keeps them. "His name, familiar in our mouths as household words," is a synonym of reliability. When he says "bargains," bargains it is. Don't forget this when you want tip-top, first class clothing at bed-rock prices, and don't fail to call at Gough's, Arcade Buildings, George street, Peterborough.

Canadian Testimony.

The Halifax Evening Mail says: "It is no easy matter for one person to interest an audience a whole evening; and yet to Mr. Rogers such a task appeared an easy one. No better test of his powers of mimicry could be given than that afforded last night in his representation of Oscar Wilde, while all who have heard the versatable Oscar agreed it was about as perfect as could well be, as well in attire and attitude as in mannerism and voice. The programme of last night afforded large scope for the abilities of a reader, and in every piece Mr. Rogers proved himself an accomplished artist, the humorous sketches suiting him better, perhaps, than the pathetic. His remarkable powers of facial expression were severely and satisfactorily tested in the 'Three Quarrelsome Italians' and in 'Darius Green and his Flying Machine,' both of which were heartily enjoyed." Mr. Rogers visits Peterborough on Friday next, when it is expected a large audience will greet him in the Opera House. Get your tickets at A. L. Davis & Co's.

High Court of Justice.

Queen's Bench Division—Peterborough Assizes, Mr. Justice Rose Presiding.

TUESDAY.—Continued.

The Jury found no bill in the case of the Queen vs. Reddy, for assault.

In the case of Ferguson vs. Sanderson, a verdict for the plaintiff was given, with full costs.

The charge of bigamy against Joseph Whiteman was taken up in the afternoon.

QUEEN VS. WHITEMAN.

Mr. Riddell for the Crown, Mr. Moore for prisoner.

The facts of this case will be well remembered. On January 21st, 1882, the prisoner, Joseph Whiteman, married Ann Yeomans, in the township of Camden, County of Addington. On March 16th, 1881, he was again married to Isabel White, of Peterborough, at MacAlpin's hotel, Napanee. Prisoner was apprehended on the 9th of April, 1886, at Galloway. An indictment was found against him at the Court of Sessions for bigamy.

Both wives were in court and appeared to take great interest in the case. They sat some distance apart.

Mr. Moore moved to quash the former indictment before the trial was proceeded with. His Lordship said that in case a verdict of not guilty was returned he would make such amendment to the indictment as as would prevent further trouble.

Benjamin Yeomans, father of the prisoner's first wife, was the first witness called. He swore positively that his daughter was married to Whiteman on the date mentioned and that the prisoner was the right man. Ann Yeomans deserted Whiteman because she didn't want to live with him. They had five children, and lived at times in Hungerford, Kennebec and Tamworth, where he saw the prisoner frequently.

Eleanor Clarke the next witness, testified she lived near Enterprise, in the the Township of Camden. She remembered the prisoner being married to Ann Yeomans, in the house of Mr. Yeomans, near Enterprise, about 21 years ago. Rev. John Moore was the clergyman. She would not, however, swear positively the prisoner was the man.

Capt. Cooper, Chief of Police, Peterborough, testified that when the prisoner was arrested he told him (the Chief) that he had the wrong man, that he had only been married once.

Isabel White, wife No. 2, was the next witness. She lived in town and deposed that she was married to prisoner five years ago. The marriage was bona fide.

R. Hall was present at the marriage of prisoner and Miss White.

Mr. Hartley testified to having issued a marriage license to Whiteman on 16th April, 1881.

Dr. Bell knew the prisoner and remembered how he lost his eye. It occurred at the rifle ranges here. Prisoner was marker, and lost his eye from the splash of a bullet.

Henry Mince, who lives in township of Somerville, knew prisoner and had some conversation with him. He told Mince about the fine country it was down in Camden, who took him to be the same man as married Ann Yeomans.

THE DEFENCE.

Mr. Moore submitted the first marriage was not sufficiently proven, but His Lordship overruled the objection.

Mrs. Whiteman, mother of the prisoner, a very old lady, testified to the goodness and generosity of her boy, and the character he bore among his acquaintances.

Messrs. Moore and Riddell agreed to abstain from addressing the jury. His Lordship then charged the jury, after which they retired and shortly afterwards returned with a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy.

SECOND DAY—WEDNESDAY.

The case of Phelan vs. Bradburn, occupied the attention of the court this morning. Mr. Stone for plaintiff; Mr. Dumble and Mr. Blackstock for defendant. This case was the outcome of previous litigation between the parties. The plaintiff sought to recover damages for the unlawful closing of his billiard room by the defendant, in whose building the room was located. Judgment was reserved.

WHITEMAN SENTENCED.

Joseph Whiteman, found guilty yesterday of bigamy, was brought into court to receive sentence. On being asked if he had anything to say why sentence of the court should not be passed upon him, the prisoner said "I have been thinking that there has been a great deal of law and little justice in my case." He said he was prepared to prove that that the woman who claimed to be his wife was not his wife. He thought he had not been given a fair trial.

His Lordship replied that the trial had been perfectly fair. He had been informed, however, that the prisoner's first wife was at present living with another man in adultery, and as his second wife did not complain, he (the judge) was inclined to be merciful. He therefore sentenced the prisoner to six and a half months in the gaol at Peterborough.

QUEEN VS. HAMMILL.

Alex. Hammill was charged with having in his possession, in his photograph gallery at Peterborough, a certain device wherewith paper might be marked with words and figures so as to represent a note of the Bank of Toronto. The preliminary trial at the Police Court was fully reported in the EXAMINER at the time, and the details are still fresh in the minds of the residents of Peterborough. Mr. Riddell for the Crown, Mr. Kerr for the defence.

Mr. J. G. McDonald, clerk of the Peterborough police court, was the first witness. He produced several articles which had been produced at the preliminary trial of the prisoner at the police court—a negative of a $5 bill, a stencil with 83214 in numbers in it, a box of type and bottle of printers' ink, and a rubber stamp. These had been found in the prisoner's gallery in Peterborough.

John Ball, a former employee of Hammill, testified to having seen the prisoner use the negative in his gallery in making bank notes. The negative was manufactured by Hammill for the purpose, as the prisoner had told him, of making notes. He also saw the prisoner use the stencil for stamping the bills. He had used the negative himself occasionally for printing bills. He never used the stamp for numbering bills. It belonged to him, which he had brought from home for the purpose of stamping their names on the backs of cards.

Constable Plaxton, of Barrie, Chief Cooper and Constable Adams were examined after dinner, giving evidence the same as at the preliminary examination. They found the articles produced in court on the prisoner's premises.

Yesterday afternoon the Grand Jury made their presentment as follows:—

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jurors for our Sovereign Lady, the Queen, for the County of Peterborough, beg to present to your Lordship as follows:

1. We have carefully examined the Court House and gaol, both of which we have found very clean and in good order.

2. We regret, however, to see that five lunatics are confined in our county prison, and that they are necessarily without that care and treatment which they would receive if placed in the asylums intended for lunatics. This is a matter we would like to see brought to the notice of the proper authorities, so that an effort may be made to restore the health and reason of these unfortunate persons.

3. We have to thank your Lordship for your very interesting and instructive address, and particularly with regard to your reference to prison labor and the Scott Act.

4. As regards the question of prison labor, to which your Lordship has referred, we are of opinion that no criminals should be permitted to be idle, and that, although no profit whatever may be obtained from his labor, provision should be made for his constant employment, which, we believe, should be of as severe a character as he is capable of performing. As your Lordship pointed out, this would have a most salutary effect in keeping tramps and many others from being a burden on our county. We sincerely trust this matter may receive attention from the Government.

In reference to the working of the Scott Act in this county, we feel we are not justified in expressing an opinion of its merits, as it has only been a short time in operation. We, however, are of opinion that it would be in the interests of the country that a prohibitory measure should replace it on the statute books. We feel that great difficulty will continue to be found, in enforcing the present law, for so long as strong drink is permitted to be made, secret means of selling it will always be found.

All of which we humbly present to your Lordship.

J. STEVENSON, Foreman.

The evidence of Constable Adams showed that when he searched the premises on the 27th or 28th April the plate could not be found; it was found on a shelf by Hall when the latter was brought from Barrie to give evidence early in April. The expert testimony of Mr. G. B. Sproule, photographer, was also taken. His Lordship here stated that there was no use in going into the details of the defence, as the evidence for the Crown had established the prisoner's innocence of the charge of having the goods "knowingly" in his possession. The prisoner was discharged.

Orient in Occident.

A Colony of Genuine Japanese Settled in Peterborough—A Unique and Attractive Industrial Exhibition at the Opera House.

There was a good attendance of the public at the Opera House last night to see a colony of genuine Japanese plying their various trades. The hall was divided into two portions by a high screen, which served for displaying a magnificent array of exquisite Japanese handiwork. The hall was also beautifully decorated with fancy fans, parasols and baloons in great profusion. On an elevated platform surrounding three sides of the room are seated the Japanese artists, in tailor fashion, busy plying their various callings. Mr. R. Ogana is a maker of screens, and he is plying his plane, drawing it towards him instead of from him, as our carpenters do. He very deftly makes the screen, and then it is turned over to Mr. Fosheka, a nineteen-year-old water color artist, the best amateur painter in Japan, who ornaments the screens with beautiful floral pieces, etc. He is also an excellent portrait painter, painting a portrait on the spot, but his patriotism will not permit him to put anything but Japanese clothing on his subjects. The porcelain painter, Mr. Otani, produces before the spectators splendid specimens of artistic flowers and figures in porcelain. Mr. Ogamuira is a dexterous silk weaver, producing beautiful specimens of work, such as ties, scarfs, etc., which meet with ready sale. Mr. Y. Mayberra, a silk embroiderer, in the rich delicacy of his work is the envy of ladies, who have no hope of attaining his skill. There is, it is safe to say, nobody on the continent who can equal him, or even approach him, except, perhaps, Miss Uta Yahmada, the only Japanese lady of the colony, who sits on the floor in front of her embroidery frame in Oriental costume, a pretty type of a Japanese lady in her drawing room, working away without a word and evolving from her needle and silk beautiful designs with great dexterity. One of the most admired artists is Mr. Eshegro, the clay moulder, who, with his potters' wheel, turned with a stick, and with his fingers alone, turns out vases, egg-shell cups thin as paper, without an error at a rapid rate. He is neat and cleanly, not a particle of clay soiling anything but his hands He has been 25 years at his work, having began at the age of two years. Last, but by no means least, is Mr. Yoko-ya, the worker in bamboo, who fashions out of the ordinary fishing rod, brackets, easels, cunning little cabinets, etc., with great skill. Altogether the busy little Japanese colony, hard at work, is a most interesting sight, and, no doubt, this afternoon and evening their rooms will be crowded. There one sees the several trades plied as they would be in Japan, and, as far as these branches are concerned, the visitor, for ten cents, takes a journey of 7,000 miles in the evening. In the other part of the hall a very good stage entertainment is given, consisting of singing, humorous sketches, cornet solos by a most talented young lady, etc. The whole entertainment is a very instructive and interesting one. To-day being the birthday of the 34th Mikado of Japan, it is expected that the entertainment will be unusually attractive this afternoon and evening. Nobody, child or adult, should miss this unique and delightful entertainment; at 3 o'clock, p.m., and at 7 p.m. Admission only 10 cents.

Y. W. C. T. U

The meeting of the W. C. T. U. in Mr. Greene's studio Monday night for the purpose of establishing a branch of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union was slimly attended, and after a brief conversation on the best plans for setting about the work, an adjournment was made till next Monday evening, at the same hour and place.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

An Exciting Race.

A Fine Exhibition of Sprinting at the P. A. A. A. Grounds—Considerable Money Changes Hands.

About 75 enthusiastic sportsmen assembled at the Athletic Association grounds in Ashburnham yesterday afternoon to witness the long talked of and eagerly looked for foot race between Messrs. Thos. Robson and A. W. Elliott, two local sprinters of some note. The race was for $100 a side, but considerable outside money was put up on the result. On the grounds betting was about even. Mr. Elliott appeared on the track about 2.30, clad in white with blue trunks; Mr. Robson entered the lists a few moments later, stripped to the waist and wearing only light colored silk trunks. Both men looked every inch athletes. Mr. Joe Daly was by mutual consent chosen starter and Dr. Brennan referee. The first heat resulted in a victory for Robson by a few inches only; the second was won similarly by Elliott. In this heat Robson had the misfortune to fall heavily on the hard cinder track, severely cutting his right leg in several places. Nothing daunted by the accident, however, he appeared when "time" was called, perfectly ready to run the final heat. This race was the most exciting of any, both men straining every nerve to the utmost to win. They came in together neck-and-neck, but when within a few feet of the tape Elliott sparted and won the race by a hairsbreadth almost. The winner was lustily cheered by his friends. Mr. Elliott certainly won the race, fairly and squarely, but he has no chance of boasting, as his opponent was not six inches behind. It would be impossible to surmise the result of the race had Mr. Robson not met with the accident, which, no doubt, had its disheartening influence. After the race a match was arranged for next Tuesday at the same hour and place, for $100 a side. Mr. Robson is confident of his ability to defeat his opponent, while Mr. Elliott is equally sanguine of success. Another hot race is looked for.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLISLE, Dorcas Street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church. wd

ELECTIONS IN THE U.S.

REPS. AND DEMS. BUSY FIGURING ON DEFINITE RESULTS.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 3.—John G. Carlisle, Speaker of the House of Representatives, failed to secure re-election to Congress, being defeated by the labor candidate who is a Protectionist.

A Cincinnati despatch says there is a doubt of Speaker Carlisle's defeat. The Sun has specials indicating majorities for Carlisle in unreported districts which would give him a majority of about sixty in the electoral district. The official count, which occurs Friday, will have to decide the result.

Louisville and all Kentucky have been in a fever of excitement all day over the close and doubtful election results. A Courier-Journal special at 8 o'clock stating that later returns would elect Carlisle by about 800 majority was received with great cheering, and there is yet a cherished hope that Carlisle is elected.

In Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 3.—Latest returns indicate that the Republicans' majority on the State ticket will reach 16,000 or more. The Republicans gain one Congress man.

Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 3.—The entire Republican state ticket has been elected in Minnesota by 10,000 to 13,000 majority.

In Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 3.—Complete returns show that the next Illinois Legislature will stand: Senate—Republicans 32, Democrats 18, United Labor 1. House—Republicans 88, Democrats 66, United Labor 7, Prohibitionists 2.

New York.

New York, Nov. 3.—The result of the elections in this state leaves the legislature and congressional delegation practically as it stood before. The head of the Democratic state ticket, Peckham for Supreme Judge, probably has 8000 to 10,000 plurality over Daniels, Republican.

Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 3.—All returns today serve only to add to the crushing defeats sustained by the Democracy of Virginia yesterday. There has been a great falling off in their vote throughout the state and their losses in all directions are almost phenomenal. Of 10 Congressional districts in the state the Republicans carried 6, the Democrats 3 and the Labor party 1, being a net loss of 5 Congressmen to the Democrats.

Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—The new delegation to Congress from Pennsylvania will consist of nineteen Republicans and nine Democrats. The present delegation is twenty Republicans and eight Democrats.

New Jersey.

Newark, N.J., Nov. 3.—The result of yesterday's election gives the state to Green (Dem.) for governor by a plurality of 7421, and makes the Lewisburg a tie on joint ballot with one Labor Democrat as the casting vote. This will probably elect Leon Abbett (Dem.) to the United States Senate to succeed Senator Sewell (Republican).

New Hampshire.

Concord, N.H., Nov. 3.—The Republican majority in the Legislature will insure the election of Sawyer as governor and a United States Senator.

Connecticut.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 3.—The total vote of Connecticut is 121,112 as follows: Cleveland (Dem.) 58,674; Lounsbury (Rep.), 56,891; Forbes (Pro.), 4811; Baker (Labor), 2736. Cleveland has a plurality of 1783 ballots, lacks a majority and fails of election. The Legislature stands: Republicans 151, Democrats 120, Labor 21; a Republican majority of 20, insuring the election of a Republican United States Senator, and of Lounsbury for governor, and the other state officers.

ILL-TREATMENT OF A LUNATIC

An Inmate of the County Jail at Ottawa Said to Have Been Beaten to Death.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—An investigation is to be held into the alleged charges of ill-treatment of J. N. Julian, who about six weeks ago was committed to the county jail as a lunatic and who died a few days ago. His body was found to be covered with bruises and his head was badly battered. A man named Macdonald, confined in jail awaiting trial at the assizes for manslaughter, but who was acquitted and released a few days ago, says the turnkey beat and ill-used Julian. The story is flatly denied and the physicians who examined the body say all the wounds might easily have been inflicted by the deceased who used to batter himself against the wall and otherwise endeavor to end his existence. His funeral took place this morning and was attended by members of the Typographical Union, to which he belonged.

Lone Man Captured.

Calgarry, N.W.T., Nov. 2.—Supt. Griesbach, of the Mounted Police at Edmonton, has captured "Lone Man," who is supposed to have been implicated in the massacre at Frog Lake last year. Lone Man, subject upon the lapse of time since the rebellion, came into the post with a complaint about stolen horses. He was immediately imprisoned.

EUROPEAN TROUBLES.

HOW RUSSIA IS BULLDOZING BULGARIA.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 3.—The Novosti says: "Certain western powers have contributed to make the regents of Bulgaria doubt the threats of Russia to take energetic action. It depends upon Europe whether Russia crosses the Rubicon."

The Novoe Vremya says that after Gen. Kaulbars departs from Bulgaria practical measures will be taken to enable Russian men-of-war to execute their mission, not only at Varna but at the Bulgarian ports generally.

The Porte to Mediate.

Constantinople, Nov. 3.—The Porte has acceded to the request of M. Bercoff to endeavor to improve the relations between Bulgaria and Russia through the intervention of the Ottoman Embassy at St. Petersburg.

Not Confirmed.

Vienna, Nov. 3.—The report that Russian sailors had landed at Varna is not confirmed. Diplomats here believe that Gen. Kaulbars has decided to leave Bulgaria.

Russia Gaining Her Points.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 3.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says the statement in yesterday's Official Messenger containing Gen. Kaulbars' reply to the Bulgarian Government that he would quit Bulgaria if another Russian was molested, indicates the limit of Russia's patience. The Journal continues:

"The moderation thus far shown by Russia because of an aversion to render the Bulgarians responsible for their rulers' misdeeds, has inspired the regents with hopes for its continuance. They must be made to understand, however, that they cannot persevere in their present course. By the liberation of the Russian officers they have satisfied one of Gen. Kaulbars' essential demands and Gen. Kaulbars' counsels may perhaps induce the regents to understand the situation and act in the interests of their country."

MR. SEXTON SUSTAINED.

The Decision in His Favor at Belfast Results in a Riot.

Belfast, Nov. 3.—In the matter of the petition of Mr. Haslett, Conservative candidate, to have vacated on the ground of bribery, the seat in the House of Commons for the Western Division of Belfast, for which Mr. Sexton received a majority of the votes, the Judge has decided that no bribery has been proven.

The Court's decision in favor of Mr. Sexton was received with enthusiasm in the court-room. On the result being made known to the crowd outside they immediately commenced to stone the building. Rioting began on Carrick Hill during the night. No police were near when the outbreak occurred, but they appeared later and dispersed the opposing mobs. Many of the voters were struck by stones and badly hurt. The greatest excitement was caused by the disturbance and the feeling has not abated.

PEACE AT ANY PRICE.

John Bright Once More Airs His Ancient Doctrine.

London, Nov. 3.—John Bright has written a letter on the foreign affairs of England, in which he derides English fears and jealousy of Russia. He says:

"England seizes Burmah, yet she menaces Russia if she approaches Afghanistan. England has denied Russia's right to enter the Mediterranean from the Black Sea and has treated her always as an enemy. It is not unnatural then that Russia should retaliate. No country in Europe would more readily respond than she to offers of friendship from England."

Mr. Bright expresses the hope that no minister will again be able to drag England into war.

THE LIBERAL FEDERATION.

Growth of the Organization in Spite of the Secession.

Leeds, Nov. 3.—A meeting of the Liberal Federation was held to-day. The president read a report showing that despite the secession of Joseph Chamberlain and his followers the association had increased by 100 branches. A resolution declaring the confidence of the meeting in Mr. Gladstone was carried amid enthusiasm by acclamation.

Agricultural Protection in France.

Paris, Nov. 3.—President Grevy and Premier DeFreycinet to-day received a delegation of farmers who came to urge the necessity of a duty of five francs on imported corn. The President expressed an earnest desire to assist French agriculture to hold its own against foreign competition. M. DeFreycinet made a similar response. The Budget Committee recommends that heavy duties be imposed on foreign goods imported into Tonquin, but that French products be admitted free.

M. Pasteur's Success.

Paris, Nov. 3.—M. Pasteur has informed the Academy of Science that he has treated during the past year 2490 persons who had been bitten by animals and that out of this number only ten had died. Of the patients 1726 were French.

The Salvation Block at Quebec.

Quebec, Nov. 3.—The Salvation Army, in anticipation of more serious trouble, adjourned their meeting to-night. It appears the disturbance last night had even a more serious turn than was reported. It was after the meeting was over that the Rev. Mr. Stobo called for three cheers for the Mayor, which were given rousingly, and the assemblage on leaving the hall kept up the shouting. The police were all formed into line, and while they were in this position they were attacked by the mob who threw stones and other missiles. Three or four policemen had been severely injured, when the order to charge was given. The crowd rallied and charged on the police, who, however, acted bravely, the result being several broken heads for the mob and two arrests.

Two Newly-Elected Burnt to Death.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 3.—At 9 o'clock this morning the Ackerman Hotel, a two-story frame building, was burned and three men perished. They were forgotten in the excitement until too late to save them. Two of them were John C. Gates and Michael Tracy, who were elected treasurer and auditor respectively yesterday. The third victim was John Burch, whose presence in the building was unknown. He leaves a family of four children. Gates had eleven children.

Five Days at Sliscy.

New York, Nov. 3.—The schooner Anna R. Hutchinson, which arrived to-day from Chagres, reports that on October 14, south of Dry Tortugas, she picked up the captain, mate and four seamen of the Bark Tres Aurorea from Barcelona for Havana, upon a piece of a cabin-house; they having been five days in that condition without food or water. The captain stated that the bark broke up and sank during the hurricane. The balance of the crew, seven men, are supposed to have gone down with the vessel.

A Big Blaze at Smithville.

Smithville, N.W.T., Nov. 3.—The Town Hall and Agnew, McDonald and Baker's stores were burnt down to-day.

THE GRADING OF FLOUR.

Important Amendments Suggested to the Inspection Act.

Montreal, Nov. 3.—At a meeting of the Board of Flour and Meal Examiners this afternoon the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, that inasmuch as the system of making flour has been materially changed by the introduction and use of rollers in its manufacture, it has become necessary to make provision for the grading of such flours. The board, therefore, recommends that the Inspection Act be so amended as to allow roller flours to be graded, and that the grades be as follows: Patent winter wheat, spring wheat, patent, and straight roller, and further that the inspection by sample should be permitted, the inspector using samples instead of graded standards, and simply inspecting for regularity, weight and soundness.

Resolved that the Government be asked to amend clause M of the Inspection Act, so that the designations of different qualities or descriptions of flour shall be as follows: Patent winter wheat, patent spring do., straight roller, strong bakers', extra, superfine.

Woman Suffrage in Vermont.

Montpelier, Vt., Nov. 3.—The House of Representatives to-day passed the bill granting suffrage to women by 135 to 89.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

France has failed to secure any allies in Its Egyptian policy.

All the foreign vice-consuls have left Sofia for Tirnova, where the Sobranje is sitting.

The French delegates went to Washington yesterday. They will sail for France on Saturday.

The works of the Walker Horse Shoe Company at Baltimore were burned yesterday; loss $80,000.

Gen. Kaulbars states that the Czar approved of his advice in favor of the military occupation of Bulgaria.

Four hotelkeepers at Bracebridge were yesterday charged with a violation of the Scott Act; all the cases were dismissed.

On Monday Mrs. Peter Leddie of Hochelaga gave birth to a boy, and on Tuesday to another boy and a girl. The crowd are doing well.

A band of 100 brigands is ravaging Salonica. The band entered a Turkish village, murdered seven women, and pillaged and set fire to the houses.

Twenty-seven persons who were implicated in the recent revolt at Madrid have been sentenced to various terms of imprisonment at hard labor.

Paul de Cassagnac has ceased to be an active supporter of the Imperial cause, and has resigned his membership of the Bonapartiste Committee.

Yesterday morning the steamer Connecticut of Coxsackie burst her boiler, killing Fireman Matthew Quinn of Coxsackie, and scalding another man seriously.

The congregation of Immanuel Church, Montreal, have presented their pastor, Dr. Stevenson, with a purse containing $1000 and a set of library furniture.

Mary Lewis and Carrie Williamson alias Johnston, two women of ill-repute belonging to Hamilton, were sent to the Mercer yesterday for a twelve-month each.

Dr. Fontaine, while experimenting yesterday at Paris with an hydraulic invention for production of compressed air, was killed by the lever striking him in the chest.

Heavy storms prevailed yesterday throughout Scotland. In Edinburgh the gable of a new building was overthrown and three workmen killed and five injured.

Mr. Phillip, hotelkeeper, of Midland, is the happiest man in the country. Last Sunday he became the father of two daughters and a son. The mother and triplets are doing well.

One hundred Russian sailors landed at Varna Tuesday, and headed by the Russian consul visited the prison, where they shouted to the inmates that they would be released in three days.

On Sunday John Gabourie, aged 28 years, son of Felix Gabourie, hotelkeeper at Tweed, was instantly killed while attending to his duties on the Canadian Pacific Railway near his home.

Five thousand railway laborers from the Rockies are expected to pass through Winnipeg within the next few days, work on the mountain section of the C. P. R. having been finished for the season.

The last Haldimand Sabbath School Convention held at Canfield was very successful. The report shows over 70 schools in the county, 600 teachers and other officers, 6000 pupils and 10,000 volumes in the libraries.

Richard Prentice, who it was thought had disappeared leaving over $100,000 due various creditors, returned to Boston yesterday. He had been on a business trip and was taken ill at Portland.

An address to Prince Alexander, declaring that the Sobranje is forbidden to re-elect him to the throne, is being largely signed by members of the Sobranje in spite of the Government's efforts to dissuade them.

The French Academy of Sciences, has proposed an international conference at Paris next spring to make arrangements for the making of a photographic map of the heavens simultaneously at twelve stations in different quarters of the globe.

In a recent number of the Illustrated Sporting and Dramatic News "Rapier" alludes to a chat with Tom Cannon on the 2-year-olds of the season. Said Cannon: "Up to now of the 2-year-olds that have been out, I think the best two are The Baron and Annamite. Annamite is a brown son of Tomahawk and Annette. Tomahawk, a son of King Tom, was shot in 1884, aged 21. Annette is a daughter of The Speaker and Lady Di (the latter by King John—Delight by Birdcatcher). The speaker is a son of Filbert, who died in 1881, aged 25.

George, the young Canadian who will pitch for the New York Club next season, is a phenomenon in his way. His friends say that his combination curves, which he can pitch with almost equal effectiveness with either hand, will bother the League batters greatly.—N. Y. Morning Journal.

The Canadian champion football team will arrive a few days before Thanksgiving Day, and after playing matches against local clubs will play the combined team picked from the different clubs in the American Football Association at Newark.—N. Y. Daily News.

It is claimed that Hanlan recently rowed over the Thames championship course in a trial in faster time than any oarsman rowed the distance, and he has offered to wager $500 or $1000 that he can beat the time Wm. Beach made when he defeated Gardner.

The four-oared race for £200 between Teemer, Hamm, Ten Eyck and Hanlan, and Ross, Lee, Perkins and Goodwin, will be rowed over the Thames championship course next Monday. The crew in which Wallace Ross is stroke are favorites in the betting. On Nov. 9 Ten Eyck will row Perkins, the British champion and holder of The Sportsman's £250 prize cup on the Tyne.

Articles of agreement have been signed between William Hoagland of Auburn, N.Y., and Dan O'Leary, to walk 300 miles for $250 a side and the gate money. The race is to take place in a few weeks at Binghamton, N.Y. The race is open to any other pedestrian that desires to put up $200 and make a sweepstakes of $300 or more to the winner.

The first contest between Hanlan and Gardner will be at Saratoga Lake on May 3. There will be another contest in St. Louis in June, and at Geneva two weeks later. Mr. St. John cabled to Hanlan, who is in London, telling him of this arrangement, and received a reply from Hanlan in which he stated that the arrangement was entirely satisfactory.

The Montreal Gazette quotes The World's remarks on the conduct of the Montrealers in attempting to take advantage of every petty technicality, but instead of disproving the charge or defending the would-be champions, merely says: "The above is purely Toronto prejudice and contains no argument. The Montrealers won the championship and saw no further glory or credit in beating Toronto again three straight when every one here was satisfied they could do it." The comment says the Montrealers have not yet won the championship, and that they must once more prove their ability to beat the Torontos before they can claim the title.

Fred. Archer paid a visit to the Curragh on Oct. 21, 22 and 23, which was attended with complete success, in so far as his chief mission was concerned, viz., the riding of Candlemaker in the Lord Lieutenant's Plate, and the victory of the handsome 5-year-old son of Doncaster and Strathfleet in the colors of his new owner was exceedingly well received. It was followed, too, by a most graceful act on the part of Lord Londonderry, as to a true spirit of chivalry he presented the trophy he had won with his own horse, specially purchased for the feat, to Mrs. Elsey, who ran second with Kildare. The occasion was the Lord Lieutenant's first appearance as a race-horse owner.

CIVIL SERVICE WASTE.

The average mind can hardly grasp the extent of the general extravagance of the expenditure of the Dominion Government. For a better appreciation isolated instances may be cited. The following figures show what a horde, largely unnecessary, of political parasites, prey on the public resources at Ottawa. There has, as the following tabular statement shows, been an increase of 700 civil service employes in seven years:—

Departments—	1878.	1885.
Governor-General's office	11	13
Privy Council office	12	27
Department of Justice	12	30
Militia and Defence	32	33
Secretary of State's Department	36	58
Department of Interior	41	254
Department of Indian Affairs	0	43
Auditor-General's office	0	23
Finance Department	57	50
Department of Customs	37	34
Department of Inland Revenue	28	34
Department of Public Works	31	148
Dept of Railways and Canals	0	81
Post-office Department	110	191
Department of Agriculture	40	127
Dept of Marine and Fisheries	24	33
Receiver General's office	15	About'd
Total	480	1,180

Add to this list the Senate employes, 50; the House of Commons, 237, and the new staff which the new departmental buildings, now in course of erection at Ottawa, will create, and we have a total of 1,500 persons living in luxury at Ottawa, at short hours and long salaries, and at the public expense. Many of these employes have nothing to do, in fact the most arduous labour they have to perform is to kill time, and the hard-working taxpayer has to foot the bill. Every member supporting the Government has a relative or two to be provided for, and as the Government policy of plunder has made them the servants of their supporters, the claims of the latter have to be attended to, and some place is created for the hungry applicant, or he is given a sinecure, whose chief duty involves only the drawing of the incumbent's salary. The waste in this one branch is enormous. With 1,500 civil servants at an average yearly salary of $1,000, the total annual expense of this department reaches the enormous sum of one and a half millions. Now, in 1878 and previous years, the Reform administration did the work at less than one-third the expense, and there is no doubt that, allowing for the increased public business, with only a half-hearted attempt at economy, the expense of the civil service department might be reduced one-half. And this department is only a type of the way of waste and extravagance of all the others. There is no hope of any improvement under the present rule. Government supporters have been trained to expect rewards for their allegiance, which must come, more or less, directly from the public resources, and the present administration cannot, if it would, resort to honest expenditures. The political cormorants unsatisfied would go into opposition. That would mean loss of power, and that is something Sir John and his satellites will not surrender, so long as there is a "shot in the locker"—a dollar in the treasury. The only way to secure retrenchment is to remove them from power. For the past eight or ten years their rule has been of a ruinous nature. Can the electors decide that a perpetuation of this rule will be for the benefit of the country?

Literary Notices.

"Little Men and Women." Annual volume. Illustrated. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price $1.50. What more could the story and picture-loving six-year-olds ask for than this charming volume, which fairly runs over with good things. Think of it! Seventy-five full-page illustrations, and twice as many smaller ones, with the jolliest kind of stories by choice contributors, about all sorts of things and all sorts of places, with poetry just such as will catch the ear and fancy, sometimes song, sometimes description, and sometimes such amusing little bits as this:

Dimple is only three years old,
Merry brown eyes and hair of gold;
She had never noticed her eyebrows before
So she stood at her glass for a minute or more;
Then she spoke with a baby's pleased surprise,
"Why, papa, I've whiskers over my eyes!"

Let the fathers and mothers who are looking for a bright book for the little ones, turn over the leaves of the bound volume of "Little Men and Women" for 1886.

Parents and teachers should make a note of it for holiday purchases.

Particular attention is called to the low subscription price of each of the popular periodicals published by D. Lothrop & Co. That for "Wide Awake" has been reduced from $3.00 to $2.40; "The Pansy" is cut $1.00; "Our Little Men and Women" $1.00, and "Babyland," 50 cents.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE NORTHWEST.

An English Syndicate to Establish Live Stock Breeding Stations.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3.—Sir John Lister Kaye, who is at present in the city on his way home to England after a trip to the Northwest, reports having been inspecting lands along the line of the C.P.R. as the representative of a syndicate that intend to take up various plots of land at different locations along that line, with the intention of making them breeding stations for Clydesdale draught horses, sheep and cattle, and also treating some of the land to a certain extent as arable land. The stations, it is proposed, shall be for the most part conducted on the principle of an English estate. He is satisfied with his visit and thinks that for the above purposes the soil, grasses and water are excellent. The district where it is proposed to set up these stations lies between Moosejaw and Calgary.

Assaulting a Scott Act Constable.

WALKERTON, Nov. 3.—At the Bruce Assizes now being held before Mr. Justice O'Connor, true bills have been found against nine parties in Kincardine for assaulting a constable there on Saturday last whilst the officer was engaged in executing a Scott Act search warrant. Two true bills have also been found against a Ripley hotelkeeper named Edward Hodgins, for levelling a revolver at the same constable and threatening to shoot him whilst he was searching his house. The constable took his man and the whisky before the magistrates at Kincardine.

Fell Over the Precipice.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 3.—About 2.30 this afternoon the body of a woman was found lying in the river gulch close to the edge of the water. The corpse was somewhat decayed. It is supposed to be that of a cook who left the Clifton House about three weeks ago, and was last seen alive Sunday, Oct. 17, on the Railway Suspension Bridge under the influence of liquor. While in this state, no doubt, she met her fate by falling over the precipice, which is certain death.

Apportionment of Zululand.

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The Colonial Secretary announces that Western Zululand will form a new republic. Eastern Zululand will be reserved for the Zulus with a British protectorate if the Zulus desire it. The Boer protectorate over the country will be abolished and the entire coast will hereafter be under British protection.

A Massacre in Burmah.

RANGOON, Nov. 3.—Commissioner of Police Gleisson and twenty policemen were surprised at midnight on the Kyendwem River by rebels and all murdered.

The town of Minhla has been attacked and burned by 900 rebels under Bohshway. The loss of property is large.

Tory Nominations for North Hastings.

MADOC, Ont., Nov. 2.—About 100 delegates were present at the Conservative Convention here to-day, being a full representation from all parts of North Hastings. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, for the Commons, and O. F. Wood, for the Legislature, were nominated by acclamation. Hon. Geo. Foster, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and Hon. Mr. Bowell delivered addresses in the Masonic Hall to a large audience.

Violently Assaulted by Tramps.

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—A Canadian Pacific Railway section man named Thomas Widows was found lying insensible by the track near Templeton early this morning and bearing the appearance of having been severely beaten. He was for several hours unconscious. It is supposed he was attacked by tramps.

A Trespasser in the Cemetery.

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—Two children have entered an action against their mother, stepfather and the fabrique of Notre Dame to remove the body of a child which was buried in a lot in the Roman Catholic Cemetery by permission of the mother. The children claim that the mother had no right to consent.

The Railway Commission at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Nov. 2.—The Railway Commission reassembled in this city to-day. Sir A. T. Galt, Chairman, presided, and there were present Messrs. T. E. Kenny, Geo. Moberly and M. S. Lonergan, Secretary. No witnesses were examined, only routine business being transacted. The Board will likely hold sessions here for a couple of days longer.

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

The Scourge of America.

The one terrible blight of our country is scrofula—from impure blood—it causes consumption and many wasting, lingering and fatal diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters cures scrofula if taken in time. 2w44d

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle.

Any person who has used Polson's Nervoline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nervoline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only cost ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25c. sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure—Nervoline. 6dw44

Cheap Gas.

The corporation of Glasgow supplies the citizens with gas of the best quality at 72c. per 1,000 cubic feet; and does not lose money by the operation.

Try It.

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in those, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

Good for Hogs Too.

A Dutch doctor says that a liberal use of salt is a remedy for the ills that flesh is heir to. About this time of year many bucolic Canadian practitioners use it to cure their hogs.

Sir Richard Burton, the famous traveller, now in his sixty-third year, will resign his consulship at Trieste and retire to private life.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—kindreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 20 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spermatic truss(s) made in York State, costing me $30. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, is held up perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CHAS. E. HALL.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child case; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

6.—The Brute.

To-morrow came—and Mrs. Westerfield's faithful James justified her confidence in him.

"Oh, Jemmy, how glad I am to see you! You dear, dear fellow, I am yours at last."

"That depends my lady, on whether I want you. Let go of my neck."

The man who entered this protest against imprisonment in the arms of a fine woman was one of the human beings who are grown to perfection on English soil. He had the fat face, the pink complexion, the hard blue eyes, the scanty yellow hair, the smile with no meaning in it, the tremendous neck and shoulders, the mighty fists and feet, which are seen in complete combination in England only. Men of this breed possess a nervous system without being aware of it; suffer affliction without feeling it; exercise courage without a sense of danger; marry without love; eat and drink without limit; and sink (big as they are) when disease attacks them, without an effort to live.

Mrs. Westerfield released her guest's bull-neck at the word of command. It was impossible not to submit to him—he was so brutal. Impossible not to admire him—he was so big.

"Have you no love left for me?" was all she ventured to say.

He took the remonstrance good-humoredly. "Love?" he repeated. "Come! I like that—after throwing me over for a man with a handle to his name. Which am I to call you; 'Mrs.'? or 'My Lady'?"

"Call me your own. What is there to laugh at Jemmy? You used to be fond of me; you would never have gone to America when I married Westerfield if I hadn't been dear to you. Oh, if I'm sure of anything I'm sure of that! You wouldn't bear malice, dear, if you only knew how cruelly I have been disappointed."

He suddenly showed an interest in what she was saying; the brute became cheery and confidential. "So he made you a bad husband, did he? Up with his fist and knocked you down, I dare say, if the truth was known?"

"You're all in the wrong, dear. He would have been a good husband if I had cared about him. I never cared about any body but you. It wasn't Westerfield who tempted me to say yes."

"That's a lie."

"No, indeed it isn't."

"Then why the devil did you marry him?"

"When I married him, Jemmy, there was a prospect—oh, how could I resist it? Think of being one of the Le Basque! Held in honor, to the end of my life by that noble family, whether my husband lived or died?"

To the barman's ears, this sounded like sheer nonsense. His experience in the public house suggested an explanation. "I say, my girl, have you been drinking?"

Mrs. Westerfield's first impulse led her to rise and point indignantly to the door. He had only to look at her—and she sat down again a tamed woman. "You don't understand how the chance tempted me," she answered, gently.

"What chance do you mean?"

"The chance, dear, of being a lord's mother."

He was still puzzled, but he lowered his tone. The true-born Briton bowed by instinct before the woman who had jilted him when she presented herself in the character of a lord's mother. "How do you make that out, Marin?" he asked, politely.

She drew her chair nearer to him when he called her by her Christian name for the first time.

"When Westerfield was courting me," she said, "his brother (my lord) was a bachelor. A lady—if one can call such a creature a lady!—was living under his protection. He told Westerfield he was very fond of her, and he hated the idea of getting married. 'If your wife's first child turns out to be a son,' he said, 'there is an heir to the title and estates, and I may go on as I am now.' We were married a month afterward, and when my first child was born it was a girl. I leave you to judge what the disappointment was! My lord (persuaded, as I suspect, by the woman I mentioned just now) ran the risk of waiting another year, and a year afterward, rather than be married. Through all that time I had no other child or prospect of a child. His lordship was fairly driven into taking a wife. Ah, how I hated her! Their first child was a boy—a big, bouncing, healthy brute of a boy! And six months afterward my poor little fellow was born. Only think of it! And tell me, Jemmy, don't I deserve to be a happy woman after suffering such a dreadful disappointment as that? Is it true that you're going back to America?"

"Quite true."

"Take me back with you."

"With a couple of children?"

"No. Only with one. I can dispose of the other in England. Wait a little before you say no. Do you want money?"

"You couldn't help me, if I did."

"Marry me, and I can help you to a fortune."

He eyed her attentively and saw that she was in earnest. "What do you call a fortune?" he asked.

"Five thousand pounds," she answered.

His eyes opened; his mouth opened; he scratched his head. Even his impenetrable nature proved to be capable of receiving a shock. Five thousand pounds! He asked faintly for a "drop of brandy."

She had a bottle of brandy ready for him. "You look quite overcome" she said

He was too deeply interested in the restorative influence of the brandy to take any notice of this remark. When he had recovered himself he was not disposed to believe in the £5,000. "Where's the proof of it?" he said sternly.

She produced her husband's letter. "Did you read the trial of Westerfield for casting away his ship?" she asked.

"I heard of it."

"Will you look at this letter?"

"Is it long?"

"Yes."

"Then suppose you read it to me."

He listened with the closest attention while she read. The question of stealing the diamonds (if they could only be found) did not trouble either of them. It was a settled question, by their consent, on both sides. But the value in money of the precious stones suggested a doubt that still weighed on his mind.

"How do you know they're worth £5,000?" he inquired.

"You dear old stupid! Doesn't Westerfield himself say so in his letter?"

"Read that bit again."

She read it again: "After the two calamities of the loss of the ship, and the disappearance of the diamonds—the last being valued at £5,000—I returned to England."

Satisfied so far, he wanted to look at the cipher next. She handed it to him with a stipulation, "Yours, Jemmy, on the day when you marry me."

He put the slip of paper into his pocket. "Now, I've got it," he said, "suppose I keep it?"

A woman who has been barmaid at a public house is a woman not easily found at the end of her resources. "In that case," she curtly remarked, "I should call in the police, and then telegraph to my husband's employers in Liverpool."

He handed the cipher back. "I was joking," he said.

"So was I," she answered.

They looked at each other. They were made for each other—and they both felt it. At the same time James kept his own interests steadily in view. He stated the obvious objection to the cipher. Experts had already tried to interpret the signs, and had failed.

"Quite true," she added, "but other people may succeed."

"How are you to find them?"

"Leave me to try. Will you give me a fortnight from to-day?"

"All right. Anything else?"

"One thing more. Get the marriage license at once."

"Why?"

"To show that you are in earnest."

He burst out laughing. "It mightn't be much amiss," he said, "if I took you back with me to America; you're the sort of woman we want in our new saloon. I'll get the license (Good night!)"

The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $950,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgage may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or to any of the Agents.

To-morrow morning Mr. W. H. Chamberlain will be arraigned before the magistrate on a second charge of violating the Scott Act. Mrs. Smith, of Indian River, will appear to answer a charge of a first offence.

South Ward School.

An error was made in yesterday's report of the Board of Education meeting held Tuesday night. The number of scholars on the roll of the South Ward school is 208; the average attendance 182.

The Best Record.

Mr. Robert Walton and son, R. H. Walton, Messrs. George, William and Phil. Westlake, and Mr. James Tyndall returned Tuesday night from a four days' hunting expedition in the north, having in that short space of time captured fourteen fine deer—the largest "catch" for so short a time yet reported this season.

The Close Season.

Salmon fishing ended on Saturday, as the close season has set in for ten days. The fish do not bite freely after spawning, which will end about Thursday of this week. The agent for the Government hatching establishment at Newcastle is harvesting the spawn there in great plenty. It is an interesting process.

Fire at Garden Hill.

Word was received yesterday afternoon that the woollen mill, store and dwelling of Mr. Jas. Dyer, Garden Hill, was burned about noon. It is said the fire originated in the factory and extended to the other buildings. The factory alone was valued at $10,000. There was only $4,000 insurance on all the buildings.

General Middleton's Visit.

The regular semi-weekly drill of the 57th Peterborough Rangers will be held to-night at the drill shed. A large attendance is requested, as it is desirous that the battalion should be in a high state of proficiency when General Middleton visits Peterborough, a few weeks hence. Let this serve to increase the military ardor of "the bold heroes of the 57th."

The Japanese Emperor.

Yesterday was the 34th birthday of the present Emperor of Japan, and the colony of Japanese giving exhibitions here celebrated the event. The patriotic spirit cropped out in the extra vigor and vivacity put into their performances yesterday. They also hung half a dozen flags from the Opera house windows, which answered in form and color to our Canadian weather signal predicting higher temperature. It can scarcely be hoped, though, that the Japs' weather probabilities will be verified.

To-morrow Night.

Secure your reserved seats at once at Davis & Co.'s for Stuart Rogers' entertainment to-morrow night. The Globe says of his appearance in Toronto:—"Mr. Rogers, who has a very high reputation as an elocutionist and character delineator, had the sympathy of his audience as he changed from the witty to the pathetic. He has a wonderful command of facial expression, and is possessed with power to mimic any sound. His selections, which were of a very high order, delighted his audience, who were ever ready to show their appreciation at the end of each number with rapturous applause."

Shooting Extraordinary.

An Indian named John Toby did some extraordinary shooting on Friday last at Black Lake. Toby was "still hunting" for deer, and shot one on the "runway." Reloading his single shot breach-loading rifle, he was just in time to hit a big she bear in the head; not stopping it with the first shot he slipped another catridge into his rifle and killed it. Another bear followed and was settled by one shot, still another and another followed until four bears lay dead. One deer and four bears (mother and three cubs) killed in less than two minutes with a single shot rifle was not bad work for either Indian or white man. Several gentlemen vouch for the truth of the story they having heard the shots and seen the slaughtered game—Guide.

Finnan Haddies, and all kinds of Fresh Fish received daily at Ostrom's.

Three Days for Rowing.

Joseph Whiteman, the lumberjack, was sentenced by Chief Justice Ross, Wednesday, to six and a half months' imprisonment in the gaol, to date from the time of his first incarceration. Whiteman was committed for trial at the fall assizes by Police Magistrate Dumble, April 21st, 1886, and the prisoner's time will, therefore, expire on the day after to-morrow, Saturday.

On Exhibition.

The prizes to be given away at the Saturday performance of the Tavernier Dramatic Company next week are on exhibition at the Town Clock Store. The first is an elegant silver pitcher valued at $25, to be awarded the person holding the luck number Saturday evening; a doll, valued at $10, will be given to the child holding the lucky number at the matinee; a $5 gold piece to be given the school scholar composing the greatest number of words out of the letters in "Van Cortland" at the afternoon performance.

One Night Reserved.

Bradburn's Opera House is engaged for the Stuart Rogers entertainment to-morrow night at 8 o'clock. Though the Japanese colony has secured the house nominally for a week, yet they will vacate it on Friday night, using commodious side room for the evening. Parties, therefore, holding Stuart Rogers tickets may count on securing seats as reserved. The Opera House will be exclusively devoted to Stuart Rogers' entertainment on Friday evening, and it promises to be one of the most attractive intellectual treats ever presented there. Tickets 75 and 50 cents. Secure seats at A. L. Davis & Co's bookstore.

A Choral Festival.

Mr. L. Seward, organist of St. John's Church, is arranging for a grand choral festival, by 500 children of Peterborough, in the Opera House, on the 18th of December. The selections will consist of Christmas carols, and other appropriate songs. The Fire Brigade Band will be in attendance. At the close of the concert the contents of several Christmas trees, will, it is proposed, be distributed among the children, each church supplying a tree for the boys and girls of its own congregation. A small admission fee will be charged merely to pay expenses. Rehearsals will be held in the Parlour Roller Rink. This entertainment will excite general interest, for the members of the chorus will be selected, without distinction, from amongst the children of the different churches. There is no desire of profit in its inception, and it will doubtless foster a deeper love for music and develop a friendlier feeling amongst the people of the different church congregations in town.

The Nuptial Knot.

The following, from the Huron News-Record, Clinton, refers to the marriage of a niece of Mr. J. J. Hartley, of town, the family having been formerly residents of Cavan, "One of those events that always creates a flutter in social circles, especially with the ladies, took place at the residence of Mr. R. J. McGill on Wednesday evening last, when Miss Lavina McGill was united in the holy bond of wedlock with Fred. W. Watts, druggist, of Clinton, at 9 p.m., Rev. Mr. Mills officiating. The bride was assisted by Misses Radcliffe and Hough, while the groom was supported by Messrs. Murdock and Shaw. The bride was very becomingly attired in cream satin (with train), trimmed with Spanish lace and orange blossoms, and over this a white veil. The verdict of all was that she looked "just lovely." After the marriage ceremony about fifty guests sat down to a magnificent repast prepared by Mrs. McGill, and the evening was spent in amusements until about one o'clock. The newly married couple left for their home in Clinton amid a tremendous shower of rice and good wishes from the guests. The presents were numerous and handsome."

High Court of Justice.

Queen's Bench Division—Peterborough Assizes, Mr. Justice Rose Presiding.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The case of Ross vs. Hull (non-jury) was next taken up. It was a replevin suit, brought to recover 150 cords of wood and some blocks alleged to have been cut off land owned by Ross & Co., of Quebec. The defence argued that the land on which it was cut belonged to one of the defendants, under agreement and by possession. The evidence only proved 40 cords of wood to have been cut off the land in question, and that piece of land was a surplus in the large 6th concession of Burleigh. Judgment was reserved. Mr. Pousette for plaintiff; Mr. Dumble for defendants.

This closed the business of the court.

Wise and Otherwise.

Prohibition vs Scott Act—A Story Which "Downed" the Grand Jury.

The Grand Jury Tuesday afternoon had a lively time discussing the merits and demerits of the Scott Act. The town men were a unit in opposition to the Act, while the farmers were in favor of it almost to a man. Pros and cons were advanced in rapid succession. It was acknowledged that travellers for Montreal and Toronto merchants took large orders in town for whisky, and a blunt, honest old countryman delighted his hearers with an incident to show what facilities for importation the Scott Act affords. One day he was the recipient of a large demijohn, which had come by express. He didn't open it, supposing it had been sent him by mistake, and the owner would soon call for it. One day a friend stopped, and the demijohn was uncorked, when it was found upon a satisfactory trial to be full of whiskey, which the speaker described as being the very best, adding "You know, gentleman, I am a good judge of a good thing." Shortly afterwards he enquired of the firm whose label was on the demijohn, and learned that it was indeed a mistake, the liquor having been intended for a gentleman with a similar sounding name who had paid for but never received it. This little incident, told in the broken speech common to foreigners, and accompanied by grotesque expressions and witticisms, completely upset the gravity of the jurors, who gave free vent of their mirth in roars of laughter. Finally it was decided that prohibition was preferable to the Scott Act, as shown by their formal presentment.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

Progressive Japan.

Professors Takahashi Sakuyei Suggests Superiority Over China and Other Eastern Countries.

Another large audience greeted the Japanese Colony at the Opera House last night. The Japs worked as industriously as ever, and were much admired for the excellence of their handicraft. This department was fully reported in yesterday's EXAMINER and will not need further notice. The concert consisted of vocal solos, a cornet solo by Miss Lizzie Hawley, a farce entitled "My Play," and a speech by on the unprecedented progress in the arts of civilization made by Japan in the last quarter of a century. Condensed, it was substantially as follows: "In the latter part of the nineteenth century Japan was flooded with wars from one end of the empire to the other, from which she emerged at the opening of the seventeenth century, when the great Tokugawa Iyeyasu laid the foundation of that great feudalism which later on grew to be a yoke of oppression over the people. Under this emperor the country was peopled by the might of swords and spears. Ever since then the Imperial power was only nominal, and his Majesty is now regarded only as the spiritual head of the nation, somewhat similar to the Pope of Rome at one time. This great feudalism after two and a half centuries, fell into pieces with

ITS OWN WICKED WEIGHT.

Later on, when in 1853 Commodore Perry, of the United States, knocked at the sea gate of Japan demanding the opening of the country the feudal government was at its height, while the Imperial court was trying to recover its lost power. Civil wars resulted, and all foreigners were looked upon as enemies and slaughtered. After 3 or 5 years of this trouble, the Imperialists regained their lost power, and with the coronation of the present Mikado, which took place 19 years ago, he being 15 years old at the time, Japan has entered upon a new era. The Professor declaimed against the false stories being circulated about Japan. Anyone believing them would be greatly deceived. Upon the

the government set about a universal reformation; to its wisdom and thoroughness Japan owes her present position. She yielded when wisdom and reason commanded her to do so, and acknowleged the superiority of Europeans and Americans in matters of civilization and enlightenment. Fourteen years have elapsed since then, and Japan has come up to the surface to keep pace with the daily progress of the world. During that time the government has been sending abroad promising students and scholars to give them the benefit of European education, and at home she has been

as much as possible, in proclaiming a new system of army and navy, in introducing freedom of speech and belief, in protecting the liberty and property of people, in adopting the improved theory of modern politics, such as separation of administration, legislature and judicature from each other, etc. The government has no less been occupied in adopting the more material part of civilization, such as laying railroads and telegraph lines, in helping the people to establish street car systems, to use gas and electric light, etc. The people and Government have with on eheart been establishing

UNIVERSITIES, COLLEGES,

Normal schools and grammar schools. In fact, Japan was proud of her educational system. Her people are enjoying all the facilities for learning European languages and literature, as well as all the scientific and professional studies as taught in the most civilized country of Europe. It was a false impression that all the attention afforded the Japanese came from the Christian missionaries. All this progress and advancement was due to the wisdom of the present Emperor, whose 34th birthday occurred yesterday. In conclusion the Professor said if after hearing his poor effort, the audience would acknowledge that all the Asiatic nations in point of civilization and enlightenment, he would consider it a great honor. Since coming to Canada the members of the Japanese Colony had been well protected and kindly treated, for which they felt grateful. Therefore, at the same time they cried out "Long live our Emperor," they wished to do the same for the Queen of Great Britain. Let the friendship of the two nations ever increase and become inseparable through the warmth of kindness."

The speech was most kindly received, and though through indistinct articulation, the Professor could not always be understood, enough was gathered to give a good idea of the burden of the speech.

The exhibition will be continued throughout this week, every afternoon and evening, from 1 to 5 in the afternoon, and from 7 to 10 at night; performances every hour.

Two Suicides.

One Attempt Successful—The Other Fails.

The Norwood Register gives the following particulars:—"On Monday afternoon the wife of Mr. Richard Gallagher, jr., a resident on the 7th concession of the township of Dummer, committed suicide by hanging. The act was most deliberately planned and most determinedly carried out. The deed was committed in the barn, a woollen muffler and a strap taking the place of a rope. These were attached to a beam in the barn and then to the neck of deceased. After making these preparations she had evidently discovered that the line was too long, but she was not to be baulked in her design. Letting her weight rest on the rope, she lifted her feet from the floor, and in that position met her death. Towards evening she was discovered by one of her children. Coroner Bell was communicated with, but did not think it necessary to hold an inquest. Mr. Gallagher says that deceased was just recovering from a severe illness and that her mind was wandering. He had been watching her closely, but on this day his work carried him further from the house than usual. During his absence the deed was committed.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

A woman named McMullen, who resides about three miles east of Norwood, in the township of Belmont, on Saturday morning attempted to commit suicide. She went down to the C. P. R. track and on seeing a train approaching laid her head across a rail. She was noticed by the engineer, however, and the train stopped just in time. She said she was tired of living and was bound to end her existence and started off down the line.

A FEW FACTS WORTH KNOWING!

IT IS A FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling 5 inch, pure, all wool Grey Flannels, plain or twilled, at 18c. yer yard.

IT IS A PATENT FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling Heavy Costume Dress Goods at 8c. per yard.

IT IS A STUBBORN FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling 28 inch wide Army Flannels for 25c. per yard.

IT IS A WELL KNOWN FACT—that Thomas Kelly has the largest stock of Ladies' and Childrens' Hose in town.

IT IS AN INDISPUTABLE FACT—that Thomas Kelly's Navy Blue Flannel, Plain or Twilled, at 20c. per yard are unequalled.

IT IS A DECIDED FACT—that Thomas Kelly will not be undersold, and that his Melton Dress Goods at 8c. are unexcelled.

IT IS A MOST DECIDED FACT—that Thomas Kelly's Blankets, Flannels, Shirts and Drawers are the best value in town.

IT IS AN INCONTROVERTIBLE and INCORRIGIBLE FACT—that Thomas Kelly is selling Mens' Heavy, All Wool, Knitted Socks at 15c. per pair.

Facts are stubborn things, and should you question the foregoing facts—you have only to call on Thomas Kelly to get a positive demonstration of the truth.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and I spect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. Those offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nice finish walls, stripped and laths, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. COUNTING NOSES.

DEMS. AND REPS. FIGURING OUT HOW THEY STAND.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The secretary of the Republican National Committee makes the following computation from returns received up to 9 o'clock this evening of the political complexion of the House of Representatives of the 50th Congress, "The returns as far as received indicate the election of 154 Republicans, 159 Democrats, 5 Labor and Independent, 6 doubtful and 1 vacancy—Total 325. If the Democrats get four of the doubtful they will have 163, or a majority of the House."

The secretary of the Democratic Committee says the Democrats will have a working majority in the House.

An Illinois Election in Doubt.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—A re-examination of the police returns from the Second Congressional District revealed a heretofore undiscovered error this evening in footing up the totals. Where Gleason, United Labor, should have been credited with 52 votes the total was only 2. This reduces the majority in the district for Lawler (Democrat) to 16. Gleason still claims the district for himself by 23 votes.

A Lady School Superintendent.

FREEPORT, Ill., Nov. 4.—News has been received here that at the election on Tuesday Miss Alice J. Sanborn of this city was chosen Superintendent of Schools in Brul County, Dak. Of the 1600 votes polled she received about 1000. Miss Sanborn was the regular nominee of the Democratic and Farmers' Alliance parties. She was granted a leave of absence from the Freeport schools as teacher a few weeks ago, and soon after reaching Dakota was nominated for the office to which she has now been elected.

Echoes From the Elections.

The Democrats have made great gains in Colorado, carrying the Assembly, and possibly the Senate.

The New York World says: "The Democratic control of the House is seriously imperilled, if not altogether lost."

The Democrats have gained in New York and Brooklyn cities and lost in other parts of the state.

The New York Herald says that the House of Representatives will have 166 Democrats, 153 Republicans and 5 Labor men. The Democrats will have therefore a clear majority over all of 8. The New York Times says the House will be composed of 169 Democrats, 122 Republicans, 3 Labor men; Democratic majority 14. The World gives the Dems. 164, Reps. 158, Labor 3; Democratic majority 4. The Sun estimates the House as: Dems. 168, Reps. 154, Labor 2; Democratic majority 15. The Tribune claims 158 Reps. and gives the Dems. 164, Labor men 4; Democratic majority 1.

In Illinois, Morrison, the author of the Tariff Bill, has been defeated for Congress by 1132, a Republican gain of 3700.

The Second Congressional District of South Carolina has been carried by the Republicans, Abbott, a negro, being elected.

The Louisville Courier Journal received the following last night: "Covington, Ky., Nov. 4. I am elected by from 500 to 600 majority. John G. Carlisle."

Eloped With a Ploughboy.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The sixth elopement in as many weeks is reported from a village a few miles from Warwick. A lady about 30 years of age, very wealthy, and who is connected by birth with a noble family, has for some time been the ruling spirit of the Baptist Sunday School. A few days ago she left her home for an inland watering place and was joined upon her arrival by a ploughboy of the same village about 18 years of age, and anything but intelligent and prepossessing. Yesterday a letter was received from the ploughboy, in which he stated that his bride had given him £1000 ($5000), and that they were about to cross the water to America on a bridding trip. The lady's family are terribly broken up over the mesalliance, and the elopement will furnish talk enough to last the village gossips for a year to come.

Killed at Harrisburg.

HAMILTON, Nov. 4.—Wm. Bell, an employe of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, living at 62 Locomotive-street, in this city, was killed at Harrisburg this morning. He was sent up from here to relieve a man working on some cars there and was working under a car, between two cars, which he was repairing. While thus engaged a car was shunted upon the switch and against the cars he was under. He was run over and killed almost instantly. He was a married man and leaves a wife and six children, the youngest a babe two weeks old.

The Cuba Ashore.

AMHERSTBURG, Nov. 4.—The propeller Cuba, bound for Buffalo, with flour, struck on the Lime Kilns Crossing here to-day. She proceeded on her trip as far as Point Pelee, when the captain discovered that she had about eight feet of water in her water-tight compartments, and returned here at 5 p.m., and is now getting her pumps ready. He expects to be able to keep her afloat until he reaches Erie.

Miss White will be pleased to receive your orders for Millinery at the Golden Lion.

SWORD MUST DEFEND.

HUNGARY'S PREMIER HINTS THAT THERE MAY BE FIGHTING.

VIENNA, Nov. 4.—In the Austrian and Hungarian delegations to-day Prime Minister Von Tisza and Herr Smolka declared that the interest of Eastern Europe should be defended with the sword.

In the Hungarian Delegation, Prime Minister Tisza said the members had a double duty to perform: First they must endeavor to obtain a clear idea of the country's foreign relations, whether the policy of the Government was a policy befitting the monarchy, and whether everything was being done to make its policy felt. Secondly, they must make sure that the national forces were equal to those of other powers not only in patriotism and devotion but in strength and equipment. The peoples of the monarchy, especially the Hungarian citizens in the East, must not be abandoned even to avoid an armed collision. In conclusion he expressed the hope that the Government would succeed in guarding the interests of the Monarchy and maintaining peace.

A Demand That the Government Resign.

SOFIA, Nov. 4.—M. Scankoff has demanded that the Regent's Government resign.

Resolved to Oppose Russia.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 4.—At a private sitting of deputies to-day it was resolved to maintain the strongest opposition to concessions to the Russian party.

The Work of Russian Agents.

SOFIA, Nov. 4.—A state of siege has been proclaimed at Phillippopolis for the purpose of suppressing the brigands who are infesting the environs of the city and who are incited by Russian agents to deeds of violence.

LEAVE THE UNIONISTS ALONE.

Mr. John Morley Widens the Liberal Breach—Lord Hartington and the Tories.

LEEDS, Nov. 4.—At the Liberal Federation meeting Mr. John Morley said that in his opinion the wisest course to pursue for the present would be to leave the Unionists alone. This declaration has sufficed to suppress a threatened meeting by a small minority in favor of conciliating the Unionists, and the conference results in widening the breach between Liberals and Unionists. The policy of the Gladstonian leaders is largely influenced by their knowledge of a close alliance between Lord Salisbury and Lord Hartington, rendering all overtures for the conciliation of the latter futile.

Lord Hartington Confers With the Tories.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Since cabinet councils were resumed Lord Salisbury, Lord Hartington and Sir Michael Hicks-Beach have had long interviews daily at Devonshire House on the Irish policy. Yesterday Lord Hartington called a meeting of Unionist leaders to confer with the Executive Committee of the Liberal Unionist Association. It was decided to hold a general conference at London of all branches in the provinces to demonstrate that true liberalism continues opposed to Gladstonian Home Rule.

The Session of the Conference.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Standard says: "The great lesson of the Leeds conference is that where the Liberal party stood last session there it still stands, on the unalterable basis of an independent Parliament for Ireland. This determination to abide by the principle of Home Rule at any cost partakes, it must be allowed, of the heroic. Whatever we think of its wisdom it shuts the door of office to Liberals for an indefinite period, and drives into still closer union with the Conservatives the very statesmen who alone are capable of regaining for Liberalism the country's confidence."

Irish Tenants and Their Landlords.

DUBLIN, Nov. 4.—The Limerick League will prevent hunting unless evicted tenants are reinstated and evictions cease. The Earl of Dunraven granted his tenants an abatement of from 15 to 25 per cent. The tenantry on the Tally estate at Glenry, Mitchellstown, yesterday decided not to pay their rents unless granted a reduction of 30 per cent. Lord Massy has offered his tenants 20 per cent. reduction.

A Check on Evictions.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Judge Mouro of Dublin has intimated in connection with the proposed ejectments, that applicants for writs must prove the solvency of the tenants.

SUCCI'S FASTING FEAT.

How the Italian Moriatti is Progressing in His Endeavor to Outdo It.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Although the committee of medical gentlemen who have supervision of the trial of the Italian Moriatti to outdo Succi's feat of fasting have examined him regularly, and have certified that there is no present danger of his collapse, he fails to show the amount of strength which was displayed by Succi at the same period of his fast yesterday. He was very gloomy, and seemed utterly disheartened so far as his appearance was concerned. His nights are troubled by dreams which disturb his rest and prevent him obtaining as much repose as his health requires. These do not keep him awake, however, but on the contrary he lies in an almost unbroken sleep, or rather unconsciousness, the disturbances of his dreams resulting in a condition nearly approaching delirium. He holds that the symptoms are of little account and says himself that he always manifests them during the first few days of abstinence. At present he has been fasting eight days and lost six and a half pounds of flesh.

JOHN BRIGHT ON PARTY LEADERS.

Some of them Infallible, and Therefore a Party Cannot Always be a Unit.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—John Bright writes to the papers refusing to accept the principle of the political club associations, that wherever the leader of the party goes the whole party is bound to follow. "The Liberals," he says "have not yet an infallible leader, and until he appears I must preserve my liberty of judgment. The Liberal party will not be destroyed. It will be instructed and become more competent for future work. The reunion of party will not come until change comes, which I may hope for, but at present the discovery signs of smooth platform talk will not bridge the chasm in our ranks."

"Rocky," the Flower Girl.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—A decree nisi has been granted in the suit of Lady Anna Aylmer for divorce from her husband, Sir Arthur Aylmer. In her petition Lady Aylmer sets forth that she was married to defendant in 1884, and that she lived happily with him until Sir Arthur made the acquaintance of a pretty young flower girl, known by the pseudonym of "Rocky," and with whom he eloped to America, and upon whom he spent thousands of pounds. The co-respondent also alleges cruelty and adultery.

German Trade with America.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—Completed statistics show that the year's increase in the value of German exports to America is $17,000,000, including $4,000,000 worth of sugar. Compared with the exports in 1876, the increase amounts to $8,000,000. The total exports for the year are placed at 3,000,000,000 marks, of which 10 per cent. went to America.

PLEASED WITH THE RESULT.

Henry George's Opinion of the New York Mayoralty Election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—"What do you think of the result of the election and what are your future plans?" Henry George was asked yesterday. "Personally, I am pleased with the result. I had no personal desire to be Mayor of New York and only took the position of candidate because I was called upon to head the struggle for principle. I unquestionably received the votes of the majority of the honest and intelligent workers of New York. We were beaten only by money and other evil influences which were united against us. The land question is now in American politics. Politicians can no longer afford to ignore it. I will do in future what I have done in the past and endeavor to educate the masses on this and kindred subjects." Mr. George said he would not entertain the proposition to run for Congress.

Divergent Views.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Pall Mall Gazette, speaking of the mayoralty contest in New York, says: "The vote for Henry George is by far the most important political event of the day. It is a message of hope from the New World to the Old, and unexpected light bursting forth in a dark place. Henry George is visionary, an idealist and utterly impracticable, but were he as mad as a March hare all the same the votes for him mean a protest against the rule of mammon, and will give an impetus to the discussion of the question of the condition of the people throughout the world."

The St. James Gazette says: "It is a significant and unpleasant fact that in the great American city of New York such a large proportion of the workingmen are prepared to vote for the gospel of confiscation. The election should cause all respectable Americans to forget the trumpery of party rights and political indifferentism and face the new danger that is threatening the commonwealth."

Twenty-two Buildings Burned.

CAMPBELLTON, N.B., Oct. 4.—A destructive fire occurred in Dalhousie, N.B., last night. The best portion of the business part of the town is in ashes. Twenty-two buildings were consumed. The fire is said to have originated in a tenement over the postoffice. The loss is heavy.

The sufferers are: H. A. Johnston, J. C. Barberie, E. Gordon, G. Gordon, Mrs. A. McKay, W. Smith, C. H. Labillois, John Duncan, Archibald Chisholm, John Miller, John McAskill, N. Bateman, A. Savoy, G. Haddow, Mrs. Cullen, Alex. Chisholm. The only persons insured are G. Haddow, $4000 in the City of London and British American; Alex. Chisholm, $1800 in the Royal Canadian and Citizens. Mrs. Cullen is insured for $700. The losses are estimated at $80,000.

The Insurrection Increasing.

CABUL, Nov. 4.—The Ghilzais have surprised and annihilated a regiment of Duranis, who were going to Cabul. The scene of the massacre was Mukhur, seventy miles south of Ghumi. The insurrection started by the Ghilzai tribe continues to spread.

THE QUEBEC CRISIS.

A crisis within a crisis has come in Quebec. Premier Ross has at last seen fit to see that he is beaten at the polls, and he will have to take the position of a leader of the minority of the House of Assembly. He has not bowed very gracefully to the popular verdict, and he now seeks to thwart the will of the people, who have expressed confidence in Hon. Mr. Mercier, by attempting to exclude him from the duty, constitutionally imposed on the latter, of forming a new government. While compelled to resign the hope of the enjoyment of the sweets of office to the disappointment and chagrin of the contractors and placemen whom the Ross-Taillon Government gathered around it, Mr. Ross, on behalf of his party, of course, is seeking to also keep Mr. Mercier out in the cold. Various futile attempts have been made to form a coalition government, but the parties approached—Judge Angers, Mr. Sbeyn and Senator Pelletier—were too loyal to constitutional usage, which indicates Hon. Mr. Mercier as the proper person for Premier, to entertain the proposition. Judge Matthieu has been approached also and he has neither accepted nor declined the unsavory task of keeping the lips of the hungry horde of leeches attached to the public purse. It is not to be supposed that Lieut.-Governor Masson is a party to these intrigues. He evidently knows his duty too well to make an outside party leader of the Government, when the verdict of the electors has shown confidence in Hon. Mr. Mercier. The life blood of the Conservative party is drawn from the public chest, and the desperate nature of the struggle to regain a grip on office by the Quebec Bleus is explained.

"MEN are not Liberals because they assume the name," says the Mail. Very true, rejoins the Toronto News. There has been no noticeable change in the Tories since they called themselves "Liberal Conservatives," excepting increased liberality in helping themselves and their friends to public money.

Cracking a Safe.

A Safe at Millbrook Opened Last Night and $100 Stolen—No Clue.

This morning it was discovered that midnight mechanics had been at work in the store of Armstrong & McIntosh, Millbrook. An attempt had been made to "crack" their safe, but the burglars found they had too big a job on hand, and left it after doing slight damage. The safe of Mr. T. B. Collins, who has an office in the store, was next successfully operated upon, the plate being drilled through and the combination broken. One hundred dollars in cash was secured, while papers and documents were scattered about the floor. The safe was not irreparably damaged. Not the slightest clue to the burglars has as yet been discovered.

Personal.

Mr. W. G. Mills, B.A., a divinity student of Queen's College, who is at present in town, was presented by the Seymour and Rvestone congregations, where he has been laboring this summer, with addresses, a purse of $30, and a fine fur coat worth $40, the other evening.

Mr. Seucie who died in Peterborough, and was brought home to his family Sunday evening, was buried Tuesday in Asphodel—the funeral cortege leaving here about nine in the morning. He leaves a widow and a large family of little ones, who have the public sympathy in their great bereavement.

The annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society will be held in the Presbyterian Church here, next Tuesday evening, 9th inst. Rev. Dr. Hodgkin will deliver the address.

A Lift for the Lawyers.

Mrs. Stewart's fortune of $20,000,000 will make fat picking for the lawyers in the case. It is believed that it will be fiercely contested.

The Most Destructive Vessel Yet.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 4.—William Cramp & Sons have made arrangements to construct for the Government a dynamite gun cruiser which will be capable of making twenty knots an hour and of firing a 200-pound dynamite shell every two minutes. The vessel is to cost not more than $250,000. Cramp & Sons have agreed to finish the contract in six months.

Still on Strike.

CHICAGO, Nov. 4.—The beef men at Swift's and Morris' are still out and their chances for returning are lessening. Both concerns are shipping cattle East to be slaughtered. Swift commenced operating to-day with new men, who are coming from all quarters.

Three Important Bills.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—At the beginning of the coming session of Parliament the Government will be ready to submit three important bills. The first has been prepared by Mr. Long, secretary of the Local Government Board, and will deal with allotments. The second is in charge of Mr. Ritchie, and will deal with the extension of local government. The third, having on the payment of tithes, will probably be introduced in the House of Lords by premier Salisbury.

A $700,000 Robber Arrested.

MONTREAL, Nov. 4.—The missing President of the Bank of Peoria, Ill., who decamped about a year ago with $200,000 of the bank's funds, has been arrested here by one of Pinkerton's men. The police authorities, for some unknown reason, are keeping the matter quiet. The prisoner will be kept in prison until extradition papers are obtained.

A Fall in Tin.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—There has been a fall in the price of tin of £2 per ton. The quotation to-day for common is £93, for superior £96 and for refined £98.

Smith's Falls to Montreal.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—The short line of railroad from Smith's Falls to Montreal is well advanced towards completion. Trains are running from Smith's Falls to Merrickville, and from Bell's Corners to Kemptville. The St Anne's, Oxford Mills and Kemptville bridges are nearing completion, by which time straight connections with Montreal will be made.

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spherulum trusses made in York State, costing me $50. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. I may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, C[illegible]

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will save a rupture every case; and 90 out of every 100 of adults. R. W. MUNCASTER.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

As he rose to go there was a soft knock at the door. A little girl in a shabby frock ventured to show herself in the room.

"What do you want here?" her mother asked sharply.

Syd held out a small, thin, hand, with a letter in it, which represented her only excuse. Mrs. Westerfield read the letter and crumpled it up in her pocket. "One of your secrets?" James asked. "Anything about the diamonds, for instance."

"Wait till you are my husband," she said, "and then you may be as inquisitive as you please." Her amiable sweetheart's guess had actually hit the mark. During the year that had passed she, too, had tried her luck among the experts and had failed. Having recently heard of a foreign interpreter of ciphers, she had written to ask his terms. The reply (just received) not only estimated his services at an extravagantly high rate, but asked cautious questions which it was not convenient to answer. Another attempt had been made to discover the mystery of the cipher, and made in vain.

James Bellbridge had his moments of good humor, and was on those rare occasions easily amused. He eyed the child with condescending curiosity. "Looks half starved," he said—as if he was considering the case of a stray cat. "Hullo, there! Buy a bit of bread." He tossed a penny to Syd as he left the room and took the opportunity of binding his bargain with Syd's mother. "Mind! If I take you to New York I'm not to be burdened with both your children. Is that girl the one you leave behind you?"

Mrs. Westerfield smiled sweetly and answered: "Yes, dear."

7.—The Cipher.

An advertisement in the newspapers, addressed to persons skilled in the interpretation of ciphers, now represented Mrs. Westerfield's only chance of discovering where the diamonds were hidden. The first answer that she received made some amends for previous disappointment. It offered references to gentlemen whose names were in themselves a sufficient guarantee. She verified the references, nevertheless, and paid a visit to her correspondent on the same day.

His personal appearance was not in his favor—he was old and dirty, infirm and poor. His mean room was littered with shabby books. None of the ordinary courtesies of life seemed to be known to him; he neither wished Mrs. Westerfield good-morning nor asked her to take a seat. When she attempted to enter into explanations relating to her errand he rudely interrupted her. "Show me your cipher," he said; "I don't promise to study it unless I find it worth my while."

Mrs. Westerfield was alarmed. "Do you mean that you want a large sum of money?" she asked.

"I mean that I don't waste my time on easy ciphers invented by fools."

She laid the slip of paper on his desk. "Waste your time on that," she said, sarcastically, "and see how you like it."

He examined it—first with his bleared red-rimmed eyes; then with a magnifying glass. The only expression of opinion that escaped him was indicated by his actions. He shut up his book and gloated over the signs and characters before him. On a sudden he looked at Mrs. Westerfield. "How did you come by this?" he asked.

"That's no business of yours."

"In other words, you have reasons of your own for not answering my question?"

"Yes."

Drawing his own inferences from that reply he showed his three last-left yellow teeth in a horrid grin. "I understand!" he said, speaking to himself. He looked at the cipher once more, and put another question: "Have you got a copy of this?"

It had not occurred to her to take a copy. He rose and pointed to his empty chair. His opinion of the cipher was, to all appearance, forced to express itself by the discovery that there was no copy.

"Do you know what might happen?" he asked. "The only cipher that has puzzled me for the last ten years might be lost—or stolen—or burnt if there was a fire in the house. You deserve to be punished for your carelessness. Make the copy yourself."

This desirable suggestion (uncivilly as it was expressed) had its effect upon Mrs. Westerfield. Her marriage depended on that precious slip of paper. She was confirmed in her opinion that this very disagreeable man might nevertheless be a man to be trusted.

"Shall you be long in finding out what it means?" she asked, when her task was completed.

He carefully compared the copy with the original, and then he replied:

"Days may pass before I can find a clew. I won't attempt it unless you give me a week."

She pleaded for a shorter interval. He coolly handed back her papers—the original and the copy.

"Try somebody else," he suggested—and opened his book again. Mrs. Westerfield yielded with the worst possible grace. In granting him the week of delay she approached the subject of his fee for the second time. "How much will it cost me?" she inquired.

"I'll tell you when I've done."

"That won't do! I must know the amount first."

He handed her back her papers for the second time. Mrs. Westerfield's experience of poverty had never been the experience of such independence as this. In her bewilderment she yielded again. He took back the original cipher and locked it up in his desk. "Call here this day week," he said—and returned to his books.

"You are not very polite," she told him, on leaving the room.

"At any rate," he answered, "I don't interrupt people when they are reading."

The week passed.

Repeating her visit, Mrs. Westerfield found him still seated at his desk, still surrounded by his books, still careless of the polite attentions that he owed to a lady.

"Well," she asked, "have you earned your money?"

"I have found the clew."

"What is it?" she burst out. "Tell me the substance. I can't wait to read."

He went on impenetrably with what he had to say. "But there are some minor combinations which I have still to discover to my own satisfaction. I want a few days more."

She positively refused to comply with this request. "Write down the substance of it," she repeated, "and tell me what I owe you."

He handed her back her cipher for the third time.

The woman who could have kept her temper under such provocation as this, may be found when the mathematician is found who can square the circle or the inventor who can discover perpetual motion. With a furious look Mrs. Westerfield expressed her opinion of the philosopher in two words: "You brute!" She failed to produce the slightest impression on him.

"My work," he proceeded, "must be well done, or not done at all. This is Saturday, 11th of the month. We will say the evening of Wednesday next."

Mrs. Westerfield sufficiently controlled herself to be able to review her engagements for the coming week. On Thursday the delay exacted by the marriage license would expire, and the wedding might take place. On Friday the express train conveyed passengers to Liverpool to be in time for the departure of the steamer for New York on Saturday morning. Having made these calculations she said, with sulky submission, if she was expected to call again on the Wednesday evening.

"No. Leave me your name and address. I will send you the cipher, interpreted, at 8 o'clock."

Mrs. Westerfield laid one of her visiting cards on his desk, and left him.

All young men who would like to study vocal music under a competent teacher are invited to attend a preliminary meeting to form such a class in the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening (Friday) at half-past eight o'clock. The fee will be placed at a nominal figure.

Y. M. C. A. Literature Class.

A class in English Literature will be started in connection with the Y. M. C. A. as soon as Mr. Barton Earl, who will conduct it, recovers from the effects of his recent accident. It is hoped many members will take this opportunity of improving themselves. There will be no charge.

The Sprinkler to the Rescue.

The high wind this morning caused great annoyance to pedestrians, by whisking their hats off their heads, and filling their eyes, ears and mouths with dust, which was raised in blinding clouds by the gusts of wind. The sprinkler was put on this afternoon, and succeeded in alleviating their distress.

Distinguished Arrivals.

Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Oscar Wilde, Henry Irving, and several other distinguished gentlemen arrived in town this morning and are registered at the Oriental—that is to say, Mr. Stuart Rogers, the celebrated impersonator and dramatic reciter, who is to represent these characters at the Opera House to-night has arrived.

Shipment of Horses.

Mr. T. Cavanagh shipped five heavy draught horses to Mr. J. W. Baker, Litiz, Penn., Tuesday. The prices ranged from $125 to $200 each. The animals were all purchased in town. Other shipments will, it is expected, shortly follow. Mr. Cavanagh also despatched a gang of 18 men to a Victoria Harbor Company, in the Georgian Bay district, this week.

Returning to Town.

A Madoc correspondent of the Belleville Ontario writes:—"Our enterprising and respected James Dolan in the mercantile business here for the last year took his departure for his native town, Peterborough. Many and sincere were the expressions of regret on all hands for the good natured "Jim" who bore away with him the best wishes of a large circle of acquaintances here."

Mysterious Disappearance.

A story is current around the village, says the Norwood Register, of the mysterious disappearance of the wife of a resident of Havelock. Her husband says she left the house about one o'clock Sunday morning. One thing is certain, she has not been seen or heard from since Sunday. There are some ugly rumors afloat relative to the matter, which, together with the names, are withheld for the present.

The Japanese Colony.

This unique exhibition continues to draw large crowds at the Opera House, the afternoon performances being as well attended as the evening. The low price of admission, 10 cents, is within the reach of everyone. Those who have not yet seen the Japs can not spend the evening more profitably than by paying them a visit. To-night their performance takes place as usual in the commodious side hall, the entrance to which is directly at the head of the main stairs.

To-Night.

Stuart Rogers appears to-night in the Opera House, and will give Peterborough citizens an opportunity of listening to an entertainment novel, refined and deeply interesting and instructive. His character delineation of Oscar Wilde, Henry Irving, the great tragedian, and Gladstone in his delivery of the great Home Rule speech, are, without doubt, most admirable reproductions and representations, in voice, tone and manner. All should hear him. Admission 25 and 50 cents.

A Grangers Escapade.

Last week a tenant on Mr. Johnston Brewster's farm, near Oak Hills, skipped off in the night with about a thousand bushels of grain. It was one of the cleverest "escapes" of the many that have occurred in this county in the past five years. Mr. Brewster lived on the same farm and in the same house with the tenant. He was there on the night of the flight, but knew nothing of his loss till morning. It is estimated that not less than 15 teams were employed in moving the grain, and where it is gone to is still a mystery.—[World.

A Generous Gift—A Good Example.

A paragraph appearing in Monday's EXAMINER, mentioning the new St. John's Sunday School room in the South Ward, and incidentally appealing to the congregation for assistance, has borne fruit. Yesterday evening a gentleman met an official of the Sunday school, and saying that he noticed the assistance would be welcomed, placed $ in his hands to assist in meeting the present need for funds. The ladies of the school desire to express their thanks and their appreciation of this liberal and timely gift. This is an example which, it is hoped, will not be allowed to stand alone, but to suggest obedience to the scriptural injunction, "Go thou and do likewise."

A Big Burglar Scare.

One of our solid citizens had a rude awakening night before last. Since the burglar epedimic he has been in the habit of taking particular precautions. Every door was double bolted, every window spiked down, a night lamp was kept burning in his room, the ready revolver was at hand, and his pantaloons, which generally contained a pretty substantial accumulation of money—after banking hours—were stowed under his pillow, and all the precautions taken made it impossible for a burglar to secure the spoil without awakening the solid citizen. About four o'clock in the morning, however, he being unusually wakeful and vigilant, he awoke—the light was out! The wife was also awake. "Ma," he asked, in a hoarse, excited whisper, "did you put the light out?" "No." Then the solid citizen groped under the pillow—the pants were gone! "Ma, we've been robbed" and up he jumped from the bed, the wife following him, and the whole house was aroused, stockingless feet were thrust into slippers, and excitement, wailing and fear ruled the hour. The solid citizen rushed down stairs to the front door. This he found safely shut; he went outside and made the circuit of the house in the grounds, but no burglar was found. He made a circuit of the outside the house on the street—in bare feet and trouserless legs, for he hadn't taken time to put on slippers, and, alas, his pantaloons were gone—but no burglar appeared. Re-entering the house he found the door leading to the cellar open, and he heard in the cellar the sound of stealthy footsteps. "Ha! my bold rascal, I have you now!" But he found nothing in the cellar more dangerous than the house cat, which had been treading on a loose board. The windows were all shut. No burglar there. He went back to his room without and bruised feet, cold, clammy legs, on which the goose flesh, standing out like the little knobs on a blackberry, took the place of trousers. "Did you find him?" asked the trembling wife. "Find nothing," he answered, with added language of disgust, hardly fitting to be inscribed on a pillar of the church. All at once he thought—and he regretted his inability to kick himself on the spot—he recollected that he had that night put his trousers in a new place, but in the excitement of the moment he sought under the pillow—and the lamp had gone out for want of oil. The marital and paternal respect due the head of the house does not prevent the solid citizen from getting gloriously roasted for the burglar scare due to his too-impulsive discovery of the loss of his wealth-wadded trousers.

Police Court.

FRIDAY, Nov. 5th.

At the request of the defence the charge against Mr. W. H. Chamberlain of violating the Scott Act, was adjourned till Monday. Mr. Edwards for prosecution, Mr. Edmison for defence.

The case against Mrs. Smith, of Indian River, was enlarged till to-morrow morning. Only one witness was present.

Jas. Dunn will be arraigned before the Police Magistrate in the morning on a charge of violating the Scott Act.

Garden Hill Laid Waste.

Fire Destroys Mr. James Dyer's Factory, Store, Barns and Several Residences Loss $25,000.

Wednesday afternoon a hurried report came in that Garden Hill was burning and almost totally destroyed. The telephone connection had been broken and nothing very definite could be learned.

It appears that while the employes of Mr. James Dyer's woollen factory were at dinner, flames were discovered bursting out of the second flat of the building. The flames were beyond the control of the inadequate facilities, and every exertion was strained to save as much from the building as possible. The fire then spread to Mr. James Dyer's general store, in which were the post office and telephone exchange. Some of the contents of this building were saved. Mr. James Dyer's stable, in which was stored a car load of coal, was the next to go, followed by the barns and stables of Mr. Eldad Dyer. In these, four pigs, a democrat waggon, top buggy, and 1,000 bushels of oats, were consumed. Richard Beer's dwelling-house and stables added fuel to the conflagration, but sufficient time had been allowed in which to carry out the furniture, etc. Two other dwelling houses, with a portion of the furniture of each, left the consuming element master of the situation. The latter also belonged to Mr. James Dyer, and were occupied by Mr. Sandy Johnston and Mrs. Gobeen, both of whom suffered the loss of a portion of their furniture.

The residence of Mr. James Dyer was in imminent danger, and only saved by the most untiring attention and watchfulness. Mr. Dyer's loss altogether, is estimated at $25,000, with insurance altogether amounting to $7,000.—Times, Port Hope.

"An Echo Answers, Where?"

And the answer comes quickly back again: "Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s for fine groceries."

—A Saved Army oyster supper at Campbellford resulted in securing $90, leaving a balance of only $40 of debt on the barracks at that place.

The Nicholls Hospital.

To the Editor of the Daily Examiner:

There is one thing, among others, which the people of Peterborough have got to fear. They are striving after the greatness which they imagine the converting of the town into a city is to bring them. They are getting tired of small things and slow progress. They want to make Peterborough something more than it is. And so they look around and wonder what they can do to realize their wishes. They have got railroads enough for present needs, the town is progressing as fast as circumstances will permit, but still they are not satisfied. They got the railroads free of expense, but that don't suit them. They want to get into debt; they seem to think that to get into debt is a sign that they are becoming rich; so they want to get into debt. They forget that an increase of debt means an increase of taxation. But it does so nevertheless. And so anxious are they to get into debt and to increase their taxes that they are willing to provide for others' wants besides their own. They think it is a good thing to be generous, a good thing to give their money to induce outsiders to come into town and live and be cared for at their expense. Well, they have got their wish. They, a people of some eight thousand all told, one-third of whom are Catholics and are not to be included, have decided to run opposition against Toronto, and so they have started an hospital. That is to say, some five thousand people, men, women and children, have undertaken to fit up and to keep the worthy work of taking care of sick people and Indians, who may, for the time being, want to be doctored, the town to supply board and attendance and medicine. It is a mighty convenient arrangement for people outside of the town who get sick or injured. And it is a mighty pleasant operation for the Protestant ratepayers of the town to pay this cost. This year it was $5,000, but it has been cut down to $3,000 for the time being. But this is only the beginning of the luxury. For when it becomes generally known throughout the country that the Protestant population of the town of Peterborough has made such generous provision for the sick, the different townships and village municipalities will rejoice, and will show their gratitude in especially shipping off to the Peterborough hospital their sick and maimed and blind, where they will be carefully and generously attended to and provided for by the Protestants of this town. So far, during its short existence, we have had one Indian and some injured railroad men, who have no connection with the town, as well as some others, enjoying the benefits so liberally provided in the Nicholls' hospital. But by and by we may reasonably expect a larger share of patronage with its corresponding increase of taxes, to be paid by the generous Protestants of Peterborough. This is a luxury which few towns enjoy, but when they see the liberality of our people, it is likely they will wish to imitate our example. It is a pleasant thing to pay taxes, especially when it is done to support the sick and lame of other places, as is being done here. If the Protestant ratepayers of Peterborough do have to give of their hard earnings, and do have to deny themselves some little comforts which they could otherwise enjoy, surely they will not complain when this money goes to keep up and nurse the Indians and the people, strangers to Peterborough, who may be sick and want good medical attendance and the care and nursing of the large staff of officials in the Nicholls hospital. But this hospital is not the only charitable institution which the Protestant people of Peterborough provide. The "Protestant Home," I should think, was originally intended for the benefit of the poor and the sick of the town alone, but, like the Nicholls hospital, its doors, too, are open for outsiders and strangers, who come or are brought into the town to go there, and be cared for at our expense. This institution is a good one and ought to be supported, so long as it is used for the people of the town, but it is difficult to understand why we, the Protestant ratepayers of Peterborough, should be called upon to provide a home for the people of other localities, who never contribute one dollar of our taxes, and some of whom never pay one cent while they are in the "home." I have heard of several cases of this kind, and I have recently been told of a man, from the country, who has been nursed and fed there for two or three years past, and who has already cost the town more than a thousand dollars. This is a great wrong done to the people of the town, and it ought to be stopped; and the whole system of this institution might be changed, and the people of the town ought not to be made to pay one dollar except for the needy themselves alone. Why, I wonder, should Peterborough be a dumping ground for the aged and the sick of other places? It is enough for us to do to take care of our own. This whole matter should be carefully looked into, and such arrangements made as will protect our people from being obliged to support the infirm of the whole surrounding country. And if this can't be done, then, better do the next best thing, close their open homes altogether, especially the hospital. The sick of the town got on well enough before the hospital was ever heard of, and I am of the opinion they can do so still. You may hear from me again.

St. Andrew's Society.

The meeting of the Executive Committee of St. Andrew's Society, on Wednesday evening, was well attended. Considerable interest was manifested in the preparatory arrangements for celebrating St. Andrew's Day. A committee was also appointed to arrange for a grand Scottish concert to be held under the auspices of the Society some time in December. The annual meeting for the election of officers and transaction of other business will be held in the Collector's office, Thursday evening next, November 11th.

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle.

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only cost ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25c. sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure—Nerviline. 6dw44

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building plots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, stripped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. AN UNPLEASANT EXPERIENCE.

A Telegraph Operator's Ghostly Midnight Visitor.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 5.—Peter Kenney, employed as telegraph operator at Ingram station, on the Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad, had an adventure at an early hour this morning that he will not soon forget. He was engaged at his instrument about 1 o'clock when he heard a noise as of some one trying to open the door, but thought nothing of it until startled by a touch on his coat sleeve. He turned partly around, and to his horror saw a tall, gaunt figure, dressed in white, with a long knife in his hand, standing directly over him. He cleared the slight railing surrounding his desk at a single bound, but the strange visitor was between him and the door, and he began pleading for his life. The spectre made no move to follow him except to prevent his escape by the door.

As the ghostly creature made no advance, the operator in a measure recovered his self-possession, and stood on the defensive in the farthest corner of the room. The apparition then seated itself in Kenney's chair before the telegraph instruments, keeping a close watch on the movements of the operator. They maintained the same relative positions for nearly an hour, during which time trains on the railroad approaching that point were brought to a standstill. One or two trains had been stopped for the signal to go ahead. The crew of the first train finally walked up the track to the telegraph office to find out the cause of the delay, when they discovered the operator's predicament and subdued his captor after a desperate struggle. It was subsequently learned that the strange visitor resided at Sheridan Station, nearly a mile away, and had escaped from his home about midnight.

CHANGES IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Observations of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher During His Recent Visit.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, in an interview to-day, said great and fundamental changes were going on in England as regarded the land and special conditions. Speaking of Ireland, he said: "My convictions as to what Ireland ought to have are not changed in any essential respect by my visit. While I was there I heard a great deal about Ireland, and I visited some portions of the country. Ireland will obtain Home Rule, and she ought to have it. I mean by that a Government that shall resemble that of our own state Government. I do not think she ought to be separated from the mother country. Any dismemberment of Ireland from her relations to the Imperial Government I would resist with as much fervor and determination as I resisted the secession of South Carolina. I think, however, that this principle of local government will be just as eagerly sought by the English, Scotch and Welsh people as it has been by the Irish; and while the Irishmen may get it first, the other portions of the family of Great Britain will not be without the same privileges very long. The British people expect to obtain very soon manhood suffrage, and this, with the disestablishment of the Church of England, will bring about great social and political changes."

THE EARTH AGAIN QUAKES.

Shocks Felt in North and South Carolina, Virginia and Georgia.

CHARLESTON, S.C., Nov. 5.—There was a light but marked shock of earthquake here at 2.26 this afternoon. This was the first shake in a week. All the schools were in session at the time. One pupil in a colored school was crushed in the panic of the pupils, and several pupils in the Shaw School (colored) were injured by falling plastering. No one was seriously hurt.

The shock was also felt at the following places, at some of which it was reported as the severest since Aug. 31: Washington at 12.25, Sumter at 12.26, Greenwood, S.C., at 12.33, Raleigh, N.C., at 12.25, Columbia, S.C., at 12.23, Wilmington, N.C., at 12.25, Richmond, Va., at 12.35, Savannah, Ga., at 12, Chester at 12.26, Laurens, N.C., at 12.27, Augusta, Ga., at 12.28, lasting 25 secs.

Special dispatches received to-night from Walterboro, Greenwood, Chesterfield, Laurens, Asheville and other points in South Carolina indicate that the shock to-day at those places was more severe than at Charleston. At Walterboro it was so severe as to make people rush into the street and to cause the Circuit Court to adjourn without ceremony. To-night all is quiet at Charleston and confidence is restored.

GHOULS AT WORK IN SIDNEY.

The Body of a Recently Buried Lady Carried Off.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 5.—Grave robbers have been paying frequent visits to Sidney lately, and the residents are greatly excited over the matter. It is suspected that the guilty parties are medical students from a neighboring college. A few nights ago a corpse was stolen in the English church burying ground at Frankford, and yesterday it was discovered that the body of Mrs. Wm. Vandercourt had been stolen from the Hogle Burying Ground in the second concession of Sidney. She died last week, and was buried on Saturday. Yesterday deceased's husband went to the burying ground, and was startled to see lying on the ground his wife's shroud and other articles of clothing which she was buried in. The grave was about half filled with earth, and on digging down the coffin was found in the bottom, but no body. It had been stolen the night before.

A REVOLT IN BULGARIA.

THE PREFECTURE AT BOURGAIS ATTACKED BY MONTENEGRINS.

SOFIA, Nov. 5.—Gen. Kaulbars has demanded the dismissal from office of the Prefect who expelled M. Nebolsine, a Russian subject, from the Sofia Council Chamber. The Prefect has offered to resign in order to relieve the Government of the difficulty, but Gen. Kaulbars insists that he be dismissed.

How Smolitka's Speech Negotiated.

PESTH, Nov. 5.—The members of the ministry disavow President Smolitka's speech in the Austrian Delegation yesterday. It is reported that in consequence of the speech the Emperor has decided it necessary to redraft his address which will be delivered to-morrow. Count Kalnoky, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, in answer to inquiries from the Austrian delegates says he disapproved of Herr Smolitka's speech.

Hostilities Practically Commenced.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 5.—The Russian Captain Nabokoff, who was the leader of the coup d'etat in May last, at midnight on Wednesday led a band of Montenegrins which attacked the prefecture at Bourgais, seized the prefect and other officers and proclaimed Russian rule. The Government has sent troops to quell the revolt. An officer who escaped from Bourgais says that the populace are awaiting the coming of the troops to assist them in an attack upon the Russians. Nabokoff's band started from the Russian consulate. Five Zankoffites were among the revolutionists. There is a Russian war ship at Bourgais.

Minnesota Still in Doubt.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 5.—Three days have passed since the polls were closed, and it is not yet certainly known who is to be the next Governor of Minnesota. Both parties still claim the election of their respective candidate, and charges of fraud and prospects of a protracted contest and of possible litigation are looming up unpleasantly.

An Alleged Censure.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 5.—An Ukase has been issued granting amnesties to the regiments that assisted in the deposition of Prince Alexander. This is considered a censure of Gen. Kaulbars, who demanded the release of only the officers without mentioning the privates.

Several deputies have telegraphed to Mr. Gladstone asking him to use his influence with Russia on behalf of Bulgaria.

THE SOCIALISTS OF LONDON.

Apprehensions of Disorder on Tuesday Next Not so Vivid.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Col. Warren, Commissioner of Police, has issued elaborate instructions to the police for the regulation of traffic on Lord Mayor's day. Wheeled traffic is to be stopped at all the approaches to the line of the procession at 10 o'clock in the morning. Only the usual mounted guard will accompany the procession, but troops will be held in readiness at the barracks in case the police, of whom 8000 will be available for special duty, should require to be reinforced. It is not believed now that the danger of general disorder is as great as was at first feared, whatever some of the Socialists may do. The decision of the Socialists to abandon their proposed procession gives a feeling of great relief throughout the city and particularly to the shopkeepers. The Socialists are laboring, however, to secure a large turn out of a pacific character without inflammatory banners. They announce forty meetings in various parts of the Metropolis for Sunday to arrange for Tuesday's demonstration.

The Trafalgar Square Meeting Prohibited.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The proposed Socialist meeting in Trafalgar Square on Lord Mayor's Day has been prohibited.

Egypt's Present Position.

PARIS, Nov. 5.—The Republique Francais refutes the arguments of John Lemoine as contained in his letter in yesterday's Matin. It declares that it is not a question of Russia and Germany dragging France into an adventure in Egypt, but of reminding England that she promised to withdraw from Egypt. "The present Egyptian regime," the Republique Francais says, "is worse than that of the worst of the Khedive's, and tends to injure the interest of Europeans in the country."

Convicted of Boycotting.

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—The Magistrates of Ballymena, County Antrim, have convicted two women of boycotting a sheriff's sale. One was sentenced to pay a fine of £3 10s. or be imprisoned for two months, and the other to pay 10 shillings or serve a week in prison.

General Trade Reported Dull.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's record a more widespread check to the movement of general merchandise than heretofore noted, due in almost all instances to the combined influence of the elections and a continuation of the unseasonable warm weather. The dry goods trade appear to feel the halt in buying as much as any one line and sales at Boston are less than for several preceding weeks.

Mr. Gladstone Accused of Cowardice.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Lord Brabourne, writing to the Editor of Blackwood's Magazine, accuses Mr. Gladstone of serious misstatements and perversions of Irish history without the courage to defend or the candor to withdraw them.

Summary Justice.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 5.—Pedro Rosandes, who a few days ago assassinated his alleged mistress, Josefa Gomez, and her daughter in a passenger coach of the Mexican National Railway, was executed at New Laredo yesterday morning. The execution took plase under a law passed by Congress last spring, which declared any one caught in the act of interfering with a railroad train should be shot to death at once.

A Ten-Million Dollar Will.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The will of the late Henrietta A. Lennox was offered for probate to-day. It disposes of property valued at over $10,000,000. The charitable and religious bequests amount to $275,000. The will is contested by the heirs, who allege that the bequests were not free and unconstrained, or voluntary acts of the testatrix, whom the petitioners believe to have been of unsound mind.

Reform Nominations in Parry Sound.

MCKELLAR, Ont., Nov. 5.—The Reform convention for the electoral district of Parry Sound nominated W. H. Frost for the Ontario Legislature.

At Washington on Tuesday afternoon, by Glenelg—Maiko, Lasedo, by Grinstead—Revenge, and Goliah, by Grinstead—Maggie Emerson, all owned by E. J. Baldwin of Santa Anita, ran first, second and third for the Arlington Stakes for two-year-olds. Consequara, by Stratford—Tara, was favorite at 5 to 2 on and was fourth.

At a meeting of the directors of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association it was announced that with three days' canvass over $6000 had been subscribed for the purchase of the new athletic grounds. The citizens generally are taking a lively interest in the movement and high hopes are felt that the sum required will be given before the end of the year.

HON. MR. MOWAT'S LETTER.

The Canada Presbyterian thus refers to Hon. O. Mowat's open letter on the Central Prison matter. It is interesting as coming from an influential denominational organ, perfectly free from political bias:—

The letter of the Hon. Oliver Mowat, addressed to the Rev. Mr. Milligan, and published in Saturday's Globe, will be admired by many outside the party to which the honorable gentleman belongs. It is fair, candid and gentlemanly throughout, and whilst it exposes with merciless logic the plot that was laid to make political capital out of the Massie affair, there is not a word in the letter that savours of personal or political bitterness. The iron hand with which the veteran Premier holds up some of his assailants to the scorn of all honest and truthful men is covered with a silken glove. Let any fair man read Mr. Mowat's letter, and read the productions of some of his assailants, and then candidly ask himself whether the chancery lawyer and party politician does not show much more of the spirit of a Christian gentleman than was shown by some of his assailants. The bitterness, the malignity, the coarseness of some of his assailants contrasts strongly with the calm, fair and Christian tone of the Ontario Premier. It is quite true that the Premier informs some of these assailants that their statements are untrue; but then no other word would bring out the quality of the statements. Mr. Mowat might have used a much harsher word, but he could not use a milder one and state the facts. The lawyer and party politician has certainly shown the people of Canada that truth, honour and justice are much more likely to be found in the Attorney-General's office than in some places that make higher claims to sanctity.

The Hon. Mr. Mowat meets the particular charge that the Government of which he is the head connived in any way at the removal of Mr. Massie, and the general charge that his Government truckles to Roman Catholics, with an open, manly, emphatic denial. He simply declares that the charges are false, and that those who make them state that which is untrue, and proceeds patiently and calmly to narrate unreservedly the whole history of the Central Prison troubles. Nine tenths of the people of Ontario, without respect of party, will believe the Premier in preference to his assailants. Not one of those who have tried to injure Mr. Mowat would dare to stand up before any audience of respectable men, Conservative or Liberal, and publicly state that the Premier of Ontario made an untrue statement. Every decent man in Ontario, Tory or Liberal, believes that Oliver Mowat is a true man. Of course, Mr. Mowat's denial will be met with the usual amount of shuffling. * * * * Tories as well as Liberals believe that Oliver Mowat is a man of truth and honor, and his statements will be taken by everybody as giving the real facts of the case.

THE Montreal Herald, speaking in reference to the probable imminence of the Dominion elections says:—"Our own judgment is that Sir John Macdonald has not made up his mind; that he will do what he thinks is best for his own interests, regardless of the consequences to the country, and that no definite announcement will be made until after the return of the Governor-General to the capital next week. His Excellency is now on his way from England. We believe the chances of a dissolution to be about even, but we think that to prevent the country being taken by surprise every elector should act as if the elections were about to come off" This is sound advice and it is pleasing to see that the Liberals of Ontario are anticipating the action, enjoined by the Herald, by putting their men into the field and preparing vigorously for the day of conflict. The motto, "In time of peace prepare for war," applies with equal pertinence to political and military matters.

Omemee.

(From an Occasional Correspondent.

The burning of Laidley's storehouse with contents, about 13,000 bushels of grain, is a complete mystery as to what intent it was set on fire. Mr. Laidley, the owner, is a civil, hard working and enterprising citizen, being a general merchant, and erected this storehouse about 3 years ago, costing about $1,300. He had it insured for $850, causing quite a loss.

J. O. Guy & Son, grain dealers of Oshawa, have opened an agency here, with Mr. Sing, Oshawa, as manager, and J. D. Thorn, Omemee, clerk, and have already received large quantities of grain.

Omemee and Peterborough have the name of being the two best grain points in the Midland district, and steadiest markets.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mrs. Estes, one of the oldest and most respected residents of the township of Emily, died of heart disease on Sabbath morning last.

The auction sale of the farm stock and implements of the Estate of the late W. W. Miller on Tuesday, conducted by Mr. Chas. Stapleton, went off well. Bidding at fair figures, especially for horses and cattle, was brisk, and the total amount realized was $3,210, received 600 "gone" hops from the auctioneer's hammer.

"THE FUTURE OF CANADA."

An Interesting Paper Read Before the Canadian Club by Edmund Collins.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—At the Canadian Club last night a series of entertainments was inaugurated which promises to be of very considerable interest to Canadians resident here. Prominent Canadians have been invited to visit New York and address audiences on topics illustrative of Canadian affairs, progress, etc. The first lecture was given last evening by Mr. Edmund Collins, formerly connected with the press in Canada, and now associated here with an important literary undertaking. His subject, "The Future of Canada," was admirably handled and elicited a great deal of interest and enthusiasm from his auditors. The club rooms were comfortably filled with prominent members and the prospects for winter entertainments are very good.

An Incendiary's Work.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 5.—About 2 o'clock this morning the large sheds in rear of Maguire & Co.'s livery stable, Ontario-street, were discovered to be on fire. The fire had such headway before being discovered that nothing could save the sheds, which, together with their contents, consisting of a large commercial wagon, two full-top carriages, one band wagon and a two-seated dog cart, were entirely destroyed. The firemen by hard work prevented the flames from spreading to the stables. Loss about $1200; insured in the British American and Northern Insurance Companies. The fire was evidently the work of an incendiary.

The Illumination Is a Failure.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—An evening paper says: "Although the officers of the Lighthouse Board are endeavoring to cry down the rumors that the Statue of Liberty illumination is a failure within a certain radius, it is generally known by the members of the American Committee that such is the case."

Ottawa Wants to Complain.

OTTAWA, Nov. 5.—The Board of Trade this afternoon passed a resolution requesting the Railway Commissioners to hold a meeting in this city for the purpose of taking evidence. Several merchants here have grievances in the shape of discriminating rates which they wish to complain of.

Go as You Please,

but if you are constipated, or have sick-headache, bad taste in the mouth, rush of blood to the head, billious complaint, or any similar difficulty, you should go at once to your druggist for Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the most efficient means for eradicating it, by correcting all disorders of the liver, stomach and bowels. A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

Cruel Treatment of a Girl.

MONTREAL, Nov. 2.—In connection with a reported abortion case, P. E. Tremblay, advocate, makes statement to the effect that the young woman upon whom the attempted abortion was practised had consulted him. The abortionist is a woman who has been practising it for some time, and now that she has been found out has disappeared, as also has the girl's betrayer. The girl says she was subjected to terrible treatment, being stripped of her clothes and beaten with a heavy stick and also a metallic watch chain, which was claimed to possess healing virtues, until she became so ill that she had to consult a doctor, who in his turn consulted Mr. Tremblay.

Popular Opinion of Mr. Gladstone.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Mr. Gladstone has made the following reply to a letter from a prominent Liberal, who proposed the presentation to him of a national testimonial: "I do not desire, and should regret, the presentation of any national testimonial, even if the desire sprang from a feeling widely spread, which feeling I do not think exists."

There is no necessity of passing a sleepless night and annoying the entire household with that cough, as West's Cough Syrup will cure you like magic. EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN.—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two penniless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child case; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. What Do We Live For?

SERMON BY LAYMAN.

To the Editor of The Daily Examiner:

I will venture to say that not one man in ten thousand ever makes the above question and is prepared to answer it. People come into the world and live and die, and appear not to know the object of their existence. From infancy to old age, and from old age to the grave, all they ever seem to think of is what they shall wear and what they shall eat and drink, and then they lay themselves down to sleep, and they rise and go the same stupid round over again. And thus it goes on day after day and year after year, so long as life lasts. And they die and are buried. And this is what they live for. This is the end and aim of an existence which was created for a higher and holier and better purpose. Some persons prefer to believe that there is no hereafter. That man, after death, is like the animal that serves his purpose, and then dies and is no more. That man had no soul, and that his creation is satisfied when he is laid away in his grave. And that the grave is the end of all things. Such a man simply holds himself on a par with the dog that does his bidding. If he is in trouble, if he is sick unto death, he has no means of consolation or comfort. If he feels himself helpless and deserted, away from friends and home, he has no Heavenly Father to whom he can go for relief. He can only lie on his bed of sickness, he must bear his pain and sufferings. He is virtually alone in the world. What does such a man live for? What is the aim and object of his being? Who respects and honors him? Is he satisfied with a mere animal existence, and does he hold himself no higher than the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air? And does he really mean to have others believe that his mental faculties are mere animal instinct, incapable of the guidance of reason and common sense? If this be so, how could he complain if he be treated as an animal, and governed and restrained as an animal. What right has he to ask for more than this? What right has he to associate with, and to claim the confidence and respect of his fellow men; men who claim to be Christians, men who acknowledge a God and a Saviour, and who believe in future rewards and punishments. Men, when they are in trouble, know where to go for help, and consolation, and comfort. What do we live for? The infidel lives only for personal gratification and pleasure—lives only for the world. The Christian lives for the world to come; he knows that there is but little happiness in this life; he knows that in this world he is but a pilgrim on his way to another and a better world; he knows that his days here are few and full of trouble, and he knows that he is the creation of a higher power and governed by God's laws, and that his Creator alone can help and save him. And, when trouble comes upon him, he knows where to go for comfort and help; and so he lives on, always feeling that he has a duty to do while here; that he is travelling over life's journey, sometimes in sunshine, sometimes in storm; that God's protecting care is always over and around him, and that when his journey is over his troubles are ended, and that then he will receive his reward. What are we living for? Live while you live, the epicure would say, and serve the pleasures of the present day; live while you live, the sacred preacher cries, and give to God each moment as it flies. A large majority of the people live for to-day—live for the world alone; it is pleasure they seek for, and pleasure, such as it is, they get; their eyes are blinded, so that they can only see one thing, and that thing is pleasure; their minds are given over to the one idea of personal gratification, and they have no thought of to-morrow, no thought of the future; they pursue their reckless course as long as health lasts, but when sickness comes and they are laid low they see and confess their mistake; to them, then, pleasure has no longer any temptations. They then realize, for the first time, that they have been pursuing a wrong road, a road that is full of difficulties, and trials, and troubles. They see things as they never saw them before; they feel that the object and aim of this life is to prepare for the better life to come; they can see beyond the clouds and see the brightness of the heavens above. An old man and his little boy are travelling on together, the man is weary and worn, and feels that his journey is nearly over, he is complaining of the difficulties and hardships of the way, he is talking to his little boy of his early life, and how, in his young days, he thought of nothing and cared for nothing but enjoyment and pleasure, and he is telling of his disappointments and how little happiness his enjoyments brought him, and he is telling how they undermined his constitution and broke down his health, and how, when it was too late, he saw his error. He thought he had only to live for to-day, but, now that he is old and worn out with his false system of living, now that he is tottering upon the brink of the grave, he can see beyond this world and realize that there is another world beyond the grave, and he repents of his past life and his past folly, and he tells the little boy to take warning by his example, and so to live and to do that he can show to the world he knows what he is living for, and that his life here is but the beginning of the life to come. The boy listened to these, to him, strange words, but he never forgot them, and when he saw his father laid away in the grave he made a vow to profit by what he had heard, and so to live that when his time came, he could say that he knew what he had been living for, and that he had done his duty both to God and man. Living for to-day and letting to-morrow take care of itself! Can this be true? Harken to the story of the poor, friendless woman and her starving children. They came into the world like all the rest, rich and poor alike. They came poor and neglected, wanting sometimes even a crust of bread. All through their weary lives they have endured hunger and cold, and they have cried for help, but got little or none. Barefooted and in rags, with scarcely any human shelter, with the cold night wind piercing to their very bones, the little ones literally freezing and starving, and the mother with cut with vain lamentations. Ask them what they are living for, and what will be their answer? Will they tell you they are living for this life alone? No. Will they tell you that there is no hereafter, no happy home in the Heavens above? No; but they will tell you that they are enduring trials and sufferings here in order the better to be prepared for the blessings to come. In order to be prepared for that home above, where all will be happiness and praise and joy for evermore. They will tell you that they are on their journey to a better world, and that though it is long and rough and hard to travel, yet that every weary step brings them nearer to the river, on whose other shore stands the loving Saviour, with outstretched arms, waiting for them to come. They are often hungry and thirsty and tired, but they know how He endured hunger and thirst, and how often, weary and foot sore, He had to rest by the way. Weigh well the troubles and miseries of this world. Think of its constant wars and its endless pestilences and famines, of its daily and hourly murders, of man's inhumanity to man, and of his injustice and wrong doing, and say this, if you can, that man lives for this world alone. Say, if you can, that there is no God and no Heavenly home beyond the skies. Come with me into that sick chamber, where lies all that remains of the poor suffering mother. Hear her sobs and groans as she looks upon those little ones, who, silent and in tears, stand around her dying bed. Hardly able to speak or to move, yet see the effort she makes to tell them to be of good cheer and to put their trust in their Heavenly Father, who is a father to the fatherless. Hear her feeble prayers for their protection and safety. And see how hard she tries once more to hold their little hands, knowing it is for the last time. And now her spirit is fled, and they are left, crying, desolate and alone. They take their last look. They kiss the lips which so often gave them comfort and soothed their troubles, now cold in death, and then are led away, never more to see mother in this life, but hoping to be with her in the life to come. That is what they have to live for now. A man spent a long life in grinding and oppressing the poor. He was bound to make money, and he made it. That was what he was living for. But with all his money he was not happy, and he was all his life forsaken and despised. There was no one to do him honor. No one cared for him while living, and no one cared for him when dead. There are many such people to be found, and, with few exceptions, their money is their god. Virtually, they pass their lives alone, and they feel that they have the sympathy of no one. But the time comes when they must leave all their money behind them. Leave it to others who will waste it and who will never so much as thank them for it. And when they have to give an account of the deeds done in the body, and when the Book is opened and they hear the record of their life, and see the victims of their injustice, how different will they feel then, and how they will wish that they had done better. They will have to confess that they lived in this world only to make money, and that they got their money at the price of their own souls. They are now shivering with fear, knowing what the penalty must be. Men must understand that they have no abiding place here. That they are passing on to another world, where all will be misery and sorrow or joy and happiness evermore. They must realize that their fate is in their own hands.

P. S. With your permission Mr. Editor I will publish one of my sermons every Saturday, commencing with Saturday 1st.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on accounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Toronto, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $600,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is advanced from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgage may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A. hall.

To be Given Away.

A fancy Japanese crepe handkerchief will be presented as a souvenir to each lady attending to-night's performance of the Japanese Colony.

The Saved Army.

General Lindsay led an open air meeting of the Saved Army on the market square last night. The singing was aided by an organ, and the deepest religious fervor seemed to prevail.

Set at Liberty.

Whiteman was yesterday liberated from the gaol here, his term of imprisonment having expired. Wife No. 2 received him graciously, and the pair will live happily together after all their trials and tribulations. Whiteman was walking the streets this afternoon with the greatest sang froid.

The Last Night.

To-night is the last opportunity citizens of Peterborough will have of witnessing the novel and instructive entertainment which has been running in the Opera House all week. The Japanese Colony goes to Ottawa Monday to enter upon a two weeks' engagement at that place. For the small admission fee of 10c. a rich and rare entertainment is provided.

Market Notes.

The inclement weather this morning prevented the market from being as large as usual. Potatoes were more plentiful at 55 and 60 cents a bag, and sold rapidly. Apples went at 50 and 55 cents a bag. Beef sold at 4 and 5 cents; mutton and pork, seven and eight cents; geese, 50 to 60 cents; turkeys, 50 to 75 cents. Eggs for local use brought 19 cents per dozen; butter, 20 cents per lb.; cheese, 12½ cents per lb. Other produce sold slowly at standard prices. Barley and other grains were moving rather slowly, with prices as usual.

Fall of the Beautiful.

Late risers this morning were surprised to find on awakening that while they had been slumbering in the arms of "Murphy," the beautiful snow had cast her white mantle over the sleeping old world, covering her beauties and blemishes alike with the one veil of immaculate purity. The small boy, too, "made hay while the sun shone," by wearing off the season's accumulation of rust on the runners of his sled, while furs and overcoats were in great demand. Up to noon about two inches of snow had fallen, and the storm showed not the least sign of abatement.

Forestry.

The Autumn Chancery Sittings.

The Autumn Chancery Sittings will open at the Court House on Monday before Justice Proudfoot.

Following is a list of the cases to come before the court.

HATTON VS. BERTRAM—An action regarding the interpretation of the will of the late James Campbell and as to what the property known as "Wakerfield" consists of. Mr. R. E. Wood for plaintiff; Mr. E. H. D. Hall for defendant.

DOBBIN VS. DOBBIN—An action brought by the administratrix as to the personal property of the deceased husband. Mr. Poussette for plaintiff; Mr. Demble for defendant.

GEBBIE VS. GEBBIE—To declare a will invalid and the plaintiffs' titles as heirs and heiresses at law to the land and question. Mr. Burnham for plaintiffs; Mr. Hoskins, Q. C., Toronto, for defendants.

EMILY VS. MIDLAND RAILWAY CO.—An action brought by the Township of Emily, against the Midland Railway Co., for deviation from an agreed route of the railway through that township. Mr. Dumble for plaintiffs; Mr. Biggar for defendants.

Police Court.

SATURDAY, Nov. 6th.

The tramps are beginning to gravitate towards the Police station these cold nights. Every night one or more are housed. Last night two vigorous specimens were taken in.

THE CHARGE DISMISSED.

Edward Crow laid information against Jas. Johnston, alleging assault. The plaintiff failed to appear this morning and the case was dismissed.

THE USUAL FINE.

One witness brought up on a warrant was sufficient to convict Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien, formerly Mrs. Smith, of Indian River, of having sold liquor at her place. The usual fine of $50 and costs was administered.

COMMITTED TO GAOL.

Jas. Dunn was convicted this morning of a second offence against the temperance act, and in default of the payment of $100 was committed to gaol. One witness swore that the moxie he got would have been called whiskey before the Scott Act came in force; another testified that the moxie he got was poor stuff; money thrown away. Several witnesses admitted having got intoxicating liquor at Mr. Dunn's hotel. Mr. Dunn objected to the evidence of one witness whose character was blasted, he having served five years in the penitentiary, and been in Peterborough gaol several times. The man was swearing falsely. The magistrate remarked that Mr. Dunn should only have sold to men with good characters who would tell the truth always. Mr. Edwards appeared for the prosecution in both cases.

Church Chimes.

In the Charlotte street church Rev. I. Tovell will occupy the pulpit in the morning, and in the evening the pastor, Rev. F. H. Wallace, B.D., will deliver a special sermon to "honest doubters" on the divinity of Christ.

Rev. W. A. Porter, of London, will conduct the services in the Baptist church tomorrow. The rev. gentleman is said to be an eloquent speaker and a cherished pastor.

Blown Up by Dynamite.

James Begg, of Lindsay, says the Ontario, engaged on the Government job at O'Brien's Bridge, Thurlow township, cutting rock, was the victim of dynamite on Thursday, which nearly cost him his life. He had a can of dynamite which he set alongside the fire for a few minutes to melt. When he took hold of the can to remove it the dynamite caught fire and he was blown thirty feet away. The explosive struck him on his left side, burning his arm, thigh and leg in a terrible manner. From the ends of his fingers to his shoulder his arm was peppered like a sieve. Begg wore a heavy pair of corduroy pants, which it was thought was the means of saving his leg. He was brought to Belleville Thursday night, when Dr. Wilson dressed his wounds, and the injured man was taken back to Corbyville.

Entertainment at Nassau.

Friday evening, Nov. 5th, a very successful and largely attended entertainment was held in the Orange Hall, Nassau, under the auspices of Wellington L. O. L., No. 457. Mr. W. R. King, District Master of Peterborough and worshipful master of the above lodge, occupied the chair, and his brief address was followed by a duet by Mrs. Bowman and Mr. Galletly, "When You Gang Awa' Jamie." A song by Mr. Bowman was succeeded by another song by Mr. Galletly. Mr. W. A. Dixon gave a clever and interesting exposition of ventriloquism. Rev. I. Tovell delivered a short address upon subjects suggested by the occasion. A song by Mr. Bowman and also by Mrs. Bowman, followed by "God Save the Queen," brought an interesting programme to a close. The entertainment was highly enjoyed by the large number that filled the hall, and it was a most gratifying success in every respect.

Father Hill of Chicago.

One of the most respected of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, John Hill of Chicago, chief engineer, and delegate from Division 111, is in town, the guest of Mr. Joseph Griffin. Mr. Hill has been in the service of the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad thirty-one years. During the last eighteen years he has driven the paymaster's train out of Chicago. The money carried on this train to pay the men is nearly $400,000. Formerly it was all in gold, and notes, but the exploits of the James' brothers in Illinois and Missouri taught the Rock Island discretion. Nowadays the paymaster takes with him $80,000 in money and the balance in checks. During Mr. Hill's long term of service he has never met the slightest accident. He has never struck a car or engine or had his driving wheel off the track. Nevertheless Mr. Hill never pulls out of a depot without a certain dread of mishap. He is a stout, bright-eyed man, with gray hair and a short, white beard.

Constantly Expanding.

The town can't hold him, the county can't contain him, nor the Midland district limit the business operations of Belleghem, the Famous Furniture Factor. On Wednesday he went to Fenelon Falls with a carload of furniture. The Lindsay Post intercepted him at that point and thus alludes to his triumphal progress through the town:—"The new hotel at Fenelon Falls will be opened in a few days by Mr. T. E. Spellman as proprietor. The house has been furnished throughout in fine style and will be one of the most comfortable hotels in the north country. Mr. D. Belleghem, of Peterborough—the only, the unexcelled, the unapproachable Belleghem—secured the contract for the furniture and fittings, and on Wednesday passed north with a carload of goods, including the fittings for seven bedrooms, dining-room, parlor, hall and kitchen, even to the window blinds.....Mr. Belleghem's wholesale trade is, no informs us, growing larger every month. He will presently reach the commercial dignity of employing a traveller or two." Mr. Belleghem was expected home yesterday noon, but on his return he was waylaid, captured at Lindsay by the ladies of the Methodist church, who have a big job of upholstering for him to attend to. There seems to be no limit to his business, and it is growing larger every day. He has the run and is bound to keep.

Mirth, Laughter and Tears.

Stuart Rogers at the Opera House Last Night—He Charms Thousands—Shall He Remain or Where.

A large audience greeted Stuart Rogers at the Opera House last night. The fame of Mr. Rogers had preceded him, and those who listened to his impersonations and recitations last night were fully entitled with the entertainment. Mr. Rogers has a pleasing address, a voice capable of the most powerful utterance or the most delicate intonation, and a wonderful mobility facial expression, changing in a moment from stern, unbending rigor to winning softness.

Mr. Rogers was introduced to the audience by Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. The first part of the programme was made up of recitations, introducing both the comic and serious elements to perfection. A burlesque by Miss Lauretta Davidson, "The Auction Extraordinary, or, the sale of forty old bachelors," was the first number, followed by a scene from Shakespeare's Henry VIII, an interview between the fallen Wolseley and Cromwell, in which the deep pathos of the scene was fully brought out. A comic recitation between an Italian father, mother and daughter, spoken in the flowing language of that sunny land, was exceedingly rendered. Bret Harte's "Bill Mason's Bride, or, the station agent's story," afforded an opportunity for vocal and facial expression which Mr. Rogers did full justice to. Then followed representations of stage celebrities—Booth, Irving, Barrett and Charlotte Cushman. "Over the Hills to the Poor House," was perhaps the most affecting recitation on the programme. In this selection smiles and tears chased each other over the faces of the audience, according to the humor or pathos of the reciter. Darius Green's experience with a flying machine was a most laughable affair and is one of Mr. Rogers' best characteristic pieces. In the second part of the programme "Gus Fitzfoodle," the modern dry society man, in all his absurdities was forcibly shown up. The oddities and eccentricities of a certain class of country persons next delighted the audience, followed by Miss Aparanthy, in her experiences at the centennial. These three selections were given in character and were startlingly realistic in every particular. Last on the programme, but not least, was a representation of the great Gladstone delivering a speech on the Home Rule question in the house. The make up was perfect, and both it and the style of speaking corresponded exactly with the oft published description of the grand old man. Mr. Rogers is without a peer as an elocutionist and character delineator in Canada, and it is to be hoped he will again favor Peterborough in the near future with another delightful entertainment. He is deserved of a large audience.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

Worth Ten Dollars a Bottle.

Any person who has used Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure, would not be without it if it cost ten dollars a bottle. A good thing is worth its weight in gold, and Nerviline is the best remedy in the world for all kinds of pain. It cures neuralgia in five minutes; toothache in one minute; lame back at one application; headache in a few moments; and all pains just as rapidly. Small test bottles only cost ten cents. Why not try it to-day? Large bottles 25c. sold by all druggists and country dealers. Use Polson's nerve pain cure—Nerviline. 6dw44

A VISIT TO TATTERSALLS.

How Business is Done at England's Great Horse Auction.

I visited Tattersall's noted horse sale yesterday, says Carpenter in his late London letter to the Cleveland Leader, and saw several hundred horses knocked down to the highest bidder. Tattersalls has for two hundred years been the great horse market in London. Here every week some of the best horses of the nobility and others are brought for sale, and the sons and grandsons of the great Tattersall of the past still manage the business.

The stables are within a stone's throw of Hyde Park, and not far away from Piccadilly. They are in the center of fashionable London, and when I entered them yesterday I found the sale going briskly on. Imagine a great square court, with a dirt floor, around which is a high wall of stables, and over which, perhaps sixty feet above you, is a vaulted roof of glass. This wall of stables which surrounds the court is of brick, and midway between the floor and roof a gallery, filled with spectators of every description, runs around it.

This gallery looks down upon the court through many columns, and leaning upon its railing to-day were a number of ladies who were present, looking down upon the sale going on below. In the square court perhaps 200 men were standing. They were of all grades of horse fanciers, from the weazened-faced, wrinkled jockey and the gentleman's groom in livery to young lords dressed in the latest London fashion, and old fellows who looked as though they might stand for pictures of Sam Weller's father.

The auctioneer was one of the young Tattersalls, a slight man, looking much like a highly respectable merchant. He stood in a tall box pulpit in one corner of the court, with a clerk beside him and a ledger in front of him on the desk. Just below him, back of a board rail as high as a man's waist, were the bidders, and on the other side of this rail, along the wall, was a road about nine or ten feet wide, up and down which the horses were trotted by jockeys when exhibited for sale. The sales were made very fast, none of them I saw taking more than five minutes.

The auctioneer talked quietly; did not praise the horse, but merely read the catalogue account of him and looked about for bids. He did not wait long for bids, and when the bidding ceased he knocked down the horse to the highest bidder by striking a round-headed black mallet on the desk in front of him. The horses sold very cheap, the highest during my stay bringing only $250. They sold for half they would have brought in America, and, as a rule, fine-spirited, well-shaped horses, which would have easily brought $300 in America, went off for $125. This is, perhaps, the greatest horse auction anywhere, and the guarantee of Tattersall is said to be as good as that of the London bank.

A Million for Methodist Missions.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—A convention of the General Missionary Committee of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the United States was held here to-day. Bishop Bowman presided. The motto adopted was "a million for missions from collections alone," and $1,050,000 was fixed as the sum to be appropriated for the work of the ensuing year.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, and have proper work and care for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. A GENERAL STRIKE.

THE CHICAGO BEEF AND PORK MEN AGAIN QUIT WORK.

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—At 2.30 this afternoon the Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor have just issued a general order directing all the men employed in the packing establishments at the Union Stock Yards in both the beef and pork packing establishments to stop work at 3 o'clock this afternoon. This makes the strike general and causes nearly 25,000 men to stop work. It is not yet known whether the men will obey the order.

The strike became general shortly after 3 o'clock. All the men in the great house of Fowler Bros., John Cudahay and nearly all of Armour's men left their work by order of the Executive Board. At 4 o'clock this afternoon there were very few men left in the yards. One prominent packer said: "I am ready to shut down for sixty days if the other packers will do the same. The strikers then," he said, "would have a good opportunity to rest all they wanted to." It is not exactly known what policy the packers will now pursue, but it is understood they will at once advertise for men to take the place of the strikers. The demand made on behalf of the men, it is understood, was that eight hours should constitute a day's work, the men agreeing to accept ten per cent. reduction in their present wages. Fourteen thousand men stopped work in response to the order, but it is estimated the order indirectly affects 6000 to 8000 more.

Yesterday morning a local paper published an interview with Nelson Morris, of the packing firm of Nelson Morris & Co., in the course of which it appeared that Mr. Morris exhibited a contract with the Butchers' Assembly of the Knights of Labor, in which the latter agreed to work ten hours per day, the same being signed by the members of the Executive Board of that assembly. Granville Sawyer, one of the members of that board, to-night made a statement to the effect that he had never so much as seen the contract referred to, and that no such contract had received the signatures of his colleagues within his knowledge.

Granville Sawyer, a member of the Executive Board of the Cattle Butchers' Assembly of the Knights of Labor 7902, denied positively to-night to an Associated Press reporter that any order from the General Assembly ordering Packingtown employes out had been received. Such an order, if issued, would necessarily come through his board, he said Mr. Sawyer said also that not more than 800 or 900 men were now out, and they had acted on their individual responsibilities in quitting work.

There seem to be indications that the strikers of Packingtown are weakening. A careful review of the situation to-night reveals that the contract referred to in these despatches be tween Nelson Morris and the Executive Board of the Cattle Butchers' Assembly, though not signed by the parties of the second part, was tacitly accepted by them and went into effect Monday morning. This is admitted by two members of that board, while another to-night denied any knowledge of the contract, said no order to strike had been issued by the General Executive Board and claimed that not more than a thousand men were out. It is learned from the Chicago Times that fully 10,000 men are out, among them being employes of every packing house at the yards. Very few of Armour's men are out, however, the strikers being mostly employes of Fowler Bros., Silberhorn and the Chicago Packing Company. There is a difference of opinion among the employes as to the authority of District Master Workman Butler to order a strike, some claiming that such action lies only in the province of the General Executive Board. It is said that the steadier and cooler-headed of the employes are very much opposed to a general strike, while the movement is chiefly agitated by restless characters and the so-called boodlum element. There is nothing whatever in the nature of a disturbance at the yards to-night Half an hour after closing time scarcely an employe was to be seen about the yards.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—There was no disturbance worthy of mention at the stockyards to day. Armour & Co. report that 500 cattle were slaughtered in their establishment. It is now known that the Strikers' Committee formally presented their demands on the packers yesterday. These asked for the eight-hour system and a scale of wages, slightly less than the one in force for ten hours. The packers refused to entertain the proposition and a strike was ordered. The strikers sent committees around to-day to induce the men still at work to quit. In many instances, especially with firemen and engineers, the attempt was successful. A number of packers held a conference in Armour's office to-day, but they declined to talk about the proceedings.

The People Should Help Themselves.

DUBLIN, Nov. 6.—Mr. Dillon speaking at Longford to-day advised the people to help themselves, otherwise they would not obtain anything from landlords.

Sold His Wife and Children for $70.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 6.—A plasterer named Shules, who contemplated leaving this city for the old country, recently sold his wife and children to a man named Williams for $70. A regular legal agreement was drawn up between the two men and the property was formally transferred. The police are investigating the matter.

AN EMPEROR'S SPEECH

FRANCIS JOSEPH ADDRESS ES AUSTRIAN AND HUNGARIAN DELEGATES.

BUDA PESTH, Nov. 6.—Emperor Francis Joseph received the Austrian and Hungarian delegations in the Throne Hall of the Castle to-day. In his speech he said: "It is regrettable that the complications in Bulgaria, which originated in 1885 from the overthrow of the government at Philippopolis, should again cause serious apprehensions. The powers by united efforts had succeeded in localizing the movement and paving the way to re-establishment of a legal state of affairs, but recent events in Sofia have produced a fresh and dangerous crisis, the development of which, and, I trust, its pacific solution, occupy at the present moment the full attention of my government, whose efforts are directed to attain the final settlement of the Bulgarian question, which must be effected in co-operation with the other powers, an agreement that there shall be created an autonomous principality and a legal state of things, which, while taking into account the admissable wish of the Bulgarians, shall equally conform with existing treaties as well as with the interests of Europe. Our excellent relations with all the powers and the assurances of peaceful intentions we receive by all governments justify the hope that notwithstanding the difficult situation in the East it will be found possible, while safe-guarding the interests of Austria and Hungary, to preserve the blessings of peace to Europe." The Emperor appealed to the good will of the nation to make the increased sacrifices rendered necessary by the progressive improvement in the manufacture of firearms. All branches of administration in Bosnia and Herzegovinia, he said, have steadily progressed.

Emperor Francis Joseph's speech to the delegations was received in cold silence. There were no signs of approval except the customary cheers at its conclusion. The Hungarian delegates are dissatisfied with the policy of Count Kalnoky, the Imperial Foreign Minister.

Herr Tisza, the Hungarian Prime Minister, assured the Emperor that if the inseparable interest of the throne and monarchy required it, the Hungarian nation would shrink from no sacrifice to aid the army in its heroic tasks.

Smolka Stands by His Speech.

PESTH, Nov. 6.—Herr Smolka was interviewed by a reporter in reference to the speech delivered by him to the Austrian delegation Thursday. The interviewer says that Herr Smolka declared that Prime Minister Kalnoky took no exception to his speech, and that he intended to repeat its substance to Emperor Francis Joseph to-day. Herr Smolka stated that he had informed Herr Kalnoky of the speech he intended to deliver and denied that the Emperor had redrafted his speech to the delegations in order to counteract the effect of his (Smolka's speech.

The Seizure of Bourgas.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 6.—It is alleged in Russian quarters that movements similar to the one at Bourgas, where a force under Capt. Nabokoff seized the authorities of the town and proclaimed Russian rule, have taken place in other towns in Roumelia.

Russia Does Not Recognize the Regency.

BELGRADE, Nov. 6.—The Russian Minister protests against the session of Bregova to Servia, as the acts of the Bulgarian Regency are not recognized in Russia.

The Czar's New Representative.

SOFIA, Nov. 7.—M. Geschoff, Minister of Finance, has resigned. It is announced from St. Petersburg that the Czar intends to entrust the administration of Bulgaria to the Russian Senator Slojanowski until a Prince has been legally elected.

Leaders of the Revolt Arrested.

TERNOVA, Nov. 6.—Two leaders of the revolt at Bourgas have been arrested by peasants in the vicinity of the town while trying to enlist recruits. The troops at Bourgas who remained loyal to the Government have escaped from the town and gone to join the detachment sent to suppress the insurrection. The Roumelian deputies have sent a circular to Bourgas appealing to all Roumelians to maintain their courage and warning them against listening to intriguers who are trying to deprive them their freedom.

The Government will send a note to Gen. Kaulbars charging that Russian agents in Bulgaria are engaged in organizing a revolt. The Prefect of Philippopolis asked for authority to search the residences in that city of the Nihilist Novicki, and the Dragoman of the Russian Consulate, who, he had discovered, had been plotting a revolt. The Government instructed the Prefect to proceed with the search, but told him it must be conducted in the presence of the foreign consuls.

England and the Bulgarian Muddle.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—We have yet to learn the nature of certain informal overtures made to Austria by England with Bismarck's assent, for the purpose of checking Russia's proceedings in Bulgaria. Whether these were more than the mere soundings so common between the powers and often fruitless, it is doubtful, but a natural curiosity here is great to know how far Lord Salisbury thinks he can go with the co-operation of Lord Hartington's party. With the details of incidents in Bulgaria, even to the last conspiracy by Russian agents at Bourgas, you are already familiar. Here public opinion concludes that short of absolute compulsion by Hungaria, Austria will do nothing in any case, and it is openly said that the overtures made by England found no response. It is interesting to note the flood of appeals now made to Mr. Gladstone by Bulgarians, but the pressure is changed. If Turkey had been the aggressor, the right honorable gentleman might have started on a new crusade.

Bismarck's Tribute to Gladstone.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The publisher Cotta, of Stuttgart, will soon issue the memoirs of Count Vitzum while Saxon Minister at London. The work contains much of the unrevealed history of the period between the years 1858 and 1866. It records that in the course of a conversation at a dinner Lord Beaconsfield said: "Gladstone, Bright and myself are the three most energetic men in Parliament. Gladstone's energy is invincible."

Prince Alexander Buys an Estate.

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—Prince Alexander, late ruler of Bulgaria, has bought the Charlottenfeldt estate, near Schaffhausen, for 240,000 marks. The purchase money is a part of the amount taken from Bulgaria by Prince Alexander upon his abdication of the throne. Agents of the late Czar had entered into negotiations for the purchase of the estate for the Princess Dolgorouki at the time of the murder of the Czar.

Wentworth Teachers' Association.

HAMILTON, Nov. 6.—The Wentworth Teachers' Association elected the following officers: President, Mr. D. Bell; Vice-President, R. G. Marshall; Secretary, W. N. Stevenson; Treasurer, J. F. Bellard. Mr. David Boyle of Toronto addressed the teachers on the subject of the Ontario Educational Society, urging strongly the necessity for such an organization for the protection of teachers.

LARRY DONOVAN'S FOOLISH ACT.

He Jumps off the New Suspension Bridge At Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Nov. 7.—Considerable excitement was caused here yesterday by the announcement that Larry Donovan, the Brooklyn bridge hero was to jump off the New Suspension bridge here to-day. About six this morning Donovan, with some of his friends, drove down to the bridge and at exactly 6.30 made the terrible leap. It was just three and one-half seconds later when he struck the water, the distance being 195 feet, about 40 feet more than the Brooklyn jump. He was immediately picked up by one of his friends in a boat, rowed ashore and then taken by carriage to Doctor Clark's office, where he was examined and one of his ribs found to be broken. He does not, however, anticipate any serious trouble from this and is quite elated over his victory. A wager of $500 was posted on the result.

SATURDAY'S NOMINATION.

On Saturday afternoon a "general meeting" of the Conservative party of the West Riding was held in town, at the Old Music Hall, consisting of less than one hundred persons. With even this small representation, it does not appear that there was entire unanimity in the choice of candidates. It was the desire of many that Mr. Hilliard, as the representative of the prohibition wing of the party, should again be the nominee for the Commons, but he was not for a moment entertained; he was thrown overboard and Mr. James Stevenson was selected, while Mr. John Carnegie was chosen as the candidate for the Local House. These nominees, as mere party standard bearers, may be satisfactory to the party, but as the object of Parliamentary representation is not, according to Liberal views, the serving of party interests, but those of the state first and the riding next, there are very grave reasons why they should not be acceptable to the riding of West Peterborough. This riding is under no obligation to elect a Conservative candidate. And especially when that candidate is an out-and-out supporter of the present Dominion Government. West Peterborough is not bound to assist the perpetuation, through Mr. Stevenson, of the rule of an administration which is hostile to the best interests of the country. Its shameful corruption, now acknowledged by all, will be condoned by the candidate chosen as supporter of the Government. We have no guarantee (in fact we have every guarantee to the contrary) that Mr. Stevenson will oppose one of the unrighteous political schemes the Dominion Government may, and certainly will, if given another lease of power, seek to carry into effect. Nominated as a thick-and-thin supporter, he is prepared to endorse all they have done in the past, and to assist in all they may seek to do in the future, regardless of how prejudical to the best interests of the country, or how anbversive of every principle of political morality it may be. The Dominion Government has in the past existed by corrupt methods—almost entirely, supplemented by the slavish support of members who, laying aside every patriotioc consideration, have voted the straight ticket every time. This, Mr. Stevenson, if elected, is prepared to do also. The electors of West Peterborough will not, in pronouncing on Mr. Stevenson's claim to their suffrage, decide on a representative for the riding, but assist to elect or reject an out and out supporter of a Government whose corrupt methods and extravagant course are working irretrievable injury to the best moral and material interests of the country. If Mr. Stevenson's claim to support is impared by the company he keeps, Mr. Carnegie's claims are voided on the same grounds. He is the candidate in support of the Ontario Opposition, which has in the past worked hand and glove with the Ottawa combination in every hostile aggression against the interests of this province. Besides, his record as a member has not been a brilliant nor a creditable one. Contrary to expectation he carries no weight in the House. Even his own party have no confidence in him. When Mr. Bunting prepared his provisional cabinet as a sequel to the hoped for success of the Conspiracy, Mr. Carnegie was left out in the cold. In the House he is a bore—endured by his opponents, tolerated by his friends as an oratorical stop gap. Petty carping, snarling criticism in petty things is the height of his statesmanship. Such are the candidates nominated for this riding in the interests of the Dominion Government and the Ontario Opposition. On Wednesday the candidates will be nominated by the Liberals of the riding in the interests of the country, and the riding and the electors are asked not to rashly pledge themselves to the candidates now in the field. Wait till the Liberal nominees are announced.

WEATHER NOTES.

The pendulum of time with its steady and unswerving tick, tick has cast another October into oblivion, the falling leaf and golden fruit being emblematical of our transitory abode on earth and of our ripening and never returning days. On looking back on the record of October, we find it full of delightful weather. Although rain fell on 10 days, we only had 1 inch and 65-100 of an inch, being considerably below the average for October. Snow fell on 3 days but only 1 inch; the frost has been light and very little for the 10 months of the year, only once coming as low as 26° on the morning of the 10th, and the hottest at sundown, 66°, on the evening of the 12th, fine weather prevailing largely throughout the month with an average temperature of 47 16-31°. We had fog on 3 mornings, all of which cleared off before noon. A tearful gale swept over us on the evening of the 14th and part of the 15th, doing considerable damage. Only one flock of wild geese has yet gone south and that on the morning of the 17th; I have heard of a large number going north again, although as yet I have seen none. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing during the month as sources, respectively, namely: North 3 days, west 7 days, south-west 9 days, east 5 days, south-east 2 days, north-east 3 days, and north-west 2 days.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

When we say McGregor's Speedy Cure is the only perfect cure for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Impure Blood, we are telling plain facts, of which hundreds upon hundreds can testify who have been restored to perfect health by its use. We would therefore advise you strongly if you are a subject of any of the above troubles to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial and be convinced. It is sold in 50c. and $1 bottles at John McKee's drug store. eodw45

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in these, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—handreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 20 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring trusses made in York State, costing me $30. Nothing would retain my Rupture. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. H. ROSS.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child now; and 95 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

8.—The Diamonds.

The new week was essentially a week of events.

On the Monday morning Mrs. Westerfield and her faithful James had their first quarrel. She took the liberty of reminding him that it was time to give notice of the marriage at the church, and to secure berths in the steamer for herself and her son. Instead of answering one way or another James asked how the expert was getting on.

"Has your old man found out where the diamonds are?"

"Not yet."

"Then we'll wait till he does."

"Do you believe my word?" Mrs. Westerfield asked curtly.

James Bellbridge answered, with Roman brevity, "No."

This was an insult; Mrs. Westerfield expressed her sense of it. She rose and pointed to the door. "Go back to America, as soon as you please," she said; "and find the money you want—if you can."

As a proof that she was in earnest she took her copy of the cipher out of the bosom of her dress and threw it into the fire. "The original is safe in my old man's keeping," she added. "Leave the room."

James rose with suspicious docility and walked out, having his own private ends in view.

Half an hour later Mrs. Westerfield's old man was interrupted over his work by a person of bulky and blackguard appearance whom he had never seen before.

The stranger introduced himself as a gentleman who was engaged to marry Mrs. Westerfield; he requested (not at all politely) to be permitted to look at the cipher. He was asked if he had brought a written order to that effect, signed by the lady herself. Mr. Bellbridge, resting his fists on the writing-table, answered that he had come to look at the cipher, on his own sole responsibility, and that he insisted on seeing it immediately. "Allow me to show you something else first," was the reply he received to this assertion of his will and pleasure. "Do you know a loaded pistol, sir, when you see it?" The barrel of the pistol approached within three inches of the barman's bar head, as he leaned over the writing-table. For once in his life he was taken by surprise. It had never occurred to him that a professed interpreter of ciphers might sometimes be trusted with secrets which placed him in a position of danger, and might, therefore, have wisely taken measures to protect himself. No power of persuasion is comparable to the power possessed by a loaded pistol. James left the room, and expressed his sentiments in language which has not yet found its way into any English dictionary.

But he had two merits when his temper was in a state of repose. He knew when he was beaten, and he thoroughly appreciated the value of the diamonds. When Mrs. Westerfield saw him again, on the next day, he appeared with undeniable claims on her mercy. Notice of the marriage had been received at the church, and a cabin had been secured for her on board the steamer.

Her prospects being thus settled, to her own satisfaction, Mrs. Westerfield was at liberty to make her arrangements for the desertion of poor little Syd.

The person on whose assistance she could rely was an unmarried elder sister, distinguished as proprietress of a cheap girls' school in one of the suburbs of London. This lady—known to local fame as Miss Wigger—had already proposed to take Syd into training as a pupil teacher. "I'll force the child on," Miss Wigger promised, "till she can earn her board and lodging by taking my lowest class. When she gets older she will replace my regular governess and I shall save the salary."

With this proposal waiting for a reply Mrs. Westerfield had only to inform her sister that it was accepted. "Come here," she wrote, "on Friday next at any time before two o'clock and Syd shall be ready for you. P. S.—I am to be married again on Thursday and start for America with my husband and my boy by next Saturday's steamer."

The letter was posted, and the mother's anxious mind was, to use her own phrase, relieved of another worry.

As the hour of 8 drew near on Wednesday evening Mrs. Westerfield's anxiety forced her to find relief in action of some kind; she opened the door of her sitting-room, and listened on the stairs. It still wanted a few minutes to 9 o'clock when there was a ring at the house-bell. She ran down to open the door. The servant happened to be in the hall and answered the bell. The next moment the door was suddenly closed again.

"Anybody there?" Mrs. Westerfield asked.

"No, ma'am."

This seemed strange. Had the old wretch deceived her, after all? "Look in the letter-box," she called out. The servant obeyed and found a letter. Mrs. Westerfield tore it open, standing on the stairs. It contained half a sheet of common note paper. The interpretation of the cipher was written on it in these words:

"Remember No. 19 Purbeck road, St. John's Wood. Go to the summer house in the back garden. Count to the fourth plank in the floor, reckoning from the side wall on the right as you enter the summer house. Prize up the plank. Look under the mold and rubbish. Find the diamonds."

Not a word of explanation accompanied these lines. Neither had the original cipher been returned. The strange old man had earned his money and had not attended to receive it—had not even sent word where or how it might be paid! Had he delivered his letter himself? He (or his messenger) had gone before the house door could be opened.

A sudden suspicion of him turned her cold. Had he stolen the diamonds? She was on the point of sending for a cab, and driving to his lodgings, when James came in, eager to know if the interpretation had arrived.

Keeping her suspicions to herself, she merely informed him that the interpretation was in her hands. He at once asked to see it. She refused to show it to him until he had made her his wife. "The cipher is your perfect wheel; we go to church this new morning," was the one hint they gave him. As thoroughly worthy of each other as ever, the betrothed lovers distrusted each other to the last.

At 11 o'clock next morning they were united in the bonds of wedlock; the landlord and landlady of the public house in which they had both served being the only witnesses present. The children were not permitted to see the ceremony. On leaving the church door the married pair began their honeymoon by driving to St. John's Wood.

A dirty printed notice, in a broken window, announced that the house was to let; and a sour-tempered woman informed them that they were free to look at the rooms.

The bride was in the best of humors. She set the bridegroom the example of keeping up appearances by examining the dilapidated house first. This done, she said sweetly to the person in charge: "May we look at the garden?"

The woman made a strange answer to this request. "That's curious," she said.

James interfered for the first time. "What's curious?" he asked, roughly.

"Among all the idle people who have come here, at one time or another, to see this house," the woman said, "only two have wanted to look at the garden."

James turned on his heel, and made for the summer-house; leaving his wife to pursue the subject or not as she pleased. She did pursue the subject.

"I am one of the persons, of course," she said. "Who is the other?"

"An old man came on Monday."

The bride's pleasant smile vanished.

"What sort of person was he?" she asked.

The sour-tempered woman became sourer than ever. "Oh, how can I tell? A brute. There!"

"A brute?" The very words which the new Mrs. Bellbridge had herself used when the expert had irritated her. With serious misgivings, she too turned her steps in the direction of the garden.

James had already followed her instructions and used his chisel. The plank lay loose on the floor. With both his hands he rapidly cleared away the mold and the rubbish. In a few minutes the hiding place was laid bare.

They looked into it. They looked at each other. There was the empty hole, telling its own story. The diamonds were gone.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Surgeon, Toronto.

DEAR SIR.—I am pleased to be able to state to you that I am now free from Catarrh. It is almost incredible that in so short a time I could have been cured of Catarrh, which has afflicted me for years. A little over two months ago I took treatment from you, and to-day the Catarrh is entirely cured. Your treatment is simply a marvel. I will heartily recommend any of my friends personally, and would suggest to all thus troubled the advisability, of consulting you immediately. Accept my many thanks.

KNOW THYSELF.

A Great Medical Work on Manhood.

Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline in Men, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from indiscretion or exposure. A book for every man, young, middle-aged and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute and chronic diseases, each one of which is invaluable. So found by the Author, whose experience for 23 years is such as probably never before fell to the lot of any physician. 300 pages, bound in beveled French muslin, embossed covers, full gilt, sprinkled edges, and contains a fine steel portrait of the Author, taken just before he left for Europe, and will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of only 25 cents, or two 3-cent stamps. Illustrative of the value attached to this book, the Author has had the honor to receive the Gold Medal awarded by the National Medical Association, also the Diploma of which the Hon. P. A. Hahn, M.D., of Iowa, says: "I cheerfully refer to the Author, personally, as a gentleman of high standing and honor, and recommend the book to the reader in reasonable reliance."

The Science of Life is worth twice its price to the young and middle-aged man of the exemption than all the gold mines of California and Nevada. Address Dr. W. H. Chronic and obstinate diseases that have baffled the skill of all other physicians a specialty. Such treated successfully without an instance of failure. Boston EXAMINER, Peterborough, Ont. d&w

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-Rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Sores rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has its potency been manifested in curing Tetter, Moss Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Mild Leprosy, Erysipelas, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. "THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, a first trial offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills, alternating with hot flashes, low spirits and gloomy borrodoings, irregular appetite, and coated tongue, you are suffering from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Consumption, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. Send 10 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Sold by Druggists.

A meeting of the Y. W. C. T. U. is to be held this evening at half-past seven o'clock, in Mr. P. H. Gross's studio. All young ladies are requested to attend.

Y. M. C. A. Social Meeting.

The monthly social meeting of the members of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held this evening in their rooms. They expect a large attendance of members.

Another "Tall Chimney."

The new chimney for the moulding shop furnaces of Mr. Peter Hamilton's agricultural works, George street, is completed. It is a tall one, not quite so tall as the one a little further down street, but it has this advantage over its merely monumental rival—it smokes.

Took the Prize.

The 127 pound pumpkin forwarded by Mr. Nathan McIlmoyl, of Smith, has won Gough's $12 overcoat. The judges, Capt. Dubois, and Messrs. Walsh and McClelland, decided that the bulb was a genuine pumpkin and therefore took the prize.

Another Generous Gift.

A day or two ago the EXAMINER noted a generous gift towards the fitting up of the new (St. John's) Sunday school room in the south ward. This good example has been improved on by another gentleman in that part of the town who has generously donated $50, cash, to the improvement fund.

Young Men's Liberal Club.

An important meeting of members of the Young Men's Liberal Club will be held in their rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. As matters of important moment will require attention, it is requested that all members be present, as well other Liberals whose counsel and co-operation may tend to promote the objects of the meeting.

A Week of Jubilee.

To-night in the Roman Catholic church here commences the week of Jubilee. Services will be held every day, at 6, 7, 8 and 9 a.m., and vespers at 7.30 p.m., a sermon being delivered at the 9 o'clock service. Thursday and Friday, the services will be conducted in French for the benefit of the large French-speaking portion of the congregation. A number of priests from other churches in this diocese will be in attendance all week.

Meets the Case if not the Metre.

There is an old couplet which reads:

When the devil was ill the devil a monk would be;
When the devil got well the devil a monk was he.

The adaptation of this rhyme to current circumstances may play the mischief with the metre, but it exactly fits the facts:

When the devil wants votes the devil a prohibitionist would be;
When the devil gets votes the devil a prohibitionist is he.

A Nuisance.

As Police Magistrate Dumble remarked at the Police Court this morning, the town has so many officials that business can't be properly attended to. The door leading from the street to the Police Court room has been swelled by the damp weather, and can only be opened by using great force. Some people are turned away with the impression that the court is not in session. Others rattle the latch and kick the door until one of the officers run downstairs and open it. At times the evidence given in the Court can scarcely be heard. It is a great nuisance and should be removed.

At the Opera House.

THE approaching theatrical season promises to be lively indeed, very few unoccupied dates being on the books from this until the 1st of January.

The Japanese Colony closed a most successful week's engagement at the Opera house Saturday night. Had the people of Peterborough known what a rare and artistic exhibition it really was, the building would not have contained the crowds flocking to see it. Their fancy work sold rapidly at high prices, the ladies leaving so many orders for embroidery, painting, etc., that all could not be fulfilled. They left at noon to-day for Ottawa.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company open a week's engagement at the Opera House to-day, of which Ida Van Cortland is leading lady. This company is too well and favorable known to need further recommendation Their play to-night is "Nobody's Daughter." Prices, 10 and 20 cents.

Police Court.

MONDAY, Nov. 9th.

The Scott Act case against Wm. Chamberlain was called at the Police Court this morning. Defendant was not present. Mr. Edwards for prosecution; Mr. Edmison for defence. The fact the liquor had been sold on the premises between Oct. 20th and 30th was admitted from the first, the aim of the defence being to prove that the bar-room was leased to Thos. Dunn. Several witnesses were examined to prove the selling of the liquor, and Chief Cooper testified to having found the safe and cellar locked when he searched the premises the other day, Dunn stating that the keys were in the possession of Chamberlain. A lease of the barroom and fixtures from Chamberlain to Dunn dated Oct. 15th, was presented in court and its validity sworn to. Thos. Dunn was examined, but refused to answer numerous questions relating to the business of the hotel previous to the execution of the lease, giving as a reason that they had nothing to do with the case. Mr. Edmison's objections to the same effect were over-ruled. The Magistrate in giving judgment claimed that a prima facie case had been made out, and as of the two persons who alone could prove the genuineness of the lease, one refused to answer and the other was not present, he found the defendant guilty and of the offence and administered a fine of $100 and costs.

High Court of Justice.

Chancery Autumn Sittings, Justice Proudfoot Presiding—A Docket of Four Cases.

The chancery autumn sittings began at the Court House at one o'clock to-day, before Justice Proudfoot.

The bar was represented as follows:—Chas. Moss, Q.C., Toronto; Z. A. Lash, Q. C., Toronto; R. E. Wood, C.C.A., and E. H. D. Hall, Peterborough.

The case of Hatton vs. Bertram was first called. Mr. Moss for plaintiff; Mr. Lash for defendant.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Porter, who occupied the pulpit of the Baptist Church yesterday, was, while here, the guest of Mr. John McKee, druggist.

At St. Paul's Church yesterday nominations for elders took place. Thirteen names were proposed, and the elections take place next Sunday. The choir of this church is one of the finest in town. The singing yesterday was unusually good.

Personal.

Justice Proudfoot, Miss Proudfoot, Chas. Moss, Q.C., and Z. A. Lash, Q.C., of Toronto, are at the Oriental.

Mr. D. A. Moore has suffered a relapse and is very low.

Fell in a Fit.

Yesterday forenoon while on his way to St. Andrew's Church, Mr. Wright, of Ashburnham, fell to the sidewalk in a fit. The unfortunate gentleman was at once driven home and placed under proper medical treatment.

To-Morrow's Race.

The race between Messrs. Robson and Elliott on the P. A. A. A. track to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock promises to be fully as exciting as was the one a week ago. Mr. Robson has quite recovered from his accident, and like Mr. Elliott is in good form. The purse is $100 a side.

Not Committed.

An item appeared in Saturday's EXAMINER stating that Mr. Jas. Dunn had been committed to goal for non-payment of Scott Act fines is somewhat misleading. Though such was the judgment of the court and the committment papers were made out, they were not executed, and it is understood the fine will yet be paid.

"By Medicines life may be prolonged,
Yet death will relax the doctor, too."

True, all must die, yet few must suffer while they live. Stop pain and prolong life by taking Dr. Pierce's "Golden Vegetable Discovery," a cure for consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs) as well as for coughs, colds, bronchitis, catarrh, and a specific in liver complaints, scrotula and all blood and skin diseases. Sold everywhere. dw45

A Free Fight.

Saturday night, George street near the Methodist Church was the scene of a pitched battle between a number of young men, who took this means of settling a quarrel which had originated in a pool room, a short time previously. Each side numbered about a dozen, and after pounding each other for a few minutes without deriving any gory satisfaction, through fear of interruption, they adjourned to Water street, where the melee was continued. Patched noses and damaged eyes are numerous among the pugilists who took part in the pitched battle.

Little Lake Cemetery.

The Improvements Now in Progress—Description of the Various Additions Contemplated.

The extension and improvement of Little Lake Cemetery this season has been completed so far as the work of man can accomplish it, with the exception of the planting of trees and shrubs, which it is thought had still to do this season. As intimated in a previous issue, the extension comprises six acres of land directly west of the old boundary fence. Along the line of this fence a neatly framed terrace has been placed, intended for the purpose of private vaults. The tangled thicket of underbrush that grew inside the fence has been cleared and levelled, and on the space thus reclaimed there are 116 new burial lots. The new portion contains 1,400 new burial lots. The latter is inclosed on the front and south sides by a long stretch of neat iron paling. The entrance gate admits to a broad drive which terminates at the site of the old gates in a turning place. From this point two drives radiate; the one passes directly south and forms the dividing line between the old and new portions. The other by an easy curve doubles to the middle of the new portion, extending its whole length southward and passing along the southern end, and will another season be continued, sweeping under the lane of the declivity facing the south-eastern portion of the old cemetery enclosure. The drive skirting this declivity above has been extended into the new portion, where it joins a central drive leading from a gate at the foot of Weir street in the middle section of the western boundary. The general plan followed in laying out the new part consists of two broad terraced slopes, one from the old boundary to the middle drive of the new part and the other reaching from this to the western enclosure. Any one who recollects the appearance of this plot of ground in the rough, cannot but be surprised at Mr. Kelly's success in bringing it into its present beautiful condition. He has used excellent judgment in the adaptation of the means at his command to the end in view. He was assured that he would need to import a large quantity of soil to do his grading, but on the contrary, he has not got quite completed with the earth at his disposal, the entire grading, but has been able to so economize his stock as to place a boulevard along the southern and western sides of the cemetery outside the fence. The grading and levelling was completed in good time, the grass sown has taken good root, and before the closing summer is over it will be beautifully green. The whole of the new portion has been thoroughly under-drained by main and cross drains, while at proper points along the drives, surface traps have been placed, communicating with the drains, to carry off the surface water, thus preventing guttering of the drives. All that it was practicable or advisable to do this season has been done, and done with a good judgment, which has secured the maximum of good results with a minimum of expenditure, and the thanks of both the directors and public are due Mr. Kelly for the able manner in which he has accomplished the work. Not only has the new portion been attended to, but the cemetery proper has not been neglected. The standard of beauty and tidiness has been kept up, and if fine weather, as is probable, succeeds the present cold dip, visitors will find the entire cemetery as clean and neat as a residence lawn.

What Trees Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the several Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

Coal Miners Decide to Strike.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., Nov. 6.—Eight hundred miners employed at the Cameron colliery, the largest operation in the Shamokin Valley, have decided to strike on Monday next unless the Mineral Mining Company advance wages 10 per cent. The advance is improbable. Five hundred Excelsior miners are still on strike and the Luke Fiddler and Hickory Swamp miners will probably join them.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

The Ashton Estate Will Not Sustain.

QUEBEC, Nov. 6.—The Chronicle comes out to-day publishing what all the Liberal organs staying away the apparent opening about the attitude between the French and Lieutenant-Governor are fulsome, and that the Government will not resign, but will meet the Legislature. The Chronicle confirms this last statement.

A Seat for Quebec's Attorney-General.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—It was currently stated on the street this morning that Attorney-General Taillon was to give up the contestation of Mr. David's election in Montreal East and enter the field in Montcalm, where Mr. Richard, who was elected over Mr. Lafortune, Nationalist, by a majority of over 400, would retire in his behalf.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—A petition for an order winding up the affairs of the Briton Medical Life Assurance Company was granted to-day. Judgment was reserved on that part of the petition asking that a general meeting of the creditors be called to appoint liquidators.

Trouble Among B. C. Indians.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6.—A despatch from Victoria, B. C., announces that troubles among the Indians have again broken out this season at Metlakahtla. The troubles are chiefly due to the quarrels between Roman Catholic and Episcopalian missionaries, who have been keeping their respective followers embroiled, each wanting to run the reserve. As serious consequences are apprehended the Government has appointed a commission to settle the affair.

The Yield in the Corn Belt.

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—The more complete returns from the corn belt confirm the earlier reports of averages of yield, as disclosed by huskings and confirm the predictions made early in the year, that the total yield would fall considerably under that of 1895. The general average number of bushels to the acre reported is from 25 to 32.

A KING'S CRUEL DEATH.

The Story Partly Told by the Agonized Features of an Egyptian Mummy.

(Amelia B. Edwards in Harper's.)

A new light has been cast upon one of the obscurest passages of ancient Egyptian history by the unbandaging of the mummy of King Sekenenra Ta-aken, on June 9 last, at the Boulak Museum. As we have seen, Sekenenra, the Theban hero of the legendary romance contained in the first Sallier Papyrus, placed himself at the head of the national army against the Hyksos tyranny, and began that famous war of independence which ended some generations later in the total rout and expulsion of the foreign invaders. Till the other day we knew not that the popular leader fell on the field of battle. This, however, is evident from the condition of the mummy, which has no less than four wounds on the head and face, i. e., a wide gash down the left cheek, which laid it open and clove the jaw; a circular hole in the right temple, probably from a lance or dagger point; a slanting cut over the left eye; and a terrific skull wound, evidently inflicted with a hatchet. Of these, Professor Maspero remarks in his report that "Ta-aken, first struck upon the jaw, fell stunned, whereupon his enemies precipitated themselves upon him, and despatched him where he lay." He also observes that "the Egyptians must have been victorious in the combat which took place over the body of their chief, since they succeeded in rescuing it and bearing it off the field." The battle, we may assume, took place somewhere in Lower Egypt; but the King's corpse, hastily embalmed the day after the battle, was conveyed to Thebes, and there received the rights of sepulture. The face of the mummy wears an expression of intense agony. The features are contorted, the mouth is drawn into a circle, the tongue projects, and is bitten partly through by the teeth. As it was in death, so it is now; and the embalmers, when they prepared it, made no effort to restore the stiffened features to a less painful expression, or to release the bitten tongue from the grip of the teeth.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, wrapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLELL, Dorset Street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church. wd

AGAINST BEET ROOT BOUNTY.

The Council of Jamaica Pass a Significant Resolution.

PANAMA, Nov. 8.—Advices from Jamaica say: The decay of this colony, which was once called "the brightest jewel in the British crown," may be gathered from the following figures, which show how the great staple of the country (sugar) has declined in cultivation: Number of estates—in 1832, 653; 1847, 513; 1879, 216; and in 1884, 189. In reference to the decline and the general depression prevailing, Hon. Michael Solomon, a prominent member of the Legislative Council and a large landed proprietor, proposed the following resolution:

That the Legislative Council of Jamaica, assured that the continuation of bounties given by foreign Governments to producers of the best root sugar industry, must before long prove ruinous to the cane sugar industry of the West Indies and of a very large number of inhabitants of this island, the Council trusts His Excellency the Governor will in view of the proposed conference on the bounty question, bring these facts to the notice of Her Majesty's Government and solicit that if such bounties are not shortly discontinued this island be permitted to make arrangements with the United States of North America or with the sister colony of Canada on a basis of reciprocity, in order that our sugar products, now so seriously affected by the bounty system in the English market, may find a favorable outlet nearer home.

The resolution was carried unanimously, but His Excellency remarked that there was very little chance of its having any practical effect.

TRADE IN THE UNITED STATES.

A Check to the Movement of General Merchandise—The Bank Clearings.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's record a more widespread check to the movement of general merchandise than heretofore noted, due in almost all instances to the combined influence of the election and a continuation of the unseasonable warm weather. The only exceptions are at Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Joseph, where no special change is announced. Mercantile collections are easier at St. Louis and fair at Burlington, Iowa, and at St. Joseph. At New Orleans they are more difficult to make than previously, at Kansas City they are falling off, and at Cincinnati and Peoria they are notably slow. The dry goods trade appear to feel the halt in buying as much as any one line, and the sales at Boston are less than for several preceding weeks. Prices are held steady, and on some brands of cottons are higher. Raw wool is quiet in all markets. There is an outlook for increased activity, and prices are generally well held, though soft in spots. Fine, fine medium and territory wools are noticeably weaker.

The increase of $127,000,000 in the total bank clearings at thirty cities this week, in the face of the interruption on the 2d inst. and of the further check to business noted, must be considered in contrast with the decline of $155,000,000 last week and in the light of the probable total of the clearings a week hence. The total of the week's clearings is $1,051,790,-982, against $924,719,110 last week, and $1,100,418,589 in the first week of November, 1885.

There is no likelihood of a near advance in eastern pig-iron prices, although the demand warrants it. Rails are very firm. The Lackawanna Company has contracted 30,000 tons for 1887 delivery. American rail mills have already contracted for next year equal to one-quarter of their capacity. Wheat hangs heavy, with no speculative leaders, under the influence of the heaviest actual visible supplies on record, including 22,000,000 bushels of spring wheat in out of farmers' hands and not counted in official reports. European buying, too, is conducted so as to stimulate prices as little as possible.

The failures in the United States reported to Bradstreet's this week number 213, against 216 last week, 156 in the like week of 1885, 168 in 1884, 219 in 1883 and 154 in 1882. It will be noted that the weekly totals have been increasing against 1885 for several weeks past. Canada had 20 this week against 10 last and 24 last year.

LIFE IN GEORGIA.

A Horrible Contribution to the List of Crimes—Blacks versus Whites.

SHELLMAN, GA. Nov. 6.—George Oliver, one of the best citizens of the place, is postmaster, express agent and telegraph operator, in which he is assisted by his son Joe, a young man just attaining manhood. Yesterday a young negro girl named Frances Coleman went to the depot to look after a box. While there she took offence at something, and returning home reported the matter to her two brothers. Arming themselves this morning with sticks and knives they repaired to the depot and set upon Joe Oliver suddenly, plunging a knife into his throat. The negroes then fled, but were pursued by Jesse Oliver and his brother, father and uncle of the unfortunate lad. When the negroes arrived at home their mother ran out with a musket, which she handed to one of her sons telling him to shoot. He did, and Jesse Oliver fell from his horse shot through the arm. One of the negroes was killed by the Olivers and the other fled and is being hunted. A third negro man, the girl and the mother were arrested. It is thought Joe Oliver will die, and Jesse Oliver is dangerously hurt.

No Disturbances at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—The Chicago packers have declared war upon all labor organizations, and this afternoon signed a resolution declaring that hereafter none of them would employ any man connected with any labor organization. No disturbances have occurred during the day, and there are no grounds for fears of any during the night.

LONG LIVE BULGARIA.

THE REPLY OF THE SOBRANJE TO THE REGENTS.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 8.—The reply of the Sobranje to the speech of the Regents declares that the Deputies fully recognize the superhuman efforts the Government are required to make to maintain law and peace, and are confident that the same abnegation will be continued until the throne is refilled. It also says the Deputies are mindful that their duty is to elect a prince to succeed Alexander. The address does not refer to M. Karaveloff. It concludes with: "Long live free and independent Bulgaria."

It is expected that the Sobranje will elect a Prince to-morrow.

In regard to the Russian gun boats at Bourgas, the Russian Consul there informed the prefect that a gun boat was required to carry communications to and from Russia, as the telegraph wires were broken.

Kaulbars Will Not Struggle.

SOFIA, Nov. 8.—Gen. Kaulbars has refused to communicate to Russia the note of the Bulgarian Government asking the powers to name a candidate to the throne, because Bulgaria knows that Russia has declared the decisions of the Sobranje to be illegal. The election of a prince will only occupy one sitting of the Sobranje.

Notes.

Gen. Kaulbars has sent to the Russian consuls in Bulgaria for circulation among the people the formal thanks of the Czar for the reception accorded to the Russian envoy.

M. Nelidoff, Russian ambassador at Constantinople has opened negotiations with the Porte regarding the election of a Prince of Bulgaria.

THE RIGHT OF SPEECH.

The Socialists Will Claim It in Trafalgar Square To-day.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The leaders of the Socialists announce to-day that they have finally concluded to abandon the idea of holding a meeting in Trafalgar Square to-morrow. Probably they will try to form a procession and march to Hyde Park. The police will watch the route west of the park and will prevent the Socialists from gathering.

The Windsor Life Guards have been ordered to London to assist at the Lord Mayor's show. The Democratic Federation has written again to Lord Salisbury, saying the support of the clergy attests the depth of the distress among the working classes, and appealing to him to receive a deputation and also to veto Sir Charles Warren's prohibition of the proposed meeting in Trafalgar Square.

The Board of Works has ordered that all public works in course of construction be barricaded in order to prevent the using of bricks. Sir Charles Warren has requested the local authorities to keep the streets free from everything that can be used as a missile. The West End shops are being barricaded. The Socialists have decided to send two members to Trafalgar Square to claim the right of speech. If the two men are arrested no meeting will be held.

A French Bluff.

PARIS, Nov. 8.—The Republique Francaise says that in the interest of cordial relations between France and England, M. Waddington, French ambassador to England, has conveyed to Lord Salisbury the opinion of France that England would be well advised if she would take the initiative and fix a date for the evacuation of Egypt. Before M. Waddington was instructed to act thus, M. De Freycinet sounded the cabinets of Europe for their views on his proposed course. Turkey and Russia in response cordially endorsed France's plan Germany and Austria maintained a reserve, while Italy answered unfavorably.

Harvard's 250th Anniversary.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The observance of the 250th anniversary of Harvard College was continued to-day. President Cleveland arrived in the city this morning and was given a public ovation, although it was barely daybreak. Governor Robinson addressed a hearty welcome to the President on behalf of the State and the President replied briefly. The presidential party arrived at Harvard a few minutes after 10 a.m., when Jared Sparks Lowell delivered the oration. At the close of Mr. Lowell's address the chorus rendered Beethoven's "The Heavens Proclaim Him." The poem of the day was read by Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" was then sung by the chorus. A number of honorary degrees were conferred by President Eliot, the exercises closing with the benediction by Rev. Dr. Peabody. The members of the Alumni Association and invited guests then adjourned to the Memorial Hall for the banquet.

Navigation Disasters in November.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 8.—David Vance & Co. have received a despatch from the master of the schooner David Vance dated Sault Ste. Marie, stating that the propeller Bessemer has probably been lost with all on board. The Vance was in tow of the propeller when they met a heavy storm on Lake Superior. The schooner by good management succeeded in weathering it and reaching the Sault minus her canvas. The barge Ironton is reported sunk.

How They Do Things in Montana.

FORT KEOGH, Mont., Nov. 8.—On Birch Creek, 18 miles north of Dillon, on the 3rd inst., two men named Meson and Axe had a quarrel in which the latter was killed. A lad named Schenck in Axe's employ stole up behind Meson with a shotgun placing the muzzle against the back of Meson's head Schenck fired, killing him instantly.

The Generous Firm of Guiness.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Guiness firm, on the formation of their new company, will give the clerks and managers in their employ three months' salary as bonus and the workmen one month's salary.

A Sick Kaiser and Prince.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Emperor William has a slight cold and is in consequence compelled to forego the proposed hunt. The malady of Prince William of Prussia increases alarmingly.

A Majority of Six.

CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Congressman Frank Lawler, Democrat, was re-elected in the Second Illinois District. He has just six votes more than his opponent.

The Manhattan All Right.

GREENPORT, L.I., Nov. 8.—The cutter Manhattan arrived here yesterday afternoon, and will leave to-day on a cruise. The captain and crew are well.

A Family Murdered.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 8.—A dastardly attempt was made to assassinate William Carr and family of Union county, Wednesday. Carr and his son were unloading corn at the barn, and a daughter, nine years old, was on top of the wagon, when they were surprised by a volley of shot from a thicket. Each of the three received a portion of two loads of buckshot, and it is thought all were fatally injured. Carr cannot recover. Tom Berry, a distant relative of the Carr's has been arrested and made a confession. It is feared he will be lynched.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS.

Two pugilist Battles—Result of the Archer Accident.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 8.—Tommy Warren of Louisville, and Fatsy O'Leary of Cincinnati, fought twelve rounds near Muldraugh Hill, Meade County, Ky., this afternoon for the featherweight championship and $1000 a side, with kid gloves. The fight was awarded to Warren on a foul allowed by O'Leary leaving the ring in the twelfth round.

A special with over 2000 people left the city early this morning paying $5 a head to witness the fight. Representatives from Cincinnati, Chicago, and the east, numbering fully 500 were present and took part in the betting which was one sided in favor of Warren. The morning was spent in expectation over a rumor, "Chirk" Cawthorn, of Louisville, was finally chosen.

At 2 p.m. the men, both in fine condition at 118 lbs. each, stepped into the ring. O'Leary forced the fighting, tapping Warren once or twice lightly. The second round was spent sparring; no blows were struck. Odds of two to one on Warren found no takers. In the third round O'Leary led several times for Warren's face and they clinched several times, Warren sparring for an opening. In the fourth round O'Leary hit Warren in the mouth scoring first blood. Warren countering heavily on his cheek and a moment later he got in a heavy one on O'Leary's neck. Both clinched and fought at short range when time was called. The fifth round opened with heavy slugging in the face on both sides. They clinched and Warren choked O'Leary, but no foul was allowed. In the sixth round Warren forced the fighting from the start and punished O'Leary terribly in the mouth. He had the best of it and O'Leary's face was covered with blood. The seventh round was a lively one. Warren led off, striking O'Leary in the face and receiving a counter on the body. O'Leary then made a rush and forced Warren around the ring. When time was called Warren struck him in the face and a foul was claimed. Warren did not hear the time called and the foul was not allowed. There was much excitement but the fight went on and the eighth round opened with heavy fighting on the face by both clinched. Warren got in a good one on the mouth and received a heavy counter on the throat. In the ninth, tenth and eleventh rounds no material points were scored by either, the time being occupied in sparring. In the twelfth and last round after sparring cautiously both men made a rush and clinched. They were ordered to break away, and as they did so Warren struck O'Leary a heavy, swinging blow with his right on the left jaw. A foul was claimed by O'Leary's backers, and he passed under the rope and out of the ring. The referee did not allow the foul and O'Leary was brought back.

The referee consumed fifteen minutes in reading the rules, and decided that O'Leary had committed a foul in leaving the ring, and awarded the fight to Warren. Neither of the men showed much punishment. Warren's lip is cut, and O'Leary's face and mouth show light punishment. There is much dissatisfaction over the result.

Kilrain and Hearid at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—Fully 2500 people braved the cold to-day and journeyed five miles to see Jack Kilrain and Frank Hearid spar for scientific points at Herring Run race track. The 24-foot ring was pitched directly in front of the judges stand, and at about 4.30 the principals and their attendants were present. Wm. E. Harding was referee. The two pugilists were in splendid form, Hearid weighing at 176 and Kilrain at 178 pounds. The sun was nearly down when the pugilists appeared and a brisk north-west wind made standing on bare ground very unpleasant. When time was called Kilrain at once began to work on the offensive, and after a few minutes' sparing got in three wicked blows on his opponent's face in rapid succession, each bringing blood. Hearid made one of his furious rushes but Kilrain dodged him cleverly and they clinched, but in breaking away Kilrain by a quick movement landed Hearid square on his back in a corner where he lay bleeding from the mouth and nose and panting heavily. The police rushed through the ropes and stopped the fight. Kilrain was not touched while Hearid received a cut on his upper lip and another on his nose. There is talk of the fight being finished with bare knuckles to-night and it may be that a neighboring city will be selected and a quiet mill indulged in early to-morrow.

Death of the Great Jockey Archer.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—Fred Archer, the famous jockey, is dead. Archer's death was the result of a pistol shot inflicted by himself while in a delirium resulting from fever. The first symptoms of the disease appeared on Thursday after he had been present at the Lewes races. When it became evident his illness was likely to be serious he was taken to his sister's house at Newmarket. He rapidly grew worse and had been in a raging fever since yesterday morning. He was left alone for a few minutes and his attendant shortly after leaving the sick room heard two pistol shots. He hurried back and found Archer dying, having shot himself with a revolver.

Archer's record of wins for the last six years, not counting this year, were: 1880, 171 wins; 1881, 259; 1882, 210; 1883, 246; 1884, 241; 1885, 220. He also heads the list for this year, although Wood pushed him close. It is estimated that his professional income from riding was from $75,000 to $100,000 a year.

The son of a horse-trainer, Archer was born at Cheltenham, Gloucester, Eng., in 1857. He was undoubtedly the greatest jockey in the world. He had headed the list of winning jockeys for the last ten years. His greatest win was on Bend 'Or when he defeated Robert the Devil for the Derby in 1880, beating him a head on the post. The first big event he won was the two thousand at Newmarket on Lord Falmouth's ch. c. Atlantic in 1874. His principal patrons were the Duke of Westminster, Lord Falmouth, Earl Rosbery and Mrs. Manton (Duchess of Montrose). Archer married a daughter of Miss Dawson, a celebrated English trainer; she died three years ago, and the jockey had never been himself since. His trip to America in the fall of 1884 was to divert his mind from this sad bereavement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Annie Rodway was shot and fatally injured in Central Park to-night by her husband, a Spaniard, who was arrested.

Measles Among Northwest Indians.

From the Edmonton Bulletin.

It is reported that measles are making serious ravages in the Lac la Biche settlement. A number of grown people, chiefly women, have died as well as children. The sickness being in every house, the fishery which is now commencing cannot be attended to and great destitution will certainly result this winter. The disease is not quite so bad at Whitefish Lake and Victoria, but is bad enough even there.

WHY THEY HATE HIM.

It is well known that Sir John Macdonald has a lively dislike for Hon. Mr. Mowat, exercised largely on the same principle as those "whose deeds are evil, love darkness." The Globe gives the following detailed reasons for this amiable feeling as shared by Sir John with his organ, the Mail, which, in spite of his sham repudiation at London, is still taken to the Chieftain's heart and confidence:

One of those who called upon Sir John Macdonald during his recent visit to Toronto and who was closeted with him for some time was Mr. Bunting, manager of the Mail.

They talked of the approaching elections. They talked of the best means of recovering some of the strength which they have lost in Ontario.

One of the things they agreed upon as desirable was to break down Mr. Mowat, or at least to reduce his strength, no matter how much of misrepresentation and falsehood, no matter what appeals to sectarian prejudices and animosities and to race antipathies, might be necessary for that purpose.

Both these men hate Mr. Mowat with an intense and bitter hatred.

He has thwarted the designs of both, by his straightforward, honorable policy, by his strict adherence to principle, by the even-handed justice with which he treats all sections and classes of the people of Ontario. By his tact, by his legal knowledge and great ability, he has prevented Sir John Macdonald from getting Ontario under his control. He has maintained the rights of the Province, the independence of the Province, the territory and the property of the Province, against Sir John Macdonald's repeated attacks.

By holding Ontario for the Liberal majority he has prevented the realization of Mr. Bunting's ambitious aspirations.

Both the men hate him. Both conspired for his overthrow at the last general elections. The means they employed resembled those they are employing now. They failed.

They conspired to overthrow him by purchasing the votes of members of the Legislature. The money was sent from Ottawa. So were the instructions for the guidance of the chief's agents and accomplices. What part Mr. Bunting played in that affair we all know.

The exposure, the arrest, the trial, the narrow escape by means of unfair charge from the Bench, all intensified his hate of the man who has been the chief obstacle to the success of his ambitious designs.

Sir John hates him as much. He hates him for his success in the Escheats case, in the Boundary case, in the License case, in the Stream Bill case, in the St. Catharines Milling Company's case.

He hates him for his honesty.

He hates him for his success.

He hates him because to his designs against the rights and liberties of the people he is so great an obstacle.

Hating Mr. Mowat they conspired once more to compass his destruction.

We shall soon learn from the Mail what means they agreed to use.

They will fail no matter what they use.

The people of Ontario cannot be persuaded that the cause of religion, prohibition, or patriotism would be served by expelling Mr. Mowat and his colleagues from power and and putting the control of Ontario, it laws, its lands and its revenues in the hands of Sir John Macdonald acting through Mr. Bunting and Mr. Meredith.

"By what right, asks the Monetary Times, does the farmer, who owes money to the country merchant, hold on to his grain, which is his principal asset, hoping it will rise, instead of selling it at once, and paying his debts? If a shop-keeper should refuse market figures for his goods, keeping them on his shelves till prices came up to his speculative notion, he would be promptly sued by his unpaid creditors. Why should not the farmer be sued who acts an equally foolish part?" And why, it may be asked, would not an action for damages lie against Sir John, who promised that the N. P. would raise the prices of the farmers' produce?

HON. MR. GLADSTONE has shown another peculiarity, grave enough to call down Conservative denunciation—he has refused a testimonial, holding that no public man has a right to trammel his liberty of action by receiving an obligation in such a manner. Sir John, with the milking of the Northern Railway fresh in his memory, and the memory of the bogus testimonial from the workingmen, to which no genuine workingman contributed, cannot sympathise with the sickly, sentimental abnegation that can decline a gift—or a contractor's contribution to the corruption fund.

CANADIAN butter in England has been somewhat under a cloud, but the Colonial Exhibition has seemed to bring it into promises. The Monetary Times says:—"In the eulogiums passed upon the samples of the Canadian butter at the Colonial Exhibition, we see rather a hope than a history. Canadian butter, till the creamery came into existence to guarantee its purity, was not always good; often quite the reverse. Creameries are new, and, so far, by far the few. They have justified their existence, wherever tried, and they have only to become general to add millions every year to the wealth of the country. May the day soon arrive when one will be found within the reach of every farmer."

Significant Words From an Archbishop.

LINCOLN, Neb. Nov. 6.—In a letter to John Fitzgerald, President of the Irish National Land League, acknowledging his subscription of nearly $2000 for St. Patrick's Church in Rome, Archbishop Walsh of Dublin makes the following significant allusion to the collapse of the pro English influence at the vatican:

"The Holy Father takes special personal interest in this work. You may rest assured then that your splendid contribution to it will attract his special attention. It will furnish him with another evidence of the truth which he has so fully realized that our Irish movement is very far indeed from being what our enemies a short time since so industriously labored to deceive him into believing it to be."

Seven thousand persons took part in the demonstration at Montana yesterday in memory of Garibaldi's battle of 1867. The speakers protested against the temporal power of the Pope and the pretensions of the clerical party.

Fire destroyed several valuable pictures in the cathedral at Gran, Hungary, and badly damaged the interior of the edifice, which is considered the most magnificent modern building in Hungary.

Two Mormon elders who were endeavoring to induce Sunday School and other girls around Eckville, Pa., to join the Mormons were covered with lime, horsewhipped and then compelled to run for their lives. A dozen women were entrapped by the specious promises made them.

James Bagg of Lindsay, engaged at O'Brien's Bridge cutting rock, put a can of dynamite before a fire to melt. The dynamite caught fire and blew Bagg thirty feet away, his left arm, thigh and leg being terribly burned and otherwise injured.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

9.—The Mother.

Mrs. Bellbridge eyed her husband, prepared for a furious outbreak of rage. He stood silent, staring stupidly straight before him. The shock that had fallen on his dull brain had stunned it. For the time he was a big Idiot; speechless, harmless, helpless.

She put back the rubbish, and replaced the plank, and picked up the chisel. "Come, James," she said, "pull yourself together." It was useless to speak to him. She took his arm, and led him out to the cab that was waiting at the door.

The driver, helping him to get in, noticed a piece of paper lying on the front seat. Advertisements, seeking publicity under all possible circumstances, are occasionally sent flying into the open windows of vehicles. The driver was about to throw the paper away, when Mrs. Bellbridge (seeing it on the other side) took it out of his hand. "It isn't print," she said; "it's writing." A closer examination showed that the writing was addressed to herself. Her correspondent must have followed her to the church, as well as to the house in St. John's Wood. He distinguished her by the name which she had changed that morning, under the sanction of the clergy and the law.

This is what she read: "Don't trouble yourself, madam, about the diamonds. You have made a mistake—you have employed the wrong man."

Those words—and no more. Enough, surely, to justify the conclusion that he had stolen the diamonds. Was it worth while to drive to his lodgings? They tried the experiment. The expert had gone away on business—nobody knew where.

The newspapers came as usual on Friday morning. To Mrs. Bellbridge's amazement it set the question of the theft at rest, on the highest authority. An article appeared, in a conspicuous position, thus expressed:

"Another of the many proofs that truth is stranger than fiction has just occurred at Liverpool. A highly respected firm of shipowners in that city received a strange letter at the beginning of the present week. Promising that he had some remarkable circumstances to communicate, the writer of the letter entered abruptly on the narrative which follows. A friend of his connected with literature had, it appeared, noticed a lady's visiting-card left on his desk, and had been reminded by it (in what way it was not necessary to explain) of a criminal case which had excited considerable public interest at the time, viz.; the trial of Capt. Westerhold for wilfully casting away a ship under his command. Never having heard of the trial, the writer, at his friend's suggestion, consulted a file of newspapers—discovered the report—and became aware for the first time that a collection of Brazilian diamonds, consigned to the Liverpool firm, was missing from the wrecked vessel when she had been boarded by the salvage party, and had not been found since. Events which it was impossible for him to mention, leading that doing so would involve a breach of confidence placed in him in his professional capacity) had revealed to his knowledge a hiding-place in which these same diamonds, in all probability, were concealed. This circumstance had left him no alternative, as an honest man, but to be beforehand with the persons who, as he believed, contemplated stealing the precious stones. He had accordingly taken them under his protection until they were identified and claimed by the rightful owners. In now appealing to these gentlemen he stipulated that the claim should be set forth in writing, addressed to him under initials at a postoffice in London. If the lost property was identified to his satisfaction he would meet—at a specified place, and on a certain day and hour—a person accredited by the firm, and would personally restore the diamonds, without claiming (or consenting to receive) a reward. The conditions being complied with, this remarkable interview took place; the writer of the letter, described as an infirm old man very poorly dressed, fulfilled his engagement, took his receipt, and walked away without even waiting to be thanked. It is only an act of justice to add that the diamonds were afterwards counted, and not one of them was missing."

Miserable, deservedly miserable, married pair! The stolen fortune, on which they had counted, had slipped through their fingers. The berths in the steamer for New York had been taken and paid for. James had married a woman with nothing beside herself to bestow on him, except an incumbrance in the shape of a boy.

Late on the fatal wedding day his first idea, when he was himself again after the discovery in the summer-house, was to get back his passage money, to abandon his wife and his step-son, and escape to America in a French steamer. He went to the office of the English company and offered the silence which he had taken for sale. The season of the year was against him; the passenger traffic to America was at its lowest ebb, and profits depended on freights alone. If he still contemplated deserting his wife he must also submit to sacrifice his money. The other alternative was (as he expressed it to himself) to "leave his grannyworth for his penny, and to burn his family to some good account in New York." He had not quite decided what to do when he got home again on the evening of his marriage.

At that critical moment in her life the bride was equal to the demand on her resources.

If she were foolish enough to allow James to act on his natural impulses there were probably two prospects before her. In one state of his temper he might knock her down. In another state of his temper he might leave her behind him. Her only hope of protecting herself, in either case, was to tame the bridegroom. In his absence she wisely armed herself with the most irresistible fascinations of her sex. Never yet had he seen her dressed as she was dressed when he came home. Never yet had her magnificent eyes looked at him as they looked now. Emotions for which he was not prepared overcame this much-injured man: he stared at the table in helpless surprise. That his diplomatic superior at Wurtemburg Court should be Bellbridge asked for. Bewildered by his own transformation, James found himself greeted the next morning ceremoniously, with his arm round his wife's waist.

By a refinement of cruelty, not one word had been said to prepare little Syd for the dreary change that was now about to befall in her young life. The poor child had seen the preparations for departure, and had tried to imitate her mother in packing up. She had collected her few morsels of darned and ragged clothing, and had gone up-stairs to put them in one of the dilapidated old trunks in the garret playground, when the servant was sent to bring her back to the parlor-room. There, enthroned in an easy chair, was a strange lady; and there, hiding behind the chair in the disguised dress of the visitor, was her little brother Roderick. Syd looked timidly at her mother; and her mother said: "Here is your aunt."

A Mystery Solved.

Daring the last three years eighteen switch girls in one telephone office have been married to subscribers on that line. The terrible buzzing on the wires may now be accounted for.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline. 6dw

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

Catarrh of Years' Standing Cured.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Surgeon, Toronto.

DEAR SIR.—I am pleased to be able to state to you that I am now free from Catarrh. It is almost incredible that in so short a time I could have been cured of Catarrh, which has afflicted me for years. A little over two months ago I took treatment from you, and to-day the Catarrh is entirely cured. Your treatment is simply a marvel. I will heartily recommend any of my friends pe sonally, and would suggest to all thus troubled the advisability of consulting you immediately. Accept my many thanks.

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-Rheum, Fever-sores, Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating cordial. Great Sores, Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in Tetter, Ring-Worm, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send 10 cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections. MENTION THIS PAPER.

Thousands speak it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, solid flesh, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly relieved and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stage of the disease is reached. From its wonderful power over the severest and fatal diseases, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, the proprietor thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, and pectoral, or healing, and nutritive properties, is unequalled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternating with hot flashes, low spirits or gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, coated tongue, you are suffering from Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, and Torpid Kidneys, or "Biliousness." In many cases only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Consumption, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Sold by Druggists.

A Generous Proposition.

Mr. Morris has received a letter from the secretary of the Kingston Rugby Football Club, stating their inability to accept Peterborough's challenge, unless the latter paid all their expenses in connection with the trip. What a generous offer! There will probably be no more football matches in Peterborough this season.

J. E. STRATTON.

The C. P. R. Booming.

Mr. Dunn, the obliging and competent C. P. R. station agent here, says business is booming on the Ontario branch of the C. P. R. Saturday night 300 cars of freight arrived at St. Thomas via the Michigan Central for distribution along the line. Since that date 23 cars of freight have been side-tracked at Peterborough. Mr. Dunn further says that Peterborough's railway business is increasing so rapidly that the freight accommodations are taxed to their uttermost.

Two Good Records.

Friday afternoon Messrs. L. Steele, Jas. Moore and George Scrimger, of Lakefield, and Messrs. Jas. K. Stabler, Stephen Boyes and Wm. Preston, of Smithtown, returned from a successful two weeks' hunting expedition near the head of Eagle Lake. They bagged 13 fine deer, one of which weighed 318 pounds. Mr. Steele, who is one of the best hunters in this country, did remarkably well on this occasion.

The Corporal's Guard.

A few members of the 57th Battalion having allowed their military ardor to become luke-warm and failed to attend drill with any degree of regularity, a sergeant threatened last evening that he would send a corporal's guard after them and have them confined in the guard house if they did not appear. Last night's drill is said to have been the best for a long while. So much for the influence of a "corp'ls guard."

Rev. Mr. Baxter at Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Baxter, who gave his views to a Peterborough audience recently as to the coming terrible wars and massacre of Christians, to be followed by the millenium, was in Toronto Sunday night and made a similar effort. A correspondent of the Toronto News claims to pick the rev. gentleman's arguments, based on Scriptural facts, into pieces and prove by Mr. Baxter's own Biblical quotations the fallacy of his statements. The writer heaps ridicule on Mr. Baxter's head.

"Nobody's Daughter."

A full house greeted the opening play of the weeks' engagement of the Tavernier Dramatic Campany at the Opera House last night. The performance gave every satisfaction, Ida Van Cortland as usual sustaining the leading role of "Jennie Milton," the girl of varied fortunes and dauntless spirit, with her accustomed vivacity and strength. Her singing is very nice indeed, and received deserved applause. Miss Alice Eadres made a most captivating "Jane." Mr. Albert Tavernier as "Black Milton," a low, murderous scoundrel, and Chas. Kidder as "Victor Carrington," the cool, crafty, designing villain, were good. Mr. I. A. Washburne made an excellent detective. The other members of the company were fully up to the standard, particularly Mr. M. F. Drew as "Damon Wayman," the honest companion of "Black Milton." His character song was encored. To-night will be presented "Queena," a play which few citizens of Peterborough have ever seen. At the Saturday performances the prizes which have been mentioned will be given to the persons holding the lucky numbers. Numbered tickets are given at every performance during the week. Keep these tickets until you know the result of the drawing, which is to take place on the stage Saturday afternoon and night by a committee of gold citizens. Admission prices, 10 and 20 cents.

The Burned Factory.

A meeting of a number of Hope farmers was held Saturday afternoon to discuss the question of inducement to Mr. James Dyer to rebuild his woollen factory at Garden Hill. In accordance with a requisition the Reeve has called a public meeting of the ratepayers of the township with reference to the matter, to be held at Canton, on Monday, 15th inst, at two o'clock.—Times.

A Chance for Bargains.

Mr. E. B. Stone, barrister, having decided to break up house-keeping, and his household goods will be sold by auction, at his late residence, corner of Brock and Rubidge streets, by Mr. Charles Stapleton, on Monday, Nov. 15th. The goods are all in good condition, nearly new, and consist of drawing and dining room suites in walnut, brussels and tapestry carpets, etc., etc. Sale at 12 o'clock.

The Vocal Society.

A meeting of the committee of the Vocal Society appointed to draft by-laws, etc., held a meeting last night. The committee is composed of the Misses Dennistoun, Cox, Mercer, Errett, Hurley and Wells, and Messrs. Davis, Budden, Henderson, Alex. Bell and Manning. This evening a general meeting will be held in the rooms over China Hall for the election of officers and transaction of other important business. A full attendance is requested. All persons wishing to become members of the Society are invited to attend.

Agents Wanted.

If you want to make money, write to them at once for an outfit, and to secure what territory you can handle. 9d110

General Middleton.

Colonel Rogers, at the drill of the 57th Battalion last night, announced that General Middleton would positively be in Peterborough on the 24th inst., for the inspection of the men and accoutrements of the battalion. He urged the volunteers one and all to drill persistently and earnestly, so as to present a fine military appearance on that date. Every member of the battalion, officers and men alike, is determined to bring the corps' proficiency in drill up to the highest standard by the 24th. It is also expected the Brown memorial drinking fountain will be unveiled on the occasion of the General's visit by the veteran hero himself. The bronze fittings of the fountain have arrived, and it is expected the memorial will be completed and ready for the operation of unveiling by the 24th.

In Memoriam.

The North Hastings (Madoc) Review contains the following personal reference:—

"Mr. James Dolan took his final departure from Madoc on Tuesday for Peterborough. A void has been noticeable in the community since he left, which can never be filled by any other. No one in our little village could be more missed—except, perhaps, the tax collector or the town council. He was the life and soul of a jolly circle, who have been wearing mourning on their countenances ever since. Come back, Jim, some time or other, and see the boys.

[NOTE.—A private telegram from Peterborough announces the safe arrival in that town of a gentleman from Madoc, known to his friends by the name of "Mull," or Tom Borrowcloane. He was minus overcoat, hat and baggage. An overcoat was found hanging on a lamp post in Madoc yesterday, but no trace of the missing hat or baggage can be found here.]"

Sweet Sixteen on a Tear.

Yesterday forenoon Chief Cooper was applied to for assistance by a respectable and well-known lady living in town, whose sixteen year-old daughter had that morning, in company with another older girl of doubtful godgment left her home without her parents' consent. It having become known that the flitting girls had boarded the Port Hope train, the police there were telephoned, with the result that the runaways were both captured. Having orders only to detain the younger girl, the other one was allowed to go. She boarded the Norseman for Rochester, the intended destination of the pair, who were evidently fascinated by the glittering allurements to which they were hurrying. The anguished mother was overjoyed on learning that her daughter was safe, and took the noon train for Port Hope, returning in the evening with her erring and repentant child. Out of respect to the parents of the girl, names are withheld.

An Outspoken Acknowledgement.

Mr. E. H. Gough, the Wonderful Cheap Man, has received the following letter, which tells its own story:—

MR. E. H. GOUGH,

DEAR SIR,—I write this to tell you how much I am pleased with the handsome $12 overcoat which I got from your store as the prize for furnishing the biggest pumpkin of 1886. I think the $12 overcoat superior in cloth and make to any $18 overcoat I ever bought. I wish to return you my thanks for the prompt, honorable and square way you carried out your agreement in respect to awarding this prize. I am not surprised, for you have won the reputation of always carrying out what you advertise, and I am sure this last instance, as well as others well known to the public, will tend to increase public confidence in you and your establishment. Square dealing, honest recommendations, and a faithful fulfilment of promises must bring success. Wishing you every success and hoping that you may long continue to worthily wear the title of the "Wonderful Cheap Man," I remain

Yours truly,
N. McILMOYL,

This morning while Mr. W. H. Dayman, of the Canada Life Assurance office, was engaged splitting wood at his house, he made a mis-stroke and struck the inside of his left foot, the axe inflicting a wound as long as the width of the blade. He will be confined to the house for some days.

On the List.

It is rumored that some of the persons who were most active in promoting the recent Mikado entertainment are themselves "on the list," and that legal proceedings are threatened for infringement of the copyright. It is also said that summonses have been issued. If the alleged case comes to trial, the parties concerned will hardly regard it as "a source of innocent merriment."

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 25c. per yard.

An Exutable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 25c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK.—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 20 per cent higher.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we are getting on our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. Lots offering good building sites, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or purchasing to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not simply built to sell. Every house I've sold stands first class in distinction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1886.

AUSTRIA'S EMPEROR.

A ST. PETERSBURG PAPER SMEARS HIM WITH TAFFY.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 9.—The Journal de St. Petersbourg says: "The pacific speech of Emperor Francis Joseph, on the Bulgarian situation, is reassuring. It corresponds with Russia's moderate action and makes the proper parties responsible. It is the best reply to the pretext of constitutional legality behind which the Bulgarian dictators have taken shelter. There is reason to hope that the co-operation of the powers which Francis Joseph alluded to will be exerted in support of Russia's patient and resolute efforts to remove the revolutionary elements which have been opposing the restoration of legal order in Bulgaria.

A Russian Ruling Suspected.

SOFIA, Nov. 9.—Russian partisans at Slevna, headed by recently liberated officers, made an attempt to incite a rising to-day. The authorities, who had been previously warned, suppressed the attempt and arrested the plotters.

A Threat From Kaulbars.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 9.—Gen. Kaulbars threatens to occupy the telegraph office at Bourgas unless communication with Russia is restored.

A GLOOMY VIEW.

Royal Commissioner O'Connor's Report on Great Britain's Industries.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Arthur O'Connor, Parnellite member of Parliament for East Donegal, and one of the Royal Commissioners to report on the prevailing depression of trade in Great Britain, has written out his views on the subject. He says the amount paid for the use of land in the agricultural and industrial centres of the kingdom forms a constantly increasing burden on the industries of the country. The mining royalties also are excessive. The farmer gives more quarters of the wheat, the manufacturer more nails, the miner more tons of coal or iron, in the discharge of legal obligations than were contemplated by either letter of lease in the contracts made by them. Mr. O'Connor attributes the depression in trade to these causes. He quotes Caird to show that meat, cheese and butter, like wheat, will be brought from America at lessening prices in consequence of the strained conditions of British industries, and he takes a gloomy view of the prospects of the farmers whose capital and stock are gradually diminishing to meet the excessive demands made on them over and above their producing capacity.

BELGIAN WOMEN IN BLACK.

They Petition the Parliament to Pardon the Labor Rioters.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 9.—King Leopold, in his speech opening the session of the Belgian Parliament to-day, said that Belgium's foreign relations were excellent. The extension of commerce was urged. The riots at Liege and Charleroi were alluded to with regret. The speech held out the promise of extensive amnesty for the prisoners convicted of participating in the riots. The financial condition of the country was described as prosperous, and the introduction of a bill for the promotion of higher education was promised.

One thousand women dressed in black arrived here to-day in a body from Charleroi to petition for an amnesty to the men convicted of participation in the labor riots of last March. The women had arranged to walk in procession from the railway station to the legislative chambers. The Burgomaster however refused to permit this but allowed the delegates to present their petition at the City Hall. The women were greeted at the railway station by a great crowd.

He Continues to Fast.

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Stefani Merlati continues his fast, but he suffers from chronic headaches. His face is hollow and ghastly pale, and the bones seem to be almost piercing the skin. He is as sanguine as ever of accomplishing his task and declares he can complete it. The Medical Committee, although they have decided that he is not in immediate danger, are extremely dubious about the result. The official bulletin states that his pulse is irregular, recording on an average about sixty-two. His strength has fallen from 143 on Sunday to 90 on Monday.

A Dublin Castle Circular.

DUBLIN, Nov. 9.—The Irish Government has issued a circular from Dublin Castle denying that Gen. Buller personally examines cases of dispute between landlord and tenant before granting police protection when asked for it. The circular says he may listen to both sides in agrarian disputes for the purpose of obtaining private information, but declares that this is never done by him with a view either of granting or withholding police protection. Kerry is described as being in the quietest possible condition.

A Wiggins in the West.

BURLINGTON, Iowa, Nov. 9.—Prof. Foster, the meteorologist, will publish to-morrow his prediction of a great storm period extending from Dec. 4 to 17, during which will occur some of the most destructive storms of recent years. These storms will be much of the same nature as the great blizzards of last January. Heavy snow and high winds will greatly impede railway travel and he advises the railways to prepare for blockades that will occur in the Western States about December 5 and reach the Eastern States December 9.

SALISBURY'S SPEECH.

STRONG DENUNCIATION OF PRINCE ALEXANDER'S DETHRONEMENT.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Salisbury, speaking at the Lord Mayor's banquet to-night, said the Conservatives occupied a position on Irish affairs which it was impossible to misinterpret. Their business was to legislate in favor of the integrity of the Empire and to enforce laws which had long been neglected and trodden under foot. He believed the Conservatives could claim that public confidence was somewhat restored and that the relations between landlord and tenant were better than formerly.

Foreign affairs, he continued, were at present of high importance, the affairs of Egypt being of special interest. The stay of the English in Egypt had been upheld by politicians of all parties as one of limited duration. That time was not a time limit, but a limit of work which England was pledged to accomplish by delight as distinct and as often proclaimed that she could not retreat. The English could not leave Egypt until that country was secure from foreign oppression and until order had been restored in domestic affairs. The Government was encouraged in this task by growing proofs of advancing prosperity in Egypt. Her finances were more promising than they had ever been, although they had not reached a point that would enable the Government to declare its task fulfilled. Further, England could not leave Egypt until the latter's independence of foreign interference had been secured.

Referring to Bulgaria, Lord Salisbury said the sympathies of the English people were aroused by the spectacle of her struggles for independence and that the language of diplomatic menace used toward Bulgaria by a European state has caused the deepest regret. A midnight conspiracy led by men debauched by foreign gold had hunted Prince Alexander from the throne of Bulgaria and outraged the sentiment of Europe. The injustice of this deed was aggravated by foreign diplomacy saving the conspirators, an act of interference which caused earnest reprobation throughout Europe. Bulgarian rights were assured by the Berlin Treaty, on which the salvation of Europe depended. English interest in that treaty was not an isolated interest; other powers also were interested in the vindication of the treaty. He was sure that if a majority of the signatory powers recognized the fact that it was their duty to enforce the treaty, England would not be backward in co-operating with them. [Cheers.] If England's individual interest only were affected, England would ask no counsel and seek no assistance, but would defend her interests with her own arm. But in this instance she would not accept the responsibility of isolated action. The Government's policy was shaped in harmony with that of Austria. He trusted that the peace would not be disturbed and that under the influence of public opinion the infant liberties of Bulgaria would not be impaired.

Lord Salisbury, is proposing the toast in honor of the Lord Mayor, said he believed the municipal institutions would last as long as other British institutions. He congratulated the Lord Mayor upon his being the dispenser of the city's help to relieve the distress of the poor, whose prospects he hoped the reviving trade would brighten.

The Lord Mayor, responding, promised to inquire immediately into the extent of exceptional distress and to endeavor to discover the best remedy for its relief.

Speaker Peel responding to the toast of "The House of Commons" congratulated the members upon the fact that a third session in 1886 would not be needed.

Lord George Hamilton, First Lord of the Admiralty, replied to the toast of the "Navy." He said he hoped a naval reserve would soon be formed that would be equal to all emergencies.

A Liberal Paper's Opinion.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Daily News, commenting on Lord Salisbury's speech at the Guildhall banquet last evening, says: "Salisbury's remarks on foreign affairs are such as might have been delivered by Mr. Gladstone himself. We congratulate the Tories upon their abandonment of the 'Jingo' policy. They will perhaps in time come around to Mr. Gladstone's opinions on the Irish question."

Sinking of the Schooner Detroit.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Vessels arriving from the vicinity of Death's Door report the loss of the schooner Detroit, which is sunk in deep water just outside of Summer Island. The vessel left Escanaba a week ago, ore-laden, for Cleveland. The crew rowed to the Island and when the sea went down pulled to Fayette. Both vessel and cargo are a total loss. The Detroit hailed from Detroit and was owned by N. J. Murphy, who valued her at $10,000.

Good for the Indians.

SOUTHAMPTON, Nov. 9.—The Indians on the Chippawa Reserve near here seeing the distress of the people who were burned out last Thursday, called a council meeting this forenoon and unanimously passed a motion that $200 be granted to the sufferers, the money to be taken from the annuity which they get from the Government.

An American-Mexican Fight.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 9.—Information reached here to-day of a serious fight in the State of Coahuila, Mexico, opposite the Texas town of Del Rio, between half a dozen Americans and a band of Mexicans. Hewlett Grimer, an extensive ranch owner, and John Weaver, one of his employes, and two Mexicans were killed.

They Stopped the Hunt.

DUBLIN, Nov. 9.—Two hundred farmers today tried to prevent the Galway Blazers' hunt. With police protection the hunters were enabled to start, but they soon met with more formidable opposition and were compelled to withdraw their hounds.

An African Barbarian.

VIENNA, Nov. 9.—Zambesi advices say the Austrian explorer Hinkelman was captured and murdered by a native chief. The chief had Hinkelmann's ears amputated and his heart cut out, and presented them to the oldest member of the tribe.

A Shop Failure.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The assignment of Barremore & Co., dealers in hops, was filed to-day. The liabilities are $235,402; actual assets $14,000.

A Double Death at the Gaming Table.

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 9.—Sherrod Smith and a man named Phillips fought with pistols to-day over a game of cards. Nine shots were fired, all taking effect. Both men are dead.

Officers Shot Dead by Poachers.

MACHIAS, Me., Nov. 9.—L. O. Hill and Charles Niles, game deputies, in an effort to capture the dogs of a party of poachers, were shot dead by the poachers who escaped.

Reassertion of State Rights.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 9.—Gen. John B. Gordon was to-day inaugurated as Governor of Georgia. His address was a plea for the reassertion of state rights.

Cheering and Sneering.

DUBLIN, Nov. 9.—Thomas Sexton in a speech at Sligo to-day announced that he had elected to sit as a Parnellite in the present House of Commons for West Belfast and that William O'Brien would succeed him as a member for South Sligo.

LORD MAYOR'S SHOW.

NO SERIOUS DISTURBANCE IN LONDON YESTERDAY.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Mayor's Day opened gloomy and dark, and there were few signs in the city to indicate that this was the day for the Lord Mayor's show. The streets of the city in the West End presented a remarkable appearance. All the shutters of the shops were down and barricaded, and the iron railings were boarded with stout timbers. Banks and other buildings were secured in a similar manner. At 11 o'clock a force of police occupied the north side of Trafalgar Square. Shops in the vicinity were closed and the doors and windows of the jewelry establishments heavily barred.

The procession started as the usual hour and proceeded over the assigned route without anything happening beyond the usual horse-play incident to the occasion. When the procession passed Trafalgar Square it met with no demonstration on the part of crowds assembled cheering and hooting, the latter being especially directed at the Lord Mayor. After the show had gone by the mob at once surged over into the square and gathered a dense throng about the Nelson monument. A number of men mounted the pedestal at different points, and some of these waved red flags, and the square soon became a scene of excitement. The recognized Socialist leaders managed here and there to gather around them groups of men ready and willing to listen to the speeches, and although most of the harangues were inaudible at any distance from the orators, yet expressions and phrases were often caught by the mob and used as topics of heated debate among the agitators themselves. Resolutions asking the Government to provide work for the unemployed, and to reduce to eight the number of hours constituting a day's work were carried amid loud cheering, and the group which adopted them dispersed. A number of anti-socialists attempted to hold a counter demonstration in Trafalgar Square. They were attacked and roughly handled by their opponents and driven from the square. A section of the crowd went from Trafalgar Square to the residence of the Marquis of Salisbury and attempted to make a demonstration there. They were dispersed. For a long time after the close of the proceedings in Trafalgar Square large crowds of men sauntered through the streets. Several ugly rushes occurred between them and the police, but nothing of a serious nature happened, and but little hooting was done.

At the reception by Lord Chief Justice Coleridge of the Lord Mayor, Sir Reginald Hanson, at the Court of Exchequer, His Lordship advised the corporation of London to forestall others and themselves to undertake an enquiry into the municipal reforms which are bound sooner or later to be made. He said the residents of the greater part of London were anxious to obtain a share in that civil and municipal life which distinguished the city proper.

The Young Liberals of Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Nov. 9.—The Young Men's Liberal Club has elected these officers: President, Mr. Thomas Davidson; First Vice-President, Mr. James Chisholm; Second Vice President, Mr. H. J. McMahon; Secretary, Robt. J. Smith; Treasurer, Robt. Matthews; Executive Committee, Messrs. Leitch and McBrayne.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

Hamilton has sent $200 to the Southampton sufferers.

The Welsh Eisteddfod will be held in London next year.

Regnier, a notorious Metz spy in the war of 1870, is dead.

Hanlan will not row in any more races in England during the present season.

The fortune of Count Von Beust amounts to $1,250,000. It goes to the widow and children.

John Dillon in a speech yesterday accused the O'Connor Don of treating tenants with harshness.

The Supreme Court of Mississippi has decided that the local option law in that state is constitutional.

A Berlin despatch says fifty laborers have been arrested at Buckau and Magdeburg for attempted high treason.

The Glin Branch of the National League on the advice of the central body has rescinded its resolution to boycott the White Star Line.

The total collections of internal revenue, from the time the present system was organized, July 1, 1862, up to June 30, 1886, were $3,611,393,455.

The President and Mrs. Cleveland, and the cabinet officers who accompanied him to Boston, returned to Washington yesterday afternoon.

A Spanish expedition has left the Philippine Islands with instructions to take possession of the whole of Paraguay and to occupy the chief ports of Southern Mindanao.

The Hamilton Street Railway Company has been reorganized. B. E. Charlton has been elected President and T. H. Griffith appointed Manager and Secretary.

Frank Hart, the colored pedestrian, and one of the managers of last week's walking match, was arrested in Boston last night charged with misappropriating $700 of the receipts.

A despatch from Morristown, N.J., says that an explosion occurred at the Forests Powder Works at Lake Hopatcong yesterday. One man was killed and five others were seriously injured.

Dr. McMurray of Montreal, a brother of Lord Rossmore of Ireland, has been in Jersey, N.Y., suffering from delirium tremens. He has been sent to an inebriate asylum near Troy, and will soon be returned to Montreal. So says the New York World.

Several cases of pepper-throwing and robbery have been reported of late in Chicago, and yesterday Fred. Roger was arrested as the perpetrator of the crimes. He has been identified as the thief who stole $2500 worth of diamonds in the store of Giles Bros. five years ago.

The London Standard considers that Nova Scotia's demand to secede is inopportune. It says: Free trade, not separation, is the true remedy for Nova Scotian ills. We hope the people and politicians of the country will press their grievances in its real form.

The Vatican is collecting evidence concerning the details of the meeting at Montana last Sunday at which it was reported speeches were made attacking in the presence of the Government's officers the alleged pretension of the Church to temporal power.

A French police agent named Roth, and a wine merchant named Georges have been arrested at Ars Sur-Moselle for decorating the tombs of Frenchmen who fell in the Franco-Prussian war. The prisoners were taken on a train to Metz. Crowds cheered them along the route, and upon arriving at Metz they received an ovation. Prince Holenlohe has advised the Berlin Government not to press the charge, but to release the men.

The Right Rev. John McLean, Bishop of the Saskatchewan, died at his residence, Prince Albert, Sunday, aged 71 from the result of an accident a few weeks ago. Dr. McLean was a native of Banffshire, Scotland. He graduated in arts at Aberdeen, and shortly after his arrival in this country was appointed to the curacy of St. Paul's Church, London, Ont. In 1868 he became Archdeacon of Manitoba and assumed the position of Professor of Divinity at St. John's College, and seven years later was consecrated Bishop of the new diocese of Saskatchewan. The late Bishop was a D.C.L. of Trinity College, Toronto.

The judges in the thoroughbred class at the New York Horse Show were Col. Brace, of the Turf, Field and Farm, Wm. Lawrence, secretary, and Mr. Bradford, Judge of the Coney Island Jockey Club. These gentlemen decided all the awards, and of course having placed the Montreal horse Quite above Woodstock mare could not gainfully themselves by reversing their own verdict. At Toronto the judges were Dr. Craik, Major Peters and Mr. T. C. Patteson, who preferred the English cast-off Woodstock to the broken-down American horse Quite. The fact is that the best thoroughbred stallions are not taken to the New York Horse show, though trotters quite as valuable find their way there. The N. Y. Sportsman says of Duke of Magenta: "He got first prize and no doubt deserved it, but there was much disappointment among Woodstock's admirers. To our mind Woodstock in spite of having carried eighty-six ounces this season, is a much better horse in appearance than he was a year ago. However, quibbling in horse show awards are always sure to clash. That's where the fun comes in!

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1886.

THE LIBERAL LEADER IN TORONTO.

Last night in Toronto the Adelaide street skating rink, capable of holding five thousand persons, was packed, to listen to addresses by the Liberal leader, Hon. E. Blake, and other prominent Liberal politicians. The irrepressible enthusiasm that marked the proceedings show that Toronto is ready with its answer to the Dominion Government when that moribund combination decides to seek a renewal of public confidence. As a political pointer it foretells disaster to the enemies of the country.

An exchange points out that since Mr. Cleveland became President of the United States, the public debt has decreased $117,000,000. The annual charge for interest on the public debt of the United States is now about 50 cents a head. In Canada it is quite five times as much, and this is largely due to Tory extravagance.

The Mail insinuates that the people are tired of hearing of the unclean story of the corruption and extravagance of the Dominion Government. Without doubt. And the "independent" organ might have added that the people are tired of the political combination guilty of this corruption and extravagance. Independent opinion is setting in that direction. The Toronto News, voicing the opinions of those who view the political situation from a neutral point, says:—"Sir John Macdonald's visit to Toronto ought to have convinced him that in this quarter at any rate a general election at present would result in nothing but defeat. The Tory party is in a sad state of demoralization. The boodle revelations have discredited it, the staggering blows of the late provincial and bye-elections have robbed it of its prestige and dispirited its most energetic workers."

The Liberals of South Brant are full of fight, even against the fearful odds arising from the gerrymander of the riding and the alleged advantage gained by the enfranchisement of the Indians. The object is to defeat Mr. Wm. Patterson, one of the ablest men in public life in Canada to-day. But he will not be ousted without a struggle. The gerrymander couldn't do it, and the Indian franchise jaggle will not probably effect it. At a meeting of the Liberals of South Brant to nominate candidates for the Dominion and Local House, held at Brantford, Hon. E. Blake was present and received an enthusiastic address from the Indians, who, "after due and earnest consideration, had decided to ally themselves with your (Hon. Mr. Blake's) party as stout and earnest upholders of true, loyal and honest government." This does not look like the solid vote of the "wards of the Government" for their Governmental guardian, Sir John. Mr. William Patterson and Hon. A. S. Hardy were unanimously nominated as candidates for the representation of the riding in the Dominion and Local Houses, respectively.

In his address at Stony Creek a day or two ago, Sir Richard Cartwright related an anecdote of the early political life of Sir John Macdonald, in the light of which it can hardly be called straining a point to regard the Premier's present position, as history repeating itself: "When the Premier was a young man he ran for the office of alderman in the city of Kingston. As religious feelings were running high at that time, Sir John avoided making any declaration of the faith that was in him; but he canvassed from house to house, representing himself to Roman Catholics as a South of Ireland Catholic, and to Protestants as a North of Ireland Orangeman. In order to succeed the more easily with his imposition, Sir John wore a frock coat, buttoned up close to his chin. On entering a Protestant house he would draw from his pocket a brilliant Orange handkerchief, with which he performed an Orange tune upon his nasal organ. Entering a Roman Catholic house, he would retire the handkerchief, unbutton his coat, and display a magnificent green silk waistcoat, covered all over with shamrocks. The result was that Sir John was elected."

Grist Mill Burned.

Monday morning the steam frame grist mill owned by Mr. Peter Sennett, of Lindsay, took fire and was burned to the ground. The loss is estimated at $5,000; insured for $1,500. The fire is supposed to have originated from the boiler.

Rust and Shoe Failure at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—Richard Guardian, rust and shoe manufacturer of this city, has been forced to suspend payment. The direct liabilities are about $75,000, while the indirect paper is so great that there appears to be a likelihood of it all being cast at maturity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The Goddess of Liberty's torch has not been lighted since Saturday night. It is not known when it will be lighted again. If no funds can be had from Washington the statue will not be illuminated

A Bad Man From Boston.

HAMILTON, Nov. 9.—A young man named L. F. Preston was collecting in Ohio for the International News Company of New York. After he had gathered about $1600 he left for Canada and came to this city, putting up at the American Hotel. The man who had been collecting with him informed Charles K. Mitchell, president of the company, of Preston's whereabouts, and the fugitive was easily located. Mr. Mitchell interviewed him here and Preston [illegible] $600 and two watches which he had bought for himself and wife.

Montreal's Exports.

MONTREAL, Nov. 9.—The total exports of grain from the opening of navigation to date reach 13,120,614 bushels, divided as follows: 545,255 bushels wheat; 3,824,966 bushels corn; 1,708,995 bushels peas; 1,907,207 oats and 15,925 rye. The European exports also included 409,902 sacks of flour and 70,422 sacks of oatmeal. The exports of live stock for last week were 1661 head of cattle and 2060 head of sheep, against 17,804 cattle and 1080 sheep in 1884.

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in those, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

A Heavy Failure.

The Whitby Chronicle says that the failure of Messrs. Trounce & Co., lumbermen and millers, is the talk of the town this week. It is stated the liabilities of the firm amount to $100,000, the nominal value of the assets being put at a good deal less. The Ontario Bank is the heaviest creditor, and is said to possess the only security held by anyone.

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

The personal appearance of Miss Wigger might have suggested a modest distrust of his own abilities to Lavater, when that self-sufficient man wrote his famous work on physiognomy. Whatever betrayal of her inner-self her face might have presented, in the distant time when she was young, was now completely overlaid by a surface of flabby fat, which, assisted by green spectacles, kept the virtues (or vices) of this woman's nature a profound secret until she opened her lips. When she used her voice she let out the truth. Nobody could hear her speak and doubt for a moment that she was an inveterately ill-natured woman.

"Make your curtsey, child!" said Miss Wigger. Nature had so toned her voice as to make it worthy of the terrors of her face. But for her petticoats, it would have been certainly taken for the voice of a man.

The child obeyed, trembling.

"You are to go away with me," the schoolmistress proceeded, "and to be taught to make yourself useful under my roof."

Syd seemed to be incapable of understanding the fate that was in store for her. She sheltered herself behind her merciless mother. "I'm going away with you, mamma," she said—"with you and Rick."

Her mother took her by the shoulders and pushed her across the room to her aunt.

The child looked at the formidable female creature with the man's voice and the green spectacles.

"You belong to me," said Miss Wigger, by way of encouragement, "and I have come to take you away." At those dreadful words terror shook little Syd from head to foot. She fell on her knees with a cry of misery that might have melted the heart of a savage. "Oh, mamma, mamma, don't leave me behind! What have I done to deserve it? Oh, pray, pray, pray have some pity on me!"

Her mother was as selfish and as cruel a woman as ever lived. But even her hard heart felt faintly the influence of the most intimate and the most sacred of all human relationships. Her florid cheeks turned pale. She hesitated.

Miss Wigger marked (through her own green medium) that moment of maternal indecision, and saw that it was time to assert her experience as an instructress of youth.

"Leave it to me," she said to her sister. "You never did know and you never will know how to manage children."

She advanced. The child threw herself shrieking on the floor. Miss Wigger's long arms caught her up—held her—shook her. "Be quiet, you imp!" It was needless to tell her to be quiet. Syd's little curly head sank on the schoolmistress's shoulder. She was carried into exile without a word or a cry—she had fainted.

10.—The School.

Time's march moves slowly, where weary lives languish in dull places.

Dating from one unkept and unacknowledged birthday to another, Sydney Westerfield had attained the sixth year of her martyrdom at school. In that long interval no news of her mother, her brother, or her stepfather had reached England; she had received no letter, she had not even heard a report. Without friends and without prospects, Roderick Westerfield's daughter was, in the saddest sense of the word, alone in the world.

The hands of the ugly old clock in the schoolroom were approaching the time when the studies of the morning would come to an end. Wearily waiting for their release, the scholars saw an event happen which was a novelty in their domestic experience. The maid-of-all-work audaciously put her head in at the door and interrupted Miss Wigger conducting the education of the first class.

"If you please, miss, there's a gentleman ——"

Having uttered these introductory words, she was reduced to silence by the tremendous voice of her mistress.

"Haven't I forbidden you to come here in school hours? Go away directly!"

Hardened by a life of drudgery, under conditions of perpetual scolding, the servant stood her ground, and recovered the use of her tongue.

"There's a gentleman in the drawing-room," she persisted. Miss Wigger tried to interrupt her again. "And here's his card!" she shouted, in a voice that was the loudest of the two.

Being a mortal creature, the school-mistress was accessible to the promptings of curiosity. She snatched the card out of the girl's hand.

Mr. Herbert Linley, Mount Morven, Perthshire. "I don't know this person," Miss Wigger declared. "You wretch, have you let a thief into the house?"

"A gentleman, if ever I see one yet," the servant asserted.

"Hold your tongue! Did he ask for me? Do you hear?"

"You told me to hold my tongue. No; he didn't ask for you."

"Then who did he want to see?"

"It's on his card."

Miss Wigger referred to the card again, and discovered (faintly traced in pencil) these words: "To see Miss S. W."

The school-mistress instantly looked at Miss Westerfield. Miss Westerfield rose from her place at the head of her class.

The pupils, astonished at this daring act, all looked at the teacher—their natural enemy, appointed to supply them with undesired information derived from hated books. They saw one of Mother Nature's favorite daughters, designed to be the darling of her family, and the conqueror of hearts among men of all tastes and ages. But Sydney Westerfield had lived for six weary years in the place of earthly torment, kept by Miss Wigger under the name of a school. Every budding beauty, except the unassailable beauty of her eyes and her hair, had been nipped under the frosty superintendence of her maternal aunt. Her cheeks were hollow, her delicate lips were pale, her shabby dress lay flat over her bosom. Observant people, meeting her when she was out walking with the girls, were struck by her dismal gentle even and by the patient sadness of her expression. "What a pity!" they said to themselves—"she would be a pretty girl if she were not so wretched and so thin."

At a loss to understand the audacity of her teacher in sitting before the class was dismissed, Miss Wigger began by asserting her authority. She did in two words—"Sit down!"

"I wish to explain, ma'am!"

"Sit down."

"I beg, Miss Wigger, that you will allow me to explain."

"Sydney Westerfield, you are setting the worst possible example to your class. I shall see this man myself. Will you sit down?"

Pale already, Sydney turned paler still. She obeyed the word of command—to the high delight of the girls of her class. It was then within ten minutes of the half hour after twelve—within the pupils were dismissed to the playground while the cloth was laid for dinner. What use would the teacher make of that half-hour of freedom?

A Tall Boy.

The tallest boy in Lancaster, Pa., is Geo. Kersey, son of Dr. Kersey. He is thirteen years old and seven feet high. He is still growing.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline. 6dw

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
CURES ALL HUMORS,
from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send 4c. in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections. "THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE!" Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE
Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills alternating with hot flashes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, coated tongue, you are suffering from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal.
For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Consumption, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Sold by Druggists.
PRICE $1.00, OR 6 BOTTLES FOR $5.00.

Examiner Bindery.

Merchants and business men, now is the time to call at the EXAMINER bindery and leave your orders for journals, day books, ledgers, invoice books, cheque books, and all blank books used in business. Don't wait till the moment you want to use them. All blank books last longer for not being used immediately after being finished.

J. R. STRATTON.

An Opera House Nuisance.

Mr. E. S. Laughton, the genial and competent manager of the Tavernier Dramatic Company, has requested the EXAMINER to call attention to the disturbance of the play and of the enjoyment of the audience by the arrival of late-comers, the words of the first act being lost in the tramp of feet. The curtain rises at eight o'clock or a very few minutes after, and all persons are requested, if possible, to be in their seats by that hour.

A Chance for Bargains.

Mr. E. B. Stone, barrister, having decided to break up house-keeping, and his household goods will be sold by auction, at his late residence, corner of Brock and Rubidge streets, by Mr. Charles Stapleton, on Monday, Nov. 15th. The goods are all in good condition, nearly new, and consist of drawing and dining room suites in walnut, brussels and tapestry carpets, etc., etc. Sale at 12 o'clock.

Phelan vs. Bradburn.

Attention has been called to the fact that the verdict in the above case, tried at the recent assizes, as reported, while not technically incorrect, does not give the whole facts. The fact is that a verdict was recorded for the plaintiff, Phelan, for $901, subject to a mortgage held by Mr. T. Cavanagh for $620. If the plaintiff releases this mortgage, his net verdict, so to speak, is $281, if the defendant, Bradburn, pays it, he has a net judgment of $216 against Phelan.

Agents Wanted.

Clement & Co., of 48 Wellington street, East, Toronto, or 61 St. Francois-Xavier street, Montreal, want a general agent. They are the exclusive owners of the Sehold Patent Cake Griddle, the Celebrated Emery Knife Sharpener (known as the "Carver's Friend"), the Emery Scythe Sharpener, the Jay-Eye-See Wire Curry Comb, and other specialties. If you want to make money, write to them at once for an outfit, and to secure what territory you can handle. 9d110

They Took a Tumble.

Last night two Smithtown youths were driving down George street behind a frisky colt, in a buggy with an open back, when the horse shied, bounded suddenly and unexpectedly forward, and the two young men, shot backward as if from a gun, found themselves sprawling in the six inches of mud on the street, their horse away ahead going at a 2.40 gait. The animal turned up Simcoe, around Aylmer to Hunter, and thence to Ashburnham via the bridge. It became tired after climbing the hill, and was easily captured and returned to its owners. Beyond soiled clothes and a little break in the buggy, no damage was done.—COM.

Protestant Home.

The committee of the Protestant Home thankfully acknowledge the following donations for the month of October:—Stephen Payne, cabbages; Mrs. Wm. Hamilton, fruit and vegetables; Mrs. Geo. Hilliard, vegetables; Mrs. Alex. Stewart, two pairs stockings; Mrs. T. Rubidge, bag of potatoes; Mrs. Innes, bag of vegetables; Mr. C. D. Moore, headcheese and bag of apples; Mrs. Wallis, apples and vegetables; Mrs. Petrie, Otonabee, 2 bags potatoes, 2 dozen cabbages, 1 bag turnips; Mrs. John Mathers, cabbages; a friend, fruit cake and parcel of reading matter; Mrs. Weller, apples.

Amey Elliott Wins.

The 100 yards foot race at the Athletic Association grounds in Ashburnham yesterday afternoon, between "Amey" Elliott and T. Robson, of the Grand Central, for $100 a side, best 2 in 3 heats, resulted in another victory for Elliott. Mr. Joe Daly acted as starter and timekeeper, Dr. Brennan as referee. The first heat, run in 11 seconds, was a tie. The second heat was won easily by Robson by about four feet, in 10½ sec.; the third by Elliott in 10½ seconds—the best time made. This heat was close and exciting to the finish, the latter winning by a foot or less. The final heat was won very easily by Elliott in 10½ seconds. Considerable money changed hands, betting being slightly in favor of Robson at first.

The "Lock Town" Social Club.

This club holds an invitation ball in the Parlor Roller Rink Wednesday evening, Nov. 17th. A first-class orchestra has been engaged, and, though this is their first ball, the young men are determined to make it a success in every way.

A Valuable Colt.

Mr. Alex. Peterson, of Ashburnham, has recently purchased a valuable colt from Rev. Mr. McCammond, of Elgin, Ont., for $300. It was sired by "Hartwood," (of the best trotting stock in the world) by "Harold," son of "Maud S," dam, "Anglo Saxon," an imported blood mare.

The Lock Works.

The Lock Works is becoming along under a steady pressure of work, being at present specially engaged in fulfilling an order from the Cobourg Car Works for bronze trimmings for C. P. R. Pullman cars. Orders are coming in every day, but the Lock Works Company are fully able to meet the demand.

Recovering.

Mr. Alex. Cooper, who some time ago lost his arm at Hilliard's saw mill, has about recovered, and will be discharged from the hospital to-morrow.

Mr. D. H. Moore is slowly mending. His recent relapse was of a very serious nature, but, happily, not fatal.

Working Up a Trade.

Mr. Chas. Dawson shipped this week one of his rotary force pumps, with a capacity of 125 gallons per minute, to Mr. John Hall, of Lakefield. Mr. Dawson has commenced the manufacture of these pumps at the foundry of J. Wiggle & Co., and seems to be working up a nice little business.

St. Andrew's Society.

At a meeting held last night of the special committee of St. Andrew's Society, arrangements were agreed to for a grand Scottish concert, to be held on the eve of St. Andrew's Day, Nov. 29th. This action is, of course, subject to the decision of the annual meeting of the Society to be held to-morrow night in the Collectors' office, town buildings.

Market Items.

A fair market this morning attracted but few buyers. Apples, meat and onions were largely represented; potatoes were a scarcity as usual. Prices were about as follows:—Apples, 50 to 60c.; potatoes, 60c.; beef, 4 to 5c.; mutton, 5 to 6c.; lamb, 7 to 8c.; pork, 6 to 7c.; pork, whole, $5.75 to $6 per cwt.; geese, 60c.; ducks, 70c. pair; chickens, 40c. pair; turkeys, 50 to 70c.; butter, 18c.; lard, 10c.

A Friendly Farewell.

Staff-Capt. Eadie, D.O., and wife, and Special Capt. Philpott, of the Salvation Army, are about to leave Canada. A three days farewell, will be accorded them by the local corps, commencing Saturday next, Nov. 13th. Saturday night and all day Sunday impressive meetings will be held, and on Monday night a monster torchlight procession with all honor to the departing officers. Officers and soldiers from the surrounding posts will assist at the farewell services.

A Three-Fold Gift.

The quiet of Brighton village has been disturbed by an publishing, but it is hoped unpremeditated, act of Mrs. Freeman, of Main street. She has presented her husband with triplets, three fine boys, healthy and lively as kittens. As is usual the parents are not well off, and the community so signally reinforced has raised a subscription for their benefit. The Queen's bounty is no longer extended in such cases; her majesty's subjects being too fond of such surprises for any but a very lengthy purse.

Electric Light Flashes.

The town council of Port Hope has arranged a new contract with the electric light company, which will be ratified at the next meeting of the council, and which, it is hoped, will give better satisfaction than the previous contract.

Mr. M. Flanagan, city clerk of Kingston, has sent a communication to the town clerk of Peterborough, asking information regarding the quality and system, etc., of the electric light in use here. If Kingston adopts Peterborough's system, the city will have one of the best systems of electric lighting on the continent.

The Base Ball Scheme.

A meeting of the prominent ball tossers of the Midland district is to be held at Port Hope on Thanksgiving Day, the 18th inst., for the purpose of forming a base ball league. As yet there seems to be no stir among the young men of Peterborough, but if our town, the largest in the district, is to be represented in the league, it is time some steps were taken in the matter. Mr. Thos. Spencer has received a post card, broaching the subject, and asking him to attend the convention. Mr. Spencer, however, most naturally objects to attending the meeting as the sole representative from Peterborough, and thus shouldering the entire responsibility. Let all those interested in baseball meet, appoint a delegation to attend the convention, and thus distribute the burden (if burden it is) equally. Surely there is sufficient athletic spirit in Peterborough to warrant this undertaking. It is to be hoped some movement will be made in the matter.

The Go-Ahead Golden Lion.

Mr. R. Fair, proprietor of the Golden Lion, is determined to keep pace with the times. With a magnificent stock of goods he has no fear of submitting them to the light. With this end in view he has made arrangements for a new system of lighting, leading to the better distribution of light for the display of his wares. Along each side of the shop, the whole length, is suspended directly over the counters a line of ornamental brass gas-pipe. These pipes are studded with twenty-two powerful gas jets, on each side. The jets directly over the six counters of the different departments are prolonged into depending arms, terminating in jets supporting handsome cut-glass globes. This system of lighting is exceedingly effective, and customers have an excellent light in which to examine goods. The new lighting arrangements are not only effective for the intended purpose, but are highly ornamental and add beauty to one of the finest dry goods establishments in the Midland district.

A Society Drama.

Tuesday night in the Opera House the Tavernier Dramatic Company presented J. K. Tillotson's society drama, "Queens," to a large house. The play itself is conceded to be rather weak in parts, depending almost entirely upon the individual efforts of the hero and heroine for its vim and inspiration. Miss Ida Van Cortland as "Queens," the heroine, and Mr. M. F. Drew as "Lord Walter Huntington," Queens's husband, were fully equal to the occasion, their acting being intensely earnest and realistic. In fact, it would be safe to say that a better ex-

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 19c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Ulsters for Dressers at $5. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 19c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 20c. per yard at 19c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk, at $1.00 per yard, in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 20 per cent. higher.

Wings Were Made Use Of.

The funeral of the late Frederick Gurney Sharp took place yesterday afternoon from the residence of his father, Mr. Sharp, Park street, to the Cemetery. The deceased was a young man of great promise, and his death was deeply regretted by a large circle of friends. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Cluff, Cobbledick, Hall and Lieut. Long Trouble. It was an unusually large funeral for this city, and the floral tributes were numerous and beautiful.

It cuts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dose the stomach with drugs, but goes direct to the seat of a cough and loses that disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eod w1tf

Literary Notes.

WIDE AWAKE.—Annual volume "V." Ill. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price $1.75. Half a dozen years ago it seemed impossible for Wide Awake to be more beautiful or more attractive, yet year after year it has gone on, adding new features and developing old ones, until it seems at last excellence can no further go. Its wealth of stories, sketches, poetry and illustrations furnish an inexhaustible reservoir of entertainment and instruction for the members of the family circle, old as well as young, and its monthly visit is like a ray of golden sunshine in the household.

The half-yearly volume which has just made its appearance, includes the numbers from December, 1885, to May, 1886, inclusive, and in variety of contents and general attractiveness is a step in advance of the predecessors. One of the particular features is a series of six ballads, beautifully illustrated by Hassam, Barnes and Garrett, contributed by Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, Celia Thaxter, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Elizabeth Stuart Phelps, Lucy Larcom and Nora Perry. Besides this poetical series, there is one of sketches by Elbridge S. Brooks, called "A Cycle of children," another by Mrs. John Sherwood, entitled "Royal Girls and Regal Courts," and a series of "Stories of American Wars," by different authors. In addition to the serious and serials, there are stories and poems by M. E. Wilkins, Margaret Sidney, Clara Doty Bates, Rose Kingsley, Charles R. Talbot, Sophie May, James Berry Bensel, Amanda B. Harris, and a score of others of reputation as popular writers. In the department devoted to the Chautauqua Young Folks Reading Union is found a large amount of reading which is not only entertaining in itself, but is of a highly practical and educational character. Miss Harris has a series of articles entitled "Pleasant Authors for Young Folks," consisting of sketches of eminent authors with some account of their work; Mary Treat, the naturalist, has a number of articles upon "Garden Pets"; Jessie Benton Fremont contributes "Souvenirs of my Time." The department of "Search Questions in English Literature" a unique and excellent way of interesting young people in that line of study, and the other departments are interesting and well conducted.

Parents and teachers should make a note of it for Holiday purchases.

"Brueton's Bayou," by John Habberton, author of "Helen's Babies" and "The Casting Away of Mrs. Lecks and Mrs. Aleshine," by Frank R. Stockton, and published by William Bryce, Toronto, are to hand. They form numbers of Bryce's "popular series" and are beautifully printed and for sale at popular prices.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, stripped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate erecting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives the utmost satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. THE CHICAGO STRIKE.

An Importation of Butchers from the Eastern States.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Nelson Morris was interviewed last night with reference to the despatch from Albany, N.Y., yesterday, in which it was stated that the beef-packers in Albany, Troy and other points in the East were unable to get butchers to slaughter live stock shipped to them. Mr. Morris denied all knowledge of any such trouble. He had a house about five miles from Albany, but he found no difficulty in getting men to slaughter animals shipped on the hoof from here, nor did he know of any other firm that had any trouble in getting cattle butchered in the East.

The International Carpenters' Union has passed a resolution expressing sympathy with the union stock yards' strikers, and offering pecuniary aid if needed.

Gen. FitzSimons has requested that a company of the First Cavalry be sent to the yards. It is thought that they can render more efficient service in answering sudden alarms than the infantry.

A large number of men applied for work at the packing houses this morning, and about 5000 men are at work.

Nelson Morris received a despatch from the east saying that some one down there, whose name he would not give, will send 300 skilled butchers. He also had a despatch from a slaughtering firm in the east saying they are killing beef for him at the rate of 200 head a day and can double that number if he wishes. About two-thirds of the men at work in the yards are new hands. The militia guards are out and all the approaches are lined with pickets.

The boycott has already been declared by the General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor. It begins on Armour's meats and other products. How far it will extend as to other packers cannot be said as yet.

Delegate Barry said last night: "We have pitted our stomachs against the packers' bank account. No more negotiations will be attempted on our part. We will carry the war into Egypt and leave no stone unturned to win an honest victory. By that I mean we will use the boycott, and call out the men in their houses whenever possible. We are going to beat the packers in this fight. They can employ 30,000 scabs and we can still bring them to time."

At a meeting of the Packers Association tonight the resolutions adopted a few days ago pledging the packers not to employ members of any labor organization were rescinded and the following adopted as being more in accord with the mutual interests of both employer and employed:

"Whereas the packers are confronted with the fact that their employes are repeatedly leaving their employment without notice to them, and to the great detriment of their business, which is of such a nature as to require constant prosecution and careful attention, therefore be it resolved that while we will not exclude from employment members of such organizations, we will exercise the right to employ and discharge whom we please and conduct our business on the ten-hour plan and according to our best interests."

THEY DIED LIKE HEROES.

The Fate of Four Men Who Led an Insurrection in Honduras.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 10.—The Times-Democrat publishes an account of the execution on October 18 of Gen. E. Delgado, Lieut.-Col. Indalecco Garcia, Commander Miguel Cortez and Lieut. Loyano. They were shot at Comayuga for leading an expedition against Honduras. The four officers were lodged in the small prison of Comayuga. General Delgado's wife was there to plead with a wife's tears and a woman's devotion for her husband's life. It was the desire of President Bogran to spare his life, if possible, and any pretext would have been readily seized upon to give him his liberty. The president sent a messenger to him to say that if he would promise never again to take up arms against Honduras he should receive pardon. The soldier refused to accept his life on these terms, and sent back word that he would see Honduras in even a more tropical climate than she now enjoyed before he would accept his pardon on such a pledge. On the morning of the execution the men were taken to a point near the church of Comayuga, four coffins were placed near the wall and the four condemned men were led to them. They appeared to be unconcerned, and not a face was blanched, not a nerve quivered. Gen. Delgado asked and received permission to order the guard to fire, which he did, first requesting them not to shoot him in the face, but in the breast. There was no rattle, no scattering reports, but one sharp stunning report, and the four men for half a second remained in an upright position as if still unhurt, and then fell limp and dead. The soldiers had complied with Delgado's request and three balls had penetrated his breast.

Cholera in Germany.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The Marine Hospital Service has received information of the existence of cholera at Mayence, Germany.

A Falling Temperature.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The signal service announces that the temperature will fall 15 degrees within the next 24 hours.

"An Echo Answers, Where?"

And the answer comes quickly back again: "Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s for fine groceries."

THE C. P. R.

How the Extensions are Hampering United States Lines.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The Times says: The plans and schemes of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which seems to be reaching out in all directions on American soil and striving for American business, contribute an element to the pool situation that is a prolific source of amusement and speculation. The latest report is that in the near future the Canadian line is to become an active competitor for central traffic and trunk line passenger and freight business. The Canadian Pacific is building an extension of the Grand Valley road from Woodstock to Detroit, where operations westward will end at present. But the Canadian Pacific has, it is asserted, concluded traffic contracts with the Wabash and Baltimore and Ohio, which give it running rights from Detroit to Chicago. It is claimed that this is not all. For two years the Canadian Pacific had engineers in the field marking out a line from Woodstock to Niagara Falls, and it is positively stated that this extension is to be built at once, or that work will begin upon it early in the spring. Up to the present the Michigan Central and Canadian Pacific have exchanged business at St. Thomas, but the new arrangement even if the Woodstock and Niagara Falls Branch, is not built, will work to dissolve that connection. There is also a whisper that when the Canadian Pacific builds to Niagara Falls it will find at Buffalo a natural and ready ally in the Lehigh Valley Road, which would give it a line through to New York. Outside of the pools, and unless one or both of the roads were brought in, these associations would find combination impossible. With the interest on its bonds guaranteed by the Canadian Government, and in a position to haul freight at cost, in following out its favorite theory that its present mission is to demonstrate its capacity to secure business, the Canadian Pacific is becoming a dangerous menace to American lines.

CROPS IN THE UNITED STATES.

Returns of Cotton, Corn, Potatoes and Other Products.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—The report of the Department of Agriculture says:

The cotton returns for November attest the rapid progress of picking, the unusual cleanness of fibre and the shortness of the late crop on the light upland and the district most affected by the drought. Light frosts sufficient to arrest the growth have occurred in the northern districts and to the centre of the cotton belt.

The yield of corn according to revised returns is twenty-two bushels per acre, making a product of 1,665,000,000 bushels. This will not be materially changed in the final review of the work of the year.

The potato product is nearly the same as last year, with higher yields in the east and lower in the west. The average is seventy-three bushels per acre, giving a product of 163,000,000 bushels.

The buckwheat crop makes a yield of about thirteen bushels per acre, promising a product exceeding 11,000,000 bushels.

The apparent production of tobacco is at a rate slightly exceeding an average of seventy pounds per acre, or about 435,000,000 pounds, which is equal to the average requirement of consumption and exportation.

The average rate of yield for the hay crop is close to one and two-tenths tons per acre and the apparent product about 45,000,000 tons.

A Family Murderer.

LARNED, Kans., Nov. 10.—Seven years ago a beautiful young lady named Lowber fell in love with Sam Purple, a man whose reputations for sobriety and mildness of nature was not by any means envious. Against the wishes of all to whom the young lady was connected, they were married and settled down near Marine, in Hodgman County. They never lived happily together, and Purple's viciousness culminated Friday morning last in the murder of part of his family, and his own death at the hands of an enraged mob three days later.

A British Import Tax.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Mr. Chaplin, Conservative, in a speech at Lincoln last evening advocated an import tax on foreign manufactured articles. He said that of all the chancellors of the Exchequer that England has had for many years, Lord Randolph Churchill was the most likely to pay attention to this subject and to take the necessary steps if public opinion should be favorable to the scheme.

The London Police and the Socialists.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The police officials today announced they did not give orders to interfere with any of the meetings which Socialists Democrats might attempt to hold yesterday in Trafalgar Square as long as public order was preserved, but simply issued restrictions to prevent the holding of a meeting in the terrace in the rear of the square.

A Vigorous Old Emperor.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The Emperor William is more vigorous. Yesterday he received Minister Von Puttkamer and Count Herbert Bismarck and worked four hours over reports and afterwards drove out. To-day he was able to give attention to the reports of the Minister of Ways and Means.

The Vatican Stood Firm.

ROME, Nov. 10.—The Vatican is preparing for publication an encyclical letter condemning and stigmatizing the Italian Government, whose policy, the letter will say, places the Pope in the power of a revolution which menaces his liberty.

Burned in a Barn.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—Seven persons were burned to death in a barn at Fraudorf, Moravia, to-day. Sixteen others are missing, and are supposed to be dead.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

Paul Bert, the French Minister resident in Annam, is dying of fever.

The Duke of Connaught has been appointed commander of the forces in Bombay.

The French Government has sanctioned the erection of a statue of Louis Blanc in the Place Monge.

Herr Heider, a celebrated tailor of Berlin, is dead. He leaves 800,000 marks to the Catholic Church.

There is a great revival in the diamond trade of Brussels and the stock of cut stones has been considerably reduced by purchases for America.

Theodore T. Gurney, ex-comptroller of Chicago, succumbed yesterday to the attack of paralysis with which he was stricken a few months ago.

Mrs. Margaret Carnegie, mother of Andrew Carnegie, died at Cresson, Pa., yesterday, aged 76 years. Andrew Carnegie has been seriously ill, but is now better.

A Henry George club has been formed in Philadelphia. There are 70,000 workingmen in the city, and they talk of putting a candidate in the field for mayor. The election takes place in February.

Oswego does not intend to be left out of the International League. Mr. Michael Gill and Mr. George A. Glinn will represent the Starch City at the meeting of the Association, at Utica, November 17.

There is a strike of compositors in the government printing offices at Littfield, Germany, over work for the War Department. A number of soldiers who are compositors have been ordered to take the place of the strikers.

Cardinal Lavigerie has applied to the different European Governments asking them to interpose with the Sultan of Zanzibar for the purpose of securing the missionaries in Central Africa from the hostilities of the Arabs. He says the Sultan alone is able to influence the Arabs.

Minister Goblet has notified the French Academy of his approval of the academy's acceptance of Chantilly, the gift of the Duc d'Aumale. It is expected that the question of the recall of the Duc d'Aumale will be discussed by the Cabinet. President Grevy personally favors his recall.

The Marchioness of Westminster, mother of the Duke of Westminster, entered upon her 98th year Monday. She is the only surviving issue of the first Duke of Sutherland, and is therefore aunt to the present Duke [illegible]

BULGARIA'S PRINCE.

WALDEMAR OF DENMARK ELECTED BY THE SOBRANJE.

SOFIA, Nov. 10.—The Sobranje at a secret session last evening, after a debate which lasted three hours, decided to elect Prince Waldemar, the third son of the King of Denmark, as successor to Prince Alexander on the throne of Bulgaria. Prince Waldemar is 23 years old.

A session of the Sobranje to elect a successor to Prince Alexander was held this morning. M. Radoslavoff, Prime Minister, proposed the name of Prince Waldemar. The whole Assembly rose in a body and elected Waldemar by acclamation. The public in the galleries did not participate in the enthusiasm manifested by the deputies and exhibited no approval of the election.

M. Sheikoff, President of the Sobranje, and four deputies were selected to convey to Prince Waldemar the offer of the throne. Waldemar is at Cannes. M. Karaveloff has resigned the regency.

Notes.

M. Brandf, Prefect of Sofia, has resigned. His dismissal had been demanded by Gen. Kaulbars because he had ejected a Russian subject from the council chamber. The prefect at once offered to resign, but Kaulbars insisted that the Government should dismiss him.

Capt. Nabokoff, the Russian, who led the recent revolt at Bourgas, has been tried by the Bulgarian authorities for causing an insurrection and convicted. He was sentenced to death. His fellow conspirators have been sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment each.

Sir William White, British ambassador at Constantinople, and other foreign ambassadors, appear to be inactive concerning the Bulgarian election and to be simply watching events.

Prince Bismarck has arrived in Berlin in response to a summons from the Emperor William, who wishes to consult with him on Bulgarian affairs.

Original Bulgarian Costumes.

In this land of Bulgaria, so unlike England, except in its green beauty, incongruous reminiscences of Henly regatta and Lord's ground are brought up every moment by the holiday dress of the peasantry, which at a short distance looks like that of our cricketers and oarsmen, writes a London Times correspondent. The men wear trousers of white chalk, or woolen homespun, red sashes, Oxford blue jackets and scarlet skullcaps. A group of them on a grassplat makes one look round for the familiar tent, the wickets and the rival eleven fielding out. The women have a graceful head drapery of Turkish lawn, and their dresses are profusely embroidered with that beautiful crewel work of silk or wool which the Turkish women used to make, but which is made no longer since they left the land. These embroideries are still to be bought fairly cheap; but in a few years the railways will have carried them all off the West. Already the Bulgarian women are beginning to understand their value, and are putting them away for sale, along with the Turkey carpets, mats and rich bed counterpanes which make the interior of so many Bulgarian cottages contrast marvellously with the outside. It is quite a common thing to find in these hovels, grimy with smoke and infested with vermin, hangings and dresses which could be sold for a guinea the square foot in Regent-street, and the color of these stuffs is so fine, the material so pure and the work so good and firm that a little cleaning will make 50-year-old embroidery look like new. Alas, some apostles of civilization in the form of German bagmen have latterly taught the Bulgarian women that they can mix a little cotton with their wool, and use cheaper material for their dyes, so that even the comfortable white and blue chalaks, which were warm in winter and light in summer, which kept out rain and rheumatism, which could be darned and redarned and worn down to the thread, are now yielding to textures which, for trade purposes, bear the same name, but of which the properties have nothing in common with the original.

SALISBURY'S GREAT SPEECH.

Expressions of Opinion From Continental Authorities.

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Times says: Lord Salisbury's language in regard to Bulgaria is the same as Mr. Gladstone might be expected to use. The most significant passage, however, is that in reference to an agreement to support Austria. The only necessity now is that Count Kalnoky make known that Austria is determined to oppose Russia's ambition in terms that cannot be misinterpreted by Russia.

A Profound Impression in Paris.

PARIS, Nov. 10.—The statement made by Lord Salisbury at the Lord Mayor's banquet that England meant to remain in Egypt until her work was completed has made a profound impression in French political and financial circles. The Nationale, the France and other papers consider that the speech settles the question of evacuation and shows England's determination to make the occupation of Egypt indefinite and protracted.

Austria's Position Strengthened.

PESTH, Nov. 10.—The speech made by Lord Salisbury at the Lord Mayor's banquet in London yesterday strengthens the position of Count Kalnoky. The feeling in the Hungarian delegation is becoming composed, and the members appear less distrustful of Kalnoky. The Magyar delegates express the hope that the speech portends a fresh grouping of the powers similar to that which Count Andrassy evoked at the Berlin Congress. The committee of the delegation will meet to-morrow, Count Andrassy presiding. It is probable that the committee will demand that the Imperial Government resist the establishment of an exclusively Russian influence in Bulgaria.

The Strike of Knit Goods Employes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The Post this afternoon has a long article on the strike in the knit goods factories of the state. It says that while great prominence has been given by the press throughout the country to the labor troubles in Chicago, comparatively little attention has been paid by the public at large to a struggle now going on in this state, which involves as many people, as much capital and a principle of vital importance. This is the contest in progress between the knit goods manufacturers and Knights of Labor, which has now become an open war upon the latter as an organization. Though the conspicuous facts in the warfare have been noted from time to time, but few persons have a clear idea of the nature of the controversy or realize that nearly 20,000 men, women and children were employed in the knit goods mills throughout New York State, which owners have closed against all Knights of Labor.

Justin McCarthy at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Upon his arrival in this city to-day Justin McCarthy, the celebrated writer and statesman, was met by a deputation from St. Patrick's Literary Association and escorted to the Russell. He was subsequently shown the principal sights of the city. At the College of Ottawa he was presented with an address from the students. In the evening he lectured in the Grand Opera House upon "The Cause of Ireland." Mr. McCarthy was subsequently entertained at a banquet in the Russell, at which Mayor McDougall presided.

West Peterborough.

Nomination of Liberal Candidates for the Commons and the Local—Election of Officers.

A large and representative meeting of the Liberals of West Peterborough was held in the old Music Hall, town, on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, president of the West Riding Reform Association, occupied the chair. The first business taken up was the election of officers, which resulted as follows:

PRESIDENT—Melville Millar, Esq.

VICE-PRESIDENT—Dr. Fife.

2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald, Smith.

SECRETARY—Mr. W. A. Stratton.

TREASURER—Mr. Jos. Griffin.

In the absence of Mr. M. Millar, Dr. Fife, Vice-President, occupied the chair, and called for nomination of a candidate for the Commons.

After several names had been suggested, among them being Mr. M. Millar and Mr. W. Paterson, jr., who stated that they were not in a position to enter upon the contest, Mr. Geo. A. Cox was unanimously nominated.

He stated that the nomination was entirely unexpected, and as he had important business interests, both on his own behalf and on behalf of others, which would be affected by his accepting the nomination, he would ask till a week from next Saturday to deliberate upon the matter and arrive at a decision.

A motion to that effect was passed, and the meeting proceeded to select a candidate for the Local House.

Mr. Peter Hamilton, seconded by Mr. T. E. Fitzgerald, Smith, proposed Mr. J. R. Stratton, of the EXAMINER, as the candidate for the representation of the West Riding in the Local Legislature. Upon the chairman calling for other nominations, and no others being forthcoming, Mr. Hamilton's motion was put and carried unanimously.

Mr. Stratton in a few brief remarks acknowledged the honor done him in the nomination, and accepted the trust on behalf of the Liberal party of the West Riding, saying that if the party entered into the contest with the same energy he proposed to throw into it, the coming elections would result in a victory for Liberal principles.

A brief address by Mr. W. T. R. Preston, General Secretary of the Ontario Reform Association, on the political situation followed, and after hearty cheers for the Queen, the Chairman, and the candidates, the meeting adjourned to meet again on Saturday, Nov. 20th.

AT the immense Liberal mass meeting held in Toronto on Wednesday, the following resolutions, which will do well for the text of the verdict that will be pronounced by the people at the coming elections fof both Houses, were unanimously passed:

That this meeting desires to express its approval of the principles and policy of the Liberal party of Canada and its unqualified endorsation of the course of the Hon. Edward Blake as the leader of that party. It also expresses the hope that at the approaching general elections the men and the party who have so enormously increased the public debt, the expenditure and taxes of Canada, and who have wasted its revenues, moneys, public lands, timber and minerals by corrupt grants to favorites and friends, will be driven from power by the people whom they have so shamefully plundered and misgoverned.

That this meeting expresses its full and unreserved confidence in the honest and able administration of the Hon. Oliver Mowat and his colleagues, whose economy in expenditure, honesty and wisdom in the management of the affairs of Ontario for the past fourteen years entitle that Government to the gratitude of the people; and that this meeting further desires to express its admiration in a special manner of the action of the Government in the courageous and successful efforts to maintain the territorial and legislative rights of the Province.

Literary Notes.

BABYLAND.—1886. Illustrated. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price 75 cents. Says an editorial critic in one of the great dailies: "If there is anything brighter, jollier, or prettier than the annual volume of BABYLAND we should like to see it. The stories are just such stories as the babies can understand; the jingles are admirably suited to baby's ears, and the pictures furnish an inexhaustible source of delight to baby's eyes. What the Atlantic or Harper's is to the grown-ups, BABYLAND is to the little ones." How true this statement is any one can see for himself by turning over the pages of the beautiful volume just sent out by the publishers. From the first page to the last it is a constant succession of beautiful surprises for little ones. The cover itself is an attraction not to be slighted. A sweet little girlie, in her flowing white nightdress, just as she comes from her crib in the morning, with her doll closely hugged, pushes back the curtains, her eyes wide open, a smile on her face, and "good morning" written all over her from her yellow hair to her pink toes. The picture is sweet enough to hang on the wall of the choicest room in the house. And then the inside? The tales of dogs and kitties, and good boys and naughty boys, and rabbits, and dolls, and donkeys, and the magic pear which turns into elephants, and birds, and frogs, the "Crib Curtain" stories, and the lovely rhymes! Truly, BABYLAND is as much a necessity in a house where there is a baby as baby itself. 1td&w

A Wide Range.

A wide range of painful affections may be met with Hagyard's Yellow Oil. James M. Lawson, of Woodville, Ont., speaks of it in high terms for rheumatism, lame back, sprains and many painful complaints too numerous to mention. It is used internally or externally. 2w44d

The Scourge of America.

The one terrible blight of our country is scrofula—from impure blood—it causes consumption and many wasting, lingering and fatal diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters cures scrofula if taken in time. 2w44d

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w44d

A Prestidigitator's Strength.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless round pads in New York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my rupture. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds up perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. H. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken two years to make it perfect; to guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure, every child sure; and 99 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on worthless appliances, but send stamp for our pamphlet; it contains full information, your guarantee, price list and questions for you to answer. The Haddiest thing in the World Can be seen as well in the Dark as the Light.

EVERYBODY should have One.

R. W. MUNCASTER.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

In the meanwhile Miss Wigger had enlarged her drawing-room. With the slightest possible inclination of her head she eyed the stranger through her green spectacles. Even under that disadvantage his appearance spoke for itself. The servant's estimate of him was beyond dispute. Mr. Herbert Linley's good breeding was even capable of suppressing all outward expression of the dismay that he felt on finding himself face to face with the formidable person who had received him.

"What is your business, if you please?" Miss Wigger began.

Men, animals, and buildings wear out with years, and submit to their hard lot. Time only meets with flat contradiction, when he ventures to tell a woman that she is growing old. Herbert Linley had rashly anticipated that the "young lady," whose cause was the object of his visit to see, would prove to be young in the literal sense of the word. When he and Miss Wigger stood face to face, if the door had been set open for him he would have left the house with the greatest pleasure.

"I have taken the liberty of calling," he said, "in answer to an advertisement. May I ask"—he paused and took a newspaper from the pocket of his overcoat—"if I have the honor of speaking to the lady who is mentioned here?"

He opened the newspaper and pointed to the advertisement.

Miss Wigger's eyes rested—not on the passage indicated, but on the visitor's gloves. It fitted him to such perfection that it suggested the enviable position in life which fine gloves made to order. He politely pointed again. Still inaccessible to the newspaper, Miss Wigger turned her spectacles next to the front window of the room, and discovered a handsome carriage waiting at the door. (Money evidently in the pockets of those beautiful trousers, worthy of the gloves!) As patiently as ever, Linley pointed for the third time, and drew Miss Wigger's attention in the right direction at last. She read the advertisement.

"A young lady wishes to be employed in the education of a little girl. Possessing but few accomplishments, and having been only a junior teacher at a school, she offers her services on trial, leaving it to her employer to pay whatever salary she may be considered to deserve. If she obtains a permanent engagement, Apply, by letter, to S. W., 14, Delta Gardens, N. E."

"Most impertinent!" said Miss Wigger.

Mr. Linley looked astonished.

"I say, most impertinent!" Miss Wigger repeated.

Mr. Linley attempted to pacify this terrible woman. "It's very stupid of me," he said; "I am afraid I don't quite understand you."

"One of My teachers has issued an advertisement and has referred to My address, without first consulting Me. Have I made myself understood, sir?" She looked at the carriage again, when she called him "sir."

Not even Linley's capacity for self-restraint could repress the expression of relief, visible in his brightening face, when he discovered that the lady of the advertisement and the lady who terrified him were two different persons.

"Have I made myself understood?" Miss Wigger repeated.

"Perfectly, madam. At the same time, I am afraid I must own that the advertisement has produced a favorable impression on me."

"I fail entirely to see why," Miss Wigger remarked.

"There is surely," Linley pleaded, "something straightforward—I might almost say something innocent—in the manner in which the writer expresses herself. She seems to be singularly modest on the subject of her own attainments, and unusually considerate of the interests of others. I hope you will permit me——?"

Before he could add "to see the young lady" the door was opened; a young lady entered the room.

Was this the writer of the advertisement? He felt sure of it, for no better reason than this: The moment he looked at her she interested him. It was an interest new to Linley in his experience of himself. There was nothing to appeal to his admiration (by way of his senses) in the pale, worn, young creature who stood near the door, reckoned beforehand to whatever reception she might meet with. The poor teacher made him think of his happy young wife at home—of his pretty little girl, the spoilt child of the household. He looked at Sydney Westerfield with a heartfelt compassion which did honor to them both.

"What do you mean by coming here?" Miss Wigger inquired.

She answered gently, but not timidly. The tone in which the mistress had spoken had evidently not shaken her resolution, so far.

"I wish to know," she said, "if this gentleman desires to see me on the subject of my advertisement."

"Your advertisement?" Miss Wigger repeated. "Miss Westerfield, how dare you beg for employment in a newspaper without asking my leave?"

"I only waited to tell you what I had done till I knew whether my advertisement would be answered or not."

She spoke as calmly as before, still submitting to the insolent authority of the schoolmistress with a steady fortitude very remarkable in any girl, and especially in a girl whose face revealed a sensitive nature. Linley approached her and said his few kind words before Miss Wigger could assert herself for the third time.

"I am afraid I have taken a liberty in answering you personally, when I ought to have answered you by letter. My only excuse is that I have no time to arrange for an interview, in London, by correspondence. I live in Scotland, and I am obliged to return by the mail to-night."

He paused. She was looking at him. Did she understand him?

She understood him only too well. For the first time, poor soul, in the miserable years of her school life, she saw eyes that rested on her with the sympathy that is too truly felt to be uttered in words. The glowing imagination which had learnt to find comfort under her manifold sufferings, had endured, in after years, the daily persecution that heartless companionship so well knows how to indict—failed to sustain her, when one kind look from a stranger poured its balm into the girl's sore heart. Her head sank; her wasted figure trembled; a few tears dropped slowly on the lapping of her shabby dress. She tried, desperately tried, to control herself. "I beg your pardon, sir," was all she could say; "I am not myself."

Miss Wigger tapped her on the shoulder and pointed to the door. "Are you well enough to see your way out?" she asked.

Linley turned on the wretch with a mind divided between wonder and disgust. "Good God, what has she done to deserve being treated in that way?" he asked.

Miss Wigger's mouth widened; Miss Wigger's forehead developed new wrinkles. To own it plainly, the school-mistress smiled.

On the market, fresh butter, 14 to 16c.; keg butter, 13 to 17c.; eggs, 18 to 20c.; turkeys, 60c. to $1.00; geese, 50 to 60c.; chickens, 35 to 50c.; dressed hogs, 5½ to 5¾c.; beef, 4 to 5½c.; lamb, 6 to 7c.

—By Medicines life may be prolonged, Yet death will seize the doctor, too.

True; all must die, yet few must suffer while they live. Stop pain and prolong life by taking Dr. Pierce's "Golden Vegetable Discovery," a cure for consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs) as well as for coughs, colds, bronchitis, catarrh, and a specific in liver complaints, scrofula and all blood and skin diseases. Sold everywhere. dw45

The "Armless Artiste."

Fraulein Hausmann, well known in Germany as the "Armless Artiste," was married the other day. The groom placed the wedding ring on the fourth toe of her right foot, and she signed the marriage contract holding the pen with her toes.

Honest and True

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline. 6dw

Try It.

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in those, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

Don't Snub.

Don't snub any one. Not alone because some day they may far outstrip you in the race of life, but because it is neither kind, nor right, nor Christian.

A Cure for Croup.

It is a valuable fact for mothers to know that there is no better or more certain remedy for croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil used internally and externally. This handy household remedy may be had of any druggist. 2w44d

A Boston thief smashed a plate-glass window within 200 feet of a policeman without creating noise enough to disturb the officer. He covered the glass with tar and then pasted newspapers on that.

There is no necessity of passing a sleepless night and annoying the entire household with that cough, as West's Cough Syrup will cure you like magic. The best known remedy for coughs, colds, consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. 25c., 50c. and $1 per bottle. dwnov

A ring with four pearls and three ruby stones was found lately in the back of a Scotch herring. The fish was cooked and being eaten at breakfast by a woman in Edinburgh when the discovery was made.

Delays are dangerous. Procure a bottle of West's Cough Syrup at once and cure that troublesome hacking cough and sore throat, relieving pain and misery. It is the household remedy for all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. dwnov

Prof. Low's Magic Sulphur Soap.—Healing, soothing and cleansing for all eruptive diseases of the skin. Delightful for toilet use. dw-nov

Don't snub a boy because of the ignorance of his parents. Shakespeare, the world's poet, was the son of a man who was unable to write his own name.

Dr. Low's Worm Syrup will remove all kinds of worms from children or adults. dwn

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequalled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills, alternating with hot flashes, low spirits and gloomy borebodings, irregular appetite, and coated tongue, you are suffering from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases only part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Consumption, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy.

The Saved Band Entertainment.

The Saved Band of Peterborough are to have a grand Banquet and Jubilee in the old Music Hall on Tuesday the 23rd of this month. Officers and soldiers are expected from surrounding corps. The officers at present in town now, are; General Lindsay, Div. Capt. Steele, Lieut. Gater. The arrivals of yesterday are Capt. Brown, from Ottawa, Capts. Mr. and Mrs. Hartley, lately from New York. The meetings are getting much better in attendance and interest, and much good is being done. One of the officers has a new kind of musical instrument, played every night termed as bazoo.

Mind the Mud.

Mention may be made that a mixed up mass of minutely macerated mundane matter, molasses-like in its make-up, manifestly mingled in a miscellaneous manner, merely to maculate manties and madden mankind, maintains a motionless multitudinosity in the middle of the main macadamized thoroughfares of the metropolis of the Midland district. In vulgar parlance the above would mean that the streets of Peterborough are covered with mud. If two or three feet of it were scraped off by the town authorities, the citizens would feel truly grateful.

Junior Conservatives.

At a meeting of the Junior Conservative Club of Peterborough the other night, the following officers were elected: Honorary President, John Carnegie, M.P.P.; President, Andrew McNeil; Vice-President (No. 1 Ward), John Corkery; Vice-President (No. 2 Ward), Geo. W. Hall; Vice-President (No. 3 Ward), John Fanning; Vice-President (No. 4 Ward), T. Rutherford; Corresponding Secretary, G. W. Hatton; Recording Secretary, J. H. Burnham; Treasurer, W. J. Minore. The Executive Committee is composed of the officers and Ward Committees, the latter being chosen by the members from each Ward.

Bound for Port Hope.

This morning about 8 o'clock a nameless piece of baggage floated down George Street, a bed-tick filled with miscellaneous articles strapped on its back, five or six bags of ditto piled on top of them, and a live goose, evidently the result of last night's raid, cackling and craning its neck as if anxious to escape under the right arm. The tramp (for such it is supposed to have been) had a face that had evidently defied the ravages of soap and water upon its classic outlines for a term of years, and his back being bent over till its load was near a horizontal, gave the wonder the appearance of a miniature Egypt-Egyptian dromedary. The load was moving south, probably striking for the lake.

The great Carpet House is at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

How It Works.

A Story That is not Vouched for—It is Given as it Was Got.

It is reported that a citizen of Peterborough, deeply interested in the enforcement of the Scott Act, the other day buttonholed an interested Irishman and remarked:—

"See here, my good man, do you want to earn $10 without spending for it?"

"Do I?" responded the brawny son of Erin, his face expanding into a broad smile, "coorse, it's fishin' ye are."

"No, I'm not. Look here, if you'll tell me where you got your liquor, I'll give you $10."

"All roight. Park over the strate."

The $10 was handed over, carefully counted by the hilarious Hibernian, and placed in his vest pocket.

"You wants to know where I got the whiskey, eh? Well, I'll tell yez, sor. I got it at home in me own cupboard. Ha, ha, ha!"

The amateur detective wilted, while the cute Celt went off with a father anstendy buoyancy of step, a richer man by $10.

The Gospel Army in Court.

Rev. Michael Pagot Baxter, the head of the Gospel Army, who startled the quiet citizens of Peterborough a week or so ago by prophesying all sorts of tribulations for the earth on which we live, was the defendant in a law suit at Toronto yesterday, the plaintiff, Rev. Jonathan Cooke, suing to recover $257, which he claimed was due him for the services of himself and daughter at one of the Army outposts. The case is being continued. "Major" Jones also has a suit against the Rev. Mr. Baxter.

A Pleasant Entertainment.

A delightful little entertainment was held last night, under the management of the ladies of the South Ward St. John's Sunday school, in the new school room, corner Bethune and Dalhousie streets. Fortunately the evening was unpleasant, otherwise the room would have been unpleasantly over-crowded. As it was, it was comfortably filled, and the audience had the pleasure of listening to a programme of much merit, consisting of a vocal duet by Mrs. Seward and Miss Rash, "I Would that My Love"; violin solo by Miss Louise Yokome, "Chimes of Normandy"; vocal solo by Mr. Hutchins, sang with capital effect, "The Angel at the Window," and vocal solo by Mrs. Seward, "Katie's Secret"; a dialogue by the Misses May and Etta Martin, "Billy Grimes," and capital comic readings by Mr. A. St. A. Smith, "A Cheap Dinner"; Mr. N. Brown, "An Irish Letter"; and Mr. Thos. Hooper, jr., "A Whitewashing Contract." The performers all acquitted themselves admirably and furnished an excellent evening's entertainment. The first part of the programme was concluded by an address from the Rector, Rev. J. W. R. Beck. Between the first and second parts the ladies served refreshments—coffee and cake. The entire affair was most pleasing and successful, and the ladies of the school are deeply grateful to the ladies and gentlemen whose contributions to the programme enabled the audience to pass the evening so pleasantly. Special gratitude is due Mr. Seward who played the accompaniments, and contributed largely to the smoothness of the programme. A substantial sum was added to the funds of the school.

A Teller's Mistake.

Yesterday afternoon about five minutes to three o'clock, one Martin Connolly called at the Bank of Montreal here to get a post-office order cashed. He said he lived near Havelock and was bound for Ireland. The sum of $280 was replaced to the credit of the post-office, and the balance, $86.20, handed over in cash by the teller, Mr. C. A. Lawford. The money included three English sovereigns, valued at $14.60. Connolly objected to one of the sovereigns because there was a hole in it, and Mr. Lawford asked him to return the three pieces and he would give him Canadian currency. Connolly passed back only the punctured sovereign and received cash value for three. Not until Connolly had left the bank did the teller discover the mistake, when he immediately, in company with Mr. W. H. Budden, set out in search of the man. They saw him near the post-office and in Mr. Menzies' bookstore, where he was buying a railway ticket. Connolly denied that he had received any extra money, and refused to return the value of the two sovereigns. A warrant was sworn out and Connolly was captured at the C. P. R. station about 10 p.m., by Chief Cooper and Constable Adams. The case came up for trial before Mayor Stevenson this morning, when the evidence disclosed the above facts. Mr. Lewis, manager of the bank, testified that a shortage amounting to the exact value of the two sovereigns occurred in yesterday's accounts. Mr. R. E. Wood, C.C.A., appeared for the prosecution; Mr. Sawers for defence. The affair was settled by Connolly returning the disputed amount and paying all costs.

The Intricacies of Love.

Last night's play, "A Rash Marriage," by the Tavernier Dramatic Company, represented a combination of loves, the results of which only time could reveal. Mabel Renfrew, the heiress, was equally beloved by Capt. Arthur Standish, son of a wealthy manufacturer, and Raymond Lessing, an adventurer; the heiress reciprocated the latter's affections. Capt. Standish was loved by his niece, Mary Standish, while Lessing had the heart of Lucille Renfrew, Mabel's step-mother, a young widow. Thoreby Gill and Sammy Dymple, two young men "just out," were in love with all the ladies, but the numerous refusals they received to their offers of marriage were ridiculously frequent. Mabel Renfrew, discovering the perfidy of Lessing, the adventurer, in a moment of anger and wounded pride, marries Standish, to whom she is entirely indifferent. This fact is made known to the young husband by his newly wedded wife, her love for Lessing being strong as ever. Standish leaves his father's house alone, and for a long time is not heard of. Lessing meanwhile makes love to the widow, in the belief that she is wealthy. Raitch, a waif, comes upon the scene, and creates no end of fun with her quaint, saucy speeches. Finally Mabel's little child is stolen, and in their mutual efforts to recover it, all animosity between her husband's father and herself is overcome and true friendship reigns. In a critical moment, when their lives depended upon outside aid in escaping from the "Beggar's Paradise," where the child is hidden, Capt. Standish appears, saves their lives, and all are happily re-united. Ida Van Cortland, as "Mabel Renfrew, was the perfect society lady of the day; Mr. M. F. Drew, as "Capt. Standish," also shared the honors of the evening, his "farewell" being one of the nicest bits of acting ever seen in Peterborough. Miss Alice Endres made a decided hit on "Raitch." Albert Tavernier and Charles Kidder, the two young men "just out," were equally amusing and played their parts well. The "Beggars' Paradise" was exceedingly well put on, the thieves (R. C. Chamberlain and Fred. Barke) being repeatedly applauded for their clever impersonations. The play was indeed highly successful, as the frequent rounds of applause attested. To-night will be presented the great comedy-drama, "The Mighty Dollar," which is too well known here to need recommendation.

He Wanted Assistance.

[A rather aged and seedy-looking man by the name of Loughottom, hailing from Toronto, applied to Mayor Stevenson this morning for assistance in reaching the Queen city, stating that he had been robbed last night while at the Queen's hotel by a tailor named Rob Eaton. Every cent he possessed, $1.25 in all, with which he intended to buy a railway ticket to Toronto, had been taken. His possession a certificate of membership of St. Andrews' Society is a Scotch town. The Mayor placed him in the hands of a member of Peterborough St. Andrews' Society.

McGregor's Speedy Cure.

When we say McGregor's Speedy Cure is the only perfect cure for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion and Impure Blood, we are telling plain facts, of which hundreds upon hundreds can testify who have been restored to perfect health by its use. We would therefore advise you strongly if you are a subject of any of the above troubles to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial and be convinced. It is sold in 50c. and $1 bottles at John McKee's drug store. eodw65

Personal.

Mr. D. W. Dumble was in Toronto to-day on business.

Mrs. T. P. O'Connor.

One of the most famous, as he was one of the most popular, lawyers of Texas just before the war, says the New York World, was Judge George W. Paschal. When the southern States seceded Judge Paschal, who was a unionist, came north and practiced law in New York. After a time he went to Washington and built up a very large practice there. He was attorney for James McGarrahan among others.

His youngest daughter, Bessie, was a singularly beautiful girl, who was highly educated at a convent. When quite young and the belle of Washington, she married Frank Gassaway, then a bank cashier. Mr. Gassaway shortly and unceremoniously left her, taking up his residence in San Francisco, where he now enjoys celebrity as Derrick Dodd, the humorist. By her marriage with him Bessie Paschal had one child, a beautiful and extremely intelligent boy.

Her next alliance was with Capt. Edward Wright, of the ordnance department, who, albeit an amiable and accomplished man, was insanely jealous. In his paroxysms he thought nothing of chasing her at midnight across the parade ground at Frankford arsenal in her night-clothes to a place of refuge at the house of the chaplain or some other married officer. It was while temporarily deranged that Capt. Wright, in 1880, blew out his brains at Washington. His widow came to New York, and after a space got an introduction to Mr. A. M. Palmer, who, with characteristic kindness, found a place for her in the Union Square Company. She was not a great success as an actress, although a singularly fascinating woman, and a dangerous illness forced her to retire from the stage.

Mrs. Wright was lost to view for a couple of years, until she quietly espoused the gallant and industrious Thomas Power O'Connor, the home-rule member of parliament to whose extraordinary faculty of organization Mr. Parnell admits he owes much of his great success. It is an open secret that Mr. O'Connor is indebted, in turn, to the genius of his brilliant American wife.

In person Mrs. O'Connor is rather petite, with a beautiful figure, and a face so variable in charming expression that no photograph can do it justice. Her eyes are as softly brown as those of a dove and her mouth is exceptionally beautiful. Her cares and trials have sprinkled her thick black hair with a too-early silver, but in other respects she is scarcely more than girlish. Her voice is most melodious, and she speaks with a southern accent so dainty and characteristic that it can not fail to be regarded in London as one of her greatest charms.

M. Pasteur is not one who dislikes dogs, and there are three pets of the kind that play about his private house. Nevertheless, he must feel that the genus is against him, and doubtless he repeats old King Lear's lines:

"The little dogs and all,
Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart, see, they bark at me."

It is said that the Japanese gentleman never intrusts the making of the tea to his servants on company occasions, but performs that operation himself. The teapot and cups he uses are of a diminutive size, and he makes the beverage by pouring hot water upon the tea leaves. The water hardly touches the leaves before he begins pouring off a stream of pale straw-colored tea as delicate and fragrant as rose leaves.

One of the celebrities of Florida is "Alligator Platt," who lives in Kissimine City, and is noted for his exploits in catching saurians. His method is said to be to jump into a stream in pursuit of an alligator, and if necessary, diving under water for his victim, whom he manages to subdue by getting his fingers in the creature's eyes, and then riding him ashore in triumph. Platt claims that he can manage the largest alligators in this manner.

The Weiner Med. Zeitung describes Koch, the discoverer of the cholera and the tubercle bacillus, as being a medium-sized, slender man, with an earnest, inquiring countenance. His hair, which is whitening, makes him appear older than his actual age, which is 41. Born in Klausthal, he studied medicine in Gottingen, and practiced in Posen. He studied microscopy under Cohn in Breslau, and earned his first professorship through his investigations into wound infection and splenic-fever.

Mysterious Disappearance.

The continued absence of Lieut. William Milligan, says the Port Hope Times, is causing great anxiety to his relatives. He is a well-to-do young farmer of Hope, has served a term in the township council, and is connected with the Durham Field Battery. On Thursday, 21st October, he drove to town, drew upwards of $600 from the bank, and made purchases in several stores around town, leaving the articles until he would call for them on starting for home. This, it appears, is all that is known of his movements. He seems to have disappeared, leaving not the faintest clue. His relatives have continued to make diligent search for him, but can obtain no intelligence. Foul play is suspected.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same also. eodw11tf

EXPLANATORY!
Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Emphatic Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 9c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertise.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 20c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK.—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk else whatever at 20 per cent higher.

Why

LEARY'S IRON FIRE ESCAPE LADDER!

HIGHLY recommended by builders, and the only reliable means in use of expeditiously saving a burning building.

These ladders are strongly made of half-inch round iron, carefully put together, and warranted to stand any test. The ladders are easily put up, fold up when not in use, and are a neat and efficient means of reaching the roof of any building. They also form a reliable means of escaping from a burning building by either window or roof.

EAST RIDING NOMINEES.

The Liberals of the East Riding, with Messrs. John Lang and Thomas Blezard as their standard bearers, go into the contest with the strongest and most favorable auguries of success in both branches. The candidates chosen will, there is every warrant for asserting, marshall the Liberal forces to victory. Mr. Lang is an excellent candidate, whether his candidature be regarded from a party stand-point or in the interests of the riding. He has had a wide municipal experience and has always shown himself to be a shrewd, careful and economical administrator of the trust reposed in him. He has filled the position of warden of the county for one term, and such is the universal satisfaction he has given as representative of the large, populous and influential township of Otonabee that, for the past ten or eleven terms, he has been elected by acclamation. He will make an excellent representative, and his chances of success are so great as to justify the strongest hopes of his triumphant return.

Mr. Blezard's qualifications are too well known to need dwelling on. He has ably represented the riding in the past, is a diligent and active worker, though he never bores the House with long speeches. As an extensive and successful practical farmer, he is pre-eminently fitted for a representative of a rural constituency. Not the least of his qualifications is his undoubted ability to carry the riding, judging from his past record in that respect; but this may prove a source of weakness if the Liberals are thereby inclined to rest on their oars. In political contests nothing is certain without active and united work. With this, success is certain, and the more active the effort the greater will be the triumph. There should be no lack of perfect organization, no cessation of earnest work from now till the day of the elections, whenever they may be. With these conditions fulfilled, the Liberals of East Peterborough will have the satisfaction of seeing the riding represented during the next term of both the Dominion Parliament and Ontario Legislature, by Messrs. John Lang and Thomas Blezard, respectively.

GLADSTONE'S APPEAL.

He Invites the Liberals to Reunite—The Tory Plans.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Mr. Gladstone publishes a letter inviting the Liberals to reunite. He says: "After reading the Marquis of Salisbury's speech, it seems to me that we have arrived at the testing situation for all Liberals really desiring Liberal union. We have no right to demand when the Government have produced their plans that they shall pursue an alternate course upon them, but we have already tolerated a long delay in the production of these plans. The beginning of next year in February will virtually be make the definite considerations of the plans. [illegible] able to understand how anybody [illegible] or unfolding such delay can be said to [illegible] the reunion of the Liberal party."

An Insolent Aristocrat.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The following is a notice which Lord Stanley of Alderley has issued to his tenants: "Lord Stanley of Alderley has been much annoyed while out shooting by the large dogs which many of his tenants keep and which are continually ranging through the fields disturbing and scaring the game. His Lordship hopes that his tenants will at once do away with these useless and troublesome dogs, as they cause the loss of any shot to the tenants either as sheep dogs or water dogs. If His Lordship on his return to shoot, finds that these dogs have not been destroyed, he will be compelled to take steps to abate the nuisance." Commenting on this Henry Labouchere says: "I sincerely hope that the tenants will pay no attention to this insolent proclamation. If a landlord is to decree what dogs his tenants are to keep, we shall have him next settling the number of the babies and taking steps to abate the nuisance of their squalling to the annoyance of His Lordship's hares and patridges."

Collapse of the Austrian Empire Predicted.

VIENNA, Nov. 11.—An article in the Vaterland expects a collapse here. The writer warns Roland that in clinging to Austria-Hungary she leans upon a decaying empire, whose miserable collapse is drawing near; that the Empire will soon be partitioned as was Poland, amid the overthrow of one-half the people who are now living in tremendous discontent under the Hapsburg sceptre.

EXPLOSION AND FIRE

A DISASTROUS AFFAIR AT PHILADELPHIA.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 11.—An explosion occurred in the cigar box manufactory of Henry H. Sharp & Co. on Randolph street this afternoon which blew out the rear wall, badly injuring a number of young men, women and girls, and imperilling the lives of over 100 more. One girl is missing; all the injured are more or less badly burned.

The fire was gotten under control after having destroyed almost the entire building. The livery stables of J. M. Trully and A. C. Cresswell, adjoining the rear of the cigar box factory, were blown down by the force of the explosion. In Trully's place some fifty sleighs and carriages were crushed to atoms; a number of carriages were also ruined in Cresswell's building.

About two hours after the fire had been extinguished the body of Carrie Bruner, aged 20, an employe, was found in the third story of the factory, buried under the steam pipes and heavy timbers. Her body and clothing were but slightly burned and her death was in all probability caused by the heavy timbers falling upon her. Fifteen persons were more or less seriously injured, but it is thought that none of the injuries will prove fatal, with the probable exception of Annie Woltiser, aged 23, who received severe burns about the face and body, and also sustained injuries from flying timber.

BAD FOR THE MESSENGER.

Evidence Accumulating Against David S. Fotheringham.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 11.—The evidence in the express robbery case, so far as made public, goes to prove that the messenger, David S. Fotheringham, was an accessory, or at least a willing victim in the affair. Discrepancies in his statements to the detectives indicate that he knows more of the manner in which the robbery was planned and executed than he would like to have them know, and an expert penman, who was before the Grand Jury last Saturday, states that the three letters signed "Jim Cummings" were written by one and the same man, and expresses his belief that that man was Fotheringham and that he wrote them before the commission of the robbery. It now transpires that the messenger's trunk was searched soon after the robbery and a number of sheets of paper were found covered with copies of the signature of W. J. Barrett, Manager of the Express Company. It is supposed the messenger became able to forge this signature so that he might affix it to the orders which the robber presented, which allowed him to enter the car. Altogether it looks bad for the messenger.

A Mad Man and a Foolish Woman.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—Jas. T. Noon, a prominent young lawyer of Santa Rosa, and formerly President of the Irish National Land League branch of this city, was killed last Friday by John Bailiff and Al. Reed, two well known citizens. The inquest yesterday extorted from reluctant witnesses the fact that the tragedy was caused by the infatuation of Bailiff's wife for the lawyer, and her frequent visits to his office and meetings with him at improper hours. On these occasions she was accustomed to envelope herself in a deep veil and take every precaution to insure secrecy. Noon boasted of his deeds. The intimacy had lasted only a few weeks when he imprudently addressed her a note. This was the immediate cause of the trouble. Reed is a brother of Mrs. Bailiff's.

Is She or Is She Not Dead?

HUDSON, N.Y., Nov. 11.—Mrs. John R. Dana has for some time been suffering from heart disease and dropsical troubles. Early Saturday evening, after a spasmodic action, she passed into a state which was at the time deemed death. The body was duly laid out and immediate arrangements were made for the funeral, which was decided upon for to-morrow. At the expiration of ten hours there was no decrease of the warmth of the body, neither was there any rigidity of the limbs. There were no marks of discoloration on the face and about the body. The extremities got warmer, even warmer than prior to the suspension of animation. Even up to to-day the bodily temperature is normal. They will not bury the body until it is certain that death has occurred.

The Chicago Strike.

CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—The strike at the Stock Yards is over. Late this afternoon Mr. Barry announced that an order sending the men back to work will be issued. The men will go back on the packers' terms, viz.: ten hours per day. What proportion of the strikers will find employment is rather doubtful. It is said the packers will require of every man in their employ a written guaranty that he will give the firm three or four days' notice before leaving and a money deposit will be required from every employe to cover his guaranty.

The report telegraphed from here this evening that the strike was at an end was based upon direct information from the packers. At 10 p.m. information was received from the same source that the report proves to be without foundation.

Still in Gloom.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—No provision has yet been made for re-lighting "Liberty's" torch. But few are willing to subscribe, being utterly disgusted with the inactivity of those connected with the pedestal. It is understood that M. Bartholdi is greatly incensed over the refusal of the Lighthouse Board to bear the expense of illuminating the statue. He is contemplating, it is said, the suggestion of asking the French residents of the city to establish a fund for the maintenance of the light until Congress consents to make an appropriation.

Suicide on the Eve of Marriage.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., Nov. 11.—J. C. McCormick, aged 26, a prosperous cotton broker, who was to have been married to-morrow night to Miss Carrie Lewis, a lady of high social standing and noted beauty, committed suicide this morning. He had been subject to fits of despondency, and it is supposed that the excitement attending the wedding preparations so worked on his morbid sensibility as to cause self-destruction.

Dynamite Bombs on a Railway Train.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 11.—Upon the arrival at Dubois, Pa., of the mail train north on the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg Railway today the Car Inspector discovered three dynamite bombs and caps fastened under the springs of the rear coach. The bombs were carefully removed, and there were many pale faces among the passengers when they learned the terrible fate they had so narrowly escaped. The train starts from Punxsutawney every morning, and it is undoubtedly at that place that the bombs were placed under the springs.

A Reduction of Rent Demanded.

DUBLIN, Nov. 11.—At Londonderry to-day a meeting of substantial farmers not connected with the National League adopted a resolution demanding a reduction of 40 per cent. in rents. If the landlords refuse to grant the reduction demanded, the tenants will deposit the money in a bank to the landlord's credit. As an alternative the tenants are willing to buy their holdings at fifteen years' purchase. The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland is one of the landlords interested.

M. Popp has been arrested at Paris on the charge of swindling English capitalists out of $80,000. Popp claims that gold can be extracted from mill stones and the money has been spent in experimenting.

The newly organized Woodstock Football Club (Association) beat the Ingersoll players the other day by 5 to 0. The Woodstocks would like to arrange a match with the Toronto Athas.

A bill for the suppression of betting on horse races in the State of Illinois will be presented at the coming session of the State Legislature. The movement is intended principally to stop city betting.

Mr. Gilpin, the gentleman jockey who nearly met his death by the horse Cyclone falling with him in a steeplechase at Rockaway spring meeting, has entirely recovered, and is now visiting in Toronto.

There is talk of a match between Mr. Geo. Work's Campbell and Mr. La Montagne's Zanghan, the distance to be three quarters of a mile, to carry not more than 165 pounds each. Both gentlemen are members of the Rockaway Hunt Club.

A mysterious epidemic is reported to have broken out in Booth's shanty, on the Mississippi. Five men, victims to ill, have arrived at Ivers, complaining of chilliness, prostration, vomiting, headache and pain in the back.

Harry McKillop of Detroit, well known in Ontario, has been convicted of simple larceny at Detroit and sentenced to sixty days in the House of Correction for removing a mirror, vase and lawn chair from a house he had rented.

The funeral of Fred Archer will take place to-day. The Prince of Wales and others have sent beautiful wreaths. The Medical Journal says that judging from the symptoms of Archer's illness before he committed suicide his recovery would have been almost impossible.

The London Amateur Athletic Association has been formed with Hume Cronyn as President; J. Fairgrieves, 1st Vice-President; W. Kirkendale, 2d Vice-President; G. B. Bacon, Secretary; W. K. Evans, Treasurer. It has a membership of eighty-two and its prospects are bright.

Last week the wife of Mr. S. Freeman of Brighton gave birth to triplets, all boys. The infants are healthy, and, with the mother, are doing well. The residents of the village, to signalize the event, subscribed a purse and presented it to Mrs. Freeman.

At the morning service in the Trinity Church, Brockville, Mrs. Crawford poured into the plate $1000 in gold, money which she had collected during the past few weeks towards paying off the debenture debt of the church. The total offerings for the day amounted to $1,067.20.

It is rumored that the fifty workmen recently arrested at Buchan and Magdeburg on the charge of high treason were conspiring to incite the soldiery to join in a demonstration against the Government. Papers have been seized which implicate workmen of Halle and Leipsic in the plot.

A number of Welsh clergymen who have become impoverished through the tithe war have appealed to churchmen in England for assistance. The Duke of Westminster has subscribed £500, and four Welsh bishops £100 each, and other donations are being received.

There is a movement at Peterborough, England, to arrange for the adequate celebration next year of the tercentenary of the execution of Mary Queen of Scots. It is proposed to commemorate the event both at Fotheringay Castle, where she was executed, and also at Peterborough, as the cathedral there was her first burial place.

Marshal Bazaine has had a severe fall while walking in the Retiro at Madrid. He had to be carried by the police and the bystanders to his house. Marshal Bazaine lives alone in Madrid, as Mme. Bazaine went to Mexico with some of her children last spring on family matters. He looks very old and shaky, has a long gray beard, and is very shabbily dressed.

At Wheeling, W. Va., despatch, says that the brakesmen on the Cleveland and Pittsburg Railway, running from that city to Yellow Creek, Ohio, thence east and west to Pittsburg and Cleveland, left their trains yesterday. The men refuse to give a reason for their action, but say they will meet the officials on Saturday.

The imports at the port of New York continue large for the season and the total for October representing $5,364,168 in specie and $26,332,845 in merchandise, is larger than the corresponding figures for either of the previous two years. The exports in October were smaller than any previous October in ten years.

The relatives of Hewlett Grimer, the wealthy ranchman who was assassinated Monday in Mexico, have returned from Las Vegas. The Mexican authorities refused to surrender Grimer's body. The American consul at Piedras Negras has forwarded a report of the outrage to Secretary Bayard.

The promoters of the St. Clair River tunnel have organized with the following Board: Joseph Hickson, Montreal; John Ball, Belleville; Alexander Vidal and Charles Mackenzie, Sarnia; E. W. Meddaugh and W. J. Spicer, Detroit, and Jos. Hobson, Hamilton. The Canadian and American Companies will be amalgamated. The trial tunnel will be proceeded with at once.

Two members of the "Bayham Lambs" committed a masked robbery at Mrs. Lightland's of Vienna, Walter Carnes was jailed at St. Thomas Wednesday for complicity in the crime. The ringleader, Peter Wright, an escaped convict from Hewell, Mich., took refuge in the garret of the Carnes House and kept fifty men at bay at the pistol's point, but was finally captured.

The Hamilton Times is in a position to announce that the Canadian Pacific Company has consented to abide by the terms on which the subsidy was granted to the road from Gravenhurst to Callander, and henceforth goods may be dispatched from Toronto or Hamilton to Winnipeg via Callander at the same rate per mile that will be charged from Montreal to Winnipeg.

New York Herald: The reason the New York Club management will not make a fight for Bell Darling, the Canadian catcher now under contract with the Chicago Club, is simply because they never had a contract with him. He only promised Mutrie that he would sign, but was engaged by the Chicagos before the New Yorks could reach him.

Ormonde has won for his owner, the Duke of Westminster, about $172,000. His last appearance was in the Private Sweepstakes at the Newmarket Houghton meeting, when he walked over for his forfeits. A period of well-earned repose will now be his, as his next fixed engagements are not until August, 1887, when he will be seen either in the Hardwicke Stakes or the Rous Memorial, or probably in both.

At the Washington races last week a claim of foul was made against Shamrock in the steeplechase, but was overruled by the judges on the grounds that in a steeplechase allowances must always be made for bumpings and more or less swerving, which in a flat race could not be permitted. Hence the claim of no interference, even if in a measure it affected the result of the race, had no standing in law.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1886.

THE SITUATION OF THE COUNTRY.

Hon. Edward Blake, in the course of his speech at Guelph, thus eloquently summarized the present political situation of the country. It should be attentively read and its lessons laid to heart by every elector who has an interest in the welfare of his country:

The situation of our country is such as calls for an earnest struggle. This is the time which the people exercise in act their power of self-government. This is the time at which they are enabled to decide what shall be their policy, and who shall be their rulers for the long term of five years; and there is much for which to struggle. Look at the situation of our country; weighed down by an enormous debt; loaded with a grinding and unjust taxation; groaning under an appalling expenditure; staggering beneath a tremendous deficit; saddled with railway monopolies, with land monopolies, with manufacturing monopolies; misrepresented through an infamous gerrymander Act, a vicious Franchise Act, and a corrupt disposal of the public resources; misgoverned by an effete and irresponsible Senate, a corrupt and dependent Commons, and a false, incompetent, neglectful and inadequate administration; all the bright promises and glowing predictions with which they gulled us are broken and faded; the pledged term of ten years unexampled prosperity hardly opened before its evanescent glory faded into gloom, its expansion became contraction, its exaltation depression; the promise that our policy and the pressure of our tariff would open the avenues of foreign trade and bring broken too; and now coolly proposed to be replaced by a fresh due bill payable at ten years instead of two—anything to get them over the next general election; the great fishery question neglected and postponed at first and bungled at the last; the North-West not filled with hundreds of thousands of industrious, thriving, contented settlers as promised and declared, but still almost empty, the entries of the year before last but 620, with one single sale, those of last year but 129, with one single sale; progress stayed there by misgovernment, land monopolies, railway monopolies, by sales to speculators, by the closing of large areas to settlement, by want of railway accommodation, by want of surveys, by want of titles, by bad appointments, and by other causes graver still; the most cherished infants and the chief glories of the National Policy,

SPINDLING, NERVOUS, AND DEPRESSED, wool and cotton, sugar and iron, axe, even coal and wheat, all down lately, and some seeking by combination to compel the public to make up their wasted capital; the promise of the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway without increased taxation and of the repayment of its cost and interest out of the North-West lands as the work progressed all violated; great public gifts equal to $96,000,000, capitalised with 14,000,000 acres of land, dissipated, while large further obligations have been sanctioned, and enormous nominal capitals have been created, pressing heavily on the trade of the country in tolls and tariffs; the Federal post in constant peril by efforts at centralization and encroachment; legitimate provincial jurisdiction repudiated; license laws passed at Ottawa; provincial railways seized at Ottawa; escheats claimed at Ottawa; a provincial law on a matter within our exclusive competence, and in no wise affecting the general interests of the Dominion, wantonly,

REPEATEDLY AND ERRONEOUSLY DISALLOWED

at Ottawa; efforts made for long years wrongfully, to contract the limits of Ontario; the boundary question still left unsettled, and justice denied; the lands seized on and despoiled, and still threatened to-day; the Provinces alarmed, and fighting the Dominion in the courts and at the polls for their existence. The fact that Nova Scotia was brought into the Confederation by the vote of a Legislature not elected on the question has not been forgotten; it has marred the future of the Dominion in that Province: and it is bearing bitter fruit to-day. The chances which have since offered to heal the wrong and create a better feeling have not been utilised. The promises made of light of taxes, frugal expenditure, general prosperity, and freer trade relations with neighbors have all failed. The east is depressed and soured, and a declaration in favor of repeal of the union has been made by Nova Scotia: while in the West twice within fifteen years revolt has raised its head, and millions have been lavished in war; valued lives have been lost; pain and suffering have been inflicted; antipathies have been created; our national honor has been tarnished, our all by the grossest, the most incredible folly, neglect, incapacity, and mismanagement of our rulers. (Loud and prolonged applause) And now how is it proposed to escape the indignation and avoid the condemnation of an outraged people? First by a steady and persistent effort, I am sorry to say but too successful, to degrade the tone of public morality in and out of Parliament; and latterly by tendering the issue of the scaffold of Regina, by offering the head of Riel in satisfaction, and discharge of all other debts; and by an effort to divide Canadians, to set a gulf between our populations through cries of race and religious prejudice, and so to obtain a brief term of inglorious power at the cost of the best hope of Canadian nationality. (Loud cheers.) Such is the situation of Canada to-day, a situation presenting difficulties appalling to the view of those who may be called upon to succeed your present rulers, but affording a prospect more alarming still, should power be again entrusted to their unworthy hands.

The longer the affairs of Canada are left in the hands of the present administration, the more desperate will the situation become, and the more difficult the onerous task of retrieving the ruin wrought in the past eight years, and to be wrought in the next five years, if another lease of power is granted to the political combination now misgoverning the country. Let the electors enter upon the coming contest with a broad liberal view of the duty required of them at this crisis. They will either be called upon to retain in power the present administration, which has brought the country to the end pass, or it may justly described above, or to call to the rescue the leader of a party whose principles guarantee a discontinuance of corrupt and corrupting methods. No petty personal preference or dislike should be allowed to come between the eye of the elector and the view of this object.

Floods in Italy.

ROME, Nov. 11.—The rivers Po and Adige have overflowed and submerged the country along their course. At Allenga the high waters of the Po disarmed the railway bridge while a train was crossing precipitating the cars and passengers into the river. Five persons were drowned. The town of Conscuolo is submerged. The railway service between Nice and Genoa is interrupted.

A Nitro-Glycerine Bomb.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 11.—S. D. Shelianoff, a Russian resident of this city, claims he has invented a nitro-glycerine bomb. He says he has discovered a liquid with which nitro-glycerine may be mixed, making it non-explosive, but by adding another chemical the nitro-glycerine is transformed to its original state. He uses a double shell, the inside one containing a non-explosive mixture of nitro-glycerine and the outer one a chemical which liberates the pure nitro-glycerine.

Three Fishermen Drowned.

DETROIT, Nov. 11.—Edward F. Routley, Wm. Walsh and Jos. Young, fishermen, have been drowned from a boat in the recent gale off Manitoulin Island. The men were at Gore Bay and sought to make their home at Cape Robert, twenty-five miles away, but have not since been heard from. Routley hailed from Windsor, Ont., and Young and Walsh from Bay City, Mich.

They Went Back with an Increase.

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 11.—The strikers at the Hog Abattoir all went back to work this morning at an increase of wages. The company refused to dismiss two foremen, as the strikers demanded, and also refused to treat with a committee from the Knights of Labor.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, [illegible]

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, I have suffered from Rupture for many years, and tried various trusses without success, among others, recently, two spring trusses of Dr. [illegible] York State, costing me $30. Perhaps I would state that I have worn your truss over [illegible] years, and [illegible] comfortable by day and night; even in bathing in the summer time I never [illegible] down. I believe my perfectly secure position [illegible] publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. [illegible]

This new Retaining Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest attack. It will save many times its cost in one year in medicine. Its wonderful power in curing, as well as comfort, has caused orders for our truss to come from all parts of Canada, and from many eminent physicians, who send others for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

When it is of serious importance to a man to become acquainted with a woman's true nature—say, when he contemplates marriage—his one poor chance of arriving at a right conclusion is to find himself provoked by exasperating circumstances and to fly into a passion. If the lady flies into a passion on her side, he may rely on it that her faults are more than balanced by her good qualities. If, on the other hand, she exhibits the most admirable self-control, and sets him an example which ought to make him ashamed of himself, he has seen a bad sign, and he will do well to remember it.

Miss Wigger's self-control put Herbert Linley in the wrong before she took the trouble of noticing what he had said.

"If you were not out of temper," she replied, "I might have told you that I don't allow my house to be made an office for the engagement of governesses. As it is, I merely remind you that your carriage is at the door."

He took the only course that was open to him; he took his hat.

Sydney turned away to leave the room. Linley opened the door for her. "Don't be discouraged," he whispered as she passed him; "you shall hear from me." Having said this, he made his parting bow to the school-mistress. Miss Wigger held up a peremptory forefinger and stopped him on his way out. He waited, wondering what she would do next. She rang the bell.

"You are in the house of a gentlewoman," Miss Wigger explained. "My servant attends visitors, when they leave me." A faint smell of soap made itself felt in the room; the maid appeared, wiping her smoking arms on her apron. "Dose. I wish you good-morning"—were the last words of Miss Wigger.

Leaving the house, Linley slipped a bribe into the servant's hand. "I am going to write to Miss Westerfield," he said. "Will you see that she gets my letter?"

"That I will!"

He was surprised by the fervor with which the girl answered him. Absolutely without vanity, he had no suspicion of the value which his winning manner, his bright blue eyes, and his sunny smile had conferred on his little gift of money. A handsome man was an eighth wonder of the world at Miss Wigger's school.

At the first stationer's shop that he passed he stopped the carriage and wrote his letter.

"I shall be glad, indeed, if I can offer you a happier life than the life you are leading now. It rests with you to help me to do this.

Will you send me the address of your parents if they are in London, or the name of any friend with whom I can arrange to give you a trial as governess to my little girl? I am waiting your answer in the neighborhood. If any hinderance should prevent you from replying at once, I add the name of the hotel at which I am staying—so that you may telegraph to me before I leave London to-night."

The stationer's boy, inspired by a private view of half-a-crown, set off at a run—and returned at a run with a reply.

"I have neither parents nor friends, and I have just been dismissed from my employment at the school. Without references to speak for me I must not take advantage of your generous offer. Will you help me to bear my disappointment by permitting me to pay you for a few minutes only at your hotel? Indeed, indeed, sir, I am not forgetful of what I owe to my respect for you, and my respect for myself. I only ask leave to satisfy you that I am not quite unworthy of the interest which you have been pleased to feel in S. W."

In those sad words Sydney Westerfield announced that she had completed her education.

THE STORY.

I.

Not far from the source of the famous river which rises in the mountains between Loch Katrine and Loch Lomond, and divides the highlands and the lowlands of Scotland, travelers arrive at the venerable gray walls of Mount Morven, and, after consulting their guide-books, ask permission to see the house.

What would be called, in a modern place of residence, the first floor is reserved for the occupation of the family. The great hall of entrance, and its quaint old fireplace, the ancient rooms on the same level opening out of it, are freely shown to strangers. Cultivated travelers express various opinions relating to the family portraits and the elaborately carved ceilings. The uninstructed public declines to trouble itself with criticism. It looks up at the towers and the loopholes, the battlements and the rusty old guns, which still bear witness to the perils of past times when the place was a fortress—it enters the gloomy hall, walks through the stone-paved refectory, stares at the faded pictures, and wonders at the hefty chimney-pieces hopelessly out of reach. Sometimes it sits on chairs, which are as cold and hard as iron, or timidly feels the legs of immovable tables which might be legs of elephants so far as size is concerned. When these marvels have been duly admired, and the guide-books are shut up, the emancipated tourists, emerging into light and air, all find the same social problem presented by a visit to Mount Morven: "How can the family live in such a place as that?"

If these strangers on their travels had been permitted to ascend to the first floor, and had been invited (for example) to say good-night to Mrs. Linley's pretty little daughter, they would have seen the stone walls of Kitty's bed-chamber snugly covered with velvet hangings which kept out the cold; they would have trod on a doubly-laid carpet, which set the chilly influences of the pavement beneath it at defiance; they would have looked at a bright little bed, of the last new pattern, worthy of a child's deeply delicious sleep; and they would only have discovered that the room was 300 years old when they had drawn aside the window curtains, and had revealed the adamantine solidity of the outer walls. Or, if they had been allowed to pursue their investigations a little farther, and had found their way into Mrs. Linley's sitting-room, here again a transformation scene would have revealed more modern luxury presented in the perfection which implies restraint within the limits of good taste.

But on this occasion, instead of seeing the head of a lively little child on the pillow, side by side with the head of her doll, they would have encountered an elderly lady of considerable size, fast asleep and snoring in a vast arm-chair with a book on her lap. The married men among the tourists would have recognized a mother-in-law, and would have set an excellent example to the rest—that is to say, the example of leaving the room.

The lady composed under the soporific influence of literature was a person of importance in the house—holding rank as Mrs. Linley's mother, and being otherwise noticeable for having married two husbands and survived them both.

The first of these gentlemen, the Rt.-Hon. Joseph Ormond, had been a member of parliament and had taken office under government. Mrs. Linley was his one surviving child. He died at an advanced age, leaving his handsome widow (young enough, people said, always ready to remarry) to be his daughter's well provided for, and an object of matrimonial aspiration to single gentlemen who admired size in a woman, set off by money. After hesitating for some little time Mrs. Ormond accepted the proposal of the ugliest and dullest man among the gentlemen who admired her. While she became the wife of Mr. Pressly (known in commercial circles as a merchant enriched by the sale of vinegar) she was never able to explain. Why she lamented him, with tears of sincere sorrow, when he died after two years of married life, was a mystery which puzzled her nearest and dearest friends. And why, when she indulged (a little too frequently) in recollections of her married life, she persisted in putting obscure Mr. Pressly on a level with distinguished Mr. Ormond, was a secret which this remarkable woman had never been known to reveal. Presented by, their widow with the strictest impartiality to the general view, the characters of these two husbands combined, by force of contrast, the ideal of earthly perfection. That is to say, the vices of Mr. Ormond were the virtues of Mr. Pressly, and the vices of Mr. Pressly were the virtues of Mr. Ormond.

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline. 6dw

Catarrh of Years' Standing Cured.

N. WASHINGTON, M. D., Throat and Lung Surgeon, Toronto.

DEAR SIR,—I am pleased to be able to state to you that I am now free from Catarrh. It is almost incredible that in so short a time I could have been cured of Catarrh, which has affected my health for years. A little over two months ago I took treatment from you, and to-day the Catarrh is entirely cured. Your treatment is simply a marvel. I will heartily recommend any of my friends personally, and would suggest to all thus troubled the advisability, of consulting you immediately. Accept my many thanks.

Yours, etc.,

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on especially negotiated or current accounts, and which may be withdrawn by check in such manner as the depositor may desire, is three per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and this rate will be duly declared at the rate of FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $400 and $1,000 each, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Toronto, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, offer a safe and profitable method of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture holders, they having a first claim or lien upon the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statements show that the amount so invested was over $600,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of which they are Trustees, etc., in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgages may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest computed as upon an ordinary annual rest, and no fines exacted.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, and pectoral, or nutritive properties, is unequaled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE

Liver, Blood, and Lungs.

If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, have sallow color of skin, or yellowish-brown spots on face or body, frequent headache or dizziness, bad taste in mouth, internal heat or chills, alternating with hot flushes, low spirits and gloomy forebodings, irregular appetite, coated tongue, you are suffering from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and Torpid Liver, or "Biliousness." In many cases all or part of these symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has no equal.

For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Consumptive Night-Sweats, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. Send ten cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's book on Consumption. Sold by Druggists.

LOCAL NEWS.

Oysters! Oysters!

Choice Baltimore Oysters received daily at Ormond's.

No Church Parade.

At the regular battalion drill last night of the 57th Peterborough Rangers it was not decided to have church parade Sunday as proposed, Col. Rogers not being present.

Personal.

Mr. Chas. Clathe, the celebrated truss manufacturer and surgical machinist, is registered at the Oriental. He may be consulted professionally to-day and to-morrow.

Division Court.

Division Court was held to-day at the County House, Judge Weller presiding. The usual "grist" of petty cases was disposed of, but no business of public importance was transacted.

Let Us Pay For It.

Chief Cooper this morning received a telegram from Omemee as follows:—"Look out for, horse with white face, sore shoulder; gray blanket, lined with striped linen; headstall, with chains."

A New Boiler.

Mr. G. W. Hall, of the Peterborough Biscuit Works, is putting in a new steam boiler, manufactured by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Co., and enlarging the boiler room.

Extending the Mains.

The Waterworks Company are extending their mains on Stewart street, from Charlotte southward, and will continue the work as long as the frost permits.

Broke His Arm.

Wednesday afternoon Melville, a little son of Melville Millar, Esq., while playing in the Central School grounds, slipped and fell, breaking his right arm near the wrist. The little fellow is rapidly recovering.

The "Trumpet" Sounds.

The first number of the first volume of the "Saved Band" Trumpet has just been issued from the EXAMINER office. It is a neat little four-page weekly, full of interesting war notes and Christian reminiscences, and certainly worth $1 a year. The headquarters of the Saved Band are now located in Peterborough.

A Chance for Bargains.

Mr. R. B. Stone, barrister, having decided to break up house-keeping, and his household goods will be sold by auction, at his late residence, corner of Brock and Rubidge streets, by Mr. Charles Stapleton, on Monday, Nov. 15th. The goods are all in good condition, nearly new, and consist of drawing and dining room suites in walnut, brussels and tapestry carpets, etc., etc. Sale at 12 o'clock.

The National League.

At a meeting of the Peterborough branch of the National League last evening, in the Murray street Separate School building, the following officers were elected:

PRESIDENT—Dr. O'Sullivan.
1st VICE-PRESIDENT—John Hackett.
2nd VICE-PRESIDENT—John Delaney.
3rd VICE-PRESIDENT—John O'Brien.
SECRETARY—John McIlmoyle.
TREASURER—John Corkery.

A meeting will be held in the same place this evening, at which a large attendance is requested, as business of importance is to be transacted.

Pugilistic Fire vs. Ice Water.

A couple of young men, thirsting for each other's blood, engaged in a desperate fight in front of Fitzgerald & Stanger's carriage works on Brock street Thursday afternoon, surrounded by a crowd of boys and men who urged them on to greater brutality. All went merry as a wedding bell until a pail of ice-cold water was showered on their gory heads from a window above. This unexpected flank attack disconcerted the belligerents and effectually damped their pugilistic ardor, and they dissolved connection by mutual consent.

The Gospel Army Case.

In the case of Cooke vs. Baxter, tried at the Toronto Assizes, in which Rev. Jonathan Cooke sued to recover from Rev. M. P. Baxter, head of the Gospel Army, the sum of $237 for services of plaintiff and daughter at an Army outpost, Chief Justice Cameron gave judgment for the plaintiff for $152.57. In his remarks his Lordship said he regretted the contradiction of witnesses in this case. If in matters of religion we cannot have the truth, it was difficult to say where it should be found. They had two Gospel Army officers on each side swearing to directly opposite facts, and this brought a scandal on the way in which the Army was either conducted or officered. It was his painful duty to determine where the truth lay between these parties. The Army officers at headquarters did not agree among themselves, one witness being flatly contradicted by two other officers. He preferred accepting the evidence of plaintiff's daughter, and remarked that there was a moral obligation to keep the case out of court.

"An Echo Answers, Where?"

And the answer comes quickly back again: "Morrow, Tierney & Co.'s for fine groceries."

Young Men's Liberal Club.

A large attendance is requested at an important meeting of the Young Men's Liberal Club, to be held in their rooms to-night at eight o'clock.

Public Meeting.

Don't forget the date, Nov. 25th. This lecture will be the greatest treat offered to the people of Peterborough; he is one of the most effective speakers in the British House of Commons. Secure your seats at Hartley's.

Worth Remembering.

There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. Is cured Mrs. John Siddall, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain. 2w46d

Cheese Shipments.

This afternoon Mr. B. Green shipped two carloads of cheese via G. T. R. from Peterborough to Mr. Dingwall, of Morrisburg; yesterday he shipped one carload from Lindsay to the same man. On Monday Mr. Claxton will ship a couple of carloads of October cheese to Mr. Warrington, of Belleville, which will close the shipping season in Victoria and Peterborough counties.

Deserved Promotion.

We understand, says the Belleville Intelligencer, that Mr. R. M. Roy, who has for many years ably filled the office of Tile Inspector on the Grand Trunk, has been promoted to the position of Store Inspector on the Midland Division, with a considerable increase of salary. Mr. Roy's headquarters will be in Peterborough, which will necessitate his removal from Belleville—a fact which will temper the rejoicing of his many friends in this, his native city, over his well-deserved promotion.

Agents Wanted.

Clement & Co., of 48 Wellington street, East, Toronto, or 31 St. Francois-Xavier street, Montreal, want a general agent. They are the exclusive owners of the Schofield Patent Cake Griddle, the Celebrated Emery Knife Sharpener (known as the "Carver's Friend"), the Emery Scythe Sharpener, the Jay-Eye-See Wire Carry Comb, and other specialties. If you want to make money, write to them at once for an outfit, and to secure what territory you can handle. 9d110

George Street Methodist Church.

It will be gratifying to all the members and friends of the George street congregation to know that the services of the church will be conducted on Sabbath, 14th inst, in the main audience room. The alterations made have given a decided improvement to the appearance of the interior, besides giving increased sitting capacity to the building. Services on Sabbath as follows:

11 a.m.—Sermon by Rev. I. Tovell, pastor; subject: "The elements of an aggressive church." The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered at the close of the service.

7 p.m.—Rev. Mr. Tovell will again conduct the service and speak on "The strength and importance of young men in the church."

Special collections at both services, and a collection for the poor at the sacramental service. The public invited and welcome.

A Recommendation for Chief Cooper.

A gentleman from Belleville who was in town yesterday says it is the general opinion and desire of the people of the Bay city that Capt. Cooper, Chief of Police, Peterborough, be appointed Chief of the Belleville Police force in the stead of Hugh McKinnon, who has gone to Hamilton. Probably the best recommendation Capt. Cooper could receive is an extract from a recent letter of Police Magistrate Dumble to the Town Council, in which he says:—"Capt. Cooper is a good Chief and a credit to the town. It saves much trouble to have a Chief of his aptness and intelligence, and I am satisfied the entire community will be sorry if he cannot be retained." It is only natural that Capt. Cooper should wish to better his position, but if an increase of salary will secure the services of such a "zealous and efficient officer," the Town Council should not allow a few dollars extra per annum to stand in the way of retaining Capt. Cooper as Chief of our police force.

The Mighty Dollar.

The extremely funny and side-splitting comedy by B. E. Wolf, "The Mighty Dollar," was presented to another large audience at the Opera House last night by the Tavernier Dramatic Company. The audience were kept in roars of laughter almost continually by the absurdities and eccentricities of Mrs. George G. Gilfory, (Ida Van Cortland) who had lived so long abroad and possessed a peculiar penchant for bad French, and the Hon. Bardwell Slote, from the Oshawa district, (Mr. Arthur Tavernier) who created no end of amusement by his interpretation of the character of an old-time down-east Yankee. Alice Endres, as "Libbie Dear," again took her part to perfection, her love scenes with "Chollie Brood" (Charles Kidder) being most laughable. Mr. Kidder also played "Charlie" with good effect. Through the play runs a vein of sentiment, Col. Tom Dart (R. A. Chamberlain) and wife Clara (Mary E. Brankson), Blanche Mossthorne (Kate Mitchell), Rowland Vance (I. A. Washburne), and Arthur Lemaitre (M. F. Drew), being the parties thereto. All ends well, however, misunderstandings are swept away and happiness reigns. Senator Weatherwax was well represented by J. Migan Dorion, poet, athlete, runner, boxer, etc., who was loudly applauded. To-night the "Romance of a Poor Young Man" will occupy the boards.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.

Advertisers in the DAILY EXAMINER are requested to hand in their changes by 6 o'clock p.m. for the next day's paper. This will save disappointment, as it is impossible to make so many changes as are sometimes sent in on one day.

Have you an old Sore, Cut, Burn, Bruise, Corn, Bunion, Salt Rheum, Pimple, Blotches Rough Hands or Face? If so, there is but one cure, namely, McGregor & Parke's Carbolic Cerate. If you but try it, it will convince you. It costs but 25 cents at John McKee's drug store. eodw45

East Riding Liberals.

Representatives of Norwood—An Enthusiastic and Large Gathering of Liberals—John Long, Esq., Elected Chairman of the Convention—Resolutions Passed, &c. &c.—Another Victory Assured.

Yesterday the largest and most widely representative gathering of Liberals ever assembled in East Peterborough met at Norwood to re-organize the Liberal Association and to select candidates.

THE ELECTION OF OFFICERS

resulted as follows:

PRESIDENT.—James Drummond, Otonabee.
1st VICE-PRESIDENT—W. Maher, Douro.
2nd VICE-PRESIDENT—Jas. Robb, Dummer.
SECRETARY—G. J. Galvin, Lakefield.
TREASURER—James Moore, Asphodel.
EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—The following were elected members of this committee, as below:

Ashburnham.—Messrs. Stewart Wright, John Smith, John Wright and William Duncan.

Asphodel.—Messrs. John Walsh, Samuel Scott, Geo. Elliott, Wm. Sharpe, Councillor John Fitzpatrick, Donald Cameron, R. Harrison, M. Knox, R. Tedhope, I. Landrigan.

Belmont and Methuen.—Messrs. John Wright, D. McMichael, Wm. Burgess, Peter Preston, John Rabbell, Samuel Rabbell, Jas. Holbrook and W. Matheson.

Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos.—Messrs. F. Elmhirst, Robt. McGill, Wm. Tucker, James Scott, Wm. Wilson, Hugh Caldwell and Alex. Brown.

Cavendish.—Messrs. Wm. Griffin, Benjamin Woods and Alex. Southward.

Dysart.—Messrs. J. F. Young and William Prust.

Douro.—Messrs. E. Foley, J. M. Walsh, M. Sullivan and Thos. Porter.

Dummer.—Messrs. A. F. Chesbo, A. R. Kidd, J. J. Crowe, D. Kelly, Henry Maw, Alex. Waite and J. M. Kidd.

Glamorgan.—Mr. Adam Graham.

Harvey.—Messrs. Jas. Hicks, Robert Shaw, W. P. Chase, Wm. Irwin, J. P. Davis, George Smith, N. Crowe and James Purdy.

Haliburton.—Mr. A. Niven.

Lakefield.—Messrs. E. Graham, Dr. Caldwell and John Hall.

Monaghan.—Messrs. P. Austin and John Anderson.

Norwood.—Messrs. Jas. Pengelly, R. Wilson, J. M. Clarke, W. H. Mallons, James McNicholl, and F. W. Stephenson.

Otonabee.—Messrs. James Hanlon, George Stewart and Robert Doyell.

The meeting then proceeded with the nomination of candidates.

Mr. A. R. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Hugh Nelson, nominated John Long, Esq., Reeve of Otonabee, as Liberal candidate.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams, seconded by Mr. James Robb, nominated A. Niven, Esq., of Haliburton.

Mr. James Moore, seconded by Mr. F. Elmhirst, nominated J. B. McWilliams, Esq.

Mr. McWILLIAMS stated that he must decline the nomination under the circumstances. He would not accept it unless there were no other candidate and to prevent the riding going by default. But when the meeting had two strong men like Messrs. Niven and Lang to choose between as a candidate, he thought he should not be called upon to make the sacrifice the acceptance of the nomination would involve.

Mr. McWilliams' retirement left the choice between Messrs. Lang and Niven, and a ballot being taken, it was found that Mr. Lang had a decisive majority.

Mr. NIVEN expressed his surprise that he, a comparative stranger, personally, to all the gentlemen present—except two—should have taken so large a ballot. He thanked them for it, and as Mr. Lang had received a majority of the ballots, he had much pleasure in moving that his nomination be made unanimous.

The motion was carried with perfect unanimity and with the greatest enthusiasm.

Mr. Lang, in accepting the nomination, thanked the meeting for the flattering confidence reposed in him, and gave the assurance that he would do all in his power to lead the Liberal forces of the riding on to victory.

THE LOCAL STANDARD BEARER.

For the representation of the riding in the Local Legislature, Thos. Blezard, Esq., M. P.P., was selected without a dissenting voice on the suggestion of another member.

Mr. Blezard thanked the meeting for his unanimous nomination and accepted the trust; he made a brief and stirring speech, in which he justified the course of the Mowat administration on several points on which they were entitled to the gratitude of the people.

St. Andrew's Society.

The Annual Meeting—Election of Officers—Financial Reports—A Scottish Concert—A Rousing Meeting.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Society was held on Thursday evening at the office of Mr. Wm. Cummings, the town collector. The meeting was well attended and very enthusiastic. John Erskine, President, occupied the chair.

After the reading and confirming of the minutes of previous meetings, the treasurer read his financial statement of the past year, which showed a balance of $91.18 to the credit of the Society.

A letter was read from Dr. Massie, of Keene, regretting his inability to be present at the meeting.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers for the ensuing year were unanimously elected:—

PRESIDENT—Thos. Menzies.
1st VICE-PRESIDENT—Jas. Hendrie.
2ND VICE-PRESIDENT—Jas. Stewart.
3RD VICE-PRESIDENT—John Stewart.
TREASURER—Melville Millar.
SECRETARY—W. Messing (re-elected.)
CHAPLAINS—Revs. E. F. Torrance and J. Wallace.
PHYSICIANS—Dr. J. T. Halliday, Dr. R. W. Hall, Dr. Fife, and Dr. John Massie (Keene.)
BARD—W. Telford, Smith.
PIPER—Donald McDonald, Peterborough.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.—The following were appointed members of the Executive Committee for the town and county of Peterborough:—

Town.—Messrs. Geo. Queen, Adam Turner, Alex. Wood, E. H. D. Hall, John Paterson, W. Millar, D. D. Galletly, W. Paterson, jr., Adam Hall, W. W. Johnston, P. Hamilton, John Spence, Jas. Cummings.

Otonabee.—Messrs. John Millar, Donald MacFarlane.

Keene.—Wm. Campbell and Dr. Massie.

Smith.—Messrs. H. Bowie, W. Graham, Alex. Morrison.

Lakefield.—Messrs. Robert Graham and John Lobister.

Ennismore.—Messrs. Thos. Telford, W. Cummins.

Monaghan, North—Messrs. Joseph Tully, Wm. Fowler.

Asphodel and Belmont.—John Brackenridge, J.P., W. Matheson.

Normanby.—W. H. Scarborough.

Douro.—Thomas Russell, Joseph Renwick.

Harvey.—Geo. Smith.

COMMITTEE appointed by St. Andrew's Soc.

A report from the committee appointed to arrange for a Scottish concert was read. The report stated that the committee had made very satisfactory arrangements with Prof. MacDuff for a concert to be held on St. Andrew's eve, under the auspices of the Society.

On motion of Melville Millar, seconded by Mr. Geo. Queen, the report of the committee was adopted.

Mr. John Erskine, Thos. Menzies, D. D. Galletly and the Secretary were appointed a committee to act, on behalf of the Society, in conjunction with Prof. MacDuff.

Messrs. John Erskine and Melville Millar were appointed to wait upon Rev. Mr. Torrance to request him to deliver the annual sermon to the Society in St. Paul's Church, on Sunday evening, 28th inst.

On motion of D. McLeod, seconded by Geo. Queen, the thanks of the meeting were tendered the retiring officers.

Moved by Geo. Queen, seconded by W. Cummings, that this Society celebrate Burns' anniversary by a supper on 25th January next.—Carried.

Moved by John Paterson, seconded by Jas. Stewart, that the annual membership fee be $1.—Carried.

On motion of Jas. Hendrie, seconded by D. D. Galletly, the following section was added to the by-laws: That, in order to encourage more social intercourse, all the members are invited to meet quarterly with the Executive Committee, and after the business has been transacted by the committee, the chairman will receive the meeting into a social gathering.

The meeting then adjourned.

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 30 per cent higher.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, some and I spec our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or rough cast buildings. We cordially invite those who are in the act of renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLESLE, 150 Carl Street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church. wd

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1886.

AN UNRULY TONGUE.

Costs Mrs. Miranda Thompson of South Byron, N.Y., $2500.

BATAVIA, N.Y., Nov. 12.—A remarkable suit for slander, brought by Mrs. Rachel Bushman, an aged woman of South Byron, against Mrs. Miranda Thompson, her next door neighbor, a widow with a comfortable fortune, was concluded here yesterday. The slander consisted of a report which Mrs. Thompson is alleged to have circulated that Mrs. Bushman had stolen an armful of stove wood from the woodshed of the defendant in the early morning of Aug. 4, last year. The theft occurred on Tuesday, and on the following Friday Mrs. Bushman heard that the story was being circulated about her in the village. On Saturday Mrs. Bushman called upon her sister-in-law, Mrs. Henry Bushman, and while there Mrs. Thompson came in and addressing the plaintiff, said: "I haven't seen you before since I saw you stealing my wood."

"I never, never, stole a stick of your wood in my life," was Mrs. Bushman's rejoinder.

Mrs. Thompson then said she had seen a woman taking her wood Tuesday morning. "And the woman went with it through my back yard and up your back steps and I can swear to it," was the language she used.

About forty women gave evidence in the case. Mrs. Thompson testified that she had never said it was Mrs. Bushman who had stolen her wood, and that in what she had said she did not mean to insinuate that Mrs. Bushman was the guilty person. The jury awarded the plaintiff $2500.

BULLETS IN HIS FOREHEAD.

Mysterious Attempt on a Young Man's Life at Chatham.

CHATHAM, Nov. 12.—A young man named Valentine Zimmer, whose parents live in Harwich Township, but who has been working for Mr. Guerber, a gardener in Chatham, was the victim of an attempted assassination. While taking off his boots in Guerber's house he heard a footstep, and was rudely grasped by some one who shouted "Hulks." Shots were then fired. When he recovered consciousness it was found that he had received three bullets in the forehead. Dr. Tye extracted the bullets, none of which had pierced the skull. They ranged along on the forehead, and one had flattened and glanced upward. It is of the 22-calibre, medium size, and smashed out of shape, showing that Zimmer owes his life to a good, strong, bullet-proof cranium. He suffers a good deal from the effect of the shock, his head being much swelled, but will pull through all right. The would-be assassin is not known, nor has any plausible theory been found to explain the mysterious outrage.

AGAINST THE USE OF CIDER.

Meeting of the Temperance Women of Prince Edward County.

PICTON, Nov. 12.—At the meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Prince Edward County yesterday, special reference was made to the pledge against profanity or bad words, the wine used at the Lord's Supper and cider. The cider question evoked prolonged discussion. Many speakers deeply deplored the injury being done in the county through the use of fermented cider, and many spoke in strong terms against the use of cider in any form.

A resolution was adopted to the effect that a petition be circulated through the county requesting the Ontario Legislature to allow unmarried women over 18 to vote for the Ontario member.

A Montreal Female Fiend.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—Philomene [illegible], who, it will be remembered, was arrested some days ago charged with maltreating a French girl named Marie Loupe Joubert, was before Judge Dugas to-day. The girl gave her testimony in a straightforward manner, and related her story, which, if true, places the case among the most revolting that has ever been before our courts. The enquiry will be continued on Monday, after which there is little doubt but that the accused will be committed for trial.

The Peoria Defaulter at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 12.—J. F. Hoke, the ex-bookkeeper of the Peoria National Bank, was brought before Judge Dugas to-day, when the evidence was continued for his extradition. F. C. Clark, a director of the bank, swore that the total amount of Hoke's defalcation was $188,000, of which $110,000 had been taken from the Peoria National Bank and $78,000 from its predecessor, the Mechanics' National Bank. Mrs. Hoke returned $40,000 to the bank.

A Barge on a Sand Bottom.

PORT COLBORNE, Nov. 12.—The barge J. M. Ketchum, bound from Oconto to Tonawanda with lumber, went ashore this evening at Long Beach, about seven miles above this harbor. She was in tow of the steam barge White & Friend, which became disabled this morning and let go of the Ketchum. The barge is on a sand bottom here.

Sporting World: What will the American Jockey Club do next spring is a question that has been asked more than once, and curiously is on the qui vive as to what steps the club will take in the betting question. It stands to reason that the club will not be able to add to stakes and offer purses commensurate with the demands of modern times, if it cannot depend upon a suitable return from the betting privileges. The experience at the fall meetings at Jerome Park and at Prospect Park proves conclusively that the race meetings cannot be conducted without betting.

BULGARIA'S THRONE.

THE KING OF DENMARK WILL NOT LET HIS SON ACCEPT IT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 12.—The Journal de St. Petersbourg says the Marquis of Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet makes Austria responsible for the maintenance of the peace of the east. It adds: "The Emperor Francis Joseph's speech to the delegations in Buda-Pesth on Saturday testified that he was conscious of the responsibility created by the Marquis of Salisbury making British policy dependent upon that of Austria with regard to affairs in the east. It may be hoped that the warlike note sounded in the Guild Hall will be lost in the eminently pacific note struck at Buda-Pesth."

Not Liked by Austro-Hungary.

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—It is semi-officially stated that the Prince of Mingrelia is looked upon with general disfavor throughout Austro Hungary as a candidate for the Bulgarian throne.

His Father Says He Needn't.

SOFIA, Nov. 12.—The King of Denmark, on behalf of his son, Prince Waldemar has sent a telegram to Tirnova, expressing thanks for the honor conferred upon his son, but declining upon any condition to allow him to accept the throne.

James D. Fish Recommended for Pardon.

AUBURN, Nov. 12.—Dr. John G. Johnson of Brooklyn, the family physician of James D. Fish in his prosperous days, arrived in Auburn yesterday and immediately after breakfast called upon Fish's daughter, who is living quietly on East Genesee-street. After a brief consultation with Miss Fish Dr. Johnson went to the State Prison, where he was met by Prison Physician Hoxie. Mr. Fish was called to the warden's room, and the two physicians made a thorough examination of the physical condition of the convict. They agreed that, physically and mentally, Fish was so broken down that he could not survive longer confinement. A report of the examination in detail, recommending Fish's pardon on these grounds, will be prepared for the consideration of President Cleveland and signed by both physicians.

United States District Attorney Walker has reported adversely upon the petition of James D. Fish for a pardon.

Crazed by Starvation.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Daniel Bowen of Boston was committed to the insane ward of the County Jail yesterday. His condition was desperate in the extreme. He was literally crazed by starvation. He had walked to the city from Madison, Wis., and for days wandered the streets without food, resting place or adequate clothing. Continued privation dethroned his intellect, and yesterday, finding himself in Lincoln Park, he deliberately waded into the lake until he went beyond his depth. He was drowning, when a park officer rode to his rescue. When revived he lapsed into spasms, and when again restored to consciousness was found to be insane. The food, warmth and skilful treatment given him in the insane ward of the jail has restored him somewhat, and his ultimate recovery is expected.

The Naval Plans of France.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—At a meeting of the Budget Committee to-day M. Aube, the Minister of Marine and the Colonies, declined to modify his naval plans, declaring that without the additional credits asked for he would be unable to guarantee the security of the country. He said the carrying out of the proposed improvements would require only 33,000,000 francs of 140,000,000 necessary for the Budget of 1887. The committee is believed to be in favor of Aube's plans, but it postponed its decision until the deputies determine whether to maintain or suppress extraordinary budgets.

Stormy Railway Meeting at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—A stormy meeting of the passenger agents of the east-bound lines was held to-day. The Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway and Baltimore and Ohio demanded protection and authority to meet the cut rates of the Chicago and Atlantic, the demand being put in the form of a resolution and voted down. It is threatened that the Grand Trunk general passenger agent will be ordered to ignore the association and meet its competitor's rate. The Chicago and Atlantic is still selling first class tickets from Chicago to New York at $17.

Boycotting the Meat Packers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—The general situation at the stock yards shows no essential change, beyond the fact that applicants for work were more numerous than on any previous day, and many of the old men were included in the list, having apparently concluded to accept the protection afforded and secure their former places while there is still an opportunity. The troops guarded all the main approaches this morning, but encountered no turbulent crowd.

A new feature of the strike is the boycotting of Armour's meats by District Assemblies 57 and 24, Knights of Labor.

A local boycott has been placed on Underwood & Co.

Trade in the United States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show a continued lack of general activity in the distribution of staples, with exceptions in favor of iron, steel and lumber. Dry goods continue to bear the brunt of the falling off in the demand, while textiles generally and produce are quiet. At a few points the retail trade has been stimulated by colder weather, but wholesale merchants now explain that country traders have not disposed sufficiently of their recently heavy purchases to warrant a revival in buying.

He Preferred Suicide to Lynching.

SEDALIA, Mo., Nov. 12.—Chas. Hudson, colored, who was in jail here waiting trial for a heinous crime, poured kerosene over his clothing and the bed last night and then applied a match. His entire body was instantly in flames, but no cry escaped him. The jailer was attracted by the smoke, but before the flames could be extinguished the man was fatally burned. Hudson feared he would be lynched.

Charges Against a Dead Man.

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—George F. Davis, a young man of Boston, was associated with R. J. Lane in the management of the Saccarappa Leather Board Company, which is said to to have absorbed so large a share of the funds of the Abingdon National Bank. Davis died suddenly two weeks ago. It is now asserted that he embezzled $60,000 or $70,000 of the bank's money which had been invested in the leather-board enterprise. Lane, it is claimed, was Davis's victim and did not profit by the bank's misfortune. Strenuous efforts are making at Washington to compromise the case against Lane.

A Temperance Woman Arrested for Perjury.

JACKSON, Mich., Nov. 12.—At the county convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union yesterday Sheriff Barbour, of Calhoun county, walked up the aisle of the Congregational Church, when the union was in session, and laying his hand, with a dramatic gesture on the shoulder of Mary J. Franks, a milliner of Cresco, told her she was arrested for forgery. The amount involved is $1500. The prisoner was taken to Marshall.

FORCED TO BE A BRIDE

THE LATEST ARISTOCRATIC SCANDAL IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Sebright divorce case was up for preliminary hearing to-day. The action is brought by Mrs. Arthur Sebright, who asked to have her marriage declared void on the ground that she was induced to consent to have the ceremony performed by fear and that the marriage has never been consummated. The plaintiff is a daughter of Lady Scott of Southampton and noted for her beauty, and the defendant is a well known London club man. The plaintiff's friends assert that the defendant, coveting her private fortune of $200,000, managed to inveigle her into financial transactions which finally fell upon her for settlement at a time when she had to choose between refusing to pay and compromise, or escape by marrying the defendant and permitting him to liquidate.

At the hearing to-day Mrs. Sebright's counsel admitted the marriage, which he said was performed at the Registrar's last January. He contended, however, that no marital relation had ever taken place; that the parties had never lived together and that there had been no impropriety in the financial transaction which caused their marriage. Mr. Sebright had induced the petitioner to accept certain bills and she had been led to believe that a marriage ceremony between her and the respondent would relieve her of the financial liability incurred.

The Judge said he thought that under the circumstances it would be impossible to nullify the marriage and announced that he would hear testimony with a view to deciding if there was sufficient reason to grant a divorce.

Mrs. Sebright testified that through her father she had inherited in her own name $130,000 in addition to a reversion of $150,000 on the death of her mother. She had met Mr. Sebright when she was but 15 years of age, and the acquaintance had been continuous. He proposed marriage to her after they had been acquainted a short time, but her mother declined to permit an engagement. Mr. Sebright continued his visits to the house, however, and was received on terms of friendship. Finally Mr. Sebright induced witness to engage herself to him in marriage unknown to her mother. After this he persuaded her from time to time to sign "bits of paper" which he supplied. Eventually witness ascertained that she had appended her name to notes and bills, and made herself liable for sums amounting to $16,625. Writs were served upon her in actions for these amounts. She then appealed to Sebright. He said the only way in which she could save herself from ruin was by marrying him. This, witness said, she refused to do. Mr. Sebright next requested witness to meet him alone. She did so. He took her to a place unknown to her, but which she learned was the Registry office. She wished to leave the room the moment she found where she was. Count Balhaan, a friend of Sebright's, who was present, blocked the door, and Sebright said to her that he would shoot her if she dared to show that she was not acting with free will in the marriage which was about to take place. He then forced a ring on her finger, and the witness threw it off and again tried to leave the room. Sebright seized her by the arm and forced her back and made her sign the register. Witness said she did not hear the Registrar read the form of marriage nor hear him say anything. "I was too upset and too dreadfully frightened," she declared, "to hear anything at the time."

The Registrar deposed that when Mrs. Sebright was before him, she was agitated but that she repeated the marriage declarations without any hesitation and also the marriage form when Sebright took her hand. The witness added that subsequently the lady threw the marriage ring on the floor but signed the registry without hesitation or demurring.

Lady Scott, Mrs. Sebright's mother, and two doctors testified that the petitioner was completely broken down mentally and physically after the ceremony, and was always tremulous and crying and in constant terror.

At this point the hearing of the case was adjourned. During the proceedings the court was crowded with people belonging to the aristocratic class.

The London Poor.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The Local Government Board has made public its reply to the letter recently addressed to it by the Social Democratic Federation calling attention to the alleged enormous increase in the number of the poor and unemployed in London. The board's reply asserts that in the month of October, 1886, the percentage of paupers in London was twenty-two to every thousand of the population, while in the same month of the year 1868 the percentage was forty-two to the thousand, and argues that these figures prove that if pauperism does increase in London, the Government will be quite able to manage its attendant evils. The board promises to assist the local authorities in the work of relieving the poor.

Sir Fred Roberts' Work Cut Out.

MANDALAY, Nov. 12.—The civil law is inadequate to restore order in Burmah and severe measures of repression are imminent. The Dacoits subject to cruel torture all natives who are suspected of loyalty to the British. They have also for the purpose of arousing hostility to the British spread false reports that the British intend to restore King Thebaw to the throne and then leave the country.

Boycotted into Bankruptcy.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—A tradesman of this city who has gone into bankruptcy explained to the Court to-day that his bankruptcy was due to his being boycotted by the National League, the effect of which was to reduce his business sixty per cent. The Judge before whom the case was tried said that under the circumstances an offer to the creditors of five shillings in the pound would be reasonable.

Fatal Fire in a Ball Room.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—The Harding Casino in this city took fire last night while a ball was in progress. Four persons were killed and a large number injured.

An Earthquake in Portugal.

LISBON, Nov. 12.—A shock of earthquake was experienced in the Province of Beira yesterday. Much alarm is felt in Lisbon in consequence.

A Big Naval "Blowout."

LONDON, Nov. 12.—It is proposed to hold a gigantic naval review at Spithead in honor of the Queen's Jubilee.

Navigation Prospects at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—There are good prospects of a rise in the rivers and a resumption of navigation, which has been practically suspended since last spring. Rain has been falling almost continually for forty-eight hours and enough water is expected down to permit of the shipment of near ten million bushels of coal to Cincinnati, Louisville and the Southwest.

They Didn't Clear the Town Out.

CHADWICK, Mo., Nov. 12.—About a hundred "bald knobbers" entered the town at 1 o'clock yesterday and began to raid the saloons, intending to burst open barrels and pour whisky out. While they were at work citizens opened fire on them. The shooting became general, which resulted in a stampede of the "bald knobbers." Only one man was seriously wounded, and he was a member of the "bald knobbers'" gang.

The Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1886.

ANOTHER PROVINCE HEARD FROM.

At the elections for the Legislative Council of Prince Edward Island on Thursday the Liberals secured a spendid victory. Out of thirteen seats the Liberals carried ten. They had a majority of two or three in the old Council, from which they have now expelled two members of the Conservative Government.

The Globe thus refers to the recent Liberal nominations for West Peterborough:—"The Reformers of West Peterborough have made two strong nominations in Mr. George A. Cox for the Dominion and Mr. J. R. Stratton for the Provincial respectively. Mr. Stratton, as editor of the EXAMINER, one of the best local papers in the country, is well and favourably known to the bulk of the electorate. He would bring to the Legislature a good deal of political experience and a great capacity for work. Mr. Cox has not as yet signified his acceptance of the nomination. It is to be trusted that he will be able to see his way clear to engaging in the contest. He is one of the very able business men of whom Canada may well be proud. His executive talents would at once place him high among the able representatives whom the Reform party sends to Ottawa. Of course it would involve a considerable sacrifice of very valuable time on his part, but the country needs the services of such men."

Lakefield.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

FORESTRY.

At the regular meeting of Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. F., held in the Court room on Thursday evening, the following officers were installed by Past Chief Ranger Baldon:

Bro. W. McDonald ..... C.R.
" Thomas Wallace ..... V.C.R.
" Henry C. Garbutt ..... Chap.
" Wm. Eastland ..... Sec'y.
" Wm. M. Graham ..... Treas.
" Robert McWilliams ..... F. Sec'y.
" John Baldon ..... S.W.
" George Fitzgerald ..... J.W.
" Robert Cotton ..... S.B.
" John No theott ..... J.B.

After the ceremony of installation had been gone through, the C. R. requested that Bro. Dr. Bell, the retiring Financial Secretary, would kindly give his attention to P. C. R. Bro. Baldon, who had a few remarks to make to him, and, upon the doctor giving his consent, proceeded to read the following address:

To Bro. Alex. Bell, M.D.:

We, the officers and members of Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. F., cannot allow the present opportunity to pass without expressing our high appreciation of the services rendered to the Court by you, in the office of Financial Secretary and in other ways.

The Court is indebted in no small degree to your active interest for its present prosperous condition.

You will please accept the accompanying watch and chain as a small token of the esteem in which you are held by the members of the Court, and we hope that you may long live to wear them and that, as in the past, you will still continue to be one of the active workers of Court Lakefield.

Signed on behalf of the Court,
JOHN C. BALDON, P.C.R.
JOHN H. McWILLIAMS, P.C.R.
JOHN CLARKE, P.C.R.
ROBERT GRAHAM, P.C.R.
ROBERT Q. DENCH, P.C.R.

Bro. Clarin presented Bro. Bell with the watch, which bears the following inscription:—"Presented to Bro. Dr. A. Bell by Court Lakefield, No. 43, C. O. F., Nov. 11th, 1886."

To say that Bro. Bell was taken by surprise is no name for it. The Doctor was fairly caught napping, and for a time did not know how to reply, but finally expressed his thanks to the members of the court for their kind gift. But what he valued more than all was the brotherly feeling that had prompted them to make the presentation, as it proved that his efforts to forward the interests of Court Lakefield for the past seven years had been appreciated, which was reward enough in itself. He assured them that, although now out of office, he would still remain in the front ranks as a working member, especially in any help he could give to the present financial secretary, or which would forward the welfare of the Court, being still in a position to do so as their Court Physician. He regretted he could not thank them as his heart prompted, but he had been taken so by surprise, they would have to "take the will for the deed."

Millionaire Ministers.

The New York Graphic is certainly well informed on Canadian affairs, especially if its reference to the financial standing of the Toronto and Hamilton parties is as correct as its statement regarding the clerical status of the Peterborough gentleman. It says:—"Three Methodist preachers in Canada are millionaires. They are W. E. Sanford, of Hamilton; John Macdonell, of Toronto, and Geo. A. Cox, of Peterborough.

At the Guttenberg races on Thursday the judges thought it their duty to substitute A. McCarthy, Jr., as jockey to ride Bonnie S. in place of Cross, who had weighed out to ride, as many rumors were current that the race would not be run on the merits of the horse. The pool-selling gave evidence on the form of the horses that there was a screw loose somewhere, and the authorities acted promptly, as the result shows. Bonnie S. won very cleverly in the hands of the clever middle-weight jockey, and their action was cordially endorsed by those present.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

This Cut Shows one Side only.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 23rd, 1886.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over[illegible] years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spiralform trusses made in New York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my burden. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture will not come down. It holds me perfectly under all circumstances. You are at liberty to publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, [illegible]

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to unite it perfectly as guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 9 out of every 10 of adults. Be assured—don't waste your money on cheap quackery, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

LONG TIME AGO.

SERMON BY LAYMAN.

(Written for The Examiner.)

How many and varied are the thoughts of the man, who has passed middle life, respecting the long time ago; of the man who has passed over the longest part of his life; of the man who is in other lands, far away from his country and friends; of the man who is lying upon his sick bed among strangers; of the man who has been unfortunate and who sees nothing to comfort him, nothing but poverty and woe. How often his mind turns away from present troubles, turns back to the long time ago; how full of meaning are these words; how they convey the thoughts back, away back to the distant past, and what a comfort it is to call up to the mind the happy days of happy childhood. It is like standing upon the top of a high mountain, whence you can see afar off, look over a long stretch of country, alternately by sunshine and clouds. You look far away, in the direction of the old home, and in imagination you see the old familiar dwelling; in imagination you see the old play grounds; and you almost fancy you can see the forms of father and mother as they looked when you first went away. In young, strong, active life one seldom thinks of these things, he is too much taken up with the world, with its anxieties and cares; too much occupied in making money, all his thoughts and all his feelings are intent upon acquiring wealth and in laying up a store for the future. But when that time is past, when the physical powers are decaying, when the strong man is becoming weaker, when he has experienced the world's insincerity and seen many a false friend, when he feels that his days of activity and circulation are over, and he is obliged to sit down by his fireside and think, how quickly his thoughts all go away back to the time when troubles had not come, when his mind was as free as the wind, and all his thoughts were bent upon to-morrow's play. To him the world is now passing away; he may be living in comfort, begotten by his hard toil, but he has learnt the lesson that his labors have only brought him food and clothing, and perhaps left him with an impaired mind; they have certainly left him with an impaired body, and with a constitution weakened by looking too much to the returns of this world, rather than of the world to come; and now, as he sits down and thinks over all these things, now as he looks at the world from his present point of view, how much he wonders at himself for desiring to secure more of this world's goods than he can reasonably enjoy, and he would give them all now for another opportunity to live his life over again; for another opportunity to lie, a child, in the old family cradle again; for another opportunity to lie in his mother's arms and to hear the sweet lullaby and the old familiar tune by which he was so often put to rest. He may never look upon father or mother again in this life, but his thoughts constantly go back to the long time ago when, a boy, he was free from the world's cares and lived only in anticipation of coming pleasure. If he should ever succeed in getting back to the old home again he will find it deserted by all his kin; father and mother will be lying side by side in the old grave-yard close by, and when he goes there and looks upon all that is left of their once active lives, and thinks how good and kind they were, and how they nursed and cared for him, he sits down and sheds tears of sorrow over their memory. In that quiet resting place there is nothing to disturb his thoughts, no sight, no sound, save the chirp of the birds in the trees around. I have often contrasted the different situations of the young and the old; I have looked upon the little helpless infant lying in its mother's arms, I have seen it as it entered upon its subsequent stages of boyhood and manhood, how, as a boy, his thoughts were all given to amusements and play; I have seen him as he went to and returned from school, and how little he realized of the world that was before him; I have seen him as a young man, preparing to leave the old home for some distant scene of labor, his thoughts of play all gone, busy in getting ready for the journey, the mother packing up his trunk and putting in one corner the Bible which she fondly hopes might be to him a source of comfort and safety; I have seen him as he bids father and mother, brothers and sisters good bye, and then went out of the door down to the gate, his mother and the children accompanying him, and there they parted, the mother telling him to be of good cheer and never to forget those left behind; to be sure and keep himself free from bad company and the vices of the world. As he goes onward he turns and takes one last lingering look at, to him, the dearest place on earth, and he strains his eyes to see any of the beloved ones left behind. Soon he is among strangers and then he feels for the first time what it is to be cut into the wide, wide world. As often as night overtakes him, although far away, he joins in the evening prayer, takes out of his trunk the good Book which a kind mother's hands placed there, and he reads some of its comforting words and then retires to rest, and his last thoughts were of those dear ones left behind. He wonders if he will ever look upon them again. Some day he hopes to come back and look upon the old home once more, but it may be years hence, and when he does come the children may all be gone and father and mother may be lying in the silent graveyard, and then the old home will be home to him no longer; then he will think of the long time ago; then will come up to his mind the memory of scenes, of events which occurred long before. And he will go on until the long, weary journey of life is well nigh over; when the end of this world's hopes and trials are near their close; when he, an old, worn, broken down man, has nothing left to console him save what now lies before; he begins to feel that the night is dark and he is nearing home; he knows the daylight is near, and he is content to wait until the Son of Life has risen and illuminating his way and guiding him to the better shore. The words "long time ago" sound strangely in the ears of the inexperienced and the young. They do not understand their meaning, they cannot enter into the feelings of others on this subject, for it is a sealed book to them; they are looking forward, not backward, forward as to the sunny south, forward to the warm spring time of life, forward to a new and brighter destiny. All their thoughts and inspirations are centered in present enjoyment and future hope; to them life can do just rising, bright and clear, and all their expectations are based upon the time to come; and this time, to their minds and feelings, is full of pleasure and gain, and it is well to be so, their time will come soon enough, and when it does come how great will be the change; then they will see life as it is, and as it was from the beginning; then the remote hues of the world will have lost their charm; then the hard realities of life will meet them that heretofore they were living in imagination alone. When they rise in the morning it will not be to seek for pleasures, they will feel that henceforth the journey is long and hard before them; and when night comes they will welcome it as a time of rest and peace. And as the days, often weary days, pass away, and their long time ago comes to them as it never did before. Still they are moving onwards, farther and farther away from their early days; onwards and onwards to the other and better shore; they begin to feel that their physical strength is fast departing, they feel their limbs growing weary, their will growing weaker, and they turn from the long time ago to the thoughts of the journey which lies before; they sometimes sit down and rest by the way, but they are always pressing on and on, until they come to the river, where all their troubles in this life end. Some will cross safely over, but others will plunge in and sink, to rise no more. Standing upon the other shore, they look back and they see long lines of humanity, extending backwards farther than the eye can reach. They, too, are coming, while countless millions are pressing on behind. The old and the young are together, and tired and worn, they feel as if they welcome the time which will transfer them to a better home. They sing of the long time ago, but they look forward with hope to the time to come. The pleasures of the world appear vain and foolish now. They feel that man was created for something better than the cares and troubles of this life alone. Even the little dying child can see the happiness and glories of the coming world, and its last words are full of peace and comfort to those about to be left behind, telling them of the happy land to which it is going, and how lovingly it will look for their coming, too, when they will all be together once more, living where there is no night, no trouble, and where all is peace and joy forever and forever. What is wealth? What is ambition? What is power? Nothing but an empty dream. The rich, the ambitious and the man of influence and power are poor, miserable, frail creatures, no better than those who flatter and fawn around them. No better in the sight of God than the poorest of His creatures here below, but who, in all probability, will share a better fate than those who now look down upon, and oppress and despise them. We know that there are people who, in their pride and folly, would not worship their Maker by the side of the lowly and the poor. People who say they would not go to Heaven in company with the poor. These are people whose only merit is in their accidental acquisition of money, insinuating that money is better in the sight of God, as it is in their own mind, than honesty and industry, and a heart free from the sins of the world. But the great day of judgment will show who is right.

"By Medicines life may be prolonged,
Yet death will seize the doctor, too."

True, all must die, yet few must suffer while they live. Stop pain and prolong life by taking Dr. Pierce's "Golden Vegetable Discovery," a cure for consumption (which is scrofula of the lungs) as well as for coughs, colds, bronchitis, catarrh, and a sprtite in liver complaints, scrotula and all blood and skin diseases. Sold everywhere. dw45

Honest and True.

This is eminently the case with Polson's Nerviline, the great pain cure. It is an honest remedy, for it contains the most powerful, the purest, and most certain pain subduing remedies known to medical science. It is honest, for it does all it claims to do. It is honest, because it is the best in the world. It only costs 10 or 25 cents to try it, and you can buy a bottle at any drug store. Nerviline cures toothache, neuralgia, pain in the back and side. All pains are promptly relieved by Polson's Nerviline. 6dw

Daring Burglary.

Thursday morning a masked burglar entered the residence of U. S. Consul Detcher, Port Hope. Jacob Detcher, the son, who was ill at the time, heard a noise and saw the burglar creeping along. On shouting, the fellow jumped up and, pointing a pistol at Jacob's head, threatened instant death if he didn't keep quiet. Mrs. Detcher, who heard the noise and on opening the door of her room, was confronted with the revolver, and ordered to keep quiet. Mr. Detcher then was commanded to yield up his money or forfeit his life. A pocket book containing about $70 was tossed to the burglar, who picked it up and glided noiselessly away, escaping, as he entered, through the dining room window.

Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in those, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale. 2w44d

A Cure for Croup.

It is a valuable fact for mothers to know that there is no better or more certain remedy for croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil used internally and externally. This handy household remedy may be had of any druggist. 2w44d

There is no necessity of passing a sleepless night and annoying the entire household with that cough, as West's Cough Syrup will cure you like magic. The best known remedy for coughs, colds, consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. 25c., 50c. and $1 per bottle. dwnov

Delays are dangerous. Procure a bottle of West's Cough Syrup at once and cure that troublesome hacking cough and sore throat, relieving pain and misery. It is the household remedy for all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. dwnov

HELLO! BROWN,
"What are you looking so mad about, this morning?"
"Well, I'll tell you, Jones. I bought a very fine Tent from TURNER, and one of my friends wanted to borrow it."
"And did you lend it?"
"Well, I guess not. The last Tent I had got used up by lending. I told him to go to J. J. TURNER, the great Tent maker, and he would rent or sell him a tent."

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY
CURES ALL HUMORS,
from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its potency in curing Tetter, Rose Rash, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Hip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send 10c cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections. THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE. Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.
CONSUMPTION,
which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terribly fatal disease, when first offering this now celebrated remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequalled, not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all
CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE

Landlord takes pen and adds after names on register, 'Peterborough.'" This does very good for a story, but how does it look in print?

Week of Prayer.

The week of prayer for young men begins on Sunday, 14th November, and will be observed by the local Young Men's Christian Association in common with their brethren throughout the world. The first service will be a union meeting, on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the Baptist Church. Everybody is invited to this meeting. Special evangelistic meetings for men only will be held every night during the week (except Wednesday) at 8 o'clock, in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. They will be conducted by Mr. H. S. Griffin and addressed by the local ministers and others. Singing will be led by a male choir. The Rev. Mr. Bell, of St. Andrew's Church, will address the meeting on Monday evening.

The Gallery Gods.

At last night's performance in the Opera House, by the Tavernier Dramatic Company, the boys in the gallery became so rude and noisy that Mr. Tavernier stepped to the front of the stage, and requested them to go down to the door, reclaim their money, and leave the hall. The best of order ensued. It is certainly to be regretted that there are so many boys and young men in Peterborough who don't know how to behave themselves in public places. Shouting, whistling, stamping of feet, throwing peas and other articles on the heads of those below, were freely indulged in last night. Mr. Tavernier's little speech, though effective was not severe enough. The offenders should be detected and summarily ejected. The man is determined to secure and maintain the best of order. Great annoyance has been caused by the disorderly conduct of boys in the passages, but this will be hereafter stopped. A special constable has been sworn in whose duty it is to patrol the stair cases and passages during the evening and keep order. The Tavernier Company are determined to make their performance in every other respect, as they are in dramatic merit, worthy of the patronage of the most respectable citizens.

The Prize Winners.

Who Won the Five Dollar Gold Piece—The Prizes to be Given To-Night.

A matter of entertainment has been caused among the young folks by the announcement that a $5 gold piece would be given by the Tavernier Dramatic Company to the school scholar composing the largest list of words from "Van Cortland," only the letters n and s to be repeated, twice in the same word. The children have been puzzling their heads over the matter all week, with the result that about 20 different lists were handed to the manager, Mr. Laughton, for examination. As will be seen by the following, Maud Perry, Brock street, wins the prize, with Mary Menzies a very close second. At the close of the performance at the Opera house this afternoon the name of the prize winner was announced. Following is a list of the competitors and their standing:—

	Gross No.	Struck out.	Cor't No.
Maud Perry	299	3	296
Ethel Green	243	1	242
Edith Hall	241	1	240
Bertie Orche	294	110	184

Mamie Newbald	120	"	"
Helen Chamberlain	125	"	"
Arthur Bell	145	"	"

The list of words that won the prize will probably be published Monday.

It was also announced that a handsome doll would be awarded the little girl holding the lucky number at the matinee to-day. As has been explained, slips bearing numbers are handed each person attending the performance. The duplicates of these are placed in a jar and one picked out by a disinterested party; that number takes the prize.

To-night the silver pitcher valued at $25 will be given the person holding the lucky number, slips have been given out at every performance this week. The duplicates will be placed in the jar as usual, one selected from the mass, and if the original number is in the hall, the person holding it takes the prize. If the first number selected is not present, the drawing continues until the prize is awarded. Every body will therefore see the necessity of being present to-night. Everything will be conducted fairly and squarely, and not the slightest show of discrimination or favor is possible.

Romance of a Poor Young Man.

When war broke out in America the Count de Chamcoy left his estates in France and hastened to the scene of the fight, taking with him his little son. Later on, in order to raise means he despatched Gaspar Laroque, an old friend, to his native land to sell the property. This Laroque did, but, once in possession of the money, fled to England and lived in affluence on his ill-gotten gains. The old count was killed in battle, and the young marquis, a nobleman only in title, became known to the world as Manuel. He obtains the position of steward in the house of the self-made Laroque, who had so villainously deprived him of his rights, but of this fact Manuel is as yet unaware. He falls deeply in love with old Laroque's grand-daughter, Marguerite, his heiress, who, betrothed to De Bevannes, a man of the world, seeks every opportunity of humiliating him and wounding his feelings. His position is still further embittered by the animosity of M'lle Helouin, who, since she cannot gain his love, does her utmost to thwart his efforts to gain the hand of Marguerite. He finds himself unwittingly in a most compromising position in some old ruins with Marguerite, and in order to save both their honors, leaps from the tower, escaping with slight injury. Still Marguerite, misunderstanding his actions, is obdurate. Manuel finds an old paper among the family documents which proves his right to the Laroque property, but, to save Marguerite any humiliation, burns it. The crisis comes. The grandfather dies, Marguerite and De Bevannes are prepared to be married, the will is to be read previous to the wedding, but an important paper is missing. Manuel is accused of having destroyed it. He will not speak in self-defence. Suddenly Dr. Desmarets comes forward and explains the whole matter, and Marguerite, whose heart has gradually been won by the steward's manly and honorable conduct, is married to Manuel instead of De Bevannes. This was the plot of the play which was presented to a large audience at the Opera house last night by the Tavernier Dramatic Co. The play centres in the last three acts, the first two being somewhat prosy, but necessary to a full understanding of the state of affairs. In the third act the old tower is admirably represented and the leap for life well performed. It would be out of place to individualize any of the characters, excepting, perhaps, the hero and heroine, (Manuel and Marguerite) who were represented by Mr. M. F. Drew and Ida Van Cortland. Master Harold Kidder, as "Christine," displayed uncommon aptness and intelligence for one so young. The "Private Secretary" was played to a fair house this afternoon. To-night "Our Boys" will occupy the boards.

Church Chimes.

The congregation of St. Paul's church are reminded that special collections for the Young Men's Christian Association will be taken up to-morrow. In the evening Rev. Mr. Torrance will deliver his annual address, to young men, Quarterly services will be held in the Charlotte street Methodist church to-morrow morning. Love Feast at 9.30, and the Lord's Supper after the public service. The evening sermon will be in behalf of the work of the Y. M. C. A. The pastor will conduct all the services of the day.

Special services and collections at the George street Methodist church to-morrow. The services will be held in the reconstructed auditorium of the church, Rev. I. Tovell officiating.

The Rev. B. G. Greatrix, will (D V.) conduct services in the Mark St. Methodist Church, Ashburnham, to-morrow, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The week of jubilee in St. Peter's Church ends to-day. There was a good attendance at all the services, which, it is hoped, will result in much good. The regular services will be held in St. Peter's to-morrow.

At St. Andrew's Church to-morrow morning Rev. Mr. Torrance will occupy the pulpit, Rev. Mr. Bell preaching in St. Paul's. Special collections will be taken up at both morning and evening services.

Prof. D. A. McGregor, of MacMaster Hall, Toronto, will preach in the Baptist Church to-morrow.

The George Street Church.

Republic and Monarchy—Contrasts in the George Street Methodist Church—Handsome Changes.

Those who have not yet seen the changes that have been made in the auditorium of the George street Methodist church may prepare for a surprise. The original church can scarcely be recognized, so completely has a couple of months' busy work altered and also improved its appearance. Mr. A. Jagg, who had the contract, has kept a staff of men continually at work under his personal supervision, and the result is most gratifying.

The first and most noticeable change is that made in the vestry and the gallery. The gallery has been remodelled, and does not now, as formerly, make a complete circuit of the interior. That section running across the east end of the building behind the pulpit, in which the choir and organ was placed, and underneath which was the vestry, has been removed. In its place is a platform slightly elevated above the level of the pulpit, fronted by an iron railing of Gothic pattern, for the organ and choir. There is now room for a choir of 30. The pulpit platform has also been moved back about ten feet, thus giving for the congregation. All the parts added have been painted and modelled to correspond with the general style of the adornments. The new organ, which is expected to arrive next month, will be a beauty, with a Gothic case, reaching to within four feet of the ceiling. It will occupy about half the space of the centre alcove. At present a small organ will supply the music. The two ornamented upright chandeliers which formerly stood beside the minister's pulpit, have been placed temporarily in the organ loft. They will be returned to the pulpit upon the arrival of the new organ, when two handsome brackets, containing about half a dozen jets each, will furnish light for the organist and choir. The former gallery leading at the south-east corner has been converted into a neat little minister's vestry. In the transept galleries has been made, they having been lowered about four feet and considerably narrowed. Though there is a slight loss in sitting room here, the seats are much more convenient, while the loss is more than balanced by the gain in seats in the auditorium. Another great benefit derived from the alteration is, the minister can be heard and distinctly heard by those sitting in the transepts, whereas formerly great inconvenience was felt from this cause. In the transept galleries have been placed two handsome gas chandeliers, supporting six lights each, which cost about $75 apiece. The lighting capacity of the main chandeliers has also been doubled, a new jet having been placed between each jet on the circle, as it was formerly. The two chandeliers burn 142 jets. On the west ends of the church also, the corner brackets will be replaced by chandeliers of more than

A GREAT ALTERATION

DOUBLE THE PRESENT POWER.

The Gas Co. are laying a 2-inch main into the church, which will give a better supply of gas. The gallery rail has been backed all around by a crimson screen, and crimson carpets have been provided for the nave of the church. They will not be put down, however, till next week. Half a dozen seats at the lower end of the church have been given a gradual incline. Taken altogether the changes will be greatly appreciated by all members of the church, and when the new organ arrives to complete the interior, the George street Methodist church will be second to none in town.

JUSTIN McCARTHY

The Bulgarian Throne.

TIRNOVA, Nov. 11.—Prince Waldemar has sent a telegram to the Regents expressing his grateful sense of the honor conferred upon him by the Sobranje in electing him Prince of Bulgaria. He states, however, that the decision as to his acceptance rests with his father, the King of Denmark, and adds that other duties may prevent his assuming the rulership of Bulgaria. The Prince's reply is considered to presage his refusal of the throne.

The Bulgarian deputation appointed to convey to Prince Waldemar the official notice of his election by the Sobranje to succeed Prince Alexander have departed for Cannes, France, where the Prince is sojourning.

In political circles at Berlin it is considered certain that Prince Waldemar will refuse to accept the post of Bulgarian ruler. Prince Bismarck is inclined to favor the Prince of Mingrelia as a candidate for the throne of Bulgaria. Prince Nicholas has an especially good society reputation in Berlin as well as in St. Petersburg.

Baron Mohrenheim is about to return to Paris to resume his duties as Russian ambassador to France. On his way to the French capital he will stop at Cannes in order to have a conference with Prince Waldemar.

Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia, who is favored by the Czar as a candidate for the Bulgarian throne, is a Russian subject and a member of the orthodox Greek Church. He is a son-in-law of Count Adlerberg. He is said to be quite willing to accept.

Notes.

In the debate in the Sobranje preceding the election of Prince Waldemar, M. Stambuloff and others dwelt upon the necessity of an attempt to reconcile Russia. Although their hearts were with Prince Alexander, these speakers admitted the reelection of their late ruler was impossible. The public received the news of Prince Waldemar's election with coldness, Prince Alexander being the popular choice.

It is reported that Lobanneff, the Russian Ambassador at Vienna, has officially notified Count Kalnoky that Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia is the Czar's candidate for the Bulgarian throne and that the election of Prince Waldemar does not meet with the Czar's approval. M. Stambuloff and Mutkuroff have also resigned from the regency in order to simplify the election of the new regency. They will both be reelected.

The London Standard says it is scarcely probable that the election of Prince Waldemar will dissipate the threatening clouds.

Gen. Kaulbars has sent another note to the Bulgarian Government demanding the release of the Bourgas conspirators.

The Copenhagen Gazette says that King George of Greece will leave Athens if his brother, Prince Waldemar, accepts the Bulgarian throne.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

Agents Wanted.

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 9c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertise.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 20 per cent higher.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undesigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, capped and in bad, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. THE REGENTS RESIGN.

DISHEARTENED BY THE KING OF DENMARK'S ACTION.

TIENOVA, Nov. 13.—Upon receiving from the King of Denmark a telegram refusing his consent to Prince Waldemar's acceptance of the Bulgarian throne, the Regents resigned. The Sobranje voted confidence in the Regents but they declined to withdraw their resignations. The Sobranje has adjourned, all the members going to Sofia. A deputation will visit the European courts to pray the powers to nominate a candidate for the throne.

The Sobranje elected Zivkoff to succeed Karaveloff. A resolution was adopted severely censuring Karaveloff in the course pursued by him. The deputies appeared to be disheartened on account of the action of the King of Denmark and to be wearied of the continual strain to which they have been subjected.

Austria's Position.

BUDA-PESTH, Nov. 13.—Count Kalnoky, Minister of Foreign Affairs for the whole Austro-Hungarian Empire, to-day made before the delegations a declaration of the imperial foreign policy. The tenor of his entire address was pacific. In fact, Count Kalnoky's speech was a re-echo of the sentiments lately expressed by M. Tisza, maintaining the latter's declaration that the peace of Europe was for the present assured.

Count Kalnoky's statement was as follows: Austria's interests in Bulgaria will be the maintenance of treaty rights. It is immaterial how internal affairs in Bulgaria proceed if the essentials of the Berlin treaty are not infringed. It will be most difficult for Austria to avoid taking action during the present excitement. The importance of Gen. Kaulbars' mission has been greatly overestimated. He has succeeded in making Russian influence felt in a most disagreeable manner, but he has also evoked the sympathy of Europe for the Bulgarian people. Gen. Kaulbars, by the course he has pursued, has attained nothing which is calculated to decide the political existence of Bulgaria. In the meantime Austria will patiently await events, abiding by the principles embodied in the declaration of Herr Tisza, the Hungarian Prime Minister, which will remain a criterion of policy for a long time to come. If Austria is forced to interfere in order to vindicate the Berlin treaty the sympathy and co-operation are assured of all the powers resolved to protect European treaties.

Referring to the Austro-German alliance Count Kalnoky said: There are some interests not common to both countries, certain interests of one government lying outside the sphere of the other. There is no obligation for the power not concerned to protect these interests. It depends on the conscience of each power when independent action shall be deemed necessary. Relations such as exist between Austria and Germany are only called into practical action when united interests are concerned. The continuance of each country as a strong independent power forms an important interest for both, unshakable as if based on the clauses of the treaty. Germany has made no secret of the fact that her only interest in the Bulgarian question is to preserve the peace of Europe. She has made her influence felt in the most effectual way to attain that end in accordance with our interests.

Count Kalnoky's statement before the delegation has made a favorable impression here, confirming as it does the belief that the entente between England, Austria and Italy is approved of by Germany. Count Andrassy is preparing a great speech for Tuesday next when the debate on Count Kalnoky's statement will take place. It is expected he will endorse in the main the principles embodied in Kalnoky's address.

THE NEW EARL OF ENNISKILLEN.

Viscount Cole Succeeds His Father in the Peerage—An Incident of His Career.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The death of the Earl of Enniskillen causes his son, Viscount Cole, to succeed to the peerage and the large family estates in the County Fermanagh, Ireland. Cole is mainly associated in the public memory with the famous Mordaunt divorce case of a number of years ago, in which the Prince of Wales, being one of the accused triflers with the lady, went on the witness stand and swore to the contrary—in the quaint language of the day, "perjuring himself like a gentleman." Cole was the principal co-respondent in that trial and figured as a very gay young lothario. He married soon after a Miss Charlotte Baird of Cassburn, Scotland.

The Program of the Reichstag.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The program of the Reichstag opens with the discussion of the report of the Budget Commissions on Foreign Affairs and Marine. It is uncertain whether the Government will propose new or augmented taxation. Official papers assert that the Government has decided against attempting to levy new imports, Prince Bismarck postponing further taxation projects until the meeting of the next Reichstag, in the hope that the electorate will return a more submissive majority. Coupled with the statements that there will be presented no new taxation proposals are vague hints that the Government is preparing reforms of the financial administration, suggesting a disguised scheme of increased duties. No action in the Reichstag will oppose an increase of the marine budget, a larger appropriation being considered necessary.

GOING BACK TO WORK.

THE CHICAGO STRIKE ORDERED OFF BY POWDERLY.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—At a meeting of the strikers to-night a despatch was read by Mr. Barry from Mr. Powderly ordering the strike off and the men to return to work. The sentiment of the meeting was equally divided, and further action on the matter was postponed until Monday.

It appears Mr. Barry has had the order in his possession since Wednesday. He claims to have delayed its promulgation solely for the purpose of satisfying himself of its authenticity. The scene in the meeting when the order was read was in many respects an extraordinary one. Mr. Barry had not finished the announcement before the assemblage was in an uproar. Men rose to their feet and shouted they would never go back; that they would starve before they would surrender, and that they would have eight hours or nothing. After much heated talk the question of obeying or not obeying was left open by postponement until Monday.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The discussion of the strikers last night, whether or not to obey the order to return to the works, led to serious complications to-day. A special meeting of the Chicago Trades Assembly had some time ago been called for this afternoon, the understanding being that action would be taken in regard to boycotting Armour. Powderly's order had led many of the delegates to believe this morning that the object of the meeting had been removed, but President Rowan had scarcely rapped the assembly to order when a general discussion of Powderly's order took place, on the attitude of the strikers and what action should be taken. It was soon developed that there was a very strong opposition in the assembly to obeying Powderly's order.

It is said that the radical element of the strikers sent a number of very severe telegrams to-day to Powderly expressing disgust at his interference and intimating that he had better revoke the mandate and let them help themselves.

T. B. Barry, of the K. of L. General Executive Board, said to-day that he believed the men would go to work to-morrow and that the strike was at an end. He had great hopes that the non-union men would all leave the packing houses in a short time, and in this way all the striking knights could obtain their old situations. This afternoon he visited all the assemblies he could, urging them to comply with the order to return to work. Only two K. of L. assemblies are known to have refused to ratify the Powderly order. The first was the Coopers. The other refractory assembly is that known as a mixed assembly.

A large mass meeting of the Knights of Labor was held to-night, when 1000 of the strikers dissented against Powderly's order, but after being spoken to by Carlton and Barry the meeting was carried by storm, a unanimous vote being taken to obey the order and resume work to-morrow. The feature of the meeting was the assurance given by Barry that they would sooner or later secure the places they had quit.

Violence by the Strikers.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—About 4.30 o'clock this afternoon a crowd of nearly 2000 strikers gathered about the dwelling of the Armour employe who was attacked yesterday while attempting to move his household goods to another neighborhood. The ire of the strikers against this man is owing to the fact that he is a Knight of Labor and refused to go out with the others. He again had his goods upon wagons this afternoon when set upon by the mob. Company E of the First Regiment arrived before much damage was done and charged the mob which fell back. Company E then divided into detachments, which were stationed at the street corners in the vicinity. A patrol wagon load of Pinkerton's men being left to protect the goods of the unpopular employe. Another crowd was quickly organized and had nearly overpowered the Pinkerton guard when Company C of the Second arrived on a double quick, and charging through the mob, arrested six men and put the others to rout. No casualties are reported.

Jumped the Track at Jarvis.

JARVIS, Nov. 13.—The morning train going south on the Northern and Northwestern Railway was ditched about one mile south of this place. The engine and tender are a total wreck, and the baggage car is off its trucks. The track is badly torn up for quite a distance. The accident was caused by the cow-catcher catching in the ties of the track. Edward Williams, the driver, was thrown under the boiler, but only received slight injuries. Fireman Graham and all the other trainmen escaped with a bad shaking up. It was one of the worst smashups that have occurred in this vicinity. Workmenare busy clearing the track, which will likely be done by Monday.

Butter, Cheese and Eggs.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—The members of the National Butter, Cheese and Egg Association to-day elected H. R. Gurler of DeKalb, Ill., President for the ensuing year. They had quite a spirited discussion over a resolution by Mr. Dutton of New York, that all dealers and exhibitors of oleomargarine be boycotted. Everybody wanted the floor at once, but the tempest was abated by the adoption of a substitute that the members of the association should hold themselves aloof from the Illinois State Board of Agriculture as long as that body encourages those who manufacture oleomargarine.

Discharged and Rearrested.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Charles Curtis, alias Tichborne, was to-day discharged on the completion of his trial for obtaining a pension fraudulently. He was, however, immediately rearrested on the charge of obtaining a pension under false pretences in swearing his fingers were shot off in the war, when, in fact, he lost them while raising a house in California. Evidence on this point was taken and the hearing then adjourned.

The German Merchant Fleet.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—According to official returns for the present year the German merchant fleet is composed of 4135 vessels, having a registered sea-going tonnage of 1,282,449 tons, and the crews number 26,921 men. As compared with the returns for the year 1885, these figures show a decrease in the number of vessels of 122, and a falling off in tonnage of 11,839 tons.

Establishment of a Trades Congress.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 14.—The next issue of the Labor Tribune will contain a call for a convention of all the Trades Unions in the United States and Canada to begin at Columbus, O., Wednesday, Dec. 8. The object of this meeting is the establishment of a Trades Congress.

BARGES LOST ON LAKE ONTARIO.

Feared That Twelve Seamen Have Perished in the Storm.

OSWEGO, Nov. 13.—The tug Preston left here for Charlotte last night before the storm with the barges Bellvis and E. C. Reed in tow. She got lost in the snowstorm and her barges broke away. The tug, badly iced up, finally got into Charlotte, but nothing has been heard from the barges. There were six men on board each barge. They are probably lost.

Advices from Charlotte report that a large barge is ashore at Braddock's Point on the rocks, eight miles west, and the life-saving crew have gone to its assistance. The schooner Snow Bird, Capt. A. Beard, passed the pier during a blinding snow storm last night and went ashore a mile and a half west of Charlotte. The Snow Bird left Oswego yesterday. The crew is safe. The steam barge Bell Wilson of Picton, Capt. Collier went ashore five miles west of this city. She is reported to be in good shape on the beach. Arrangements have been made to release her as soon as weather permits. Capt. Collier reports great suffering of himself and crew.

Severe Storms in the Lower St. Lawrence.

FATHER POINT, Quebec, Nov. 14.—Last night and to-day one of the fiercest storms experienced raged along the Lower St. Lawrence, accompanied by a blinding snow, for nine hours. The wind averaged a measured velocity of seventy miles per hour, with a furious sea running. The sea washed clear over the pier at Rimouski. The steamer Content and some schooners rode out the storm in the basin of the Rimouski, but this afternoon the steamer Content sought shelter near Barnaby Island. A foot of snow fell and there are drifts in places four feet high.

The schooner Marie Henriette, Capt. Caron of Sandy Bay, running under bare poles, was driven ashore four miles above here at 1 this morning and immediately went to pieces. The crew were gallantly rescued by Capt. Levien Bouillon and another.

Other Disasters.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Nov. 13.—Two schooners went ashore on Plum Island to-day and were wrecked. The crews were saved by a life-saving crew.

LEWISTON, Me., Nov. 13.—Two vessels are ashore on Squirrel Island, Booth Bay harbor.

Further Prorogued Till Dec. 27.

CLINGING TO OFFICE.

The bull-dog tenacity with which the defeated Ross Government in Quebec clings to office is remarkable, but not at all surprising. In spite of the fact that the people, who, in Canada, are supposed to rule, have expressed want of confidence in the Ross-Taillon combination, the latter still clings to power and the Dominion Government, recognizing in the defeat of the local government its own doom, is working with might and main to help the minority party to remain in power. It is stated on good authority that the Ross politicians have at last secured a judge to take the position of Premier, who will undertake the formation of a new cabinet, counting on the support of the minority and such other means as political corruption may suggest and employ. It is said that this judicial politician is to receive a gift of $50,000 cash as a quid pro quo—a bonus—for his giving up the judgeship, and taking the chances of his new position being a permanent one. A complement to the conspiracy is that the Federal Government is to kindly provide an office for the Conservative member who will resign his seat for the new Premier. The judge mentioned in this connection is Judge Angers. The Montreal Herald thus comments on what is involved in the proposed scheme:—

"First, a person is to be taken who is not in the Legislature at all; he was not even in political life; he had retired from politics for good. There is nothing to show that the people of Quebec want him at the head of the Government. He has not been through the fire of a general election. The people at a whole know nothing of his programme; in fact there is nothing to show that he has a programme. To all intents and purposes, he is stranger to the present political field. Dr. Ross had a programme, and Mr. Mercier had a programme; these leaders and their politics, their merits and demerits, were discussed and voted on; Dr. Ross and his party were defeated; Mr. Mercier and his supporters were successful. But while Judge Angers might get a seat, he has made no appeal to the province, and the people have not asked for his leadership. To take this political stranger and place him at the head of the Government and pass by the leader who successfully met and defeated the Government, is something that is fitted to arouse the deepest public indignation."

There are two great dangers involved in the success of this conspiracy. Its consummation would be a deadly blow to the principle of responsible Government, and would show that partizan conspiracies can override the expressed wil of the people. It is no surprise that Sir John is mixed up in the matter. He opposed Confederation in the beginning and has been hostile ever since. Whatever he could do to discredit Confederation he has done. His repeated attacks upon the provincial liberties and independence, as guaranteed by the federal pact, is proof enough. Bringing about the purchase of a judge like a beast, and conspiring to thwart the will of the people of Quebec, is a role in which his past record and achievements fit him to shine conspicuously. His dread of defeat must be fatuous, to lead him to resort to such desperate measures to strengthen his rapidly relaxing grip on power.

WORKING FOR THE WEALTHY.

"The Mail occupied a column on Thursday in showing that it was even less progressive than Mr. Blake regarding the labor question. It apposes even his mild and non-committal suggestions of succession duties and a graded income tax. It is true that Mr. Blake's hints in this direction were so vague that they cannot be regarded as formulating a policy; nevertheless they indicate that he is thinking in the right direction. But the opposition of the Mail to such a just and reasonable proposal as the taxation of superfluous wealth ought to open the eyes of the workingmen to the fraudulency of its pretensions of sympathy with their cause." The Toronto News in thus speaking shows that it is on the right scent. Justice to the laboring masses as against the privileged classes can never be expected from the party led by Sir John Macdonald and championed by the Mail. Whether in Great Britain or Canada all measures of reform tending to the amelioration of the condition of the working classes or tending towards a recognition of their rights, are due to Liberals. If the Tories in the Old Country or the "Liberal"-Conservatives in Canada have given such legislation, it has been done ungracefully and under pressure of Liberal agitation—rather than lose office by opposing public opinion, they have yielded and passed measures of reform in the interest of the masses against which they fought, tooth and nail, so long as resistance could avail and not imperil their grip on the money bags of the people. The bitterest opponents of Hon. Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule bill were not found among the middle and common classes, that is, among the people, but among the privileged classes, the wealthy and titled—the plutocrats and the nobility, —the backbone of old world Toryism and the prototype of the "Liberal"-Conservatism of this country. It is, therefore, quite consistent for the Mail, a Conservative journal, to oppose succession duties and a graded income tax. True, such measures would be in the interests of the labouring classes and the working men, but they would also make the wealthy pay their fair share of the national burden. Thus is the hostility of the Mail and its party accounted for.

The rumour is not unfrequently heard on the streets that Sir Richard Cartwright is to be the candidate in the Liberal interests for West Peterborough. There is not a word of truth in it. Sir Richard has not solicited the nomination, and it has not been offered him, nor is it likely to be offered. Those who dread Sir Richard's presence in parliament need not concern themselves. He will not consult them as to what riding he may stand for. If it is any comfort for them they are informed that he has a constituency and that he will have a seat in the next parliament, to the confusion of the enemies of honest and economical government.

LUMINOUS

ALARM CLOCKS.

The Handiest thing in the World Can be seen as well in the Dark as the Light.

EVERYBODY should have One.

R. W. MUNCASTER.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

Returning to the sitting-room after bidding Kitty good-night, Mrs. Linley discovered the old lady asleep, and saw that the book on her mother's lap was sliding off. Before she could check the downward movement the book fell on the floor, and Mrs. Presty woke.

"Oh, mamma, I am so sorry! I was just too late to catch it."

"It doesn't matter, my dear. I dare say I should go to sleep again if I went on with my novel."

"Is it really as dull as that?"

"Dull!" Mrs. Presty repeated. "You are evidently not aware of what the new school of novel-writing is doing. The new school provides the public with soothing fiction."

"Are you speaking seriously, mamma?"

"Seriously, Catherine—said gratefully. These new writers are so good to old women. No story to excite our poor nerves; no improper characters to cheat us out of our sympathies: no dramatic situations to frighten us; exquisite management of details (as the reviews say), and a masterly anatomy of human motives which, I know what I mean, my dear, but I can't explain it."

"I think I understand, mamma. A masterly anatomy of human motives which is in itself a motive of human sleep. No; I won't bother you about it just now. I don't want to go to sleep; I am thinking of Herbert in London."

Mrs. Presty consulted her watch.

"Your husband is no longer in London," she announced; "he has begun his journey home. Give me the railway guide and I'll tell you when he'll be here to-morrow. You may trust me, Catherine, to make no mistake. Mr. Presty's wonderful knowledge of figures has been of the greatest use to me in later life. Thanks to his instructions, I am the only person in the house who can grapple with the intricacies of our railway system. Your poor father, Mr. Ormond, never could understand time-tables, and never attempted to conceal his deficiencies. He had none of the vanity (harmless vanity, perhaps) which led poor Mr. Presty to express positive opinions on matters of which he knew nothing, such as pictures and music. What do you want, Malcom?"

The servant to whom this question was addressed answered: "A telegram, ma'am, for the mistress."

Mrs. Linley recalled from the message when the man offered it to her. Not usually a very demonstrative person, the feeling of alarm which had seized on her only expressed itself in a sudden change of color. "An accident!" she said, faintly. "An accident on the railway!"

Mrs. Presty opened the telegram.

"If you had been the wife of a cabinet minister," she said to her daughter, "you would have been too well used to telegrams to let them flutter you. Mr. Presty (who received his telegrams at his office) was not quite just to the memory of my first husband. He used to blame Mr. Ormond for letting me see his telegrams. But Mr. Presty's nature had all the poetry in which Mr. Ormond's nature was deficient. He saw the angelic side of women—and thought telegrams and business, and all that sort of thing, unworthy of our notice. I don't exactly understand what our relations to—"

"Mamma! mamma! is Herbert hurt?"

"Stuff and nonsense! Nobody is hurt; there has been no accident."

"Then why does he telegraph to me?"

Hitherto, Mrs. Presty had only looked at the message. She now read it through attentively to the end. Her face assumed an expression of stern distrust. She shook her head.

"Read it yourself," she answered, "and remember what I told you when you trusted your husband to find a governess for my grandchild. I said: 'You don't know me as I do, I hope you may not live to repent it.'"

Mrs. Linley was too fond of her husband to let this pass. "Why shouldn't I trust him?" she asked. "He was going to London on business—and it was an excellent opportunity."

Mrs. Presty disposed of this weak defense of her daughter's conduct by waving her hand. "Read your telegram," she repeated, with dignity, "and judge for yourself."

Mrs. Linley read:

"I have engaged a governess. She will travel in the same train with me. I think I ought to prepare you to receive a person whom you may be surprised to see. She is very young, and very inexperienced; quite unlike the ordinary run of governesses. When you hear how cruelly the poor girl has been used I am sure you will sympathize with her as I do."

Mrs. Linley laid down the message with a smile.

"Poor, dear Herbert!" she said, tenderly. "After we have been eight years married, is he really afraid that I shall be jealous? Mamma! Why are you looking so serious?"

Mrs. Presty took the telegram from her daughter and read extracts from it with indignant emphasis of voice and manner.

"Travels in the same train with him. Very young and inexperienced. And he sympathizes with her. Ha! I know the men, Catherine—I know the men!"

II.

Mr. Herbert Linley arrived at his own house in the forenoon of the next day. Mrs. Linley, running out to the head of the stairs to meet her husband, saw him approaching her without a traveling companion. "Where is the governess?" she asked—when the first salutes allowed her an opportunity of speaking.

"On her way to bed, poor soul, under the care of the housekeeper," Linley answered.

"Anything infectious, my dear Herbert?" Mrs. Presty inquired, appearing at the breakfast-room door.

Linley addressed his reply to his wife.

"Nothing more serious, Catherine, than want of strength. She was in such a state of fatigue after our long night journey that I had to lift her out of the carriage."

Mrs. Presty listened with an appearance of the deepest interest. "Quite a novelty in the way of a governess," she said. "May I ask what her name is?"

"Sydney Wentworth."

Mrs. Presty looked at her daughter and smiled satirically.

Mrs. Linley remembered.

"Surely," she said, "you don't object to the young lady's name?"

"I have no opinion to offer, Catherine. I don't believe in the name."

"Oh, mamma, do you suspect that it's an assumed name?"

"My dear, I believe nothing about Miss May I ask another question?" the old lady continued, turning to Linley. "What refreshments did Miss Wetherfield give you?"

"No refreshments at all."

Mrs. Presty rose with the alacrity of a young woman, and hurried to the door. "Follow my example," she said to her daughter, on her way out. "Look up your Arithmetic."

Advice to Consumptives.

On the appearance of the first symptoms—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs:—therefore, use the great anti-scrofula or blood purifier and strength restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive and unequaled as a tonic. For weak lungs, spitting of blood and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, small as mustard seed, cure constipation, biliousness, and kindred derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. One pellet a dose. Sugar coated and easy to take as candy. 50 doses in a vial, 25 cents. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

She Knew.

"I know what the nights of labor are," said the mother of six boys as she sat down to repair the pile of trousers and jackets.

A Good Investment.

"I suffered with eruptions on my face for over two years. I determined to give Burdock Blood Bitters a fair trial. After taking four bottles, I can say it was the best investment I ever made. Jean Clancy, Beauséjour, Manitoba."

Meant for a Gag.

"Maria, I wish you would keep still," said Brown, trying to write. "Your tongue is like Tennyson's Brook; it goes on forever." "Humph!" answered Mrs. B., indignantly, "I suppose you think that's a joke." "Well, I meant it for a sort of a gag."

The only proper way to cure a cough is to loosen the tough mucous or phlegm that clogs the bronchial pipes. This is why Hagyards Pectoral Balsam is the most successful remedy for coughs, colds, throat and lung troubles.

A Double Purpose.

The popular remedy, Hagyard's Yellow Oil, is used both internally and externally, for aches, pains, colds, croup, rheumatism, deafness and diseases of an inflammatory nature.

Italian Laborers with Dynamite.

Stamford, Conn., Nov. 12.—To-day a large number of Italian laborers working on the sewers, who had not been paid by the subcontractor for four weeks, smashed the sewer pipes and tool boxes and threatened fire. The warden finally assured them that they would be paid on Monday. Dynamite cartridges were found among the laborers.

"What is McGregor's Speedy Cure for?" It is for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Biliousness, and it is the finest blood purifier in the known world to-day.

"Does it give satisfaction?"

We cannot point to one instance where it did not.

"Where does it have the largest sale?"

Right in the city of Hamilton, wherever it is manufactured, there has been over one thousand dollars' worth sold in the last year retail, and the great majority of the sales are by one recommending it to another. For sale at 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle by John McKee, druggist. codw46

There is no necessity of passing a sleepless night and annoying the entire household with that cough, as West's Cough Syrup will cure you like magic. The best known remedy for coughs, colds, consumption in its early stages, and all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. 25c., 50c. and $1 per bottle. dwnov

Delays are dangerous. Procure a bottle of West's Cough Syrup at once and cure that troublesome hacking cough and sore throat, relieving pain and misery. It is the household remedy for all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. dwnov

Ladies troubled with Pimples, Blotches, Rough Hands or Face, or sores of any description, should use McGregor & Parke's Carbole Cerate. It will leave the skin in perfect health, smooth, clear and good color. Be sure and get the genuine, made by McGregor & Parke. Price 25 cents. Sold at John McKee's, druggist. codw46

To-morrow Mr. T. Cavanagh will ship a gang of men to Mr. Gilmore's lumbering camp at Nogie's Creek, Harvey.

Personal.

Will "A. B.," who wrote to Mr. Geo. E. Williams, Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., kindly send his address, as the post-office will not deliver letters addressed to initials only.

Sold His Farm.

Mr. Christopher Quinn, of Smith, has purchased from Mr. Samuel McKibbin, 150 acres of land, lot 24, concession 9, Smith, for $5,000. Mr. McKibbin has purchased Mr. W. J. Wallace's residence in Lakefield, whither he goes to reside.

Rowse's Cheap Flannels.

A typographical error in the advertisement makes the prices of Rowse's all-wool gray and scarlet flannels 50 instead of twenty cents. This is a big difference and the public can make no mistake in buying these wonderfully cheap and good flannels. Apply at Rowse's Trade Palace.

The Juvenile Corps.

The juvenile Salvationists had a march-out Saturday afternoon, under the leadership of the Lieutenant. About a score of young-sters in the procession, singing nicely and waving their yellow-and-red flags with evident zest and enjoyment.

Evangelistic Meeting.

Special evangelistic meetings will be held in the Young Men's Christian Association this week. The meeting to-night will be addressed by the Rev. A. Bell. Mr. H. S. Griffin will take charge of all the meetings. A male choir will lead the singing.

Another Bridge Shipped.

The Central Iron Bridge Works shipped this afternoon a high-cross bridge, of 96 feet span, 13 feet roadway, and 5 feet sidewalk, to Brussels, Ont., via G. T. R., where it will be erected over the Maitland River. The company expect to ship two more iron bridges this week.

Examiner Bindery.

Merchants and business men, now is the time to call at the EXAMINER bindery and leave your orders for journals, day books, ledgers, invoice books, cheque books, and all blank books used in business. Don't wait till the moment you want to use them. All blank books last longer for not being used immediately after being finished.

J. R. STRATTON.

Crushed His Fingers.

Saturday afternoon Master Willie Davidson was sitting on a large folding chair. In rising he placed his hands on the sides of the chair, when he slipped and fell back, his whole weight falling on his fingers, which were caught as in a vice between the chair supports. The little finger of the right hand and the middle finger of the left hand were badly crushed. He may lose the latter digit.

Young Men's Meetings.

The week of prayer was opened by a meeting in the Baptist Church on Sunday afternoon. The local work was presented by an impressive address by Mr. Geo. M. Roger, and the progress of Association work throughout the world by Mr. H. S. Griffin. Organized 42 years ago, there are now 3,372 associations in the world. The claims of the International Committee for support were presented by Mr. Geo. E. Williams and a collection taken on their behalf. The meeting on Sunday night in the rooms was large, and was addressed by the Rev. Prof. McGregor, of Toronto.

The Salvation Farewell.

Staff-Captain Eadie, D. O., and Special Captain Philpott arrived in town Saturday night via C. P. R., and were tendered a hearty welcome by the Salvationists of Peterborough. Mrs. Eadie was unable to come. Services were held yesterday at the barracks, which was crowded to the doors. The Lindsay Salvation brass band was present and headed the marches. This afternoon about 2.30 a march-out took place, followed by a rousing meeting at the barracks. This evening a grand torchlight procession will do honor to the departing officers, who will be given a final farewell at the meeting which will follow. Staff-Captain Eadie and wife go to England; Special Philpott to another division.

At the Opera House.

The Final Week of the Tavernier Dramatic Co. The Bell and Rocking Stone Song.

Saturday night's performance of "Our Boys" by the Tavernier Dramatic Co., closed their first week's engagement at Peterborough. The Opera House was as a rule comfortably filled at every performance, but the attendance was not nearly as large as the excellence of the company in the low prices merited. The management, though, despite these somewhat discouraging features of last week, carried out their agreement faithfully as regards the giving away of the presents. Saturday afternoon at the close of the matinee Maud Perry was presented with the $5 gold piece for having the largest list of words, and Mary Stevenson, a little girl of about [illegible] years, was the large doll, she having one lucky number.

Saturday night "Our Boys" was presented. Ida Van Cortland and Allen Hosken were most charming as "Our Girls," and Albert Tavernier and I. A. Washburne as "Our Boys" completely filled the bill. But perhaps the greatest hit of the evening was H. F. Drew as "Perkyn Middlewick," the droll, uneducated but withal kindly retired old butterman, in which character he "swept the boards," so to were. Horace Dawson, as "Sir Geoffroy Champneys," was first-rate in his way. At the close of the play a gentleman stepped on the stage, and, blindfolded, selected a slip from among the thousands in the jar. The first number called was not responded to; the duplicate of the second was in the possession of Mrs. Dunsford, who was awarded the pitcher amidst applause.

To-night the beautiful Irish drama, "Colleen Bawn," will be presented. What, with the well known ability and general excellence of the company, and the very low prices of admission, 10 and 20 cents, is to be hoped a large audience will attend this evening, and encourage the management to still greater efforts to please the public.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Tovell preached the opening sermon in the reconstructed George street Methodist Church yesterday morning from Acts ix. 31st verse. The choir sang "Oh, Taste and see how Gracious the Lord is." It was a beautiful anthem. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered at the close of the service.

Rev. Mr. Wallace delivered an excellent address to young men at the Charlotte street Methodist Church last night.

Rev. Alex. Bell and R. F. Torrance exchanged pulpits yesterday morning.

The regular services were held in the other churches as usual, Rev. B. G. Greatrix officiating in the Mark street Methodist Church, Ashburnham, and Prof. D. A. McGregor in the Baptist Church.

Smith.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR,—When you hear from Ratepayer again re Nicholls hospital, I hope he will be a little more explicit in his remarks in regard to local municipalities making Peterborough a dumping ground for paupers, and having their invalids attended to at the hospital. Any person reading his letter in the Weekly EXAMINER of Nov. 11th, would infer that parties outside the town were boarded and cared for free of expense, and he is particular to mention as Indian. I beg to say that an Indian is at the hospital at the expense of the township of Smith, and if the charges are not now fully paid, I can assure Ratepayer they will be honorably met. The council of Smith at one time supported an aged woman at the Protestant Home for which they paid at the same rate as they could have her cared for in a private family. If the town supplies board, attendance and medicine, as he asserts, the township of Smith cannot be one of the favoured municipalities, but I hope if the town grows, as he anticipates, that their charity will be extended to Smith also.

In his next epistle, I trust Ratepayer will particularize as to who has received the benefits.

Yours truly,
RATEPAYER OF SMITH.

Smith, Nov. 11th, 1886.

Literary Notices.

THE PANSY. Edited by Mrs. G. R. Alden. Volume for 1886. Illustrated. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price $1.25. The readers for whom Pansy is specially prepared are too young to thoroughly enjoy and appreciate Wide Awake and too old for Babyland. They want stories, and they want to know, too, about the wonderful people and places in the world, just as much as their big brothers and sisters, and this is what Mrs. Alden, who knows just what they like and just what they can understand, provides for them in Pansy. She believes they are entitled to the best that can be had, and she spares no pains in securing it. There are stories by such authors as Margaret Sidney, Faye Huntington, and Mrs. Alden herself; short sketches and biographies, poems and a multitude of illustrations. The twelve numbers for the present year have been put into a beautiful cover, and make, altogether, one of the handsomest volumes of the year.

A Suggestion.

In the course of his sermon last night, Rev. Mr. Wallace in mentioning the advantages to be derived by young men from active membership in the Young Men's Christian Association, suggested as addition to the numerous attractions already held out by the Association. He was of opinion that a well equipped gymnasium would be of great benefit to young men, enabling them to spend their evenings in healthy, vigorous exercise. It is certainly a good suggestion. The development of the physical should go hand in hand with moral and religious culture. "A sound body makes a sound mind" is a saying the truth of which is recognized by all, and one which the management of the Association should endeavor to follow.

Home from the Rockies.

Return Prize-winning Men Receive Enthusiastic Welcome—Rolling Address Presented.

Messrs. Martin Hobbins, Ed. Cameron and Martin Lahey arrived in town Saturday night, having enjoyed a week's uninterrupted journey from the Rocky Mountains. The men are leaving Rossland Columbia for home every day in small detachments, as fast as their respective contractors are completed. There are a few Peterborough men still working on Ross & McDermott's contract, which will have to be completed this month, as the weather will not permit of further labor. The snow sheds have been built to stay, being composed of the very choicest timbers and planks, and fastened together in the strongest possible way in order to resist the immense pressure of the snow slides which frequently occur in the Rockies during the month of January. Mr. Hobbins, in conversation with an EXAMINER reporter, stated that the terrible force and disastrous consequences of these slides cannot be imagined until seen. Everything is swept away before of a solid wall of forty feet of snow. Railroads are destroyed, the rails being bent and twisted into a hundred shapes, ties uprooted and embankments broken down. The mass glides down with such velocity that stout trees on either side, which are not touched by the slide itself, are swamped off close to the ground by the hurricane of wind its rapid transit creates. The sheds are built almost tunnel fashion over the railroad in threatened places, so that the snow passes overhead and leaves the track uninjured.

THE RESISTLESS AVALANCHE,

Messrs. Hobbins, Lahey and Cameron left for home on Sunday, Nov. 6th, and had a providential escape from being in a which happened the night of the 5th. For some unknown and unaccountable reason, instead of waiting for the work train to convey them to the nearest stopping place of regular passenger trains, they took the mail train a few hours previously. The work train on which they had expected to go, met with a terrible disaster. On the line there is a heavy grade known as the Summit. The work train that evening had a heavier load than usual, and just as the engine reached the top of the grade the train stopped. The engineer whistled off brakes, with the intention of making a fresh start, but he made a miscalculation. As soon as the brakes were released the train began moving backward, and all efforts to stop it were fruitless. It gained speed every instant, and ran into an advancing train which had just cleared the tunnel. The result was fearful. The engine of the second train was rammed through the van of the train ahead like a telescope and pitched to one side of the embankment. Cars were crushed and telescoped on all sides, and the sight was truly horrible. In a car of live stock next the van the animals were so badly hurt they had to be killed. In the van itself were Foreman McCrae, wife and child, of Toronto, Health Inspector Code, a Mr. Johnston, wife and child, a man named Allison, and some others. McCrae and Allison were killed outright, Code and the engineer of the second train so severely injured that they have since died; Mrs. McCrae had a leg broken. The children were not hurt. The other men were more or less injured. They passed through town Saturday night en route for Toronto, with arms in slings, heads bandaged, and faces plastered beyond recognition.

Mr. Hobbins said the men all enjoyed their life in the Rockies, though their pleasure was greatly marred by the presence of numerous saloons, gambling hells and dens of the worst kind, which were as thick as "hair on a dog." He said that in comparison Chicago could not hold a candle to their station for drinking and debauchery. These, however, who had the good sense to keep clear of such places, had come home with their pockets pretty well lined, as he was among the number.

Sermon to Young Women.

Mr. Schiverea on Novel-Reading, Dancing, Card Playing, Tight-Lacing, &c.

The enthusiasm that has marked the work of Mr. F. Schiverea in the West Presbyterian Church, says the Globe, during the past few weeks, shows no sign of diminishing. At the afternoon service Mr. Schiverea's remarks were addressed especially to young women, an unusually large number of whom were included in his audience. Mr. Schiverea said preachers were often found addressing young men, but they seldom addressed their remarks directly to young women, as he proposed to do that afternoon. In his own peculiarly forcible language the preacher then denounced the follies and frivolities common, as he contended, to young women. First he denounced novel reading, because, he said, it led to certain ruin. If he could have his way he would burn every novel in Toronto. Then he spoke of dancing, and uttered a vigorous denunciation of it. He said dancers only danced because of the "hugging business." If a man attempted to hug his wife or sister, he would brain him. Of a thousand girls in the United States that went to ruin, 900 of them get there through the ball room. These were the gradations—parlor dances, evening parties, ball rooms, ruin, hell. Dancing meant hell—nothing more, nothing less. He rejoiced that in the town of Port Hope pastoral and evangelical denunciations against dancing and card playing had had such effect that it was impossible this winter to get up either a card party or a dancing circle. In equally forcible terms the preacher denounced card playing, particularly progressive euchre, love of dress, theatre going, concert, ball, and skating rink attendance, urging that they were all roads to perdition, and claiming that there were better gentlemen in hell than those who taught girls to play progressive euchre. He protested against the vanity of tight lacing, and gave a touching illustration of a girl who tied the strings of her corset to a bed post in order to get a small waist, almost killing herself in consequence. He concluded with some admirable advice to the girls as to their manner of choosing a husband.

A Boomerang for Count Bismarck.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—Count William Bismarck's recently published letter rebuking the officials of HANAU, Prussia, for their excessive gambling and immoral habits has evoked a deluge of sarcastic comments from the Liberal press. One paper reminds the moralist that he, with certain convivial companions in the military and civil service, on the occasion of the last anniversary of the battle of Sedan, forcibly entered a brothel in the middle of the night by crawling through the windows, in spite of the fact that the house was closed and no one could be legally admitted.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eodw41tf

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or roughcast buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. SHE STILL LOVED HIM.

A YOUNG WIFE SUICIDES OWING TO A BROTHER HUSBAND.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Daisy Wiley, a handsome woman, 21 years old, has committed suicide. Her husband, Thomas Wiley, had been drunk. She found him, and when she had failed after long pleading to have him come home, she took strychnia. While the coroner and county physician were taking her ante-mortem statement two policemen brought Wiley to the bedside. He immediately attacked the doctor and attempted to put all the officials into the street.

Daisy Wiley became acquainted with Wiley last August and their acquaintance led to illicit love. In the latter part of September she asked him to marry her, and thereupon Wiley fled to New York state. She followed him and found him in Watervliet. On Oct. 6 they were married by Squire Daniel Crolan of that village. After their marriage the couple came to this city, where both obtained employment in the New Brunswick Rubber Works. On Wednesday Wiley went on a spree and he has been drunk ever since. She wrote two letters before taking the poison. To her husband she wrote:

My dear boy Tom, my heart is broken with the way you have used me to-day, for I love you too well to see you going around in such a way as you went to-day. You know, my dear boy, I asked you all I could, and begged you, and did all I could to have you do better to please me, and to try and be a good boy yourself. I love you yet, and always will. My last wish is that you will be a good boy.

To her mother she wrote:

Dear mamma, I was once a happy girl, but now my heart is broken with trouble from Tom. He was a dear, good boy until he went down to drink. Oh, mamma, I could not see that boy going to destruction, for I love him so. Oh, mamma, you do not know what I have put up with to see that boy go down there and think more of them than he did of me. Now, mamma, I will tell you of my sin. To-day I went to the drug store and got some strychnine and mixed it with my medicine and drank it. My troubles are all over.

Now, mamma, I want you to bury me with my wedding ring on, and, oh, mamma, take good care of yourself. Put Tom's picture in my coffin with me, for I want it there. Tell papa to be glad I am in Heaven and a happy girl now. And, oh, mamma, if you can, only talk to my dear boy and try to make him do better. Kiss them all good-by, sister Edith and Harry, and tell them to be good and love one another. Good-by all. Your loving girl, DAISY.

P.S.—But, mamma, I do love Tom yet. It is my dying thought.

When Wiley was told that his wife had taken poison and would die, he said: "If she's taken poison, let her die."

The P. E. I. Elections.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Nov. 15.—The Liberals carried the entire province at the Legislative Council elections Thursday last. The first despatches stated that the Liberals had carried six out of seven constituencies, but Mr. Davies says his friends have carried the whole seven, in some instances by enormous majorities. Seven members of the council were elected Thursday, and six are held over until 1890. Out of the thirteen members of the Legislative Council eleven are now Liberals.

The following are the members elect: A. B. Mackenzie, Richard Smith, Thomas Kickham, John Scrimmageour, B. Rogers, Alex. Laird, T. W. Todd.

Hamilton News.

HAMILTON, Nov. 15.—The International Cigarmakers' Union of Hamilton has decided not to co-operate with the labor unions which propose to bring out a lat or candidate at the approaching elections. The constitution of the union forbids its members to meddle, as a union, with religious or political matters.

George Newton Taylor, residing near Lang's Hotel, Barton township, was in the city to-day in search of his wife, who, on Thursday last left home with the expressed intention of going to the city for provisions.

The Magistrate to-day sent Charles H. Johnston, a crook who lately came here from Detroit, to the penitentiary for six months, his crime being satchel grabbing.

Armed Factions in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15.—A Courier Journal special says: The war in Perry County, Ky., between the French and Eversole factions has broken out afresh. Almost every citizen of the county has taken sides with one or the other of those mountain merchant princes, as they are called. Both factions seem to have come to the conclusion that there can be no settlement except by extermination. Both factions are armed, and the first shot will bring about a general war. The feud between French and Eversole dates back several years. They are rivals in business and control the entire trade of several mountain counties.

Chicago Strikers Back at Work.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—At an early hour this morning the late striking employes of the packing houses applied for employment. The crowd was orderly and perfectly quiet. The foremen of the different houses selected such men as they required at once, and the remainder departed evidently satisfied that they would be taken back as soon as the houses were in full running shape again. The number of old hands re-employed this morning is between 1200 and 1500.

A Steamer Laden With Tea for Canada Wrecked.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—The steamer Oceanic, which arrived to-day from Hong Kong, brings news of the foundering of the steamship Normantore off Pashima, Japan, with seventy-two persons on board. Of these twelve reached the shore. The steamer was laden with tea for New York and Canada.

Raid on Montreal Gamblers.

MONTREAL, Nov. 15.—The police raided Andy Maloney's gambling house on Craig-street this afternoon. Ten persons were arrested and the tools were confiscated. Maloney is out on bail of $400 and two sureties of $400 each. There is no case against the others. Maloney will be tried to-morrow.

Another Boodler on Trial.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Ex-Ald. Arthur J. McQuade, member of the boodle Board of Alderman of 1884, was placed on trial to-day for accepting a $20,000 bribe for his vote in favor of granting the Broadway franchise.

BULGARIAN TROUBLE.

RUSSIAN COMMENTS ON SALISBURY'S AND KALNOKY'S SPEECHES.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 15.—The Journal de St. Petersburg says that the Marquis of Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet is so full of insinuations that it must decline to notice it. The Journal contrasts the British indulgence of the Philippopolis movement of 1885 with England's attitude towards the Sofia movement of August 1886, the former having been declared by the Journal undoubtedly revolutionary and in violation of the Sultan's rights and of the equilibrium guaranteed by the Berlin treaty.

The Journal also regrets the tone of the speech made by Count Kalnoky before the Austro-Hungarian delegations. "Every Government," the paper says, "is the best judge of its own interests, but when two neighboring Empires wish to preserve accord they should regard each other's interests in a friendly and equitable manner. Count Kalnoky explains Austria's views, but we have yet to learn how it is proposed to reconcile those views with an exchange of ideas calculated to produce accord and with Russia's special position arising from sacrifices she has made for Bulgaria. These questions belong to diplomacy, and concerning them we abstain from pronouncing judgment, in order to avoid envenoming the matter." The Novoe Vremya and Novosti deprecate Kalnoky's speech, which they say is ambiguous, and affords no firm guarantee of maintenance of peace.

In semi-official circles here Count Kalnoky's speech has made a bad impression. Russian diplomatic circles consider that Kalnoky had no right to refer to what Austria had done in view of the Russian occupation of Bulgaria, seeing that the Russian Government had never suggested the occupation of Bulgaria. Still the Government adheres to a pacific program. Some eminent officials have advised the Czar to instruct Gen. Kaulbars to adopt a less absolute tone to meet the friendly disposition of the Bulgarian Government. Meanwhile Russia will continue to disregard the acts of the Sobranje. Russia disapproves the candidacy of a Mecklenburg prince or the Duke of Cumberland, and will wait the reaction in favor of the Russian candidate.

Notes.

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Nov. 15.—The examination of a number of persons accused of conspiracy has revealed the fact that the extensive revolutionary scheme which was fostered by the Russian consulate has been nipped in the bud by the discovery of the plot.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Standard says: The plain English of Count Kalnoky's declaration is that Russia shall not occupy Bulgaria. If she does she will have to reckon with Austria and England and in case of need with Germany.

Lord Salisbury, Lord Iddesleigh and Count Von Hatzfeldt, German Ambassador, had a long conference to-day with reference to the candidature of Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia for the Bulgarian throne. It is reported that England, Austria and Germany object to Prince Nicholas.

SOFIA, Nov. 15.—Gen. Kaulbars has declared the trial of the Bourgas plotters null and void.

A RURAL ROMANCE.

Unhappy Experience of a Girl who Ran off With One Man While She was Engaged to Another.

THAMESVILLE, Nov. 15.—On August 9 Oliver Howell took Miss Amelia Christina Smith to Dresden and there married her. At that time she was engaged to be married to Jonathan Taylor, Morpeth, and the day had been fixed for August 11. After living together a short time they separated, and now a prosecution is made by her father against Howell for perjury, he having taken affidavit in order to secure a marriage license, that the consent of Mr. Smith had been obtained, which was necessary, the girl being under age. On the advice of counsel Howell was arrested and incarcerated in jail for several days. His preliminary trial commenced before Squire Holmes last week.

Evidence was given by the girl's father to the following effect: My daughter is 17 going on 18. She was engaged to Johnnie Taylor, Morpeth, and the day was fixed for the marriage. My consent had been obtained for that marriage. The day was fixed for August 11, Preparations were being made. My daughter was married to Howell because prisoner abducted her unknown to me; Howell never asked me for my consent to marry my daughter; had no idea that he was going to marry her until they were married. If Howell, before Mr. Chappell, Dresden, swore that he got my consent it is, not true. He lived with her about three weeks. Since then they have not lived together. I took care of her since. I felt very bad over it. When the marriage took place I was making preparations for the wedding cake, to be made for her marriage to Jonathan Taylor. The cake was made and they actually broke in and stole it. Howell was committed for trial.

Prosperous Times at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Nov. 15.—For the first time in several years there is no strike of any consequence in Pittsburg or the surrounding districts. Every furnace, iron mill, glass factory, tannery, oleomargarine factory, foundry, cooper shop, oil distillery, and other factories, are in full operation, and if the coal mines are not running it is for want of water, not of orders. Labor leaders claim that there is a larger proportion of working men of Pittsburg employed at the present time than in any other city in the Union. They attribute the absence of strikes principally to the introduction of natural gas and the government of workingmen of this locality by sliding or yearly scales.

Socialists Say Salisbury Must Hear Them.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Council of the Social Democratic Federation will send a letter to the Marquis of Salisbury, demanding that he as Prime Minister receive a deputation of unemployed workingmen next Sunday afternoon and hear from them a statement of reasons why they should be given government assistance. The document will caution the Premier from attempting to evade the deputation and ask him to refrain from following this week his custom of going into the country on Saturday.

Socialists in a Beer Cellar.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—At Frankfort the police raided a secret meeting of Socialists which was being held in the beer cellar of Heinrich Frinz, himself a militant Socialist. Twenty persons were arrested, and documents and the lists of members were seized.

Protestant Home Rulers.

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—At a meeting of Protestant Home Rulers in Dublin, Rev. Mr. McCutcheon of Kenmare presided. A resolution was unanimously adopted in favor of Home Rule as the only measure that would benefit Ireland.

A Crofter Government Committed for Trial.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—John MacPherson and Rev. Mr. McCallum, who were arrested in Skye on the charge of inciting violence were examined to-day. McCallum was committed for trial and released on $100 bail; MacPherson was remanded.

A MONTREAL TRIBUTE

To the Genius of a Canadian Who Founded Our Art Societies.

In a notice of the wonderfully natural and charming water color paintings of Rocky Mountain scenery by Mr. John A. Fraser, and which were exhibited in Toronto a few days ago, the Montreal Herald says:

"John A. Fraser, Boston, Mass." we read in the day's arrivals at the "Hall" and the well-known signature recalls memories of some twenty years ago when he whose claims to distinction as one of the landscape painters are being recognized on both continents was a silent, fair young fellow, whose only possession in the world, outside of his talent, were a loving, delicate wife and "twa boy bairnies." And while pursuing his daily task in a very humble department of art to earn daily bread, night after night continued to prosecute those studies in which he had been so well grounded in the great art schools of London, also quietly and unostentatiously gathered up the scattered elements which might form an artistic community in Canada, resulting in the founding and organizing the Society of Canadian Artists in Montreal, and later the Ontario Society of Artists in Toronto, of which the Royal Canadian Academy is a natural development. As we look at the page of the register, a family group of more than common interest arises before us, viz., the signatory and his two pupils, Henry Sandham, the now famous book illustrator, and W. I. Fraser, the manager of the pictorial department of the Century magazine. These three names we could not afford to keep and they drifted across the line. In the background towers the form of one who has "crossed the dark river" and whose place is still vacant, "Cousin Sandy," father and father-in-law respectively of the Frasers and Sandham, a man whose tongue and pen, fearless, caustic or tender by turns, made short work of hypocrisy and cant, and had no hole to hide in, but was ever ready to help the just, the weak or oppressed. Dear Cousin Sandy, "Requiescat in pace."

Haligonians in Favor of a Railway Commission.

HALIFAX, Nov. 15.—The Royal Commission appointed to consider the advisability of establishing a Court of Railway Claims in Canada held its first sitting in Halifax to-day. Sir A. T. Galt not having arrived yet on account of illness, Wm. Burpee acted as Chairman. W. C. Silver, Robt. Pickford, Jas. A. Chipman, Arthur E. Curran and Geo. E. Forsyth appeared before the commission, and all agreed that such a court as proposed should be of a non-political character. If so constituted it would probably be beneficial and prove the most preferable mode of managing the railways of the country.

A Jactitation of Marriage Suit.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—A suit for jactitation of marriage is now going on in the Chancery Court. The plaintiff is Dr. Beatty of Richmond, whose daughter was married to the defendant, Francis B. Butler, also of Richmond in February last. The action is brought on the ground that the daughter was insane and consequently could not be considered to have entered into the marriage contract. She fled from her husband the day following the marriage.

The Candidates in Bench.

WELLAND, Nov. 15.—A large gathering attended the Liberal Convention to-day for Monck at Wellandport. Dr. G. A. McCollum was nominated for the Commons, and Richard Harcourt, M.P.P., was re-nominated for the Legislature.

German Finances.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The budget for the empire for 1887-88 balances with the estimated revenue and expenditure at 750,945,995 marks, the permanent expenditure being placed at 631,568,194 marks. The total estimated expenditure shows an increase of 53,554,516 marks over the previous year.

A Prince Commits Suicide.

ROME, Nov. 14.—Prince Roccagiovini Bonaparte, who was wounded when serving as a volunteer in the French army in Tonquin, has committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. He had lately shown signs of insanity.

Will Not Pay the Landlord.

DUBLIN, Nov. 14.—Three hundred tenants on the Ponsoby estate met at Killiagh to-day and were addressed by Irish leaders. They resolved to deposit the amount of their rents, less 30 per cent, with a trustee instead of paying the landlord.

Two Crofter Sympathizers Arrested.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—John MacPherson, who is known as the "Glendale Martyr," and Rev. Donald MacCallum have been arrested in the Isle of Skye on a charge of inciting violence. MacCallum advised a meeting of crofters to resist the removal of cattle. MacPherson also spoke at the meeting, giving the crofters similar advice.

DISSOLUTION OF THE ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.

(From the Globe.)

We have to announce that on the advice of Mr. Mowat the Ontario Parliament has been dissolved. The writs for the election of a new House will be issued immediately.

The day of polling will be, over the whole of the Province, Wednesday, 29th December. The nominations will take place, except in those scattered constituencies as to which the law otherwise provides, on Wednesday, 22nd December.

In tendering to the Lieutenant-Governor the advice which he has accepted, Mr. Mowat has been actuated by a profound sense of the duties imposed upon him by constitutional usages. It has been the invariable rule for British Parliaments, after the franchise has been widened, to sit no longer than has been absolutely required for the transaction of indispensably necessary business.

In Ontario the franchise has been materially changed in two directions. On the one hand voting power has been conferred upon scores of thousands of hitherto voiceless citizens; on the other the franchise has been taken away from non-resident property owners, and the principle of "One man one vote" has been definitely and fully recognized.

In a double sense, therefore, the House which has just been dissolved, had ceased to represent the people, and Mr. Mowat, recognising the fact, determined to act, as he always does act, courageously and promptly, and to appeal for a renewal of the confidence bestowed upon him.

A LIBERAL STATESMAN.

The speech made by Hon. Mr. Mercier, leader of the Quebec Liberals, to the Club Letellier in Montreal, on Thursday night last, is an important pronunciation. It shows that he is a true Liberal at heart, and that he can entertain no other policy than that of even-handed justice to men of every political faith or religious creed. The Mail and its confreres have, in their endeavors to raise embittered feelings of race and religious intolerance, abusively assailed Hon. Mr. Mercier. But their attempts have failed, and Mr. Mercier's frank, out-spoken, manly utterances will serve to dispel any fear of majority domination which the diatribes of these journalistic alarmists may have excited in unreflecting minds. A Montreal despatch says:

At the yearly opening of the Club Letellier Hon. Mr. Mercier said that the victory (gained at the recent Provincial elections) was not merely a Liberal one, but the victory of the people, of all true patriots in both parties. It was a condemnation of a Government that showed itself to be but a weak lot in the hands of the Federal Ministers. It made no difference what the component elements of the Opposition were, the one great point being that the majority of the Ministerial candidates were rejected by the people. He said:—"As proof that Mr. Ross is in a minority I may state that I hold a document, signed by thirty-five members, who declare they

HAVE NO CONFIDENCE IN THE GOVERNMENT.

The Ministerial press has endeavored to show that the thirty-five members wanted to dictate the line of conduct which should be followed by the Lieut.-Governorr. This is a gratuitous accusation. I know the Hon. Mr. Mowat, and I know he will do his duty. This is sufficient for me, and it would be the height of indelicacy for the members to advise him without being invited to do so. We signed this document because it was necessary to answer the false assertions of dishonest persons, who stated that the verdict of the people was not sufficiently clear. Our fight during the contest was not directed in the slightest degree against the rights of the Protestant minority in the Province. There is not one amongst us who does not entertain the greatest respect for the

in this Province. (Applause.) Thank God, these rights are not imperilled. But if ever they were, it would be found that they would be safer in our hands, and would be better defended and upheld by us than by our opponents." Referring to the formation of a new Cabinet, Mr. Mercier said:—"I don't know whom the Lieut.-Governor will call to form this Cabinet, but if he follows the constitutional usages, he will select his chief adviser in the actual majority of the House, and will know how to resist the indiscreet and indelicate approaches that may be made to him to go outside the Legislative Assembly to seek for a Prime Minister. If I have to take any part in the formation of the new Government, I will honestly, resolutely and candidly keep the good faith promised the Province. I will keep all the promises made and form in its composition, the origin of its members, and its programme. This Government will not be one of revenge, but of national appreciation."

A GOVERNMENT TRULY NATIONAL

The Montreal Witness, which would speak no word in Mercier's favor, without it had good reason, after complimenting him on the tone of this address, adds the following:

The Protestant minority of this province have noticed with sincere satisfaction the opportunity with which the French people has stood up for religious liberty in the case of the Salvationist movement in Quebec and the substantial protection accorded to those eccentric preachers by the Mayor of Quebec and the police of that city. Once remove all dread of encroachment upon the freedom of either party and not even differences of language and traditions will avail to hinder Canadians from becoming a united and happy people.

The Value of Forest Preservation.

To the Editor of the Daily EXAMINER:

SIR,—I should like, if you can spare me a little space for the purpose, to endeavour to explain to your readers the reasons, so far as scientific experiment has revealed them, for retaining a considerable portion of forest interspersing all land devoted to agriculture or grazing. The results of these experiments and observations may be summed up in the statement that a country one-fourth or one-third forest will grow more crops, take less labour, and be a far healthier place to live in than the same portion would be if all cleared of wood.

The reason why this has not been apparent until the conviction was forced upon us that something was wrong in our system of management, and that something found by examination to be over-clearing, is that the operations of nature are largely hidden from view, and patient search is necessary to arrive at a partial understanding concerning them.

The chief fact to be borne in mind is that, whether in the growth of a tree, or of a plant, water is the vehicle of carriage which conveys all nourishment and adds all growth. The method of growth is, that whatever comes from the soil is carried by water, (that is, a very large proportion of water is intermixed with it) into the roots, from thence it is borne upwards to the leaves, where it is exposed to the air, receives additional plant food thence, and undergoes certain changes to fit it for its purpose, and is then carried back into the plant, and deposited wherever needed. But a little water goes back into the plant, most of what carried the food up from the roots passing away into the air when it reaches the leaves.

It will be seen from this how necessary is the constant presence of sufficient moisture in the soil. But the moisture must not be permanent; it must be continually changing to produce growth. The presence of stagnant, whether on the surface or in an undrained sub-soil, is injurious to most vegetation.

The presence of woods directly acts in maintaining the supply of moisture, and in keeping it in beneficial circulation.

They hold the rain and snow water, which otherwise would flow rapidly away, and allow it gradually to pass off, thus keeping the underground channels of the earth full and diffusing moisture around them. They prevent the wind from passing too rapidly over the land, and thereby preserve for a longer time the good effects of spring and summer showers. They also do much to procure these showers, as there is always arising from the immense number of their leaves a cool and damp vapour, which, meeting with the warmer atmosphere of a rain-laden cloud, must produce precipitation and a consequent fall of rain at some adjacent point. These are only a few of the effects of forests, but they show the beneficial influence they exert on that great factor of all vegetation, the circulation of moisture through the air and ground.

For these reasons everyone who has forests should endeavour to preserve a proper portion of them (and it may be remarked that the very best assistant in doing this will be found in keeping cattle out of that portion it is intended to preserve. Let them range in any bush except the one which is intended to stand. Next to a forest the best thing is a row of evergreens along the exposed side of a farm, which can be successfull planted by keeping the roots damp and covered till set out. The time is about the first of June.

Yours, etc.,
R. W. PHIPPS.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

Linley drew a deep breath of relief when he was left alone with his wife. "What makes your mother so particularly disagreeable this morning?" he inquired.

"She doesn't approve, dear, of my leaving it to you to choose a governess for Kitty."

"Where is Kitty?"

"Out on her pony for a ride over the hills. Why did you send a telegram, Herbert, to prepare me for the governess? Did you really think I might be jealous of Miss Westerfield?"

Linley burst out laughing. "No such idea entered my head," he answered. "It isn't in you, my dear, to be jealous."

Mrs. Linley was not quite satisfied with this view of her character. Her husband's well-intended compliment reminded her that there are occasions when any woman may be jealous, no matter how generous and how gentle she may be. "We won't go quite so far as that," she said to him, "because—" She stopped, unwilling to dwell too long on a delicate subject. He joco sely finished the sentence for her. "Because we don't know what may happen in the future?" he suggested; making another mistake by making a joke.

Mrs. Linley returned to the subject of the governess.

"I don't at all say what my mother says," she resumed, "but was it not just a little indiscreet to engage Miss Westerfield without any references?"

"Unless I am utterly mistaken," Linley replied, "you would have been quite as indiscreet in my place. If you had seen the horrible woman who persecuted and insulted her—"

His wife interrupted him. "How did all this happen, Herbert? Who first introduced you to Miss Westerfield?"

Linley mentioned the advertisement, and described his interview with the school-mistress. Having next acknowledged that he had received a visit from Miss Westerfield herself, he repeated all that she had been able to tell him of her father's wasted life and melancholy end. Really interested by this time, Mrs. Linley was eager for more information. Her husband hesitated. "I would rather you heard the rest of it from Miss Westerfield," he said, "in my absence."

"Why in your absence?"

"Because she can speak to you more freely when I am not present. Hear her tell her own story, and then let me know whether you think I have made a mistake. I submit to your decision beforehand, whichever way it may incline."

Mrs. Linley rewarded him with a kiss. If a married stranger had seen them at that moment he would have been reminded of forgotten days—the days of his honeymoon.

"And now," Linley resumed, "suppose we talk a little about ourselves. I haven't seen my brother yet. Where is Randal?"

"Staying at the farm to look after your interests. We expect him to come back to-day. Ah, Herbert, what do we not all owe to that dear, good brother of yours? There is really no end to his kindness. The last of our poor highland families, who have emigrated to America, have had their expenses privately paid by Randal. The whole has written to me, and has let out the secret. There is an American newspaper among the letters that are waiting your brother's return, sent to him as a little mark of attention by these good, grateful people." Having alluded to the neighbors who had left Scotland, Mrs. Linley was reminded of other neighbors who had remained. She was still relating events of local interest, when the clock interrupted her by striking the hour of the nursery dinner. What had become of Kitty? Mrs. Linley rose, and rang the bell to make inquiries.

On the point of answering, the servant looked round at the open door behind him. He drew aside and revealed Kitty in the corridor, hand in hand with Sydney Westerfield—who timidly hesitated at entering the room. "Here she is, mamma," cried the child. "I think she is afraid of you; help me to pull her in."

Mrs. Linley advanced to receive the new member of her household, with the irresistible grace and kindness which charmed every stranger who approached her. "Oh, it's all right," said Kitty. "Syd likes me, and I like Syd. What do you think? She lived in London with a cruel woman who never gave her enough to eat. See what a good girl I am! I'm beginning to feed her already." Kitty pulled a box of sweetmeats out of her pocket, and handed it to the governess with a tap on the lid, suggestive of an old gentleman offering a pinch of snuff to a friend.

"My dear child, you mustn't speak to Miss Westerfield in that way! Pray excuse her," said Mrs. Linley, turning to Sydney with a smile; "I am afraid she has been disturbing you in your room."

Sydney's all-but answer touched the mother's heart; she kissed her little friend. "I hope you will let her call me Syd," she said gently; "it reminds me of a happier time." Her voice faltered; she could say no more. Kitty explained, with the air of a grown person encouraging a child. "I know all about it, mamma. She means the time when her papa was alive. She lost her papa when she was a little girl like me. I didn't disturb her. I only said 'My name's Kitty; may I get upon the bed?' And she was quite willing, and we talked. And I helped her dress." Mrs. Linley let Sydney go; she was afraid she had been forgetting her mother's repeated [illegible] the governess had already made their escape upward to her sanctuary in the nursery.

"Now I'll tell you what I think," said Mrs. Linley, when she had left the room. "You have done right. I haven't a doubt of it now!"

III.

The two ladies were alone.

Widely as the lot in life of one differed from the lot in life of the other, they had once passed a remarkably similar apprentice which was more remarkable still. In the prime of life, tall and fair—the beauty of her delicate complexion and her brilliant blue eyes, rendered by the charm of a figure which had arrived at its mature perfection of development—Mrs. Linley sat side by side with a frail little dark-eyed, [illegible] girl, pale and pale, whose wasted face bore patient witness to the three cruelest privations under which youth can suffer—want of fresh air, want of nourishment, and want of kindness. The gentle mistress of the house wondered sadly if this last child of misfortune was capable of seeing the brighter prospect before her that promised enjoyment of a happier life to come.

"I was afraid to disturb you whilst you were resting," Mrs. Linley said. "Let me hope that my housekeeper had done what I might have done myself if I had seen you when you arrived."

"Mrs. Inchcooper has been all that is good and kind to me, ma'am."

"Don't call me 'madam'; it sounds so formal—call me 'Mrs. Linley.' You must not think of beginning to teach Kitty till you feel stronger and better. I see but too plainly that you have not been happy. Don't think of your past life or speak of your past life."

"Forgive me, Mrs. Linley; my past life is my only excuse for having ventured to come into this house."

"In what way, my dear?"

At the moment when that question was put the closed curtains which separated the breakfast-room from the library were lightly parted in the middle. A keen old face, strongly marked by cunning and distrust, peered through—eyed the governess with stern scrutiny—and retired again into hiding. The introduction of a stranger (without references) into the intimacy of the family circle was, as Mrs. Presty viewed it, a crisis in domestic history. Consequence, with its customary instinct, adopted itself to the emergency, and Linley's mother-in-law stole information behind the curtain—in Linley's best interests, it is quite needless to say.

The talk of the two ladies went on, without a suspicion on either side that it was overheard by a third person.

(To be Continued.)

Advice to Consumptives.

On the appearance of the first symptoms—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs:—therefore, use the great anti-scrofula or blood purifier and strength restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. A "Portable" Saw Mill

It will be remembered that two or three years ago Mr. Anson Sperry removed his saw-mill from the Locks to Haliburton, and that he set it up there to fill a shingle-sawing contract with Mr. J. M. Irwin. This contract came to naught and the mill passed into Mr. Irwin's hands, and he has decided to put it to use, and for this purpose will remove it to Peterborough. On Friday Mr. N. Shaw, the veteran millwright, went to Haliburton to see after the removal, which will be begun at once. This moving work was begun preparing the foundations for the second shift (in Hansen this time), convenient to the Red Mills, of the mill building, which is 60x30 feet in size, not including the boiler room, etc. The mill will be set up again and not only used as a shingle mill, but be altered to dress and match lumber for the Peterborough market. The work of construction will, for this time, be pushed as rapidly as possible.

"Here's a Shooter To-Night."

After a lapse of five weeks, during which the affairs of the town have been allowed to grow rusty and draggish, the wheel of business will be supplied with another dose of aldermanic axle grease, as it were, and the wagon of civic legislation will roll smoothly on the even tenor of its way once more. That assembly of banshee wisdom yclept the Town Council meets to-night.

Legal Intelligence.

The following cases of local interest were heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, yesterday:—

High Court of Justice—Before J. Ferguson—Chamberlain v. Chamberlain.—E. D. Armour, for the defendant, appealed from an order of the local Master at Peterborough striking out part of the defence. Edmonson (Peterborough) showed cause.

Q. B. and C. P. Divisions, before Wilson, C. J.—Re Peterborough Inv. Co. and Patterson.—Judgment on special case as to the estate of which the mortgagors were possessed at the time of the making of the mortgage in question. Held that the mortgagors were entitled only to a life estate with an estate tail in their children. Costs out of the estate. Pousette, Q. C., for the company, W. Nesbitt and Edmonson (Peterborough) for the mortgagors and two adult defendants. Clute (Belleville) for other defendants. J. K. Kerr, Q. C., for the infants.

The Colleen Bawn.

The Tavernier Dramatic Co. presented this beautiful Irish drama to a good house last night whose frequent and long continued applause attested the satisfaction they felt with the performance. The play abounds with thrilling scenes, at one time sad and pathetic, the next moment brimming over with Irish wit and sentiment. The old, old story of a man of high social position marrying a beautiful but ignorant Irish lassie, and afterwards repenting the deed, is once more repeated and the folly of such a course exemplified. Ida Van Cortland as the Colleen Bawn was the star of the evening, though scarcely eclipsing in her own sphere the beautiful Colleen Raadh, or Annie Chute (Alice Endres). Sheelah, Danny Man's mother, was capitally represented by Miss Kate Mitchell. Albert Tavernier, as Corrigan, the greedy, grasping, wicked old pettifogging attorney, was just in his element, and he made the most of the character. M. F. Drew personated Myles Na Coppaleen, the rollicking, roaring, good-hearted Irishman, with great vim and naturalness, while R. C. Chamberlain as Danny Mann the over-zealous and too faithful servant of Hardress Cregan, played his rather difficult part well. Mrs. Cregan, (Mary Bankson) Hardress Cregan, her son, (I. A. Washburne) Kyrle Daly, a college friend, (Chas. Kidder) and Father Tom, the parish priest, (H. Dawson) seemed to enter fully into the spirit of the play, and did entire justice to their parts. Friday night a benefit will be given Ida Van Cortland, when the well known drama, "Forget Me Not," will be presented. It is to be hoped a large audience will turn out on the occasion and do honor to a deserving person. To-night "East Lynne" will occupy the boards.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially in this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty-six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

The Salvation Army.

Farewell to Captains Eadie and Philpott—A New Division to be Formed—Another Man, Three Women Become Saints.

About a hundred Salvationists marched down George street last night, headed by the Salvation Army band from Lindsay, and proceeded to the barracks, where a "farewell" was accorded Staff-Capt. Eadie, who is about to leave for England, and Special Capt. Philpott, who, in being promoted to Brigadier division, will, in all probability, depart with this section of the country again. The barracks was soon filled to the doors, and the interesting meeting began. After a song by Master Lindsay, of Lindsay, with violin accompaniment by Private Garnett, Capt. Pepin addressed a few words to the audience. He announced that to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon would be given the little soldiers at the barracks, to be followed by a young soldiers' meeting. The dinner given the older people that afternoon had been so successful they had determined to give the children the same treat.

Staff-Capt. Eadie then announced that on Tuesday evening next Major Margetts, with some 10 or 12 officers, on their way to the Lower Provinces, would be in Peterborough, when another big time would be experienced. He also stated that Kingston division of the Salvation Army, which was too large, was to be re-divided and established with Peterborough as head quarters and Adjutant Bolton as commanding officer. The new officer would be introduced by the Major at Tuesday night's Jubilee.

After brief testimonies from a number of officers and soldiers from Lindsay, Omemee, Millbrook, Lakefield and other surrounding outposts, special Captain Philpott stepped forward. He said he didn't know just where he was going, but that didn't matter; he was willing to go wherever the Lord commanded; anyway, it was the last time he would be in Peterborough. He spoke well of the people of Peterborough, many of whom he knew to be good christians. The speaker then exhorted all his hearers, some of whom were seeking amusement at the races, gambling, drinking, etc., to leave sin and yield themselves to Christ.

Staff-Captain Eadie, on coming forward, made a few introductory remarks on the benefits of religion, and divided the Christian population into three classes—the think-so's, the hope-so's, and the know-so's. The Salvation Army belonged to the latter. They knew they had been saved through the blood of the Lamb. The speaker compared some people to the shifting sands which are sometimes located at the mouths of great rivers, causing annoyance and trouble to mariners. These people didn't know their own minds and were continually tossed about by every doubt or new idea that entered their minds. Others, again, were true to their Maker through thick and thin; tried and trusty people were they. It was said that they had a whole village of such persons; that in the village of Lansdowne, below Kingston, there were not more than three or four persons who were not trusty. A while ago he (the speaker) was in a meeting at Kingston. He noticed a big, six-foot woman in the crowd, evidently under the influence of liquor. She was pointed out to him by a Lansdowne officer as one of the trusty people of Lansdowne. This was his last night in Peterborough—the wind-up, the finish. The next meeting he would have with those present would be at the judgment throne. He urged one and all to throw themselves on the tender mercies of Jesus and have their sins pardoned.

After the Capt's testimony, prayer meeting was gone into. Fervent prayers were offered up for the departing officers and for those sinners yet without the fold of Christ.

Staff Capt. Eadie, and Special Philpott left town this morning.

Monday night's drill by the volunteers was remarkably good, the companies all having nearly their full complement of men. It was decided to have drill Wednesday and Friday nights of this week and Monday and Tuesday nights of next week. On Tuesday evening, 23rd inst., Gen. Middleton, Lieut.-Col. Villiers, D.A.G., and staff will arrive in town, and on Wednesday afternoon a grand review of the volunteers will take place, followed by the unveiling of the Brown memorial fountain. Lady Middleton may accompany the General. Wednesday evening the visitors will be entertained at supper by the officers of the 57th Battalion and the cavalry troops.

The new belts and eleven cases of ammunition have arrived at the C. P. R. depot. The belts will be distributed to the men some time this week, as soon as they have been cleaned and put in order. The ammunition will also be given out this week. Thursday afternoon the band will have rifle practice at the butts; company shooting will probably take place next week.

Sunday afternoon the volunteers and band will have church parade, as all likelihood to St. John's Church.

It was intended having street parade Thursday afternoon, but it was found to be impracticable. As it is, however, the "bould b'ys" of the 57th Peterborough Rangers will have sufficient exercise in drill to place them on an equal footing as regards proficiency with the finest of "crack" city corps. The men are busy furbishing up the brass and steel ornaments of their clothing and helmets, rifles are being cleaned, regimentals dusted, and a general waking-up has taken place among the volunteers, who have been seized with the true military spirit and are bound to do themselves credit on the 24th.

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 20 per cent higher.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. IRON FIRE ESCAPE
LADDER!

HIGHLY recommended by builders, and the only reliable means in use of expeditiously saving burning buildings.
The Ladders are strongly made of half-inch round iron, carefully put together, and warranted to stand any test. The Ladders are easily put up, fold up when not in use, and are a neat and efficient means of reaching the roof of any building. They also form a reliable means of escaping from a burning building by either window or roof.

THE PRINCE EDWARD QUAKERS.

Celebrated Case of Jones versus Dorland Before the Supreme Court.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—In the Supreme Court to-day the case of Gilbert Jones and others, appellants, and John T. Dorland and others, respondents, was argued. This is an appeal from a judgment of the Court of Appeal for Ontario whereby the plaintiffs' appeal to the said court was allowed with costs.

The pleadings in the case show that the Quakers are a society of Christians recognized by the law of the province and were until 1867 united, and sent yearly delegates to the New York Yearly Meetings of Friends, when they were set apart by the parent body and established as a distinct society called Canada Yearly Meeting of Friends. The West Lake Monthly Meeting of Friends is a subordinate society and recognized by it. It consists of some one hundred members, the greater number of whom reside in the County of Prince Edward, Ont. The dispute is in regard to the property on which the meeting house of the Lake Monthly Meeting is situated. It is declared by plaintiffs that the property is merely held in trust for the sole use of the West Lake flock. It is now contended that the society in question do no longer represent the old body owing to changes that have taken place in regard to the religious views and other innovations.

Mr. Maclellan, Q.C., and Mr. Arnoldi represented the appellants, and Mr. S. H. Blake, Q.C., and Mr. Clark the respondents. Judgment was reserved.

A Chance of "Liberty" Being Lighted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The question of lighting the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty was officially brought to the attention of the President to-day for the first time by the Secretary of the Treasury. The President and Secretary examined the laws bearing on the case, and as a result the President directed that the matter be placed in the hands of the Light House Board with a view of determining the utility of the statue as a beacon. Mr. Gott, President of the American System of Electric Lighting, waited on the Secretary of the Board and made a proposition to light the statue free of expense to the Government. He was told to put his offer in writing.

Jury Disagree in the Wiman Case.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The jury, after having been locked up all night, failed to agree in the suit before the United States Court wherein $16,000 is claimed from Erastus Wiman by Henrietta Woods for libel in certain papers presented before the Governor, prepared by the prisoners in Ludlow-street Jail, in the course of his argument in favor of the repeal of law for imprisonment for debt in this state. The particular point which the jury failed to agree upon was the interpretation of definition of malice as laid down by Judge Wheeler.

"Flying Scud" Cautioned and Released.

HALIFAX, Nov. 16.—The Gloucester fishing schooner "Flying Scud," Capt. Jordan, seized for selling gear, was to-day released from custody on an order from the Customs Department at Ottawa. The order commanding her release was accompanied by a warning that if anything further of an irregular nature was discovered the vessel would be subject to re-arrest. The "Flying Scud" sailed this evening for Gloucester.

A Blaze at Battersea.

KINGSTON, Nov. 16.—A fire broke out last night in the village of Battersea and destroyed the following buildings: Queen's Hotel and outbuildings, Williams & Gascoigne's blacksmith shops; Robert Abernethey's store and the dwellings occupied by Charles Knapp and Miss Campbell. Loss about $6,000. No insurance as far as known.

The National Trotting Association.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—The adjourned meeting of the National Trotting Association, called to pass upon the charges against Secretary Vail, was called to order at 3 this afternoon by President Jas. Grant. Two hundred and twenty-six delegates were present. E. Edwards, W. S. Tilton and Col. Wood Stover, the committee appointed at the Chicago meeting to investigate the affairs of the Secretary, made their report, which, together with the report of the expert accountant and an appendix consisting of complaints from different associations, makes a pamphlet of over forty pages. In the report the committee, after alluding to the expenses of trotting and incurred in the conduct of the office of secretary, say that there was an absolute refusal on the part of the secretary to furnish inquiring members with information they were entitled to, and that such conduct, it continued, would have caused the entire disintegration of the National Trotting Association. The report of J. F. Oden of New York shows that Vail has paid over to the treasurer all moneys added by him for the association, the last payment having been made but a short time since. The report of the committee was received and filed and also the statement of the expert accountant.

New York was chosen as the next place of meeting after which the Convention adjourned. There was considerable excitement at the Fifth Avenue Hotel last night when the delegates from the Western States met and Col. D. Wood Stover made a speech denying the charges made by the Turf, Field and Farm that he had ordered Vail to send reports of the committee to correspondents in advance. A resolution offered by S. A. Bowers of Kalamazoo exonerating Col. Edwards was then adopted. A resolution was also adopted thanking the Investigating Committee, and asking the Board of Review to remove Vail from the office of secretary and appoint another in his place.

BULGARIAN TROUBLE.

COUNTER ADDRESS ADDRESSED TO THE DELEGATIONS.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Russia has designated Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia as her candidate for the throne of Bulgaria. The other powers unanimously approved of him as the successor of Prince Alexander, and have invited Russia to now propose a satisfactory solution of her conflict with the Bulgarian Regency.

Andrassy Heard From.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Count Andrassy in his speech in the delegations to-day said he believed the Austro-German alliance was the best guarantee of European peace, but that the character of the alliance was lost when it became imperative to consider Russian interests in the Balkan question. Herr Tisza's program had secured for Austria the support of Germany under all circumstances. The existing Government in Bulgaria was the lawful Government. It was only needed to settle the question of fusion with Roumelia. Russia, in his opinion, had no special prerogative in Bulgaria.

Count Kalnoky explained that his statement on Saturday referred especially to the fusion question. Russia was under an equal obligation with the other signatory Powers to assist in the settlement of the question. He fully agreed with Count Andrassy that the autonomy of Bulgaria and the provisions of the Berlin treaty must be maintained. Nevertheless Russia's relations with Bulgaria were of great importance for the latter's future.

Count Andrassy declared that he was satisfied with the explanations.

Russian Occupation Not Necessary.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The Cologne Gazette has a despatch from St. Petersburg saying that at a Council of War called to consider the question of military reorganization in Bulgaria when the Russian candidate for the vacant throne has been elected, it was decided that occupation was not necessary, but that Russian officers should resume command of the army, which is to be greatly reduced.

Kaulbars Threatening.

SOFIA, Nov. 16.—Gen. Kaulbars threatens to leave Bulgaria unless the Government dismiss the commandant of Philippopolis who arrested a Russian official.

The Prince of Mingrelia.

The Prince of Mingrelia, who is now universally mentioned as a candidate for the Bulgarian throne, is but little known in Western Europe. In fact, he is scarcely known at all outside of Russia. He is being strongly urged for the position by certain social influences at St. Petersburg, but there has been no authoritative announcement that he is the candidate of the Czar. Mingrelia is a Russian province of the Caucasus, and the Prince is practically a pauper. He is a Prince without a principality, being the descendant of a family which was dispossessed of its sovereignty by the Russians long ago. He is 36 years old, and is described as a careless, good-natured man of the world. He married the daughter of Count Adlerberg in 1875; but she was much older than he, and they soon separated. He holds the rank of captain in the Russian army.

MRS. SEBRIGHT GETS A DIVORCE.

Her Husband Declared a Bankrupt—End of a "Society" Case.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Judgment was rendered to-day in the action brought by Mrs. Arthur Sebright to have her marriage with Mr. Sebright declared void on the ground that she was forced into it through fear. The marriage was declared annulled. The judge commented upon the fact that the evidence given by the plaintiff had not been denied by the defendant. "No man," he continued, "with a particle of self-respect if able to deny would have allowed such testimony to go on uncontradicted. The plaintiff had been reduced to a condition of mind by the defendants where she was no longer able to resist the pressure of his importunities to marry him, and although at last the ceremony had been gone through with, she had not given the consent which the law requires."

Sebright was to-day adjudged a bankrupt. His debts amount to $90,000, and he has been given a fortnight to show cause why he should not be imprisoned as a debtor.

Medals for Golden Wedding Couples.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Emperor William and the Empress have decided to confer medals of distinction upon couples celebrating golden or diamond weddings after an exemplary life. The medal will have on one side an effigy of Emperor and Empress, and on the reverse side the following message from Paul's epistle to the Romans: "Rejoicing in hope, patient in tribulations, steadfast in prayer."

SALISBURY AND THE SOCIALISTS.

The Premier Heeds Not Their Demand to Remain in London Sunday.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—Lord Salisbury will spend Sunday at the Hatfield House in Hertfordshire, notwithstanding the demand of the Social Democratic Federation that he remain in London on that day in order to receive a deputation of unemployed workmen. The police are preparing to cope with the Socialists in the event of trouble arising through the latter's carrying out their present intention of holding processions and a mass meeting in Trafalgar Square on Sunday.

A War of Tariffs.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Since the rupture of the commercial treaty negotiations with Switzerland, the Government is preparing for a war of tariffs. The North German Gazette predicts absolute prohibition of Swiss cotton products, a measure which it says will prove ruinous to the Swiss cotton industries and advantageous to similar industries in England.

The Fabric Failed to Respond.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The company started in Berlin to compete with the Government Postal Telegraph monopoly has collapsed. Lower rates were charged to branches formed in leading centres but the public failed to respond.

The Primrose Club to Have a Rival.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The National Liberal Club at a meeting to-day resolved to establish a National Liberal Ladies' League, to counteract the political work done in the interest of the Tory party by the women of the Primrose League.

A 40 Per Cent. Reduction of Rents.

DUBLIN, Nov. 16.—All the tenants on the extensive estates of Mr. Wilson, in Listowel, County Kerry, have had their rents voluntarily reduced by him 40 per cent. below the judicial rates.

Election of An Abbot.

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 16.—The election for an Abbot of St. Mary's Abbey resulted in the choice of Father Firangele, of St. Vincent Abbey at La Twbe, near Pittsburg, Pa. The jurisdiction extends from Maine to Virginia.

An Insane Girl's Marriage Annulled.

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—In the Chancery Court to-day Justice Proudfoot rendered judgment in the case of Beatty v. Beller, annulling the marriage of the daughter of the former with defendant on the ground of insanity. No costs were allowed.

STILL DISCONTENTED.

Some of the Meat Packing Employes Again Quit Work.

CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—About twice as many men as were engaged yesterday were selected from the crowd this morning and ordered to repair to the various packing houses for duty. The militia force has been withdrawn from the outposts, and is now in barracks. Gen. Fitzsimmons has recommended that the soldiers be withdrawn to-morrow, as in his opinion the civil authorities will be able to preserve the peace.

It is estimated that forty per cent. of the stock yards strikers have secured re-employment. Very many of the old butchers taken back are stubbornly fighting the iron-clad agreement of the packers. Many have refused to sign it, and quite a force in Swift's walked out when the binding contract was presented to them. At the house of Nelson Morris another disagreement has arisen. The packers propose to pay by the hour and to pay only for time actually worked. Heretofore if the men reported for the day and had but two or three hours' work they got full time. The men who went to work for Morris yesterday accepted the new deal and are at work to-day, but those who were selected to return to-day sent a communication to Mr. Morris this morning to say they would not enter his house unless paid for full time, and they did not go to work.

Congress of Fraternal Societies.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Delegates representing seventeen fraternal societies, with a membership of 350,000, met in this city to-day and organized the National Congress of Fraternal Beneficiary Societies. Permanent organization was effected by the election of Leroy Russ of Buffalo president, and R. C. Hill, editor of Buffalo Sunday Truth, secretary.

Labor Candidate in Montreal West.

MONTREAL, Nov. 16.—At a private meeting of Knights of Labor here Mr. Boswell, President Sons of England Benevolent Society here and a brother of a former mayor of Toronto, was, it is stated, nominated as the labor candidate for the House of Commons for Montreal West.

Killed With a Broadaxe.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 16.—Frank Kissick, a preacher, became involved in a quarrel with John Cundiff, a saw mill hand near Grange City, Ky., yesterday and made at Cundiff for a fight. Cundiff grabbed a broadaxe and cut Kissick's body in twain, killing him instantly.

Killed His Brother-in-Law.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 16.—This evening Louis Hammers stabbed and instantly killed his brother in-law, Wm. Heath.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

Burglars stole a large quantity of goods from Wm. Dyer's store at Belmont the other night.

The Queen has donated $250 to the fund for the benefit of the fishermen of Arklow, Ireland.

The Italian Marlotti has now fasted 20 days at Paris. He continues well but is in a feeble condition.

The British bark Anna Bella has foundered in the Bay of Biscay. The crew have arrived at Greenock.

The King of the Belgians is to become the purchaser of the Villa Hohenlohe, Queen Victoria's residence at Baden-Baden.

Fred O'Neil of the old Hamilton Clippers has engaged with the Metropolitans, and will probably catch Mike Morrison.

Jack McAuliffe, the present lightweight champion, will shortly meet Harry Gilmore in a fight to a finish with small gloves.

The marriage is announced of Maria, daughter of Marshal MacMahon, to Count Pisonac, son of Ex-Empress Eugenie's equerry.

Ten workmen were instantly killed and six others injured yesterday by the collapse of a building in process of erection in Grenoble Department of Isere, France.

The Village of Primstein, in the Canton of Berne, Switzerland, has been destroyed by fire. A number of the inhabitants perished.

A fire at Durham, N.C., yesterday, burned a large part of the business portion of the town; loss $300,000.

The ex-Empress Eugenia has spent a considerable portion of her fortune in building a mausoleum at Farnborough for her husband, Napoleon III.

The Utica club proposes to make a test case of the jumping of Scud to Cincinnati after receiving $500 advance money from Utica to play there.

It is said on good authority that Jockey Archer left a will by which he bequeaths $200,000 to his child, and the balance to friends and relatives. His estate is valued at $300,000.

D. B. Fothringham, the Adams Express messenger whose car was robbed of $100,000, pleaded not guilty at St. Louis yesterday to a charge of grand larceny, and was remanded.

Paul Bert, the dead French Minister in Annam, had his life insured for $100,000. Mme. Bert is a Scotchwoman and had been a governess before her marriage. She is a most accomplished linguist.

It is the fashion for umpires to turn managers. Wes Curry is likely to follow in the footsteps of Ferguson, Cushman, Gaffney and Kelly, while Hoover is mentioned as the probable manager of the Scrantons.

The Russian State Commission on the sugar industry have agreed to recommend to the Government the compulsory reduction of sugar production of the Empire in order to improve the trade in it.

A meeting of British Anarchists has been called to assemble in Cleveland Hall, London, Nov. 23, to protest against the action of the Chicago court which tried and sentenced Spies and his colleagues.

The health of Prince William, son of the Crown Prince of Germany, and heir apparent, has not improved since his recent illness. The Court physicians have ordered him to reside in Italy during the coming winter.

Vienna is suffering from a long continued drought. It has not rained for several weeks. Conduits supplying hydraulic powers and baths have been cut off for a week, and the town authorities are about to curtail the drinking supply.

At Montreal yesterday Andy Maloney was up for trial before the Police Magistrate and remanded to the March term of the Court of Queen's Bench on a charge of keeping a notorious gambling house.

Hosannah Laloud, Louis Laloud, Benjamin Mitchell and Mark Mann, charged with being concerned in the tar and feather outrages committed on Ed Laloud, near St. Thomas, have been further remanded to await the result of the inquest.

A principal question that will be brought before the National Baseball League, whose meeting opens at Chicago to-day, is that of making all clubs self-supporting. The four eastern clubs are in favor of abolishing the percentage system and adopting the guarantee plan, but three of the western clubs, and perhaps four, will fight the measure in vigorous style.

Mayer Bartlett of San Francisco has granted a license for a glove contest between Jack Burke of Chicago and Jack Dempsey of San Francisco. The match will take place Monday, Nov. 22. The men will fight ten rounds with small gloves, Marquis of Queensbury rules, the winner taking 70 and the loser 30 per cent. of the gate money. Burke will fight at 125 pounds and Dempsey at 127.

Mr. Clapp of Belleville went to New York and paid $50 for $5000 in bank notes. The money was put up in a satchel and expressed to Cape Vincent. There Mr. Buckley, express agent, not knowing Clapp, demanded that the money be counted. Clapp produced the bag and, on opening the satchel, found a few newspapers and a handful of moist earth. It was the most artful trick played on a new dupe.

King Fox, by King Ban, out of Maud Hampton, a full brother to Stan Fox and the property of J. B. Haggin, died at Monmouth Park Sunday. His performances during the past racing season, especially in winning the Great Eastern Handicap, as he did at Sheepshead Bay on September 14, carrying 125 pounds, at the same meetings of a mile, in 1.15, proved him decidedly the best colt of the year. His death is said to have been due to blood poisoning and dropsy. King Fox had a number of valuable engagements next year, including the Kentucky Derby, for which he was virtually worth the favorite immediately after his winning the Flatbush Stakes.

THE LIBERAL COMMONS CANDIDATE.

The Liberals of West Peterborough are reminded that the mass meeting of the supporters of Hon. Edward Blake is called in the Old Music Hall, Peterborough, for Saturday next, Nov. 20th, at 2 o'clock, p.m., to receive the decision of Mr. Geo. A. Cox as to his acceptance of the candidature for the Commons. It is not necessary to emphasize the importance of every Liberal, who can do so, being present.

A POLITICAL ADDRESS.

On Friday evening, November 26th, Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education for Ontario, will deliver an address on Provincial topics at the Opera House, Peterborough. Mr. M. Millar, president of the West Riding Reform Association, will occupy the chair. The gallery will be reserved for ladies. All electors are asked to be present. Hon. Mr. Ross and the Liberal candidate, Mr. Stratton, will be the only speakers. Hon. Mr. Ross is an eloquent, well-informed orator, and the public who attend will be treated to a statesman-like exposition of Provincial affairs.

THE Toronto World contains the following: "The World is pleased to note another instance of the growing importance of the young men element in politics in the nomination of Mr. J. R. Stratton, editor of the Peterborough EXAMINER, as a candidate for the representation of West Peterborough in the Ontario Legislature."

The Countess at Peterborough.

Madame "Janish," Countess Arco, Gives a Reporter Her Opinion of Canada.

The other day a Toronto Telegram reporter visited the celebrated Austrian actress, from the Imperial Court, Vienna, Madame Janish, as she is known professionally, but who is in reality a countess in her own right. This lady visited Peterborough three years ago, remaining several weeks, and expressed herself highly delighted with our beautiful town. The "little English church" referred to below is St. Luke's, Ashburnham, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, rector. Mr. Bradshaw remembers the occasion perfectly, and says the countess fairly trembled with emotion throughout the entire service. Below is an account of the interview:

"In a brief interview she revealed the possession of, first and foremost, the conversational powers, miên and manner of a lady. She spoke quietly, choosing her language with the greatest care, and selecting, when left to her own inclinations, the most homely subjects. Her English is unexceptionable, the marked foreign accent being an added charm. In the course of her conversation she said: 'The first I saw of America was Canada and I have for it tender feelings. I came three years ago in private to visit some friends in Peterborough. I arrived at midnight Christmas eve. The following morning I attended service at the little English church and was entranced. I am a Roman Catholic, but if ever I should find it right to make a change I would go into the English Church. I never before that morning felt such emotion. The sunset at Peterborough used to delight me. I have never seen the sun sink in more glory anywhere, and you know I have been in Egypt and down the Nile. But I love Peterborough. If I could do as I liked I would go there and end my days doing good with such money as I have. Life is just an effort to be better. You have

BEAUTIFUL GIRLS IN AMERICA.

I did not notice that till I went to Paris after one of my visits here. How do I like my audiences in Toronto? Well, they did not give me many of what they name "calls," and I am glad of that, but they were in perfect sympathy with me and I am grateful. They were not enthusiastic but appreciative. Do they drink much in Canada?' The reporter replied that 'they did,' but not so much as on the other side. 'Are you temperance?' The question was personal, but on receiving the answer she evidently would have preferred, Madame Janish replied, 'I am glad. I know so many young men in your profession who are being lost, lost.'

Madame Janish leaves her travelling arrangements entirely to her manager, Mr. David Peyser. She did not even know where she was going, but she seemed to know so much else that the reporter could not but be satisfied. She did not talk of her dresses, her diamonds, her triumphs, but chose topics dearer to the hearts of good women—home, friends, and loved ones."

J. R. STRATTON.

Winnings of the Dwyer Bros.

During the racing season just closed the stable of the Dwyer Bros. of Brooklyn earned a total of $302,565. Their horses were entered in eighty-eight races, and they paid out in entrance money $34,350, leaving them net earnings of $268,215. This is by far the largest amount earned by the Dwyers in one season. The names of the winning horses with the amounts they won is as follows: Tremont, 3 yrs., by Virgil, $47,845; Inspector B., 3 yrs., by Enquirer, $31,870; Dan, 3 yrs., by Wanderer, $20,000; Hanford, 4 yrs., by Wheel, $21,805; Hanover, 3 yrs., by Hindoo, $14,635; Millie, 3 yrs., by Billet, $12,600; Bramble Rose, 3 yrs., by King Alfonso, $9,000; Winifred, 3 yrs., by Mortimer, $7,750; Veracia, 3 yrs., by Glenelg, $7,700; Pontiac, 3 yrs., by Pero Gomez, $6,925; Aspen, 3 yrs., by Compensation, $6,875; Tom Martin, 3 yrs., by Leonidas, $6,850; Richmond, 4 yrs., by Virgil, $6,845; Young Lake, 3 yrs., by Lake Blackburn, $6,800; Brambleton, 3 yrs., by Bramble, $6,317; Pontiac, 3 yrs., by Mortimer, $1,850; Louise, 3 yrs., by Lake Blackburn, $1,600; Bedford, 3 yrs., by Billet, $800; Bellerue, 3 yrs., by Bramble, $600; Portlake, 3 yrs., by Billet, $450; Rosemann, 3 yrs., by Virgil, $400; Leamore, 4 yrs., by Lisbon, $325; Esquire, 3 yrs., by Compensation, $150; Fulton, 3 yrs., by Lake Blackburn, $200; Portland, 3 yrs., by Virgil, $100; Bankrupt, 3 yrs. by Speedthrift, $100; Lale, 3 yrs., by Virgil, $100; Joe Cotton, 4 yrs., by King Alfonso, $50; Quincy, 3 yrs., by Lisbon, $50; Rosalind, 3 yrs., by Billet.

But although the Dwyers' gross earnings were so large their expenses were by no means light and were made heavier by the death of Dew Drop, for which they paid $20,000 at the Lorillard sale; by the comparative failure of Pontiac, he only earning in gross a trifle over $2000 as against $17,500 paid for him, while of the others bought at that sale Winifred, Pontiac and Veracia also failed to earn the cost to make a profitable return, and he did not reach by more than $6000 the amount paid for him. The five horses named cost the Dwyers $70,000, and their gross earnings amounted to $42,200, while to cap the climax the eight-thousand-dollar Pontico was sold for $2,550.

In 1885 the Dwyers ran nineteen horses, which made 176 starts, of which 46 were wins, 34 seconds, 20 thirds, with a gross total of $66,857, of which they paid out in entrance money $13,975. In 1884 they had twenty horses, which made 156 starts, with 32 wins, 29 seconds, 17 thirds, with a gross earning of $62,302.

GOUGH'S LADDER TO FAME.

One Price and Square Dealing to All!

This week, the public will receive the benefit of an extraordinary LOW PURCHASE of SEASONABLE OVERCOATS and SUITS, and any intending purchaser will miss it, if they do not call and examine them. We are determined to be the Poor Man's Friend, and if in fulfilling this mission, we break the back bone of those High Price Clothiers, I am sorry, so-I wish them no harm. But having inaugurated this in PETERBOROUGH, I must bow to the line, let the chips fall where they may. On account of my Extremely Low Prices, some people are very skeptical, and designing dealers will tell them that My Goods are Shoddy, etc. Well, be this as it may, I only ask the public to praise me as they prove me, and in the face of this, I boldly make the assertion, that My Stock for Superiority in Texture and Make, surpasses anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one Store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this, and prove the assertion, if they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to all, I will ascend the Hill of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. Always keep in mind, that the man who does as he ADVERTISES, and Refunds the Money if Goods are not Satisfactory, is GOUGH, THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—Mr. Frank Ince R:

"Dr. EGAN, Sarnia, Ont.—Dear Sir,—Being over 70 years of age and over 30 years ruptured, I did not think my case so hopeless, especially as I tried various remedies without success, among others Dr. Sherman, of New York, recently, two operations, three months each, costing me $60. Believing I would receive no benefit, I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, and find perfect satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it if I require. I never knew a truss to perform such perfect cures before. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, Geo. R. Ince."

The new Spiral Elastic Pad Truss has taken the place of all others. It is simple, durable, and cheap. Every truss made by us is warranted. If you have tried all others without success, call and see our Truss; if you cannot call, send stamp for our circular; if you cannot wear a truss, we have other appliances for you to wear. Consultation free. Call or write us. Send for our new list and quotations for you to wear.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

Sydney explained herself.

"If I had led a happier life," she said, "I might have been able to resist Mr. Linley's kindness. I concealed nothing from him. He knew that I had no friends to speak for me; he knew that I had been dismissed from my employment at the school. Oh, Mrs. Linley, everything I said which would have made other people suspicious of me made him feel for me! I began to wonder whether he was an angel or a man. If he had not prevented it, I should have fallen on my knees before him. Hard looks and hard words I could have endured patiently, but I had not seen a kind look, I had not heard a kind word, for more years than I can reckon up. That is all I can say for myself—I leave the rest to your mercy."

"Say my sympathy," Mrs. Linley answered, "and you need say no more. But there is one thing I should like to know. You have not spoken to me of your mother. Have you lost both your parents?"

"No."

"Then you were brought up by your mother?"

"Yes."

"You surely had some experience of kindness when you were a child?"

A third short answer would have been no very grateful return for Mrs. Linley's kindness. Sydney had no choice but to say plainly what her experience of her mother had been.

"Are there such women in the world?" Mrs. Linley exclaimed. "Where is your mother now?"

"In America—I think."

"You think?"

"My mother married again," Sydney answered. "She went to America with her husband and my little brother six years ago."

"And left you behind?"

"Yes."

"And she has never written to you?"

"Never."

This time Mrs. Linley kept silence; not without an effort. Thinking of Sydney's mother—and for one morbid moment seeing her own little darling in Sydney's place—she was afraid to trust herself to speak while the first impression was vividly present to her mind.

"I will only hope," she replied, after waiting a little, "that some kind person pitied and helped you when you were deserted. Any change must have been for the better after that. Who took charge of you?"

"My mother's sister took charge of me; an elder sister who kept a school. The time when I was most unhappy was the time when my aunt began to teach me. 'If you don't want to be beaten and kept on bread and water,' she said, 'learn, you ugly little wretch, and be quick about it.'"

"Did she speak in that shameful way to the other girls?"

"Oh, no! I was taken into her school for nothing, and, young as I was, I was expected to earn my food and shelter by being fit to teach the lowest class. The girls hated me. It was such a wretched life that I hardly like to speak of it now. I ran away, and was caught, and severely punished. When I grew older and wiser I tried to find some other employment for myself. The elder girls bought penny journals that published stories. They were left about now and then in the bedrooms. I read the stories when I had the chance. Even my ignorance discovered how feeble and foolish they were. They encouraged me to try if I could write a story myself; I couldn't do worse, and I might do better. I sent my manuscript to the editor. It was accepted and printed—but when I wrote and asked him if he would pay me something for it he refused. Dozens of ladies, he said, wrote stories for him for nothing. It didn't matter what the stories were. Anything would do for his readers, so long as the characters were lords and ladies, and there was plenty of love in it. My next attempt to get away from the school ended in another disappointment. A poor old man, who had once been an actor, used to come to us twice a week and get a few shillings by teaching the girls to read aloud. He was called 'Professor of English Literature,' and he taught out of a ragged book of verses which smelt of his pipe. I learnt one of the pieces and repeated it to him, and asked if there was any hope of my being able to go on the stage. He was very kind; he told me the truth. 'My dear, you have no dramatic ability; God forbid you should go on the stage.' I went back again to the penny journals, and tried a new editor. He seemed to have more money than the other one; or perhaps he was kinder. I got 10 shillings from him for my story. With that money I made my last attempt—I advertised for a situation as governess. If Mr. Linley had not seen my advertisement I might have starved in the streets. When my aunt heard of it she insisted on my begging her pardon before the whole school. Do girls get half-maddened by persecution? If they do I think I must have been one of those girls. I refused to beg pardon, and I was dismissed from my situation without a character. Will you think me very foolish? I shut my eyes again when I woke in my delicious bed today. I was afraid that the room, and everything in it, was a dream." She looked round, and started to her feet. "Oh, here's a lady! Shall I go away?"

The curtains hanging over the entrance to the library were opened for the second time. With composure and dignity the lady who had startled Sydney entered the room.

"Have you been reading in the library?" Mrs. Linley asked. And Mrs. Presty answered: "No, Catherine; I have been listening."

Mrs. Linley looked at her mother; her lovely complexion reddened with a deep blush.

"Introduce me to Miss Westerfield," Mrs. Presty proceeded, as coolly as ever.

Mrs. Linley showed some hesitation. What would the governess think of her mother? Perfectly careless of what the governess might think, Mrs. Presty crossed the room and introduced herself.

"Miss Westerfield, I am Mrs. Linley's mother. And I am, in one respect, a remarkable person. When I form an opinion, and find it's the opinion of a fool, I am not in the least ashamed to change my mind. I have changed my mind about you. Shake hands."

Sydney respectfully obeyed.

"Sit down again."

Sydney returned to her chair.

"I had the worst possible opinion of you," Mrs. Presty resumed, "before I had the pleasure of listening on the other side of the curtain. It has been my good fortune—what's your Christian name? Did I hear it, or have I forgotten it? 'Sydney,' eh? Very well. I was about to say, Sydney, that it has been my good fortune to be intimately associated, in early life, with two remarkable characters. Husbands of mine, in short, whose influence over me has, I am proud to say, set death and burial at defiance. Between them they have made my mind the mind of a man. I judge for myself. The opinions of others (when they don't happen to agree with mine) I regard as chaff to be scattered to the winds. No, Catherine, I am not wandering. I am pointing out to a young person, who has her way to make in the world, the vast importance, on certain occasions, of possessing an independent mind. If I had been ashamed to listen behind those curtains there is no injury that my stupid prejudices might not have inflicted on this unfortunate girl. As it is, I have heard her story, and I do her justice. Count on me, Sydney, as your friend—and now get up again. My grand child (never accustomed to wait for anything since the day when she was born) is waiting dinner for you. She is at this moment shouting for her governess as King Richard (I am a great reader of Shakespeare) once shouted for his horse. The maid (you will recognize her as a stout person suffering under tight stays) is waiting outside to show you the way to the nursery. Au revoir! Stop! I should like to judge of the purity of your French accent. Say 'au revoir' to me. Thank you. Weak in her French, Catherine," Mrs. Presty pronounced, when the door had closed on the governess; "but what can you expect, poor wretch, after such a life as she has led? Now we are alone, I have a word of advice for your private ear. We have much to anticipate from Miss Westerfield that is pleasant and encouraging. But I don't conceal it from myself or from you, we have also something to fear?"

Advice to Consumptives.

On the appearance of the first symptoms—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs:—therefore, use the great anti-scrofula or blood purifier and strength restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. For Dr. Pierce's Treatise on Consumption, send ten cents in stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Good Investment.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or mortgage on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over [illegible], and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgage may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest ceasing at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or to any of the Agents.

HELLO! BROWN,

"What are you looking so mad about, this morning?"

"Well, I'll tell you, Jones. I bought a very fine Tent from TURNER, and one of my friends wanted to borrow it."

"And did you lend it?"

"Well, I guess not. The last Tent I had got used up by lending. I told him to go to J. J. TURNER, the great Tent maker, and he would rent or sell him a tent."

Circular Saw vs. Thumb.

Tuesday William Lahey, of Ashburnham, employed in W. Forsyth's factory, while running a circular saw had the misfortune to cut his thumb, nearly severing it from the hand. Dr. King dressed the injury. It is likely the digit will be preserved intact.

Mrs. Caldwell.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says of Mrs. Caldwell, who will sing at Mr. Hoover's concert next Tuesday evening: "The star of the evening was, without doubt, Mrs. Caldwell. She did more than justice to Mulder's "Staccato Polka," but her "Chekoo" song elicited the greatest admiration and applause."

JUSTIN McCARTHY

Running Over Time.

The sash, door and blind factory of Messrs. Kincaid & McWilliams is just now doing a rushing business, having been running over time for the past three weeks on orders for buildings—frames, sashes, doors, etc., the erection of which has not yet been commenced. Messrs. Kincaid & McWilliams this week shipped a large order to Norwood. They have enough orders ahead to ensure constant work until New Year's at least.

Doing City Work.

The Lindsay-Seldon Furniture Co. have, it would seem, earned a reputation for turning out stylish furniture which is bringing to them a large trade from Toronto and Montreal. A carload of chamber suits were shipped to Toronto this week, while equally large shipments are constantly being made to both Montreal and Toronto. The firm have succeeded in getting a large contract for wood mantels from Toronto, which, with the orders already in, will take till Christmas to fulfil. Orders are coming in every day, but the factory is running over-time in order to meet the demand.

A Serious Runaway.

Last night about 8 o'clock Mr. John Montgomery and wife of Peterborough, were returning from Nassau in a buggy procured from Mr. Snowdon, and when opposite Dr. Fife's residence, on George street, collided with Mr. James Murphy, of Espanore. Their horse ran away, throwing Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery out on the road. Mr. Montgomery was cut severely about the face; Mrs. Montgomery, besides numerous bruises, had her shoulder dislocated. Their horse ran down to the G. T. R. station before stoping, doing very little damage to the buggy. Mr. Murphy's rig was considerably damaged.

Won the Cup.

Major McLean, of the Durham Field Battery, has received the Gzowski cup and $30 in cash, won by the Durham Field Battery at Kingston camp this summer for competition drill, they having defeated Montreal, Toronto, Quebec, Kingston, Ottawa and other teams. Only Kingston and Durham batteries competed together, each of the other teams performing the drill at their own stations. There were three Peterborough men in the Durham battery—Sergt.-Major Metherall, Gunner W. Metherall, and Bomb. Teck Haultain. The cup remains in the possession of the battery for one year. The boys have every reason to be proud of their exploit, as the cup is much sought after and highly prized by the Canadian batterymen.

The Civic Pow-Wow.

The Town Council on Hand Talking and Considering Business—A Big Grist of Accounts.

At the regular meeting of the Town Council Tuesday evening the following members were present:—Mayor Stevenson in the chair, Councillors Kendry, Menzies, Rutherford, Moore, Holland, McNeil, Kelly, McNaughton, Davidson, Cahill and Hartley.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS

were read from Chief Cooper, calling the attention of the Council to the agreement made when he was first appointed Chief of Police at a salary of $600, the conditions being in a few months should it be raised to $800. He had been on the force now for nine months and asked for the increase.—Referred to the Committee of Appointments.

A communication from Mr. McDonald, relative to the purchase of the magazine lot, was received.

From D. H. Thornton, stating that, having taken out a license Oct. 1st, when it expires May 1st, he asked a refund of the balance due him.—Referred to the License Committee.

From John Burnham, for the council of Smith, asking about the limits between Peterborough and the township of Smith. As the limits were now fixed they were very unsatisfactory. The communication asked the Council to join the township in memorializing the Government to have the error corrected.—Received.

From John H. Bailey, asking for a remission of statute labor.—Referred to Court of Revision.

From Wm. Clancy, asking for a reduction of license on a billiard table to be placed in his hotel for the accommodation of his guests. —Referred to the License Committee.

GENERAL MIDDLETON'S VISIT.

From Lieut. Col. Villers, stating that he would be in town the day before General Middleton arrived to see if the 57 Batt. is ready. He asked the town council to prepare for the reception of the General and suggested that the mayor at the expense of the corporation drive him around the town the forenoon of Wednesday.—Received.

From John Neelands, of the town of Wingham, asking the council to memoralize the government to have the C. P. R. to run a line to their town.—Received.

From the Reeve of Southampton, asking relief for the people rendered homeless by the recent fire.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

From W. D. Kelly, asking the Council for an advance of money on street lumber account.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

From Mr. Sanderson, Reeve of Smith, asking about the improvements on the road between the town and the township.—Received.

From Peter Hamilton, asking for a reduction of taxes on the Park Lot.—Sent to the Court of Revision.

From about 30 ratepayers on Reid street, asking for Mr. E. C. Hill the privilege of erecting a bill board on that street. Mr. Hill was heard in the matter. He indulged in a severe diatribe against the tyranny of capital over labor, and said he had not been fairly used in the matter. His bill board had been kicked about from place to place; though he was a citizen and doing legitimate business, it seemed some of the "big" men of the town were determined to sit on him. He asked only his rights.

The prayer of the petition was granted providing he got the consent of St. Andrew's Church.

From Rev. Father Conway, asking for a reduction of taxes.—Court of Revision.

From W. J. Hall, asking that the sidewalk on Brock street in front of his residence be raised.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From H. Edmison, Weller street asking remission of taxes on a dog which had since been shot.—Court of Revision.

From Thos. Kent, asking a reduction of taxes.—Court of Revision.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that the case of Mrs. Alfords' taxes be referred to the Court of Revision.—Carried.

ENTERTAINING THE GENERAL.

Lieut.-Col. Rogers was heard in reference to the proposed visit of General Middleton. He stated that everything was ready for the unveiling of the memorial on the 24th, when it would be formally handed over to the town. He hoped they would consider the appointment of a delegation to receive it and the matter of making the General's stay here a pleasant one. Col. Henry Rogers also spoke on the same subject.

Mr. McNeil moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the Mayor and Messrs. Rutherford, Moore, Davidson and Kelly be a committee to do work in conjunction with the military authorities in tendering General Middleton a fitting reception November 24th.—Carried.

The matter of furnishing water to the fountain was left to the committee and the Waterworks Company; the committee was instructed to confer with the military authorities on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with reference to the General's visit.

FINANCE.

Mr. DAVIDSON presented the report of the Finance Committee, recommending payment of the following accounts:

J. W. Flavelle, $14 62; M. Butcher, $3.00; Metropolitan Grocery Co., $9.50.

The report was adopted.

THE FRONTAGE TAX SYSTEM.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Davidson, that a special committee be appointed to consider what steps, if any, should be taken to introduce the system of local or frontage tax in whole or in part, for street improvements, water tax, and such other local or frontage tax for local improvement as they may deem advisable; such committee to report to this Council, and to consist of Messrs. Davidson, McNeil, Moore, Holland, Kendry, Rutherford and Menzies.—Carried, after considerable discussion.

GIVING SECURITY.

Mr. Davidson, in compliance with a motion to that effect made some time ago, introduced a by-law to provide for the security to be given by town officials, including the police officers. There was a deal of discussion on this, the by-law being finally referred back. It was finally agreed that all constables give security, as very little money passed through their hands. Finally, on the last reading, the date was amended and time extended.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that in the opinion of this Council the chief and the officers under the Conference Act of 1878, whose duties are defined by that Act, still failing to fill same, the Mayor has the power to suspend any officer thus wilfully neglecting his duty.

Mr. MOORE stated that he would willingly vote for the motion if a few words were added to the effect that the police also strictly enforce all acts of the Canadian Parliament and all by-laws of the town of Peterborough. The addition was made and the motion passed.

The MAYOR stated during the session that, though he had received no official papers on the subject, he could assure the councillors that the request of the town regarding the Scott Act fines would be granted.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that the Council go into committee of the whole on the second reading of the by-law providing for the security of town officers.—Lost.

Mr. Hartley moved, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that Mrs. Plunkett's taxes be referred to the Court of Revision.—Carried.

Mr. McNeil moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the Peterborough Fire Brigade be authorized to lead the Gas Co. enough hose to enable them to fill the gas tank with water.—Carried.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Cahill, that the communication relative to the purchase of the magazine plot in South Ward by Mr. McDonald, offering the town $400 for the old magazine, the stone and iron work, etc., to be the property of the town, to enable him to purchase the lot from the commissioners, be granted.—The communication was referred to the Property Committee.

Mr. Kendry moved, seconded by Mr. Menzies, that a sidewalk be built in front of Mr. Thos. McKee's house on north George street.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

He Registered.

Joseph Whiteman, the ex-bigamist, called at the police station Wednesday morning and enquired for the registry office. He was directed to it and registered the birth of a girl baby by his "real" wife the day before.

Men's Meetings.

There will be no meeting in the Y.M.C.A. hall on Wednesday night, but one will be held on Thursday night. The Rev. E. F. Torrance will speak, and it is hoped there will be a large attendance.

For Gentlemen Only.

Mr. J. J. Sheehy has just laid in a large and select stock of gents' furnishing goods, etc., which will be sold at greatly reduced prices. Take a look at his window as you pass by and note the bargains he is offering.

Mechanics' Institute Classes.

All persons intending to connect themselves with the evening classes in arithmetic and bookkeeping, to be conducted in the Mechanics' Institute, will please meet on Friday, Nov. 19th, at 8 p.m., to arrange for suitable evenings. Geo. S. Bean, Esq., B.A., has been appointed to take charge.

Special Meetings.

The men's meetings in the Young Men's Christian Association are increasing in attendance. On Tuesday night the Rev. F. H. Wallace gave a Bible reading on "Darkness and Light." The meeting was again led by Mr. Griffin, and many others took part. The singing was specially good.

The Vocal Society.

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough Vocal Society Tuesday night in the Parlor Roller Rink, Mr. W. Clinton, the President, delivered his inaugural address, after which the audience turned their attention to the rehearsal of two or three beautiful choruses.

"The" Concert.

Mr. A. F. Hoover's concert next Tuesday evening in the Opera House promises to be the musical event of the season. Mrs. Caldwell, Canada's prima donna, will be present without fail and sing her renowned "Cuckoo" song. Other artists, foreign and local, will also take part. Don't miss this musical treat.

Thanksgiving Day.

To-morrow has been set apart by the authorities to be observed as a national day of thanksgiving. Though gratitude for the mercies of the year is not always possible of expression to order, it is meet, that as a nation, Canada should recognize the bounties which have been bestowed upon her the past year. An abundant harvest, a fair show of prosperity, peace within our borders and a thousand other mercies call for gratitude to Almighty God. That the employes of the EXAMINER may enjoy the privilege, there will be no issue of this paper to-morrow.

Last Lynne.

Last night's representation of the above play by the Tavernier Dramatic Company was witnessed by another large audience, and fully sustained the reputation of this company for giving first-class performances. The play is an intensely emotional one, requiring consummate art and tact for a proper rendition, but Ida Van Cortland, M. F. Drew and Albert Tavernier, on whose characters centered the plot of the play, were equal to the occasion. They, as well as the other members of the company, gave satisfaction. To-night the great California play, "The Danites," will be presented.

St. Luke's, Ashburnham.

The first entertainment of the Church of England Temperance Society, St. Luke's branch, was held in that church Monday evening. A large audience heartily applauded those selections on the programme most deserving praise, and the concert was a most decided success. The programme included a couple of instrumental selections by Messrs. Walker and Norton; vocal solos by Misses Tivey, Brundrette, Strickland and Minore, the two latter ladies pleasing the audience with two songs each. Misses Tivey and Brundrette also rendered a duet. Readings were given by Miss Grundy and Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, while Mr. Cobb contributed a recitation. The programme was concluded by a laughable farce entitled "The Rival Artists," which afforded much amusement.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the disease make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75c., large bottles. eod-w1tf

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30½ per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 30 per cent higher.

Why
Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned. Come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, pressed and in half, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipating renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold given first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. PRIME CANADIAN WEATHER.

Reports From all Along the Line of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18.—The following reports from points on the Canadian Pacific Railway show that this railroad is absolutely free from the snow blockades that have virtually caused a suspension of traffic on the American transcontinental lines:

VANCOUVER, B.C., Nov. 18.—Weather fine both yesterday and to-day; thermometer 35 above zero.

DONALD, B.C., Nov. 18.—Not the slightest trouble with snow; only six inches on the summit of the Rocky Mountains and also on the Selkirk range. No snow west of Revelstoke, eighty miles west of here. All trains running on time. Thermometer 13 above zero.

CALGARY, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—Weather clear, calm and mild; no snow.

GLEICHEN, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—Weather clear, calm and fine; 45 above zero. No snow.

MEDICINE HAT, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—Weather clear, mild and pleasant. All trains on time.

SWIFT CURRENT, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—Weather clear, calm and fine; 37 above zero.

MOOSE JAW, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—Weather clear and calm; 30 above zero.

BROADVIEW, N.W.T., Nov. 18.—No snow: weather calm and pleasant. Trains on time.

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 18.—Weather clear and fine; thermometer at freezing point; no snow.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 18.—Clear, bright weather; 20 above zero; no snow. Trains on time in all directions, both yesterday and to-day.

MONTREAL'S CARNIVAL.

It is Expected to be the Best Ever Held—The Committee Hard at Work.

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—Active efforts are being made to boom Montreal's next winter carnival, and a much larger attendance of visitors than ever before, especially from the United States, is expected. His Excellency the Governor-General has consented to become patron of the affair. The Executive Committee announce that $1000 has already been subscribed. It is proposed to have the various snowshoe, tobogganing and curling clubs represented by a delegate on the committee, and these organizations have been requested to select a representative. The railways will issue special excursion tickets from Boston and New York at $10 and $12 respectively, tickets being good for two weeks. Arrangements will also be made for cheap trips from other cities.

ILL-FATED SCHOONERS.

Several of Them Lost and Others Still in Danger.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 18.—Two bodies, supposed to be Capt. Gorham and one of the crew of the wrecked barge Emerald, were washed ashore. An unknown bark was driven ashore near Two Rivers this morning. The crew escaped. The schooner Cuyahoga and the scows Nellie Church and Tallahassee are ashore.

MANITOWOC, Wis., Nov. 18.—Three of the crew of the schooner Nellie Redington got safely ashore. Seven more aboard are in danger of their lives, as the vessel is breaking up.

East Lambton Organizing.

WATFORD, Nov. 18.—The nomination of Conservative candidates for East Lambton took place here to-day. Geo. Moncrieff of Petrolea was the unanimous nominee of the convention for the House of Commons. Several parties were nominated for the Local, but all resigned excepting Chas. Shirley of Brooke, who took two weeks to give a definite answer to the question. Hon. John Carling, Postmaster General, D. McMillan, M.P., of East Middlesex, and the nominees of the convention addressed the meeting.

Fancy Drill at Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 17.—A fancy drill contest came off this afternoon in the Roller Rink between the Brantford Hose Company and the Brantford Hook and Ladder Company, two crack fancy drill companies, for the Davis medal, valued at $100. The judges, Mr. Buell of Simcoe and Mr. Stott of Toronto, decided in favor of the Hook and Ladder Company by fifty points.

Death of Rev. Dr. Wilkes of Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—Rev. Dr. Wilkes died quietly at his home this morning. He was pastor of Zion Congregational Church on Beaver Hall Hill for many years, and gave up that position to become Principal of the Canada Congregational Church. About two years ago he retired from active work on account of old age, and was followed by Rev. Dr. Stevenson. He was born in Birmingham, England, in 1805.

Moving a Court House.

From a Montreal Gazette Special.

Saturday last a crowd of men with teams from Madison loaded the Lac-qui-parle Court House, which is a frame building about 30x40, two stories high, on four large trucks, wagons, and Monday morning the moving of the building to Madison began. Late evening the court house was a long distance out from Lac-qui-parle, and it is probable that it is now at Madison, fourteen miles distant. Intense excitement prevails throughout the country.

Fighting in the Caucasus.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 18.—A force of Cossacks recently attempted to press into the military service the able-bodied men in one of the tribes in Caucasia. The tribe revolted and a fierce fight ensued in which 2 Generals and 1200 men before the tribe was subdued.

ARTHUR NO MORE.

CHESTER A. ARTHUR PASSES AWAY YESTERDAY MORNING.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Ex-President Chester A. Arthur died at 5 o'clock this morning at his residence No. 123 Lexington-avenue. He had been ailing for some time from a complication of diseases, principally kidney affection. He had spent the summer at a watering place and it was supposed that this had strengthened somewhat his enfeebled constitution. His death was unexpected, it not being supposed outside of his home that he was in any immediate danger. As soon as the news of Mr. Arthur's death was made public many flags on public and private buildings were placed at half mast. Mr. Arthur had lived at No. 123 Lexington-avenue for twenty years or more. A stroke of cerebral apoplexy, sudden but not wholly unexpected by the attending physicians, terminated his life. The stroke came in his sleep between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning, and he did not rally thereafter.

Mr. Arthur was 56 years old. He had been a widower seven years. His wife died in 1879. She was Miss Ellen Herndon, daughter of a naval officer, a Virginian, who was lost at sea. Of their two children, the son, Chester Allan, is 23 years old. He was graduated from Princeton College a year ago, and is now a student in the Columbia law school. His practical training he received in the law office of Knevals & Ransom, a firm of which the ex-President was a member up to the time of his election to the vice-Presidency. The daughter, Miss Nellie, of whom Mr. Arthur was very fond, is 14 years old.

The funeral will take place on Saturday, at 9 a.m., from the Church of the Heavenly Rest, on Fifth-avenue, the Rev. Dr. Parker Morgan officiating. Mr. Arthur was not a member of any church, but his wife formerly attended that church. Mr. Arthur's remains will be buried in the Albany Rural Cemetery in the family plot.

He was born in Franklin, Vt., of pious educated parents. Graduating at Union College, in New York State, he became a lawyer. One of his first cases was a voluntary advocacy of the right of colored people to ride in omnibusses and cars. In 1861 Gov. Morgan made him Quartermaster-General on his staff—a most responsible office during the civil war, and one which Gen. Arthur filled with ability and integrity. After the war and until 1871 he pursued his profession in New York, at the same time taking an active part in local politics and becoming the efficient organizer and leader of the Republican party of that day. In 1871 he was made Collector of the Port of New York. But as a friend and ally of Mr. Conkling he fell a victim of the factional crusade Mr. Hayes had at one time the courage to organize against the New York senator. He was removed without cause for political reasons, and in consequence, through an unbroken chain of circumstances, was elected to Mr. Hayes's place in the White House.

The actual cause of Mr. Arthur's death was cerebral apoplexy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—On the intelligence of Mr. Arthur's death the President telegraphed Mrs. McElroy, the ex-President's sister: "Accept my heartfelt sympathy in your personal grief and expression of my sorrow for the death of one who was my kind and considerate friend. The people of the country will sincerely mourn the loss of a citizen who served them well in their highest trust and won their affection by the exhibition of the best traits of true American character."

The flag on the White House was placed at half-mast immediately on receipt of the news, and soon after the flags on all the public buildings in the city were also placed at half-mast. Arrangements were also made for draping the public buildings.

WILL GEORGE TAKE THE STUMP?

Talk of Sending Him All Over the Country as Apostle of the Labor Party.

An arrangement is contemplated whereby Henry George shall deliver lectures in every city in the United States before workingmen, urging them to form branches of the National Labor party, or Progressive Democracy. Some man who can speak to the German voters will be sent along with him. Already, in Boston, the workingmen have set about arranging for a meeting at which George will be asked to speak.

"George will be the candidate of the Progressive Democracy for President in 1888," said an enthusiastic admirer of George last night.

The organization of the different districts in this city is proceeding slowly. The organizers, who are for the most part trade organizers, hold to the methods they are used to. Admission to meetings is through a closed door guarded by a sentry. It will be a month or two yet before delegates are chosen for the County Convention.

Knights Befriend the Anarchists.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—District Assembly 24, Knights of Labor, held a meeting last night and adopted resolutions declaring that the judicial machinery of the Criminal Court was managed unfairly in the recent trial, and that the verdict was the result of a capitalistic and judicial conspiracy. It was resolved that the District Assembly use every honorable means to prevent the execution of the sentence pronounced, that a committee wait upon the Governor in behalf of the prisoners, and that local assemblies do all in their power to this end.

Coal Famine in Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 18.—Cleveland is threatened with a coal famine, and that at a time when a cold wave is predicted by the weather bureau. The tons of hard coal in the hands of the dealers could almost be counted on one's fingers. The supply of hard coal is entirely out of and soft coal is scarce. Dealers were around town yesterday trying to get coal from each other, but none was to be had. The cause of the difficulty is lack of transportation.

Lord Randolph in His New Robes.

Henry Labouchere to the New York World.

Lord Randolph Churchill appeared in his robes of state at the ceremony of "pricking" the sheriffs. These robes are so gilded that they cost about $5000, and are only worn twice a year by a Chancellor of the Exchequer. It is the custom for one chancellor to hand the robes over to his successor, who pays a few hundred pounds for the use of them, which is recouped to him when he leaves office by the incoming chancellor. Mr. Disraeli, however, when he ceased to be Chancellor of the Exchequer, refused to sell his robes to Mr. Gladstone; why, was not known, unless he contemplated his being posting with it at a better price to Mme. Tussaud, or that he wished, being a lover of tinsel, to array himself in it occasionally at Hughenden Manor for his private delectation. A new robe had therefore to be purchased. It must have been somewhat short in the skirts for Sir William Harcourt or somewhat long in the skirts for Lord Randolph.

Railroad Accident Near Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 18.—The limited express, Pittsburg, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railway, due 6.30 this morning, was wrecked by a landslide at Jones' ferry on the outskirts of the city. A number of persons were injured, two of whom will die.

EXTRADITION WITH CANADA.

Draft of a New Treaty Said to Be Under Consideration at Ottawa.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—A despatch to the Post from Ottawa says: Since the extradition treaty which was entered into between Lord Rosebery on the part of Great Britain and Minister Edward J. Phelps for the United States was hung up by the United States Senate, the English authorities, fearful that it would not be ratified, have cast about for some arrangement in the extradition of criminals which would prove agreeable to the United States. It is understood between Minister Phelps and the English Government that President Cleveland will withdraw the present treaty and substitute another. In view of this fact another treaty has been drawn up and the English authorities have sent the same here for suggestions. It is not far different in its provisions from the one of June last. The article which refers to the extradition of criminals provides for the following crimes: Murder, assault with intent to commit murder, assault with intent to do great bodily injury, manslaughter, piracy, arson, robbery, forgery, the uttering of forged paper, burglary, embezzlement of any sum, larceny of $20 or $5 sterling, attempts on the life of any person when the same shall not be treason according to the laws of either country, housebreaking with an attempt to commit burglary, rape and seduction. That part of the treaty of 1842 which applies to extradition is declared null. That part of the proposed treaty now before the Senate which refers to political offenders is incorporated in this one, only in stronger terms as to their not being extraditable for any offence which might be treason according to the laws of the country demanding the fugitive. Article 5 of the treaty signed in June last is incorporated regarding the person extradited being tried only for the crime extradited for. The draft is acceptable to Canada as proposed.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

Changes Made in the Rules at the Annual Meeting Yesterday.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Football Union was held in the Windsor Hotel, Montreal, yesterday. Robt. Campbell, the President, occupied the chair. The following alterations in the rules were adopted:

"That the ball may be passed back with the foot through the scrimmage, in which case the quarter-back or whoever receives the ball from the scrimmage must pass the ball immediately to one of his own side; in the event, however, of the ball being forced through the scrimmage by the opposing side the quarter-back may run or kick at his discretion."

The protest of the Montreal Club against the decisions of the referee in the spring match with Ottawa College was fully discussed and eventually decided in favor of Montreal, the majority present being of opinion that a player, when bringing the ball into play from touch, must, according to existing rules, have both feet in touch and behind touch line. The formation of an Eastern and Western Association, including in the Eastern Kingston and Ottawa, was also discussed, but no decision was arrived at. It was decided that the next Dominion championship match should take place in Montreal, the last one having been played in Toronto in 1883, when the Montreal team won the championship.

The election of officers resulted as follows: Honorary President, His Excellency the Marquis of Lansdowne; President, Plunkett B. Taylor, Ottawa; First Vice-President, E. Gunn, Military College, Kingston; Secretary-Treasurer, A. J. E. Macdonnell, McGill College; Committee, Wm. H. Rose, Military College, Kingston; Arthur Drummond, McGill College; A. J. Boyd, Toronto; J. S. MacLean, Toronto University; S. Hendrie, Hamilton; L. Rankin, Queen's University, Kingston; J. G. Ross and George Blaikock, Britannias; and F. W. Taylor, Montreal.

Kaulbars to Leave Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Nov. 18.—The Czar has instructed Gen. Kaulbars to leave Bulgaria at once with all the Russian consuls if his note to the Regency demanding the dismissal from office of Gen. Mutkuroff, Commandant at Philippopolis, for arresting Russian Cavasse is not complied with. In the event of departure, Kaulbars is ordered to place all Russians in Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia under the care of the German agent at Sofia. Gen. Kaulbars is expected to leave Bulgaria on Saturday.

SOFIA, Nov. 18.—The Regents have asked Gen. Kaulbars to give them time to reply to his ultimatum. They wish until the end of the week, when all the ministers will be in the city. It is believed Gen. Kaulbars has been instructed to find a pretext to end his mission in Bulgaria by some coup d'etat, which would make his departure a political necessity. Suspicion prevails that he is attempting to work up a case out of the incident of the arrest of a Russian cavass at Philippopolis.

The Socialist Demonstration on Sunday.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A large military force will be kept in readiness to act in case of trouble arising from the proposed Socialist demonstration Sunday. The occupants of houses on Arlington-street are arranging for special protection. Artillery will be stationed in the vicinity of Charing Cross as a reserve.

A Cyclone in Troy, N.Y.

TROY, N.Y., Nov. 18.—The vitriol works of the John L. Thompson Chemical Company, near West Troy, was demolished by a cyclone this morning. Six men were badly burned by the vitriol. Loss $40,000. A canal boat captain was blown into the canal and drowned.

A Jockey Kicked to Death.

Fred. Stevenson, a jockey in the employ of W. R. Woodford, the owner of the celebrated racehorse Barnum, one day last week became involved in a quarrel at Brighton Beach with some of the colored boys employed at the track. One of these was Joseph Smith, a burly negro, who beat and kicked the inoffensive lad almost to insensibility. After the affair Smith fled and was not seen or heard of for several days, when word came to one of his friends to send his trunk and clothing to a certain address in New York city. The police refused to allow the trunk to go away, in the hope that Smith, thinking that he had not seriously hurt the boy, would put in an appearance. He failed to do so, however. Last Friday, while on the Clifton race track, near Patterson, N.J., Mr. Woodford recognized Smith in the paddock, but before he could call an officer he had disappeared. On returning to Coney Island Woodford informed the authorities. Smith was arrested in New York on his return from New Jersey, and taken to police headquarters, Coney Island, where he will be committed for trial.

Killed Herself for Love.

From Tuesday's New York Sun.

Elizabeth Grimson, 17 years old, of 209 South Fifth street, Williamsburgh, died yesterday morning of a dose of rat poison. Her father said yesterday:

"My daughter became acquainted two years ago with a young fellow named Charley Owens. He used to hang around the house to see Lizzie, although I told him he was not wanted. He worked for Mr. Miller who lives in my house, and of course he had plenty of occasions to see Lizzie. Last Saturday Lizzie asked her mother if she could marry Owens and she refused to give her consent. On Sunday she spoke to me about Owens and I told her the less she had to do with him the better. On Sunday night she became sick, and then we found out she had taken poison. I wanted Lizzie, when she married, to marry a man who could support her. But she was infatuated with Owens and had often said, if we now told, that she would marry him or marry no one."

THE COMING CAMPAIGN.

The Liberal candidate has decided to conduct the coming campaign in accordance with the practice in British election contests. Being anxious to have the campaign carried on in such a manner as to arouse and engender the least personal ill feeling and bitterness, he declines to hold joint meetings, as he believes these are the most fruitful source of the evils it is desirable to avoid, and as they defeat the object of campaign meetings—permitting the respective candidates to address their arguments to the electors politically opposed to them, unattended by the political prejudices and party bitterness, joint meetings always evoke. Under these considerations, the following letter was addressed to Mr. Carnegie on Wednesday, but only reached him to-day.

John Carnegie, Esq.:

DEAR SIR,—As you will be aware from my posters, during the political contest into which I am about to enter, I think it best and I purpose to conduct my campaign meetings separately, and I take this means of giving you timely notice thereof in order that you may have no ground of complaint hereafter.

For this course of action I have most valid reasons. Such, I believe, is the universal practice in the old country, and it is one which has both judgment and common sense to commend it.

The great aim of political discussion is education. In order to acquire the most beneficial effect from public speaking, the mind should be as far as possible untrammelled by party prejudice and disabused of party animosity, so that the better part of the man may be brought to bear upon all questions in issue.

I am convinced that that virulent bitterness, that disgraceful personal hostility, and that indecent animosity which have so often characterized political discussions, are engendered and fostered by joint political meetings, and that out of them everything objectionable and nothing which is effective, good and commendable is accomplished.

When Liberals and Conservatives are able to live in perfect friendship and in social harmony during the ordinary course of their life I have yet to find out what substantial good is to be derived by setting class against class, party against party, and individuals against individuals during six weeks out of four years especially as such a line of procedure is so opposed to all that spirit of peace and good will which should characterize all men who love their country and especially as the wounds caused by such dissensions and by such contests long remain open and are unlikely ever to heal.

I trust the contest between yourself and myself will be a friendly one, for whilst I will urgently strive for that harmony that should and may exist between us, I shall resent in the strongest manner anything and everything which appears to transgress the limits of fairness and justice.

Yours truly,
J. R. STRATTON.

Peterborough, November 17th, 1886.

THE Lindsay Post has the following in its last issue: "The nomination of Mr. J. R. Stratton for the representation of West Peterborough in the Ontario Legislature is a recognition of the valued services rendered to the country and the Reform cause by the younger men of the party. Mr. Stratton has always been an active and zealous member of the party, and has devoted a great deal of time and energy to the promotion of the Reform cause. He has conducted the EXAMINER newspaper with marked success, and has through this medium done invaluable work. He is personally genial, popular and respected, and will undoubtedly take a very large vote. He has in Mr. Carnegie an opponent of no mean powers, and a scrap-book politician of renown, but we anticipate with confidence the election of Mr. Stratton. The Reformers of West Peterborough will do a grand work by redeeming the two seats. They can do it; and we believe they will."

The Nicholls Hospital.

To the Editor of the DAILY EXAMINER:

When the proposition was made to give the building for and to partially endow the Nicholls hospital, people, without consideration, thought it was a good thing for the town and that the offer should be accepted. It was a generous gift on the part of Mrs. Nicholls, and she is deserving of thanks for it. It was a proposition which looked very well on paper, but, like a good many other things, upon nearer view, it has disappointed their expectations. We have got down now to hard facts, and a few short months of actual experience have convinced the people of their error. They find now that they have got a white elephant on their hands, and the question is what to do with it. The tax-payers have discovered through their tax papers that, like the handle of a jug, the benefits are all on one side, and that it is not such a pleasant thing to keep up a costly institution of this kind for the benefit of the very few town's people who may take advantage of it, and who could equally as well be cared for at home, as they have hitherto done. And they have discovered that it is not profitable to rob themselves of their hard earned money in order to provide comforts and luxuries for outsiders, who, when sick or injured, can go to this hospital and be nursed and cared for by the people of this town. And I think they will soon come to the determination, if they have not done so already, to return the building and its endowment to the giver with thanks. There will probably be, in the course of a whole year, and taking one year with another, ten or a dozen patients from among the people proper of the town who will go into this hospital. But how many there will be from other places it is hard to tell. In all probability their number will largely exceed the number of the town's people, and perhaps largely exceed it also in expenses. And the most of these who come into it from the country will be non-paying patients, whom the overburdened Protestant taxpayers of the town will have to support. And in addition to this, they have to keep up a large costly staff of servants and a matron, amounting some say to nine or ten individuals, who have large salaries and live upon the fat of the land, while many of the poor taxpayers have to live on hard fare and take just what they can get. Now just look at these things in their true light. Through want of consideration and foresight the Protestant taxpayers of the town were persuaded to accept the gift of this hospital, with an endowment of $15,000, producing an annual interest of $750. And for this offer they are compelled to keep up a staff of officials, consisting of a matron and seven or eight servants, besides wood and numerous other incidentals; and for what purpose? Why, to nurse some dozen or less of the people of the town, who can just as well be nursed and cared for at home, as they have hitherto been nursed and cared for. And, lest this should not be enough, to provide accommodation for outsiders and strangers, who pay no taxes and leave the town and go home as soon as we have made them well. And then, at the end of the year, comes the collector's neat little bill of the taxes for keeping up this institution, which people have got to pay whether they are able to do so or not. The fact is, we do not require this hospital, and we are better off without it; better off, mainly, because we can keep our money and have the good of it ourselves. I daresay there will be some poor ratepayers whose little chattels will have to be sold in order to help keep up this hospital. Suppose now that no one goes into this hospital save the people of the town, and assume that, in the course of a year, some dozen indisposed people go there for treatment, some of whom will be paying and some now paying patients, why, I ask, should all the rest of the people of the town be taxed to provide accommodation and attendance for these twelve or fifteen patients. And even suppose that these patients were all paying patients, still the people at large have got to keep up all the staff of servants, and pay and feed them and provide many other things which will cost money, and so be a burden upon the ratepayers of the town. As this letter has already reached its length, I will reserve further remarks for other communications.

R. W. MUNCASTER.

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

"To fear?" Mrs. Linley repeated. "I don't understand you."

"Never mind, Catherine, whether you understand me or not. I want more information. Tell me what your husband said to you about this young lady."

Wondering at the demon of curiosity which appeared to possess her mother, Mrs. Linley obeyed. Listening throughout with the closest attention, Mrs. Presty reckoned up the items of information and pointed the moral to be drawn from them by worldly experience.

"First obstacle in the way of her moral development, her father—tried, found guilty, and dying in prison. Second obstacle, her mother—an unnatural wretch who neglected and deserted her own flesh and blood. Third obstacle, her mother's sister—being her mother over again in an aggravated form. People who only look at the surface of things might ask what we gain by investigating Miss Westerfield's past life. We gain this: We know what to expect of Miss Westerfield in the future."

"I for one," Mrs. Linley interposed, "expect everything that is good and true."

"Say she's naturally an angel," Mrs. Presty answered, "and I won't contradict you. But do pray hear how my experience looks at it. I remember what a life she has led, and I ask myself if any human creature could have suffered as that girl has suffered without being damaged by it. Among those damnable people—I beg your pardon, my dear; Mr. Ormond sometimes used strong language, and it breaks out of me now and then—the good qualities of that unfortunate young person can not have always resisted the horrid temptations and contaminations about her. Hundreds of times she must have had deceit forced on her; she must have lived, through ungovernable fear; she must have been left (at a critical time of her life, mind!) with no more warning against the insidious advances of the passions than—than——. I'm repeating what Mr. Presty said of a niece of his own, who went to a bad school at Paris; and I don't quite remember what comparisons that eloquent man used when he was excited. But I know what I mean. I like Miss Westerfield; I believe Miss Westerfield will come out well in the end. But I don't forget that she is going to lead a new life here—a life of luxury, my dear; a life of ease and health and happiness—and God only knows what evil seed sown in her, in her past life, may not spring up under new influences. I tell you we must be careful. I tell you we must keep our eyes open. And so much the better for Her. And so much the better for Us."

Mrs. Presty's wise and wary advice (presented unfavorably, it must be owned, through her inveterately quaint way of expressing herself) failed to produce the right impression on her daughter's mind. Mrs. Linley replied in the tone of a person who was unaffectedly shocked.

"Oh, mamma, I never knew you so unjust before. You can't have heard all that Miss Westerfield said to me. You don't know her as I know her. So patient, so forgiving, so grateful to Herbert."

"So grateful to Herbert." Mrs Presty looked at her daughter in silent surprise. There could be no doubt about it; Mrs. Linley failed entirely to see any possibilities of future danger in the grateful feeling of her sensitive governess toward her handsome husband. At this exhibition of simplicity, the old lady's last reserves of endurance gave way; she rose to go. "You have an excellent heart, Catherine," she remarked; "but as for your head——"

"Well, and what of my head?"

"It's always beautifully dressed, my dear by your maid." With that parting shot Mrs. Presty took her departure by way of the Library. Almost at the same moment the door of the breakfast-room was opened. A young man advanced and shook hands cordially with Mrs. Linley.

IV.

Self-revealed by the family likeness as Herbert's brother, Randal Linley was nevertheless greatly Herbert's inferior in personal appearance. His features were in no way remarkable for manly beauty. In stature he hardly reached the middle height, and, young as he was, either bad habit or physical weakness had so affected the upper part of his figure that he stooped. But, with these and other disadvantages, there was something in his eyes and in his smile—the outward expression perhaps of all that was modestly noble in his nature—so irresistible in its attractive influence that men, women, and children felt the charm alike. Inside of the house and outside of the house everybody was fond of Randal—even Mrs. Presty included.

"Have you seen a new face among us since you returned?" were his sister-in-law's first words. Randal answered that he had seen Miss Westerfield. The inevitable question followed. What did he think of her? "I'll tell you in a week or two more," he replied.

"No! tell me at once."

"I don't like trusting my first impression. I have a bad habit of jumping to conclusions."

"Jump to a conclusion now, to please me."

Randal smiled and gave away. "Your governess," he replied, "looks out of health, and (perhaps for that reason) strikes me as being insignificant and ugly. Let me see what our fine air and our easy life here will do for her. In so young a woman as she is I am prepared for any sort of transformation. We may be all admiring pretty Miss Westerfield before another month is over our heads. Have any letters come for me while I have been away?"

He went into the library and returned with his letters. "This will amuse Kitty," he said, handing to his sister-in-law the illustrated New York newspaper to which she had already referred in speaking to her husband.

Mrs. Linley examined the engravings—and turned back again to look once more at an illustration which had interested her. A paragraph on the same page caught her attention. She had hardly glanced at the first words before a cry of alarm escaped her. "Dreadful news for Miss Westerfield!" she exclaimed. "Randal, Randal."

He read these words:

"The week's list of insolvent traders includes an Englishman named James Rollridge, formerly connected with a disreputable saloon in this city. Rollridge is under suspicion of having caused the death of his wife in a fit of delirium tremens. The unfortunate woman had been married, for the first time, to one of the English aristocracy—the Hon. Frederick Westerfield—whose trial for cutting away a ship under his command excited considerable interest in London some years since. The melancholy circumstances of the case are complicated by the disappearance, on the day of the murder, of the woman's young son by her first husband. The poor boy is supposed to have run away in terror from his miserable home, and the police are endeavoring to discover some trace of him. It is reported that another child of the first marriage, a daughter, is living in England, but nothing is known about her."

"Has your governess any relations in England?" Randal asked.

"Only an aunt, who has treated her in the most inhuman manner."

"Serious news for Miss Westerfield, as you say," Randal resumed. "And, as I think, serious news for us. Here is a mere girl—a poor friendless creature—absolutely dependent on our protection. What are we to do if anything happens in the future to alter our present opinion of her?"

"Nothing of the sort is likely to happen," Mrs. Linley declared.

"Let us hope not," Randal said, gravely.

(To be Continued.)

Advice to Consumptives.

On the appearance of the first symptoms—as general debility, loss of appetite, pallor, chilly sensations, followed by night sweats and cough—prompt measures for relief should be taken. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs:—therefore, use the great anti-scrofula or blood purifier and strength restorer, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." Superior to cod liver oil as a nutritive and unsurpassed as a pectoral. For weak lungs, spitting of blood and kindred affections, it has no equal. Sold by druggists the world over. For Dr. Pierce's Treatise on Consumption, send ten cents in stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

A Double Purpose.

The Duke of Cambridge, the commander-in-chief of the British army, has just issued an order partially rescinding the old rule which imposed a penalty upon all soldiers caught smoking in the streets. Now, during certain prescribed hours, the soldiers may appear in public with their cigars, cigarettes, or clay pipes, and puff the Duke's military genius.

There is Nothing Like It.

There is no one remedy offered to suffering humanity whose use is so universally and frequently required as Hagyard's Yellow Oil, for rheumatism, neuralgia, colds, sore throat, deafness, croup, lumbago, and aches, pains, lameness and soreness of all kinds, when internally and externally used. 2w46d

There is no necessity of passing a sleepless night and annoying the entire household with that cough, as West's Cough Syrup will cure you like magic. LOCAL NEWS.

Too Much Steam.

A pressure of too much steam in the boiler of the Ontario Cheese Works, Ashburnham, Wednesday night, caused a partial explosion. Nobody was hurt and the damage was repaired yesterday.

New Barber Shop.

Harry Robinson's new barber shop, in Dunsford's block, Water street, opposite Cavanagh's hotel is now open and ready for the reception of customers. The public are respectfully solicited for a share of their business.

JUSTIN McCARTHY—Nov. 24th.

Bang! Bang!! Bang!!!

The Bee Marche is this week firing a feu de joie of big bargains, and will continue the firing till the last round of ammunition in Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes is exhausted. Immense auction sales every Saturday. Don't miss the bargains.

Evangelistic Meetings.

A good number of young men were present at the special meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Thursday evening. The Rev. E. F. Torrance gave an address on the subject "From loss to gain." The services will be continued to-night, when the Rev. I. Tovell will speak.

Secure Your Tickets.

Tickets for admission for Justin McCarthy's lecture on Home Rule in the Opera house, Thursday evening, Nov. 25th, can be procured at any of the bookstores, or from Messrs. T. Kelly, John Hackett or John Garvey. Seats can be reserved at J. J. Hartley's music store, Hunter St. Admission 50c.; reserved seats 75c.; gallery, 25c.

Mr. Hoover's Concert.

The New York Mercury, thus refers to Mrs. Caldwell, who will sing at Mr. Hoover's concert on Tuesday evening Nov. 23rd: "The Dow concert of the 10th was a great success. The singing by Mrs. Caldwell of Toronto, Canada, was the crowning part of the entertainment. She has a magnificent voice of great compass and as sweet as a nightingale." Plan of hall for reserved seats at A. L. Davis & Co's book store.

That Explains It.

The Intelligencer states that the $5 gold piece presented by the Tavernier Dramatic Co. during their stay in Belleville for the largest number of words out of the letters contained in "Van Cortland," was won by a girl with a list of 600 words, whereas in Peterborough a list of less than half that number took the prize. The superior facilities afforded for seeing "double" in Belleville, where King Alcohol is rampant, over Peterborough, a strict Scott Act town, may possibly account for the duplication of the actual figures.

The Benefit Night.

The Tavernier Dramatic Company played "Ticket-of-Leave Man" to a large house last night. In the play Mr. R. C. Chamberlin as "Bob Brierly," L. A. Westbourne as the detective, and Alice Endres as "Sam Willoughby," were particularly good, especially the latter. "Sam's" cute ways brought down the house every time. Everyone in the audience voted Miss Endres "a jewel." To-night the benefit to Ida Van Cortland, the leading lady, takes place, when she takes the difficult role of "Stephanie" in "Forget Me Not," a sensational drama of great merit. There should be a crowded house to-night.

Amusements Etc.

The Gun Club held a match yesterday afternoon at the Riverside Park. Between the rain and snow and ballets, the birds had a poor show. The scores will be published to-morrow.

A "turkey shoot" was held at the quary yesterday. The weather was unfavourable for target practice, but the turkeys were taken just the same. Any amount of fun was realized.

A large number of young people enjoyed themselves skating on the pond (White's pond) north of the West Ward school yesterday.

What did the sports get who went down to Geo. Bennets yesterday afternoon.?

Among the Churches.

How Thanksgiving Day Was Observed by Most of the Various Churches in Town—A Commendable Press.

In the Charlotte street Methodist Church yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Tovell delivered an interesting 18-minute sermon to a rather slim congregation. His text was chosen from Psalm cxliv, 15th verse. In the course of his address Mr. Tovell, in referring to the press, said: "What we want is a thoroughly characterized press, when you will never see a lie in the editorial columns, when you will never see a falsehood in the advertising columns, when you will see credit given to whom credit is due, when the press shall turn like a tremendous power to reproving wrong and encouraging right—for the press and the pulpit are recognized today as two overwhelming forces working for the welfare of the nation." Messrs. Griffin and Hughes uttered fervent prayers of Thanksgiving, and the services were closed by Rev. Mr. Wallace, who read a little piece of poetry clipped from a newspaper, entitled "Baby Thankful," which he recited with much feeling. The choir sang a beautiful anthem during the services.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Rev. E. F. Torrance delivered a sermon from the 8th and 11th chapters of Deuteronomy to a fair congregation. Mr. Torrance referred to the reasons for gratitude and thanksgiving Canadians had. He paid a high tribute to the fertility and material resources and form of government of the country in which we live, and spoke of its exemption from the troubles and disasters that afflict other countries. The choir sang nicely, the anthems and songs being appropriately selected.

At 7.30 p.m., the entertainment provided by the Mission Band was begun. Sheriff Hall, in his official capacity, made a seizure of the chair, which he filled with his usual grace and amiability. The programme will be published to-morrow.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.

A thanksgiving service was held in this church at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, Rev. Mr. Bell preaching an excellent sermon from Psalm 103, 2nd verse. The rev. gentleman spoke of the numerous blessings and mercies which had been showered upon the heads of those in the congregation, who had been spared to meet together once more and offer thanks to God. He referred to the providential escape of Canada from the turmoil and wars which existed in other countries, and the bountiful harvests with which our lands has been blest. In all these the handiwork of God could be traced.

After the sermon a social tea was held in the school room of the church. Tables loaded with deliscies and substantialities were quickly relieved of their burdens. The choir sang several appropriate anthems and hymns. A very pleasant evening was spent by all.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Two thanksgiving services were held in this church yesterday at the regular service hours, Rev. Mr. Beck officiating. Appropriate hymns and anthems were rendered by the choir and congregation, which were fairly represented.

ST. LUKE'S.

Services were held in St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, both morning and evening. The Thanksgiving sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Bradshaw. Appropriate music was selected.

Matrimonial.

On Wednesday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, the nuptials of Mr. Samuel S. Fitzgerald and Miss Maggie Buller were celebrated at at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Wm. Buller, King street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. R. Beck, in the presence of a few of the intimate friends of the contracting parties. Mr. Alex. Elliot performed the duties of groomsman, and Miss Florence White was bridesmaid. The bride was the recipient of about forty beautiful presents. Porter Bros., with whom Mr. Fitzgerald was connected, presented him with a handsome tilting silver water pitcher, and his associates made him a present of an elegant silver cruet and sardine dish. The newly married couple went to Toronto, where they will pass a part of the honeymoon season. Both parties are highly respected and worthy of the high esteem in which they are held. The best wishes for prosperity and happiness attend Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald.

The General's Reception.

At a meeting of the Committee appointed by the Town Council to arrange for the reception of General Middleton, Thursday afternoon. The following motion was put and carried:—

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly,

That the Mayor receive the General and staff at the railway station on Tuesday, evening next, invite them to be the guests of the town while here, and conduct them to the Oriental hotel.

That on Wednesday the Mayor, if the weather be favorable, show them the town.

That the Mayor and this committee, and such of the members of the Council as can do so, be present at the unveiling of the Brown memorial monument, and that the Mayor accept the same on behalf of the town.

It is to be hoped that for the credit of the town, employees of workmen will give their men who belong to the volunteer force facilities for being present at the review of the 7th Battalion on Wednesday afternoon.

To the Electors.

Gentlemen—Though there seems to be considerable uncertainty as to when the general elections will be held, I have advanced and confidential information that they will be brought on at once. I therefore announce myself as a candidate and respectfully solicit your suffrages and support. I am sure that my past record has been such as to give me the confidence of the people. In the past I have made no promises that I have not fulfilled to the letter. Should you see fit to elect me, and I have no doubt and the subject, I will continue that straightforward course which has met with such general approval, and continue to supply the people of the Midland district with the very best of all kinds of furniture at the lowest living prices. My politics are practical, always exercised in the interests of the people, and my platform (rockers) sure to meet the approval of the people. I have secret advices that the writs will be issued at once. The ballots are already printed and may be obtained at any of the banks. The polls are open every day at my warerooms, Hunter street, and the utmost facilities are afforded for depositing the said ballots. In return the voter will receive, not vague political promises, but substantial value in the best furniture made in Canada. I hereby solicit your support, and have no doubt that I will triumphantly head the poll. I am, gentlemen, your obedient servant,

D. BELLEHEIS.

Hull's New Roller Mills.

[illegible] Mill Now Completed and in Operation in the Dominion.

Mr. John Hall, the well-known merchant and custom miller of Lakefield, has now the completest mill (for present cost) of roller mill in the Dominion of Canada. He has had the interior thoroughly refitted and re-fitted with the best system of rollers and centrifugal reels, which modern inventive science has supplied for the flour milling industry. About the first of August work was begun upon the re-refitting of the mill, a contract having been made with the Geo. T. Smith Middlings Purifier Company, of Stratford, and last Thursday the contract was completed and the machinery started. From the very first moment the power was turned on, everything worked like a charm, not a change was required, and so pleased was Mr. Hall with the result that on Tuesday, after only a three-days' trial, the mill was accepted by him. A brief description or enumeration of the new machinery may properly precede a description of the way it does its work.

IN THE BASEMENT

is found all the driving machinery, the power being supplied by a seventy-two inch turbine water wheel of 150 horse-power. From this, power is communicated to the different machinery throughout the mill by a system of belting instead of the old style gearing, thus insuring more smooth and noiseless motion, greater steadiness of machinery, and less loss of power by friction. This floor also contains something that interests the insurance agents. It is a compact and powerful force pump for fire extinguishing purposes and to it is attached a sufficient length of hose. The pump used is one of those recently invented by Mr. Charles Dawson, of Peterborough. The basement also contains the foot of the 22 stands of elevators used in the mill. South of the main building, on the same level as the basement, is a store house with a capacity of 30,000 bushels.

THE GRINDING FLOOR

contains fourteen pairs of "Noiseless Belt-Drive rolls, made by the Geo. T. Smith Company, Stratford, supplied with wheat by thirty-two stands of elevators. The rolls consist of chilled iron. On this floor are also situated two power flour packers and three hand packers, two for farmers' feed and one for flour. The fittings of this floor are of oiled hard wood, and the scene present withed all the rollers stands in motion, silently crushing the golden grain into the creamy flour, is a delight to a miller.

ON THE SECOND FLOOR

is found one Eureka smut and separating machine, two of the George T. Smith centrifugal bolting machines, combining the new system of bolting which has superseded the long reels, four of Smiths' middlings purifiers, and also four scalping reels.

THE THIRD FLOOR

contains one Smith brush machine, one separator for wheat, seven Smith centrifugal reels, six scalping reels, and two Smith brandusters. Also the packer boxes for the finished flour reach up through this floor. On the next floor the attic will be found only the heads of the thirty-two stands of elevators.

HOW THE WORK IS DONE.

Pipes leading from the grain warehouse conduct the wheat to the elevators by which it is carried to the separator on the third floor, which remove from it all barley, oats and cockle or other seeds, that would impair the quality of the flour, or any accidental foreign matter. The wheat then passes through two screening machines which further cleanse it, relieving it of light and imperfect grains and fuzz.

CONTINUING ON ITS COURSE,

the wheat is then passed through a brush machine which thoroughly cleanses and polishes every berry rendering it as clean and smooth as possible. It is now ready for the rolls, to which it is automatically conveyed. The first set of rolls merely crushes the berry, which next passes to another machine which reduces it still further. In this process it passes through six sets of rollers, the last bringing it to a condition called the "break chop." This passes from the last set of rolls to the scalping reels on the second floor. From these the "middlings" go to the purifiers, which remove all light fibrous particles and impurities from the chop. The purified middlings then pass to the smooth rolls, undergoing six more gradual reductions. The resulting from material is then conveyed to the centrifugal bolting reels and the result is finished flour of A 1 quality. It finds its way to the packing bins, from which it is pushed in barrels or sacks ready for market.

By this process every particle of flour is extracted, even the bran is made to yield its share. The bran is passed through the bran dusters, which separate every particle of flour material. This is passed through the centrifugal reels, and the result is a low grade flour.

This process is far superior to the old stone process. It gives a slightly larger quantity to the bushel, and the flour is of a vastly superior quality and much stronger. Since the introduction of roller mills there has been continual improvement in rolls, reels, etc. Mr. Hall's mills contain the very latest improvements. The machinery was all made and supplied by the Geo. T. Smith Manufacturing Company, Stratford, and the result is mutual satisfaction, Mr. Hall being delighted with his mill, and Mr. S. S. Heywood, manager of the company, declaring that he never did business with a squarer man than Mr. Hall. The latter has great reason to be proud of his new mills. Mr. Wm. Black, an expert miller, who started the mill, asserts that it is the best centrifugal mill he has ever started in Canada. The system applied to Mr. Hall's mills is known as the full centrifugal system. The machinery certainly works like a charm, is beautifully finished, the wood casings being elegantly done in hardwood oiled. The machinery was put in under the superintendence of Mr. R. J. McAuslin, who performed the work in the most satisfactory manner.

These mills have a capacity of 150 barrels of flour per day. Although a large merchant export trade is maintained with Montreal and the maritime provinces, Mr. Hall does a large custom trade on the exchange plan. He also has one stone running for chopping, which is done on the most liberal terms.

A Burning Train.

Two Pullman Cars on the Grand Trunk Destroyed by Fire.

A Pullman car on the west-bound G. T. R. express train took fire at 3 o'clock this morning, presumably from the stove, when near Fredericksburgh station, between Kingston and Napanee. Mr. John Millar, B.A., of Peterborough, was on board. The train was stopped, and the frightened passengers hurried from the burning car in their night clothes, not one having time to don his garments. Another Pullman took fire and the passengers in this were also obliged to make out in parts materialless into the chill winter air. A motley straggling crowd, they were—half-naked, shivering, bare-footed and frightened. In one of the cars were a newly married couple on their wedding tour, and the young bride, attired in a flowing white robe, with bloodless face, dishevelled hair, and bare feet, was the first to escape from the "chariot of fire."

They were all placed aboard the other cars and the train drawn to the nearest siding, where the two burning Pullmans were dropped off and

LEFT TO THEIR FATE.

Scarcely a single article was saved from the flames, which spread with frightful rapidity. One man was fairly frantic with joy over the fact that he had saved his vest in which was $4,000 and danced around like an inebriate. Another man saved $600. The other passengers about 18 in number, lost every thing they possessed, some having hairbreadth escapes with their lives.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, if one will inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering for building lots and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate renting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to the excellence of my building. A TERRIFIC STORM.

Great Loss of Life and Wrecks on all the Lakes.

The fiercest gales of the season have prevailed on the lakes since Tuesday night. The whole number of lives which have been lost have not been reported yet, but it is quite probable will reach scores.

SOUTHAMPTON, Nov. 19.—There was a terrific wind storm last night and to-day. The schooner Hecules has been anchored about a mile from our shore since yesterday at noon unable to reach the river or harbor from loss of canvas. The fishermen ashore have been unable to go to her assistance. No one can reach her from among our brave and trusty fishermen who are never wanting in bravery on occasions of this kind.

BRIGHTON, Nov. 19.—The schooners Ida Walker, partly loaded with barley, and the Queen of the Lakes loaded with coal, anchored outside the harbor during the heavy gale last night, parted their cables and drifted ashore down near the mouth of Weller's Bay. The crews were unable to, on account of the high sea to leave. The life boat, summoned up from Wellington, landed the crews safely. Both schooners will be a total loss.

BLENHEIM, Nov. 19.—The shooner Mary, light, from Port Stanley to Contsworth dock went ashore about ten miles west of here last night. The crew of twelve men were all saved. The schooner Dauntless and the steam barge Coral are both ashore in the Eau.

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—It is feared the schooner William Jones was lost in the storm prevailing Wednesday night. The schooners Hunter Savidge and David Mack, which cleared from Chicago Wednesday, have not arrived at Grand Haven as yet. Much anxiety is felt for their safety.

CRAZED BY POVERTY.

A Demented Mother Attempts to Kill Her Four Children.

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 18.—A demented mother named Bridget Moran made an attempt to kill her family of four children yesterday morning. She had struggled against adversity until body and mind were utterly exhausted. Her husband had gone to work on a railroad in Chili, South America, and, not hearing from him, she imagined he was murdered for his money. About 2 o'clock in the morning she entered her children's bedroom with a large knife, and went to where a bright boy of 11 was sleeping. Fortunately he awoke, and, seeing her intent, made his escape. Coming back in a few moments, he saw his mother covering up his sister's head, and realizing that they were all going to be murdered, he ran out, crying for help. The neighbor quickly came and saved the children, but the woman drew the knife across her own throat and inflicted a wound from which she is not likely to recover.

INNOVATION IN NEW YORK.

Mayor Grace Appoints Two Ladies on the Board of Education.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—The appointment, by Mayor Grace, of two ladies, Mrs. Mary Nash Agnew and Miss Grace Dodge, on the Board of Education has caused considerable excitement and talk here. The men regard the innovation with doubt, while many do not hesitate to express their disgust. It is almost needless to say all the ladies are delighted. Mayor Grace defends his action enthusiastically. He says that ladies are more capable of judging the capacity of young girls for study and nervous strain than men, and that not being politicians they will do what is best for their own sex.

Mrs. Agnew is the wife of Dr. Cornelius R. Agnew. Miss Dodge is only 25 years of age, and is the daughter of the late William E. Dodge. Both are well known for their educational and philanthropic work.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

A Union in New York That Compels Employers to Treat Women Fairly.

In New York there was established some time ago a Working Women's Protective Union, which has proved a great success in enabling young girls and women to obtain their rights from unjust employers.

Mr. John H. Parsons is the attorney and secretary of the union, and every Wednesday he sits at the union's rooms to hear complaints, settle such as can be settled and decide upon the advisability of prosecuting in the courts such cases as cannot be settled. The majority of the complaints are in regard to low wages, docking and retaining wages to pay for spoiled goods. When employers are notified by the union of the charge, they almost invariably settle up rather than appear in court. Those who have given the subject attention say that the working women of nearly all classes in New York are far more self-respecting and live purer and better lives than they are credited with by those who look only at the surface of things.

A Pestoffice Robbed Near Kingston.

KINGSTON, Nov. 19.—On Thursday night the pestoffice at the village of Newboro, County of Leeds, was burglarized. The safe was blown open and about $600 of government deposits taken; also a number of watches and a quantity of jewelery, the property of Mr. Lewis, in whose store the pestoffice was located. The burglars wrapped flannel about the safe to deaden the sound of the explosion. A clerk who slept over the store was not awakened by the shock.

KALNOKY ON BULGARIA.

HE EXPLAINS THE ATTITUDE OF THE THREE EMPIRES.

A Prince to be Elected—The Status Quo to be Maintained—Austria to Take More Interest in Bulgaria.

PESTH, Nov. 19.—Count Kalnoky, Imperial Minister for Foreign Affairs, in closing the debate of the budget yesterday before the committee of the Austrian Delegation, referred again at length to the Bulgarian question. He said the Imperial Government's policy was to uphold as long as possible the Berlin treaty as a legal basis for the conduct of affairs in the Balkan States, and the basis on which peace was to be preserved. This policy would be preserved in order to enable the Balkan States, which the treaty created, to become independent. This policy had so far succeeded that Russia also favored now the maintenance of the status quo and the preservation of peace in the Balkan regions. Bulgaria herself had been the first to be guilty of an infraction of the principle of the Berlin treaty. This was when she aided and shared in the Roumelia revolution in 1885. Count Kalnoky said he did not wish to reproach Bulgaria; he merely alluded to the historical fact. If Austria maintained the Berlin treaty it should not be difficult for the other powers to also do so. There was another reason why Austria should adhere to the policy he had enumerated. The very certainty that the settlement of the Bulgarian question would involve by any means a settlement of the whole eastern question afforded the strongest incentive to Austria to provide all possible patience and husband resources. He hoped the committee would agree with him that before all else a peaceful settlement of the present issue should be sought. He recognized the fact that the Bulgarians had an aptitude for forming a state, but he thought Austria had a right to utter a warning against too great optimism. He admitted that a union of Bulgaria and East Roumelia did not conflict with either Austrian or European interests, but pointed out that Austria did not possess the sole right to speak regarding Bulgaria's and Roumelia's right in carrying out this union. The conduct of the Bulgarians since independence had been accorded them warranted the conclusion that they would always step forward to maintain and secure that independence. He admitted that Russia was more favorably situated with respect to the exercise of greater influence with the people of the different Balkan states than was either Austria or Hungary. Austria and Hungary, however, did nothing in the direction of extending their influence among the Balkan people which did not emanate from the Imperial Government. Consuls did not multiply Austria's relations to a foreign country, nor found Austria's popularity in a foreign country. He regretted that such a small number of Austrians traveled in Bulgaria compared to the number of persons belonging to other nationalities who visited that country, and urged that steps should be at once taken to increase actively Austria's industrial and commercial relations with the Bulgarians. Passing to another branch of the subject Count Kalnoky said he regretted that the confidential nature of the negotiations in progress between the two empires prevented him from enunciating the conclusive arguments which he could otherwise employ to demonstrate the cordiality of the relations between Austria and Germany which had remained unchanged since 1879. In his hands they had essentially developed and strengthened. The confidence of both Governments in the alliance was complete and mutual. It was impossible to fully explain the subject publicly. When he recently deprecated attaching undue importance to mere words and letters he did not wish to have it inferred that formal engagements did not exist between Austria and Germany; he meant rather that the basis of agreement between the empires was rendered much stronger by being founded on the mutual interests and convictions of both states. Each had a vital interest in the continued existence of the other as a strong independent power. He denied that Russia's joining the Imperial alliance had prejudiced the relations between Austria and Germany. The friendly grouping of the three states sprung from the fact that it was most important that Austria and Germany should stand in the best possible relationship toward Russia. "When I assumed office," continued the count, "the relations between Austria and Russia were not of the most pleasant nature. They were neither good nor were they quite bad, but were of an undecided character. We welcomed Russia to a meeting with us to enable us to extricate ourselves from this position, which action however in no way affected our relations with Germany. Now I attach great value to the friendly relationship which exists on Austria's part toward Russia, without prejudice to our relations with Germany, which are of quite a different character." Count Kalnoky announced that the powers were now considering the question of the placing of a Prince on the Bulgarian throne.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 19.—The Journal de St. Petersbourg commenting on a letter from Pesth attributing the fiery anti-Russian tone of many of the speeches made by members of the Hungarian delegation to the alleged provincial fondness of the Magyars for Bellicose oratory says: "That explanation will not hold good with regard to the public utterances of a cabinet minister, however, for he is not permitted to use language in international affairs that is capable of double and diverse construction. This is undoubtedly the reason why the Emperor Francis Joseph spoke in fitting and conformable terms of Austria's foreign relations. The pacific interpretation which the European press has given to Count Kalnoky's speech proves that there is a universal desire for peace; but confidence in the maintenance of peace being based on the certainty of Russia's pacific views why are these useless provocations permitted? Public opinion finds difficulty in reconciling such a course with the friendly understanding enacted in the triple alliances and may justly doubt whether Count Kalnoky spoke with Germany's authority.

VIENNA, Nov. 19.—Despatches from Sofia state that the regents know five days before that Russia instructed Gen. Kaulbars to leave Bulgaria unless his demand for the dismissal of Gen. Muthuroff was complied with; that he was going to leave anyhow. The authorities have all been ordered to afford every facility for safe departure to the Russian frontier of the officials and those under their protection who will leave the country along with Gen. Kaulbars. It is stated Russia will send to the Powers a memorandum concerning the Bulgarian question and the action of Gen. Kaulbars.

SOFIA, Nov. 19.—Capt. Nabokoff, who led the revolt at Bourgas, and three sergeants who were implicated in the rising have been condemned to death. Several former officials in Roumelia who took part in the revolt were sentenced to imprisonment for life.

SOFIA, Nov. 19.—Gen. Kaulbars, in his note to the Bulgarian Government announcing his departure, says the Government has rejected Russia's counsels, which were intended to extricate Bulgaria from her difficulties, and has continued its insolent attacks upon Russian subjects. His further presence, he adds, is useless, Bulgaria having completely lost confidence in Russia.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The retirement of Gen. Kaulbars from Bulgaria is spoken of in all the European capitals as the retreat of Russia before the united forces of Europe.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 19.—The Roumanian municipal elections resulted in a triumph for the National Liberals, who carried seventy-two urban districts, including Bucharest, Craiova, Braila and Jassy, polling 20,145 votes against 4269 for the opposition.

South Oxford.

Sir Richard Cartwright the Commons Candidate.

NORWICH, Nov. 19.—The following is the result of the Reform Convention held here today: James Noxon nominated Sir Richard Cartwright and spoke vigorously for him. A. Cox, Burford, seconded the nomination and also spoke in his favor. James Brady was nominated by J. J. Johnston and W. W. Austin. Andrew Pattullo was nominated by J. H. Farrington and Jas. Virtue. M. Schell was nominated by Thos. Lammerman and W. D. Smith. All retired in favor of Sir Richard Cartwright. The original motion was carried unanimously and with enthusiasm.

Pullman Cars Burned While in Motion.

Two Pullman sleeping cars attached to the Montreal express, Grand Trunk Railway, running west, were destroyed by fire at four o'clock yesterday morning near Fredericksburg. The passengers all escaped into other cars, but lost property to the value of about $1500. The origin of the fire has not yet been ascertained. The loss to the Pullman Company will be about $20,000.

Body Washed Ashore at Cobourg.

COBOURG, Nov. 19.—A man's body, supposed to be an old sailor, was found on the lake shore at this place to-day. It is thought he has been lost from some vessel. There was nothing on his person to show his identity. He is an elderly man of about 50 or 60 years, has evidently been a small-sized man of about 150 pounds, is about 5 feet 9 inches high, bald headed, with a small quantity of iron grey hair at the sides and back of his head, and a few hairs on his neck under the chin. He wore a pair of heavy worsted black pants, lined, two white shirts and an undershirt; the name of "John" was on the tag of the white shirts. A black worsted single-breasted vest, with four outside pockets, and a pair of No. 9 double-soled heavy kip boots. There was a collar button and a small purse in his pocket, but no money. Each leg of the pants wasted at the bottom, and there was a rope around his waist. The body was buried at the Union Cemetery, but the clothes were retained that they might be identified by friends or relatives.

Dominion vs. Ontario.

OTTAWA, Nov. 19.—Argument in the case of the Ontario Government against the Ste. Catharines Milling & Lumber Company was commenced in the Supreme Court to-day. The question involved is whether the lands in the territory formerly in dispute between the Dominion and Ontario now belong to the Provincial or the Dominion Governments. Council for the Milling Co, is Mr. Dalton McCarthy, M. P, the expenses of the company being borne by the Dominion Government. Hon. David Mills and Mr. Walter Cassels, Q.C., appeared for the Ontario Government. The forenoon was taken up by Mr. McCarthy, who argued that the Dominion Government owned the lands in trust for the Indians.

Hamilton Items.

HAMILTON, Nov. 19.—At a meeting of the representatives of labor organizations here tonight it was decided to bring out candidates for both Local and Dominion Houses and a meeting will be held Tuesday next for this purpose. Committees on ways and means were appointed and a good deal of earnest talk indulged in.

At a meeting of citizens to discuss Canadian Pacific Railway matters to-night a committee was appointed to confer with Mr. Van Horne to ascertain his views and convey to him those of the meeting which favored bringing the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway from Woodstock through Brantford to this city, thence to Niagara River.

Tariff Reform in the States.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—A Washington despatch to the Commercial Advertiser says that Secretary Manning had several conferences with the President concerning the line of policy to be pursued relative to the recommendations to be embodied in his forthcoming report on tariff and revenue matters, and also on the silver question. In regard to the tariff he will be more radical and specific, being convinced that the protective features of the present tariff should be largely revised and modified. His views on the silver question have been somewhat modified. While he still favors suspension of further coinage of silver dollars, he will not devote as much space to the subject as he did in his last report.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

Forgatt Sing, who murdered a Chinese woman four years ago, was hanged at San Francisco yesterday.

Mrs. Reekie and her three children were asphyxiated last night by escaping gas in Cupar, Fifeshire, Scotland.

The Greek Government has dissolved the Legislative Assembly. Elections for the Assembly will take place in January.

Judge O'Hagan, of the Armagh Court, in the rent cases brought before him, confirmed most of the judicial rents, and in one instance raised the rent 25 per cent.

The Hungarian delegation has agreed to grant the credit asked for repeating rifles. The Mannlicher system was chosen. Count Kalnoky is assured of a vote of confidence in both delegations by a large majority.

The Government deny that they are making extensive military preparations, including arrangements for the use of artillery, in anticipation of trouble with the London Socialists on the occasion of their demonstration next Sunday.

The receipts of the Sullivan-Ryan fight at San Francisco on Saturday last were $11,600. The expenses of the entertainment were $2800, and $8800 were divided between the pugilists, Sullivan obtaining 75 per cent. and Ryan 25 per cent. of the amount.

Mr. Lloyd's steeplechasers, Charlemagne, Rose and Hinds, formerly owned by Mr. J. P. Dawes of Montreal, will winter at Cedarhurst, L.I. Frank Owens, the trainer, will return to his home at Montreal for the winter. He will take charge of the horses again in the spring.

Byron McClelland, Mr. Scott's trainer, who bet the money claimed by the bookmakers, is said to have gone to Kentucky and is not expected to return. The Monmouth Park authorities think that Appleby and Johnston have no claim against Mr. Scott and that they could not collect anything from him.

The Spanish Cortes opened yesterday. Premier Sagasta announced that bills would be introduced to reform the army, civil and penal codes, and the jury, press and association laws, and before the closing of the session a bill dealing with universal suffrage.

The Washington club management criticise the action of the New York club management very severely for releasing Esterbrook to the Metropolitan club, as they claim that a League club should have had the preference, and they wanted Esterbrook very badly. It is understood that the matter is to be brought up in the League meeting.

The Berlin Post, a semi-official organ, says the draft of the bill fixing the effective peace footing of the army for the septennate beginning in January, 1889, was sent to the Bundesrath yesterday, and that the increased demands of the bill do not exceed the limits absolutely necessary for the safety of the Empire, an announcement that has caused a sensation.

A game of football was played at Port Hope on Thursday morning between the second fifteen of the Trinity College School of that place and the third fifteen of the Toronto, which resulted in favor of the visitors by 5 points to 0. In the afternoon the Trinities played their return match with the second fifteen of the Torontos, which also resulted in a victory for the Torontos by 16 points to 5.

At the annual meeting of the directors of the National League Baseball Association in Chicago on Wednesday the Pittsburg club was admitted to the league. The championship of 1886 was duly awarded to the Chicago club. N. E. Young was re-elected secretary. Hermann Dunolser expelled by the Detroit club for financial irregularities, was reinstated. It is rumored that the St. Louis club tendered its resignation as a member of the league, and that the resignation was accepted.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS.

Owing to the fact that the school meetings take place on December 29, the dates of the nominations and polling for the Ontario Legislature has been brought forward to the 21st and 28th of December respectively.

A BASELESS SLANDER REFUTED.

Mr. McLeod has issued his address to the electors of East Peterborough. If he were not prowling about the streets from day to day, it would be fair to assume that he was in a lunatic asylum when he penned it. Only one paragraph of it calls for our notice. That portion with reference to the publisher of this paper is absolutely false and without foundation, and has been previously denied over Mr. Moloney's signature, and were it not for the respect due Mr. McLeod's age and his recent family affliction, he would be dealt with in a manner befitting so false, malicious and libellous a statement. All Mr. Stratton asks in this campaign is a fair and honest opposition; no matter how vigorous, so that it be open and above board, and that the Ontario Government be judged on its merits. Mr. Blezard asks for nothing more.

DISSOLUTION OF THE HOUSE.

Nothing that the Liberal administration of Hon. O. Mowat does, can please the Conservatives of Ontario. The most cordial hatred on the part of opponents is that begotten of the success of a rival. For the past fourteen years Mr. Mowat has guided the affairs of Ontario so wisely and economically as to secure the approval of the people, and so little real fault have his opponents to find with his record that the most trifling grounds of objection and fault-finding are seized upon. His latest offence—not against the country, but against the Conservative party—is that he has seen fit to dissolve the House, and thus bring on the elections. Our down-street contemporary is particularly severe upon him on this account. It calls his act of procuring a dissolution of the House, "a trick which is only a specimen of the Reform method." Yet, a few lines above in the same article, the organ asserts that the Conservatives hold that "under the constitution it was his (Mr. Mowat's) duty to advise the Lieutenant Governor to choose a fitting and convenient time to go the country." A fitting and convenient time has been chosen, and if it does not suit the opponents of the Ontario administration, that is no argument against its being a fitting and convenient time. Hon. Mr. Mowat in dissolving the Ontario Legislature, has closely followed constitutional requirement, and is supported in his action by repeated constitutional precedents. In 1833 the British parliament was dissolved, (though it had been dissolved twice within three years) on the coming into force of an act that added largely, like the Ontario Franchise Bill of last session, to the voters' lists. Under similar circumstances, on several succeeding occasions, this principle was acted on, and in dissolving the Legislature after the extension of the franchise, Mr. Mowat has only followed constitutional practice and time honored British precedents. If he had neglected to do do so, if he had allowed another session of a parliament, which would sit without the approval of the tens of thousands of electors, enfranchised by the legislation of last session, the Conservative organs and leaders would have had a real cause of complaint, and because Mr. Mowat did not give them that cause, they are disgusted and raise the reckless cries of "trickery" which we now hear from them on every side. In this their hypocrisy stands revealed. At the begining of the present legislature, so anxious were they to bring about a dissolution that they formed a conspiracy to buy up the supporters of Hon. Mr. Mowat and thus defeat him and bring about a dissolution. They were defeated then and they have felt sore ever since; hence their anxiety to find a cry against him. "Anything to defeat Mowat" is their watchword. In this case the cry is senseless and silly, but with defeat staring them in the face, we cannot wonder at the opposition catching at any straw they think will keep their heads above water.

THE Mail in its new-born zeal in the interests of prohibition sent a correspondent into Oxford to note the working of the Scott Act. The correspondent followed his instructions so well that prominent men now come out and repudiate the lies he put into their mouths to the prejudice of the Local Government. A new convert is not always scrupulous.

THE PARTY TO WHICH WE OWE OUR LIBERTIES.

As a preliminary to other matters, which will follow in due course, it is proposed to call the attention of the electors of this county to the state of affairs that gave rise to the Reform party in this Province, its organization, its objects and purposes. Its organization began a long time ago, when the country was in its infancy, and before the knowledge or recollection of many of those who are now addressed in these columns. It is felt to be desirable to do this in order that the new generation of voters who have grown up since that time, and who have enjoyed and are now enjoying the benefits of the labors of their fathers, may know how much the latter had to suffer and endure, and in order that they may the better understand the reason why these early settlers were obliged to enter into politics and how they came to be Reformers. When we have thus given a short history of the causes which led to the rise of the Reform party, and of the abuses and insults and wrongs which drove the people to this course, we believe that every person who possesses a single spark of manhood or independence, will say that there was no other alternative left them, and that their necessities were great, and that their motives and objects were good, and that the country now owes to these faithful men a deep debt of gratitude.

We all know how great were the privations and sufferings of the early settlers and how much they needed the fostering care and kindness of the government of that early day. But many of the present generation do not know how little of such treatment they received, nor do they know of the pride, and arrogance, and insults, and neglect which they had to endure at the hands of the government and its officials, including even the lowest subordinate in the pettiest office, under its control. The people of the present generation do not know of the many long and tedious journeys which they had unnecessarily to perform on account of this treatment and neglect, and how, after they had performed these journeys and foot-sore and weary, they made their appeals and were treated with disdain and told to come another day; and how often they had to go home to their wives and you (many of our readers), their little children, and mourn over their hard lot, as they once had to do. No, you of the present generation who have been reared in comfort, secured by the endurance, toil and sweat of your fathers, can never know how they were ground down to the very earth and insulted and wronged by the petty tyrants of the Tory party then in power. Then it was that complaints were made, but made in vain, and when human nature could stand it no longer, that the people set about looking for reforms in the administration of their affairs. Then it was that they demanded redress for their many wrongs, that they asked to be treated as men. Then it was that the Reform party came into existence in this Province.

There are some, now living, who can remember the day when the then Tory government—the prototype of the "Liberal" Conservatives of the present day—and their petty officials looked down with contempt upon the workingmen and the hardy tillers of the soil, and when to have to work for a living was held to be a mark of inferiority, and when no one was considered a gentleman or a man worthy of notice but the proud occupants of office. There are some, now living, who can remember the time when the people of the country were, by these men, held to be unworthy of respect or education, who did their best to prevent the establishment of schools throughout the country. There are some persons, still living, who can remember when all the churches in the land, save the then established Church of England, were, in derision and contempt, called "dissenting" churches, and when the Church of England was, by law, entitled to collect tithes, and when the ministers of other churches were not allowed to perform the marriage ceremony. There are still living some persons who can remember the time when the then Tory rulers and their subordinates required that the "common people," as they were contemptuously styled, should take off their hats when they met them, and should look up to them as their betters. These "common people" included the farmers, mechanics and laborers, and they were not supposed to have any rights. There are some men, now living, who can remember how these Tory officials ruled with an iron hand and how they claimed a superiority before the law, and when the honest representatives of the people were expelled from Parliament for daring to raise their voices in favor of their down-trodden constituents. When there was no responsibility by the government to the people, and when the people's money was wasted and squandered upon favorites without fear and without stint. And when some of those who dared to raise their voices in favor of the people were driven from their country and ruined—because they had dared to demand for the people equality and justice. But, thank God, after years and years of agitation and toil, after much sorrow and loss, after many journeyings to England and prayers for redress to the Imperial government, these abuses, one by one, became modified and redressed, the rights of the people were acknowledged, responsible government was established, the blessings of education were placed within reach of the people, and our valued municipal institutions were brought into existence. But these reforms were the result of many long years of agitation and labor. They were granted most grudgingly and only when they could no longer be refused. And now to-day the country enjoys the fruits of the labors of these early Reformers, the fathers of many of the "Liberal" Conservatives of to-day; some of whom lived long enough to witness the success of the reforms brought about by their exertions. The above are some of the good things which the much abused Reformers have done for us, some of whom, now living, are abused and held up as unworthy of your confidence and support, and, sad to say so, held up by their

HAIR!

When asked, at the coming contest, to exercise your franchise for the Conservative candidate, remember that the principles he represents, and the party he represents, ado the same principles under a new name, by which the Tory party of early colonial days oppressed and wronged the people, and that the Liberal party of to-day represents the principles and aims of those noble pioneers who rescued the country from tyranny, and bestowed upon it responsible government and the wide blessings that follow in its train. Parties may change their names, but the principles they represent continue. The same principles that underlay the actions of the Family Compact are, in forms, modified by circumstances, the same as those which influence the policy and actions of the "Liberal" Conservatives of to-day, and the same principles of equal justice to all, and the paramount rights of the people, that animated the people whose struggles for free institutions, won for them the title of Reformers, are those that enter into the platform of the Liberal party of the present day.

in PETERBOROUGH, I must hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may. On account of my Extremely Low Prices, some people are very skeptical, and designing dealers will tell them that My Goods are Shoddy, etc. Well, be this as it may, I only ask the public to praise me as they prove me, and in the face of this, I boldly make the assertion, that My Stock for Superiority in Texture and Make, surpasses anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one Store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this, and prove the assertion, if they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to all, I will ascend the Hill of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. A SOCIETY SCANDAL REVIVED.

The Son-in-law of Lord Chief Justice Coleridge Brings Another Action Against Him.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Court of Queen's Bench was crowded to-day with fashionable and distinguished people, who went to attend the trial of the second action for libel brought against Lord Chief Justice Coleridge by his son-in-law, Charles Mantell Adams. Mr. Adams declared that the Lord Chief Justice wrote a letter explaining to certain personal friends why he was opposed to the marriage of his daughter Mildred to Mr. Adams, and in this letter alleged that the plaintiff endeavored to obtain the daughter's money by compromising her so that she would be compelled to marry him.

The publication of this libel, Mr. Adams continued, consisted in showing the letter to the Earl of Selborne, then Lord High Chancellor, and the Earl of Iddesleigh, Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who were induced to act as referees in the settlement of the other action for libel based on the Lord Chief Justice's letter to his daughter, endeavoring to dissuade her from marrying the plaintiff by making severe attacks on his personal character.

During the hearing both the Earl of Selborne and the Earl of Iddesleigh occupied seats on the bench.

A LADY'S MAID INVOLVED.

Trouble Between a New York Railway Magnate and His Beautiful Wife.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The World says formal proceedings for divorce have been begun by Mrs. Lawrence Hopkins, one of the most beautiful women in New York society, against her husband, Amos Lawrence Hopkins, Vice-President of the Missouri Pacific Railway, and son of the venerable Mark Hopkins. It has been known for some weeks to their most intimate friends that the husband and wife had separated, but it was hoped that the differences would prove only temporary. Mrs. Hopkins has, however, through her counsel, George Bliss, served upon her husband summons to answer in a suit for divorce, and Mr. Hopkins has engaged Dillon and Swayne to defend the suit. The apparently final difference between Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins occurred two weeks ago. Mrs. Hopkins is the daughter of George L. Dunlap, a prominent merchant of Chicago. Mr. Hopkins is understood to be very quiet and domestic in his inclinations. Being a busy man he had little time and care for society. This radical difference of tastes is ascribed by friends as the primary cause of the differences between them, which have been a matter of current report for a year or two back. But it would appear that Mrs. Hopkins will in her suit ask for divorce upon a much more severe ground. There is but one cause admitted by the courts of this state as a reason for granting a divorce, and this cause Mrs. Hopkins is understood to have connected with a lady's maid formerly in her employ. Mr. Hopkins' counsel stated yesterday that his client had a full and sufficient defence to all the complaints and allegations.

An Atlantic Steamship Captain Charged With Carrying too Many Passengers.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 17—Captain Hellmers of the steamer Rider of the North German Lloyd line, has been held by United States Commissioner Muirhead for carrying a larger number of steerage passengers than his vessel has had statutory accommodation for. When the Rider sailed from Bremen on Oct. 6, she carried 105 cabin passengers and 683 steerage. An inspection showed that the steerage passengers had been huddled together like sheep. The case will be tried in Trenton.

Purchased Their Holdings.

DUBLIN, Nov. 17.—Most of the tenants on the estates of the Marquis of Sligo, County Mayo, have purchased their holdings from the Marquis. As he is cousin and heir presumptive to the Earl of Clanricarde, who owns large estates in the County of Galway, and is extremely unpopular with his tenants, who have just struck for 40 per cent. reduction in their present rents, the Marquis of Sligo's arrangement with his tenants is taken as a strong indication of the rapid change in the relations between landlords and tenants in Ireland.

Seizure of Four More U. S. Vessels.

HALIFAX, Nov. 17.—A St. Andrew's, N.B., telegram of yesterday says: "The Dominion cruiser Gen. Middleton arrived here to-day. McLean wired to Ottawa, and he received orders to release the boats upon the owners depositing $400 for each boat. The deposits were made and the boats released."

DEAR SIR,—I am pleased to be able to state to you that I am now free from Catarrh. It is almost incredible that in so short a time I could have been cured of Catarrh, which has afflicted me for years. A little over two months ago I took treatment from you, and to-day the Catarrh is entirely cured. Your treatment is simply a marvel. I will heartily recommend any of my friends personally, and would suggest to all thus troubled the advisability of consulting you immediately. Accept my many thanks.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by cheque at sight as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $500 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or rear estate on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $600,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By two laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the Lowest Current Rates of Interest.

The Mortgages may be repaid by yearly instalments, or otherwise as may be agreed upon, the interest coming at once on all amounts paid on account of the sum borrowed.

Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or to any of the Agents.

KNOW THYSELF.
A Great Medical Work on Manhood.
Exhausted Vitality, Nervous and Physical Debility, Premature Decline in Man, Errors of Youth, and the untold miseries resulting from Indiscretion or Exposure. A book for every man, young, middle-aged and old. It contains 125 prescriptions for all acute and chronic diseases, each one of which is invaluable. So found by the author, after a life practice of 25 years, as these cases came within his notice, and which no other physician has had the least desire to make public. 300 pages bound in beveled French cloth, embossed covers, full gilt, guaranteed to be a finer work in every sense than any other work sold in this country for $2.50, or the money will be refunded in every instance. Price only $1.00 by mail, post-paid. Illustrated sample free to any address. Send now. Gold medal awarded by the National Medical Association, to the President of which the Hon. P. A. Bissell, and associates referee in the Board. Its reading is remarkably refreshing. The Science of Life is worth more to the young, middle-aged and old of both sexes than all other gifts of Nature combined.—Vide Chronicle.
The Science of Life points out the rocks and quicksands on which the constitution and hopes of many a young man have been fatally wrecked.—Argonaut.

Meetings of the supporters of

MR. J. R. STRATTON,

Liberal Candidate, will be held in the rooms of THE YOUNG MEN'S LIBERAL CLUB on MONDAY Evening next.

Let there be a full attendance of the supporters of Hon. O. Mowat's administration and of all persons in sympathy with the success of the Liberal Candidate. The time for work has come; let every worker be in his place. d116

The Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1886.

LOCAL NEWS.

Sheep for the Slaughter.

Mr. Wm. Deacon to-day shipped a car load of sheep and lambs for Buffalo, and a car load of cattle and hogs to Montreal.

Fined.

Davis Jay was charged this morning by P. C. McGinty with using profane language in a public place yesterday. He was fined $2 and costs.

Still on the Move.

Two more of Bolton's celebrated boilers have been shipped this week.—one for Rev. Father Coffey's new palace at Almonte, the other for Mrs. H. A. Devine's new hotel at Arnprior. d118

Importation of Glass.

Messrs. Fortye & Phelan have just imported 29 lights of plate glass for Mr. Cox's new block on the corner of George and Charlotte streets. They are being placed in position to-day.

Another Iron Bridge.

The Central Iron Bridge Works yesterday shipped a cantilever bridge of 65 feet span, 14 feet roadway, capable of supporting a rolling load of 14,000 pounds, to Dresden, Kent county, Ont.

The Collection.

The collection taken up in St. Andrew's church Thursday at the thanksgiving services for the benefit of the Sunday School amounted to $35.

Our Citizens' Honesty.

The proverbial honesty of Peterborough inhabitants has been once more put to the test and proved inviolate. A Hunter street butcher last night left the carcass of a large calf and two quarters of beef hanging outside his store. They were there all "O. K." this morning.

New Barber Shop.

Harry Robinson's new barber shop, in Dunsford's block, Water street, opposite Cavanagh's hotel is now open and ready for the reception of customers. The public are respectfully solicited for a share of their business.

The L. T. S. C.

The Lock Team Social Club ball Wednesday evening was without doubt the most successful ball of the season. About 50 couples were present, who did full notice to the 26 numbers on the programme. Though the Club is in its infancy, the management evidently know how to get up a successful social assembly.

Bang! Bang!! Bang!!!

The Bon Marche is this week firing a feu de joie of big bargains, and will continue the firing till the last round of ammunition in Dry Goods, Groceries, Boots and Shoes is exhausted. Immense auction sales every Saturday. Don't miss the bargains.

Secure Your Tickets.

Tickets for admission for Justin McCarthy's lecture on Home Rule in the Opera house, Thursday evening, Nov. 25th, can be procured at any of the bookstores, or from Messrs. T. Kelly, John Hackett or John Garvey. Seats can be reserved at J. J. Hartley's music store, Hunter St. Admission 50c.; reserved seats 75c.

JUSTIN McCARTHY—Nov. 25th.

Man's Inhumanity to Man.

A gentleman in town who has hitherto borne an excellent reputation for charitable generosity and sterling character, has suddenly developed a ferocity of disposition similar to the blood-thirsty propensities of Lambro, the renowned sea-solicitor, as described by Byron in the lines:

'He was the mildest manner'd man
That ever scuttled ship or cut a throat.'

Gough, the cheap clothier, has been making sweeping assertions involving large sums of money, and speaking of "breaking the back-bones" of high-priced clothiers who may stand in his way. But his assertions are not rash. He is bound to out-sell all, and though some persons are mean enough to spread the report that his goods are shoddy, he offers to place a forfeit of $1,000 on his satisfactory refutation of these falsehoods. Read his advertisement and be governed accordingly.

Men's Special Meetings.

The Rev. Mr. Tovell gave an address at the Men's meeting in the Young Men's Christian Association rooms on Friday evening. The last meeting of the series will be held to-night at 8 o'clock, when the Rev. J. C. Wilson of Ashburnham will speak.

The Sons of Toil.

Under the auspices of Assembly No. 6,262, Knights of Labor, Peterborough, Mr. Phillips Thompson, of literary fame as "Jimmy Briggs," whose contributions to the Toronto News are so popular, will deliver a free lecture in Bradburn's Opera House on Saturday evening, Nov. 27th, on the subject "Capital and Labor," and the benefit of organization to the workingmen.

Church Parade.

There was a very poor turn-out of volunteers at the drill last night. Col. Rogers and Major Grover were present. A drill examination took place between several men, and those most proficient were awarded stripes. It was decided to have church parade Sunday morning at 11 o'clock to St. John's Church.

The School Teachers.

Yesterday afternoon the school teachers in town, with few exceptions, attended the second of the series of monthly meetings in the Central School building, Mr. Smith occupying the chair. Their time was devoted to a discussion of the best methods of teaching. Such meetings should not fail to be of great benefit not only to the teachers but also to the educational interests of the town.

Mr. Hoover's Concert.

Mr. Hoover's concert promises to be one of the musical treats of the day, as he has the finest talent in the country, including Mrs. Caldwell, of Toronto, and Herr Jacobsen, the well-known German violinist. Don't fail to hear them on Tuesday evening, Nov. 23rd, in Bradburn's Opera House. Plan of hall at A. L. Davis & Co.'s bookstore.

Market Items.

There was a good attendance this morning. Beef "ruled the roast;" it was a drug on the market, selling at from 3 to 5c. Mutton went at 7 and 8c.; pork, 6 and 7c.; potatoes and apples, 60c. a bag. In the butter market there was a perfect jam, about as many having to sell their produce outside the building as those who could get inside. Butter commanded 20c. a pound; eggs, for local use, 20c. per dozen. Turkeys sold for from 50 to 75c.; geese, 50 and 60c.; chickens, 30 and 40c. per pair.

Waste Paper.

Of late some business men of the town have been forgetting that there is such a thing as a by-law prohibiting the depositing of waste paper on the streets with a heavy fine as a penalty, and have been in the habit of dumping the contents of their waste-paper baskets on some of our main thoroughfares. Yesterday, Chief Cooper interviewed a party who was guilty of a breach of that by-law, and intimated that in future he would see that the law was strictly enforced if the habit was not stopped.

The Last Night.

"Forget-Me-Not" at the Opera house last night was presented by the Tavernier Dramatic Co. with their usual aptness and ability. A good house greeted Ida Van Cortland on her benefit night, and she did her best to please those who had turned out on the occasion. The role of "Stephanie," a very difficult one, she took with an unusual vim and sprightliness, for which she was frequently applauded. Mr. T. Drew, R. C. Chamberlin and A. A. Washburne also gave excellent impersonations of their respective characters. Alice Endrew was as charming as usual, and Emma Whittle as Mrs. Foley did justice to her part. To-night will be presented the roaring, side-splitting comedy entitled "The Private Secretary." This being the closing night, no doubt the house will be jammed. Those wishing seats should secure them early at Hartley's. The $25 silver pitcher will be drawn for at the close of the performance.

The Scottish Concert.

A concert in celebration of St. Andrew, under the auspices of St. Andrew's Society of the town of Peterborough, will be held in Bradburn's Opera House, on Monday evening, Nov. 29th. Among the artists is Miss Maggie Barr (Mrs. McCulloch), the celebrated Scotch vocalist, of Hamilton, who has written to say that she will positively be on hand. Mr. Hutchins, the popular tenor; the celebrated Sinclair family of Scotch dancers, and Mr. D. B. MacDuff, solo violinist, late of Scotland, and other local talent will participate. A first-class orchestra will discourse Scottish selections. This will be a rare opportunity for Scotchmen and their descendants to hear the grand music of their country, as all the numbers will be Scotch. Admission, 25c.; reserved seats, 35c.; double reserved seats, 50c. Plan of hall at Menzies' bookstore.

A New Political Platform.

Now that D. Belleghem, the famous furniture factor, is in the field as a candidate, he feels it due to the public that he should state his platform more fully. In Federal politics he is an out and out free trader, believing in the chance to sell all the furniture its first rate quality should help to do. He is also a modified protectionist; his excellent goods and low prices giving him a comparative monopoly of this trade. In local politics he is a sturdy upholder of provincial rights, especially the preservation of our timber from the grip of boodlers. If his factory runs at the same rate—and it will run much stronger—as it has recently, he will need all the timber the country produces. His factory is now running at full blast and his warerooms are piled up with both handsome and useful goods. Belleghem is sure to be elected. He will have a seat if he has to make it himself, and this he can do to perfection. Before you vote call on Belleghem. He will offer you inducements to support him which, while they benefit your pocket, do not come under the bribery act.

Church Chimes.

They are expecting a large collection to-morrow at the George street church.

Rev. Mr. Wallace is out of town, to preach in Preston to-morrow.

At the George street Methodist Church to-morrow Rev. I. Tovell preaches at 11 a.m., and Rev. Prof. Raynor at 7 p.m.; at the Charlotte street church, Rev. Prof. Raynor at 11 a.m., and Rev. Mr. Tovell at 7 p.m.

Prof. Welton, of McMaster Hall, Toronto, will occupy the pulpit of the Baptist Church on Sunday next, morning and evening.

The anthem at the evening service of the George Street Methodist Church to-morrow will be "But the Lord is mindful of His own" by Mendelssohn.

More nominations for elders will probably take place in St. Paul's Church to-morrow, a number of those before selected having resigned.

Personal.

Mr. Wm. Deacon, of Peterborough, was on the Grand Trunk train yesterday morning which caught fire near Napanee.

JUSTIN McCARTHY, M. P.

The above is a portrait of Mr. Justin McCarthy, M.P. for Londonderry, Ireland, who will lecture in the Opera House, Peterborough, on Thursday evening, Nov. 25th. Mr. McCarthy is one of the most distinguished literary men of the present day. He was born in Cork, on November 22nd, 1830, and at the time of his appearance here will be just 56 years of age. From 1846 to 1853 he contributed to the Cork Examiner, and in 1853 he became an editorial writer to the Liverpool Northern Times. In 1860 he was a House of Commons reporter for the London Morning Star, next foreign editor for that paper till 1868, when he visited America and remained till 1871, contributing during that time to leading magazines. Mr. McCarthy is an industrious, facile and brilliant writer. Besides numerous sterling works of fiction, he has written "The History of Our Own Times," from the accession of Her Majesty to 1880. This work the London Daily News describes as "a rare achievement of literary workmanship—easy without being careless and accurate without being dry." Another of his historical works is the "History of the Four Georges" to be completed in four volumes; of which one has been published. He has written besides other works of great merit. Mr. McCarthy is also a successful political worker, a fluent and clever speaker, and is well known from his prominence in the recent Home Rule struggle. He is heartily interested in the work and there is no living man, except, perhaps, Hon. Mr. Gladstone who possesses a wider and fuller knowledge of the merits of the cause than he does. Therefore his lecture in the Opera House on Thursday night Nov. 25th, on "The Irish Cause" will be the most important utterence on the subject the people of Peterborough have heard or will have an opportunity of hearing again.

JUSTIN McCARTHY—Nov. 25th.

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Our present teacher, Mr. Thos. N. Lee, has been re-engaged at an increased salary for next year. This action of the trustees will meet with the unanimous approval of those interested in the school, as Mr. Lee has proved himself an efficient teacher.

DEBATING SOCIETY.

A meeting of the young men of the village and vicinity was held on Friday evening last to consider the advisability of organizing a debating society, Mr. T. N. Lee in the chair.

A society was organized under the name of the "Young's Point Debating Society" and the following were elected officers.

PRESIDENT—Mr. P. A. Kearney.
1st VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. C. Young.
2nd VICE-PRESIDENT—Mr. J. Belleghem.
SEC-TREASURER—Mr. F. J. Young.

The society will meet every Friday evening at seven o'clock. Twelve members will show their debating power on "which has the farmer or the mechanic done the most for society?" at the next meeting.

PLOUGHING STOPPED.

The late frosts have put a stop to ploughing at least for the present and it is not likely there will be much more ploughing weather this fall. All through this fall has been a fine one and the farmers have no reason to complain.

Examiner Bindery.

Merchants and business men, now is the time to call at the EXAMINER bindery and leave your orders for journals, day books, ledgers, invoice books, cheque books, and all blank books used in business. Don't wait till the moment you want to use them. All blank books last longer for not being used immediately after being finished.

The apple is one of the most useful articles of vegetable food—nutritious and easily digested.

News Nuggets.

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 30 per cent higher.

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, strapped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who intend erecting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLISLE, Donegal Street, 2nd block west of St. Andrew's Church. wd

THOUGHTS FOR THE ELECTORS.

In Saturday's issue the contrast between the principles that influence the action of "Liberal" Conservatives and Reformers was pointed out, and it is of the utmost importance at the present time that the difference should be borne in mind. Electors, you are now asked to give your votes to the Conservative candidates at the approaching Dominion and the announced Provincial elections—to the men whose party has ever been the bitter enemy of reform and progress—who have fought against every reform inch by inch, until they could resist no longer. You are asked by these men to turn your backs upon Liberals, upon your best friends, in fact, to turn your backs upon yourselves and your dearest interests. The Liberal candidates now in the field come before you acknowledging your rights. They are only asking that they may be allowed to assist in guiding the ship of state, that they may keep watch and ward over it and save it from the rocks which lie ahead, and that they may help to bring it safely to port. It is for you, the electors, to say whether you will allow them to do this. Your verdict, and the verdict of the electors of the Dominion and of the Province, will decide for weal or woe, the fate of our new nation, will give a character to the future prospects of the country, will decide whether justice and economy, or whether reckless extravagance and ruin shall prevail in every department of the Government—whether the conduct of the present Government at Ottawa shall prevail. Look at these matters fairly as men, who are interested in the right, and then judge. Look at the public debt of the Dominion of nearly three hundred millions of dollars, which is just equal to a debt of $300 per head upon every taxpayer in the country. Look at this and remember that one hundred and seventy-five millions have been created by the present corrupt Government of Sir John Macdonald, within the past eight years. And do not forget to notice that the annual expenditure of the Dominion Government within the same period has risen from twenty three millions to thirty seven millions of dollars and it is still going on increasing, and remember, that you, the heads of families and taxpayers have got to provide the means for its payment, and that, in order to raise this money, the duties upon the goods consumed by you, have been raised from seventeen per cent. to from thirty to fifty per cent, the latter being the average amount of tariff levied upon such articles as the farmers and working classes consume. And you must also bear in mind that the increase of taxation is more than ten times greater than the increase of population. Is it any wonder that our people are leaving the country at the rate of ninety thousand a year. Look at all these things and say whether you approve of them, and decide whether you will vote for the men who are pledged to support the government of the Dominion who brought them about and who are still increasing your burdens; or whether you will vote for men who are pledged to economy and who will make economy the rule and not the exception. It is for you to say whether you prefer paying high taxes, high duties on the goods you consume, or whether these shall be kept within reasonable limits. Your votes at the approaching elections for the Dominion will decide also whether you approve of the conduct of Sir. John Macdonald in doing his best to rob you of the vast tract of land in the west and north of this province, commonly called the disputed territory of which he would have taken from you but for the exertions of Hon. Oliver Mowat, who alone deserves your thanks and your gratitude for preserving to you a tract of country one hundred thousand square miles in extent, full of valuable timber and mines of rich ores—a country which in the no very distant future will be settled by hardy industrious settlers and which will furnish the provincial treasury with means which will enable the Provincial government to improve all parts of Ontario and greatly lessen your local and municipal taxes. Look at these things fairly and in the light of your own interests. Look at them apart from political prejudice. Reflect upon the disastrous consequences of such lavish and extravagant enterprise the Dominion Government is. Think of yourselves and your families; consider the solemn obligations which rest upon you to hand down to succeeding generations a country progressive and prosperous and not ruined with debt. Think of your responsibilities as men and citizens, and then say who is most entitled to your support—the candidates of the Liberal party, which has ever clamored for justice to all, and for economy in the government of your country, or the candidates who will support and uphold Sir John Macdonald in all his wickedness and waste.

LOOKING FOR A RULER

THE BULGARIAN THRONE STILL GOES A BEGGING.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Foreign Office is now engaged with Germany and Austria in seeking to fix upon a candidate for the Bulgarian throne. Negotiations have been opened with King Christian of Denmark to ascertain the precise attitude of his objections to his son Prince Waldemar's acceptance. It was noted at the time that his telegram made the point that the project was inopportune rather than unacceptable, and it is quite understood that Prince Waldemar is not averse to going to Sofia. He has had the proposal before him for several months, since his sister, the Czarina, has always had him in view for the vacancy. The recent mission of Count Dolgorouki to Copenhagen had reference to this matter, and it is believed that the Czar found it necessary to inform the Prince that present circumstances forbade offering him an opportunity of going to Sofia, but that his chance was merely delayed by this. So it follows that the talk of putting forward Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia is not sincere.

It is felt here that the Bulgarian question is coming into a more regular position, as Gen. Kaulbars has now withdrawn, and there seems to be nothing to prevent an early assembling of the conference as proposed by Lord Iddesleigh. The object of the British Government will first, of course, be to establish such harmony as may be possible among the powers and to maintain the lines of the Berlin treaty, subject to the necessary modification of the Bulgarian absorption of Eastern Roumelia. Russia professes no serious objection to this plan of unification, but it may become a question with her whether she will assent to this after the recent statements at Buda-Pesth that she can be allowed no supremacy in that quarter. To create a big Bulgaria from which his influence would be so positively excluded, may be regarded by the Czar as nothing short of suicide. If Russia gives way on this point there ought to be no difficulty in finding a candidate suitable to her, and Prince Waldemar is as promising a one as can be expected. He is certainly not regarded as out of the question.

Under French Protection.

PARIS, Nov. 20.—Premier De Freycinet has informed the cabinet that Kaulbars has placed the Russian subjects who remain in Bulgaria under the protection of the French diplomatic agent at Sofia and the French Consuls in Bulgaria.

Russia Explains Kaulbar's Recall.

ST. PETERSBURG, Nov. 20.—An official statement has been issued by the Russian Government explaining its action in recalling Gen. Kaulbars from Bulgaria. The document says: "In consequence of insults to Russian subjects and also to persons under the protection of Russia in Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia, Gen. Kaulbars has been compelled to notify M. Macevics, Bulgarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, that he and all the Russian consuls would leave the principality on the occasion of the first act of violence committed after said notification. On November 5 following a fresh outrage was committed against a Russian envoys at Philippopolis, who was maltreated by soldiers and by a crowd of people armed with sticks, and was brought to the Russian consulate insensible. Gen. Kaulbars, learning that the attack on this canvass had been made by order of the military authorities, demanded the dismissal of the local Brigadier-General and Prefect, who were responsible, and the exemplary punishment of those who participated in the attack. He also demanded that the Russian who had been injured should receive the customary salute and reparation, and notified the Bulgarian Government that unless his demands were complied with he would depart on Nov. 17. M. Nacevics having neither replied to the demands of Gen. Kaulbars nor given the satisfaction required, Gen. Kaulbars and all the Russian consuls in Bulgaria and Eastern Roumelia have been ordered to leave to-day.

Kalnoky Expresses Approval.

PESTH, Nov. 21.—Count Kalnoky, Austro-Hungarian Prime Minister, in the Austrian Delegation yesterday expressed his warm approval of the Budget Committee's efforts to support the Austrian policy. At a plenary sitting of the Delegation the previous decisions of the committee were confirmed.

Violent Harangue From Kaulbars.

PHILIPPOPOLIS, Nov. 21.—Gen. Kaulbars while on the way to Constantinople tried to distribute copies of the note sent by him to the Bulgarian Government but the police prevented his doing so. Gen. Kaulbars delivered a violent harangue, protesting strongly against this this action of the authorities.

Conservative Attack on Churchill.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—On the text of his speech to the London corporation showing Radical tendencies on the question of local coal and wine duties, the Standard bitterly attacks Lord Randolph Churchill for doing what he can to discredite the Conservatives, especially in casting imputations on the property-owning classes distinct from the working classes. The impression created by his latest effusion, it says, must be undone speedily, and the Conservatives will expect their leader to take the needful steps to disown in the name of the Cabinet the mischievous acts promulgated by Churchill. The Pall Mall Gazette admires Lord Randolph's pluck in reproving friends as well as foes.

The Transatlantic Mails.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—The Government has arranged with the Inman Steamship Company to take Tuesday's American mails; with the North German Lloyd Steamship Line to take Thursday's, and with the Union Line to take Saturday's. The German steamers are to wait at Southampton until Thursday night for the arrival of the mails for America. The vessels of the first and third named companies are to stop at Queenstown, and the Union Line to use the Alexandra and Arizona in carrying the mails under the new arrangement. These arrangements are experimental and made for a period of three months only.

The Irish Nationalist newspapers denounce the decision of the Government on the question of the mail service. The Freeman says "the so-called Unionist Ministry is bent upon destroying whatever remains of Irish commerce."

The Dunn-Brown Perjury Case.

BUFFALO, Nov. 20.—The evidence in the famous perjury case of Mrs. Julia Dunn against Daniel J. Brown, whose evidence in a previous trial secured the acquittal of Ezra Cooper, the Union City millionaire, under a charge of criminal assault upon Mrs. Dunn, ended yesterday at Erie, Pa., in a verdict of guilty. The prosecution proved by their witnesses that Brown's evidence on the trial of Cooper was defective in material points and established the fact that Brown had been paid to flee to Canada. A new trial will be asked for and probably be granted. The trial has become famous on account of the interstate complication over his extradition from New York to Pennsylvania. The Dominion Government also interested itself in the matter, as it was claimed that Brown was decoyed from Canada by Mrs. Dunn.

Knocked Senseless by an Ostrich Egg.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—Dr. George Baur, assistant professor at the Peabody Museum, Yale College, was knocked senseless to-day by the explosion of an ostrich egg. Scientists at Yale say this is the most remarkable explosion on record. One of the eggs had fermented, generating a gas inside which caused an explosion.

Three Cubans Outlaws Killed.

HAVANA, Nov. 20.—Last night a body of police surprised the notorious outlaw Jiminis and two other bandits. Jiminis made a stout resistance, wounding five of the police before he was killed. His two companions were also killed.

A MILLION AND A HALF.

The Ball Family in Cape Breton Heirs to an Immense Fortune.

HALIFAX, N.S., Nov. 20.—The American branch of the Ball family may rejoice. Several families of Balls residing at Sydney, Cape Breton, have received letters from a firm of solicitors in London that $1,500,000 has been left them by some relatives in England, long since deceased. The Ball family here were related to Sir Alexander Ball, at one time an Admiral in the British navy, and who fought in the battle in which Lord Nelson received his fatal wounds. Afterwards Sir Alexander was appointed Governor at Malta. He had one son, Sir William Ball, to whom he willed his estate. The will, however, stated that if Sir William died without issue the estate was to go to one Ingraham Ball and his heirs, who was the father of the Ball family now living at Ball's Creek, Cape Breton. The will, however, was tampered with by one of the solicitors of Sir William Ball, and after many years of litigation judgment was recently given in favor of John Ball's heirs for $1,500,000. The letter containing this pleasing intelligence has been received by the family. Last week Mr. Murray Dodd, M.P., of Sydney, who has been corresponding with a legal firm in London, received a letter stating that the sum of $1,500,000 was held by a bank at Melcome, Scotland, for the Ball family in Cape Breton. A meeting of the heirs is being held in Sydney to-day for the purpose of taking steps to get the money.

SIR DONALD SMITH'S CANDIDATURE.

The Canadian Pacific's Attitude to the Hudson's Bay Railway.

MONTREAL, Nov. 20.—Sir Donald Smith informed a Witness reporter that though he had no desire to re-enter political life he had been repeatedly urged by friends to stand for Winnipeg in the House of Commons, and his mind was not made up. "Had the request," he said, "come from one side of politics, I should not have considered it. If I come forward at all it will be as an entirely Independent Conservative."

Asked as to the Hudson's Bay Railway the Canadian Pacific magnate answered: "I do not regard the project as commercially practicable; yet no one would more rejoice to see it succeed. Before I left England Mr. Sutherland told me he understood this company would strongly oppose the project. Knowing the minds of the directors I assured him that the C.P.R. was not hostile and would offer no factious opposition. At his request I put this statement in writing."

THE LIBERAL COMMONS CANDIDATE.

As will be seen from the report of the meeting of the Liberals of the West Riding held in the old Music Hall on Saturday afternoon, Mr. Geo. A. Cox, has accepted the nomination for the candidature of the West Riding and that his nomination was unanimously and enthusiastically confirmed. In accepting this nomination, under the circumstances, it will be seen that Mr. Cox is making a great sacrifice. No one can say that any personal self-seeking, any desire for personal advantage, influences his action. If any man ever entered a political contest out of pure patriotism, it is Mr. George A. Cox on the present occasion. Sinking all considerations of personal interest, he enters the contest in order to seek to secure to this riding and the country the great and manifest blessings resulting from the triumph of Liberal principles, and the consequent application of honest and pure administration to the affairs of the country. In Mr. Cox the Liberals of the West Riding have a candidate of whom they may be proud. He is a successful man, one who from small beginnings has risen to the present high position he occupies. While he has risen himself, it has been with him an object closely allied with his own advancement, that the town with which he has cast his lot, should be benefitted. He has always worked hard and persistently for the good of the town, and to no one man as much as Mr. Cox does Peterborough owe so largely its present proud position as the foremost town in Canada. On every side we see material evidences in beautiful public and private buildings of his energy enterprise and public spirit. For the past quarter of a century the town has been enjoying the benefit of his enterprise. He has always been foremost, both with influence and means, in every enterprise tending to the material and moral improvement of the town and the citizens thereof. It is to be expected that twenty five years of success would arouse in some quarters envious feelings, and, at the present time Mr. Cox's political opponents are industriously engaged in aspersing his record and inventing and applying to him the most improbable calumnies. Recognising his strength, his opponents will use every effort to injure his popularity and the public should receive with caution the stories they hear to his disadvantage. This policy has already been acted upon and the enemy are diligently circulating reports as to Mr. Cox's decreasing popularity. With them the wish is father to the thought. They feel how heavily they are handicapped in a square, fair race. The friends of Mr. Cox's candidature should be prepared to meet and repel this puerile mode of attack. But Mr. Cox's personal fitness for the position of a representative is not his only recommendation. As the candidate of the party pledged, both by its past record and by its principles to honest administration of our public affairs, he is worthy of the support of every elector who is willing to place the good of his country before the advancement of his party. Every Canadian must see that, under the present rule, the country is going wrong. With waste, extravagance, and corrupt expenditure in every department of the public service; with the public resources wasted to reward a corrupt following for their servile support; with the highest rate of taxation ever imposed, insufficient, under extravagant expenditure, to prevent the largest deficits ever known in the history of the country, it is high time that the people awoke to the necessity of a change; and the only way of putting a stop to this state of affairs is to elect men who are pledged to restore honest and capable administration. In Mr. George A. Cox the electors have each a man, and it is to be hoped that every loyal citizen in West Peterborough will rally to his support, and, in securing his triumphant return, assist in promoting the highest interests of the country. He is now in the field, and from this day forth he has a claim on every effort his friends can make, to promote the success of his candidature. He is a strong candidate, but his very strength will arouse his opponents to greater exertion. Let the friends of good government, honest administration, and material and moral reform, unitedly, meet their assaults, and unitedly labor for Mr. Cox, as the Liberal standard-bearer, and his election is a moral certainty.

Two farmers met on George street Saturday afternoon, and, after the usual salutations, one said to the other, "Are you still farming?" "Yes,—on a small scale; farming doesn't pay very well now-a-days." The other replied, "No, indeed, it don't pay; and have you noticed how many auctions sales the farmers are having this fall?" and he proceeded to enumerate half a dozen or so in his immediate neighborhood, stating that the prices were very low. "Yes," said his brother farmer, "and wheat is so awful low, too. I don't see how my farm is going to be made pay." There is a hint in this for Sir John Macdonald. In 1878 he struck upon a nostrum that was guaranteed to raise and keep raised the prices of farmers' produce. It worked so successfully, as the above conversation would indicate, that the "Chieftain" should be encouraged to try his hand again, and see if a little strengthening of the dose will not improve the prices of farmers' produce, make farming pay better, and not have so many quitting the business.

THE Canada Presbyterian, a denominational, non-political journal says:—"We dwell in harmony. There are few Protestants in Ontario who cannot number among their best neighbors at least one Roman Catholic; and there are few Roman Catholics who would not number among their best friends several Protestants. Are neighbors living side by side in harmony and peace—doing business with each other every day—to take each other by the throat, at the bidding of every political ruffian, disguised or undisguised, who simply wants us to make votes for his party? We are, perhaps, on the eve of a general election, and we say "No," most emphatically, "no." And we believe the people of Ontario will say "no," and stamp out all such ruffianism."

The Tavernier Dramatic Company Close Their Engagement.

Saturday night's play, "The Private Secretary," closed the two weeks engagement of the Tavernier Dramatic Co. in Peterborough. The play is a roaring comedy, full of ludicrous incidents and absurd comicalities, with very little plot, depending more upon its humorous than dramatic force for public approval. It was presented to a crowed house Saturday night, and the audience was kept in almost continual laughter throughout. At the close of the performance the silver pitcher was presented to Mr. John Batcher, who possessed the lucky number—4860. No matinee was held Saturday, the audience being too small to warrant a performance, and consequently the doll and $5 gold piece were not given away. The Tavernier Company have gone to St. Catherines to fill a week's engagement, where, it is hoped by the manager, their efforts to please will better appreciated than they were at Peterborough. The old saying, "cheap and nasty," does not in the least apply to the company, who in making a reduction in prices in order to attract the public to really meritorious performances should meet with the pecuniary success they deserve. The Peterborough public were evidently not fully aware of the excellence of the company, or, it is safe to say, they would have turned out in larger force. As it was, however, the Tavernier Dramatic Company, though they did not leave town with a small fortune in their pocket, have left behind them a reputation which will stand them in good stead, should they again visit Peterborough.

California Bruisers Sent to Prison.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 13.—A ripple was created in pugilistic circles yesterday by a case in Alameda, before the superior court, in which two well-known local pugilists were concerned, Martin Costello, the "Buffalo," and Tom Cleary, convicted of felony for prize fighting, were sentenced, Cleary to three months in the state prison at Folsom, and Costello to six weeks in the state prison at San Quentin. The judge said the manner in which the men testified influenced him in sentencing them. Costello had evidently told the truth. He had testified that he did his best to knock Cleary out. He therefore sentenced him to only six weeks. Cleary had lied upon the stand, saying he was not knocked down, but lay down, so as to bring the fight to a close on account of the presence of the police. The judge therefore gave him a more severe sentence. This is the first time in the state that prize fighters have been convicted and sentenced.

What True Merit Will Do.

The unprecedented sale of Boschee's German Syrup within a few years has astonished the world. It is without doubt the safest and best remedy ever discovered for the speedy and effectual cure of Coughs, Colds and the severest Lung troubles. It acts on an entirely different principle from the usual prescriptions given by physicians, as it does not dry up a cough and leave the disease still in the system, but on the contrary removes the cause of the trouble, heals the parts affected, and leaves them in a purely healthy condition. A bottle kept in the house for use when the diseases make their appearance, will save doctor's bills and a long spell of serious illness. A trial will convince you of these facts. It is positively sold by all druggists and general dealers in the land. Price 75 cents, large bottles. eodw41tf

GOUGH'S LADDER TO FAME.

One Price and Square Dealing to All!

This week, the public will receive the benefit of an extraordinary LOW PURCHASE of SEASONABLE OVERCOATS and SUITS, and any intending purchaser will miss it, if they do not call and examine them. We are determined to be the Poor Man's Friend, and if in fulfilling this mission, we break the back bone of these High Price Clothiers, I am sorry, as I wish them no harm. But having inaugurated this in PETERBOROUGH, I must bow to the line, let the chips fall where they may. On account of my Extremely Low Prices, some people are very skeptical, and designing dealers will tell them that My Goods are Shoddy, etc. Well, be this as it may, I only ask the public to praise me as they prove me, and in the face of this, I boldly make the assertion, that My Stock for Superiority in Texture and Make, surpasses anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one Store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this, and prove the assertion, if they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to all, I will ascend the Hill of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. Always keep in mind, that the man who does as he ADVERTISES, and Refunds the Money if Goods are not Satisfactory, is GOUGH, THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN.

LOW PRICE AND ONE PRICE SYSTEM

The Evil Genius.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

V.

The members of the family at Mount Morven consulted together, before Sydney Westerfield was informed of her brother's disappearance and of her mother's death.

Speaking first, as master of the house, Herbert Linley offered his opinion without hesitation. His impulsive kindness shrank from the prospect of reviving the melancholy recollections associated with Sydney's domestic life. "Why distress the poor child, just as she is beginning to feel happy among us?" he asked. "Give me the newspaper; I shan't feel easy till I have torn it up."

His wife drew the newspaper out of his reach. "Wait a little," she said, quietly; "some of us may feel that it is no part of our duty to conceal the truth."

Mrs. Presty spoke next. The surprise of the family council, she agreed with her son-in-law.

"Somebody must speak out," the old lady began, "and I mean to set the example. Telling the truth," she declared, turning severely to her daughter "is a more complicated affair than you seem to think. It's a question of morality, of course; but—in family circles, my dear—it's sometimes a question of convenience as well. Is it convenient to upset my grand-daughter's governess just as she is entering on her new duties? Certainly not! Good heavens! what does it matter to my young friend Sydney whether her unnatural mother lives or dies? Herbert, I second your proposal to tear up the paper with the greatest pleasure."

Herbert, sitting next to Randal, laid his hand affectionately on his brother's shoulder. "Are you on our side?" he asked. Randal hesitated. "Always the same," said good-humored Herbert. "Randal never knows his own mind."

This was the view generally taken of the younger brother's character. Relatives and friends never discovered that Randal Linley was one of those rare persons who possess an evenly balanced mind. A sensitive man in temperament, the impulses to which he was subject were held habitually in check by the sense of justice, which was the predominant sense in his moral nature. The result, looking at the surface only, produced an appearance of indecision, which was a false appearance in the strictest sense of the word.

"I feel inclined to agree with you," he said to Herbert. "It does seem hard to recall Miss Westerfield to the miserable life that she has led, and to do it in the way of all others which must try her fortitude most cruelly. At the same time——"

"Oh, don't spoil what you have said by seeing the other side of the question!" cried his bro her. "You have put it admirably; leave it as it is."

"At the same time," Randal gently persisted, "I have heard no reasons which satisfy me that we have a right to keep Miss Westerfield in ignorance of what has happened."

This serious view of the question in debate highly diverted Mrs. Presty. "I do like that man," she announced, pointing to Randal; "he always amuses me. Look at him now! He doesn't know which side he is on, himself."

"He is on my side," Herbert declared.

"Not he!"

Herbert consulted his brother. "What do you say yourself?"

"I don't know," Randal answered.

"There!" cried Mrs. Presty, "what did I tell you?"

Randal tried to set his strange reply in the right light. "I only mean," he explained, "that I want a little time to think."

Herbert gave up the dispute and appealed to his wife. "You have still got the American newspaper in your hand," he said. "What do you mean to do with it?"

Quietly and firmly Mrs. Linley answered: "I mean to show it to Miss Westerfield."

"Against my opinion? Against your mother's opinion?" Herbert asked. "Have we no influence over you? Do as Randal does—take time, my dear, to think."

She answered this with her customary calmness of manner and sweetness of tone. "I am afraid I must appear obstinate; but it is indeed true that I want no time to think; m. Any is too plain to me."

Her husband and her mother listened to her in astonishment. Too amiable and too happy—and it must be added too indolent—to assert herself in the ordinary emergencies of family life, Mrs. Linley only showed of what metal she was made on the very rare occasions when the latent firmness in her nature was stirred to its innermost depths. The general experience of this sweet-tempered and delightful woman, ranging over long intervals of time, was the only experience which remained in the memories of the persons about her. In bygone days they had been amazed when her unexpected readiness and promptness of decision presented an exception to a general rule—just as they were amazed now.

Herbert tried a last remonstrance. "Is it possible, Catherine, that you don't see the cruelty of showing that newspaper to Miss Westerfield?"

Even this appeal to Mrs. Linley's sympathies failed to shake her resolution. "You may trust me to be careful," was all she said in reply; "I shall prepare her as tenderly for the sad news from America as if she was a daughter of my own."

Hearing this, Mrs. Presty showed a sudden interest in the proceedings. "When do you mean to begin?" she asked.

"At once, mamma."

Mrs. Presty broke up the meeting on the spot. "Wait till I am out of the way," she stipulated. "Do you object to Herbert giving me his arm? Distressing scenes are not in his way or in mine."

Mrs. Linley made no objection. Herbert resigned himself (not at all unwillingly) to circumstances. Arm in arm he and his wife's mother left the room.

Randal showed no intention of following them; he had given himself time to think. "We are all wrong, Catherine," he said; "and you alone are right. What can I do to help you?"

Mis-tress his hand gratefully. "Always kind! Always thinking of yourself! I will go like Wegtherfield in my own room. Wait here, in case I want you."

After a much shorter absence than Randal anticipated, Mrs. Linley returned. "She is been very distressing!" he said, seeing the traces of tears in her eyes.

"There are noble qualities," she answered, "in that poor ill-used girl. Her one thought, as soon as she began to understand my motive in speaking to her, was not for herself, but for me. Even you, a man, must have felt the tears in your eyes, if you had heard her promise that I should suffer no further anxiety on her account. 'You shall see no distressing change in me,' she said, 'when we meet to-morrow.' All she asked was to be left in her room for the rest of the day. I feel sure of her resolution to control herself; and yet I should like to encourage her if I can. Her chief sorrow (as it seems to me) must be—not for the mother who has so shamefully neglected her—but for the poor little brother, a castaway, lost in a strange land. Can we do nothing to relieve her anxiety?"

"I can write," Randal said, "to a man whom I know in New York; a lawyer in large practice."

"The very person we want! Write—pray write by to-day's post!"

The letter was dispatched. It was decided—and wisely decided, as the result proved—to say nothing to Sydney until the answer was received. Randal's correspondence was back with as little delay as possible. He had made every inquiry, without success. Not a trace of the boy had been found, or (in the opinion of the police) was likely to be found. The one event that had happened, since the appearance of the paragraph in the New York journal, was the confinement of James Bellbridge in an asylum as a madman under restraint without hope of recovery.

Mr. Cox Accepts.

THE Unionist Reformers of the Liberal-Conservative of the West Riding—Large Meeting of the Electors in the Old Music Hall—Stirring Addresses.

On Saturday afternoon a large and influential gathering, comprising the bone and sinew of the Liberal party of the west riding, assembled in the old Music Hall to receive Mr. Cox's decision as to his candidature for the House of Commons in the approaching elections. Melville Millar, Esq., occupied the chair.

MR. COX, who had had the unanimous nomination at the previous meeting, then made a brief address, accepting the nomination, though at a great sacrifice of personal and business interests. If he could only feel that he had the united support of the Reform party at his back, he was prepared to stand. The enthusiastic applause that greeted the speaker at this point left no doubt that he would have the united enthusiastic and energetic support of the party. He had, he continued, the assurance of support from a number of Conservatives. Outsiders would be better able to judge of his chances than he could himself. The stories his opponents had started about his decreasing popularity he did not take much stock in. In canvassing a little he had found that his Reform friends were with him. If any were against him, this was the time and place to state it. He had found more of the Conservative party who from personal and other grounds, had tendered him their support, than of their own friends who had expressed dissatisfaction at his candidature. If he did enter upon the contest, everything he could do would be done. Mr. Cox retired amid applause.

MR. J. R. STRATTON being called on for a short address, was loudly cheered. He said he had not come that afternoon intending to address the electors at any length. He came hoping to hear that Mr. Cox had accepted the nomination. He was glad to see in the hall men whose hair had grown gray in the service. He believed that with their valuable assistance he was going to carry the Riding. (Cheers.) He believed there were many young men in town who were only divided from him by party feeling. He had been canvassing the town more closely than it had ever been canvassed before, and he had every reason to believe he was going to be returned for this riding. All he asked in this contest was a fair field and no favors from his opponents. He asked the old men to put their shoulders to the wheel and come out on election day and help him to win. He hoped that on the 28th of December the Reformers of the west Peterborough would be able to say they had redeemed the riding. He believed that Mr. Cox could carry this riding, with the support of all his friends. He had canvassed the suburbs, and there was this tale and that tale going about Mr. Cox, which have been started, not by his Reform friends, but by his opponents. He (the speaker) was not very old, but he had the pleasure to be intimately acquainted with Mr. Cox for a number of years, and he believed his heart was in the right place. Mr. Stratton closed by appealing to the Reformers in the audience for their united support in the coming campaign.

MR. JOHN BERTRAM, in opening his address, referred to some remarks made by the chairman regarding the story that he (Mr. Bertram) had joined the Tory party. He was never yet afraid or ashamed to state his political views, and said here he was a Liberal, and so much of a Liberal that, should any one of the Liberal party do anything that he was prepared to condemn, he would put his foot on it. He was not going to say right was wrong or wrong was right for any man. Mr. Cox was a prohibitionist, and he honored him for the position he took, but because he (the speaker) differed from Mr. Cox on that one point, he was not going to say he would not support him. There were some things the Liberal party had done which he thought would be better undone, but because of that he would not leave it. There were two great parties in this country, between which all must choose. There is some difference of opinion betwixt the two now. In speaking of the two candidates for the Local House, he said it would be utterly impossible for him, as an elector, as an individual, to vote for Mr. Carnegie. Why? One reason was because he was one of the most bitter, determined political partisans he knew of, and that he did not believe in. With regard to the candidature of Mr. Cox, he believed he would make a good representative. Some of their opinions might differ, but in the general trend they were the same. The speaker then dwelt briefly upon the leading political questions of the day, and urged those present to bring their minds to bear upon the state of public affairs, to vote conscientiously, and concluded by heartily endorsing the candidature of Mr. Stratton and Mr. Cox, and urged the electors to give them their hearty support.

MR. D. W. DUMBLE opened his address by saying that he had been long enough out of politics to grow calm, and when he looked back at the way in which the Conservatives governed this country; when he looked at the two parties—at our own government at Toronto, careful, cautious, economical, honest; and then at the Ottawa government—lavishly extravagant, their plundering of the public chest, and their corruption, he wondered that men in Ontario, loyal and true men in this province, could see it any other way. Mr. Dumble spoke of the corrupt deals and jobbery of the Conservative government, and other prominent subjects. In referring to the candidates, he said in Mr. Stratton they had a young man who was far ahead of Mr. Carnegie—who had a record to make and would work for it. He was entitled to the support of all Reformers of this riding. As to Mr. Cox, there was not another man in this riding better able to represent it in parliament. If any one wants to hear of Mr. Cox, let him go away from home. His name was known far and wide. He had done more for Peterborough than any other man, and his interests were identical with those of the town. In conclusion he urged the Liberals to get to work at once, and do their best at the approaching elections.

MR. COX again briefly addressed the electors present, stating that he had hoped that something would turn up which would relieve him from this onerous position,—that somebody better qualified would accept the position. He had said no a thousand times in the last few years to all proposals of this kind, but it so did not seem to carry decision to the minds of the people. He felt that he was making a sacrifice he should not make; but having decided to accept the nomination, he had also decided to carry this riding for the Reform party. The result of his canvass the last week confirmed his belief that he could divide this town. Five times had he appealed to the electors of the town—twice in a parliamentary contest and three times in a mayoralty campaign—and only once had he been defeated, and then by a single vote. He had repeated assurances of support from gentlemen he knew meant what they said. They had told him they would give him their support on personal grounds. He came into the contest in the firm belief that he was going to win. What he undertook he undertook with his whole mind. He entered the contest not thinking of anything like failure. In referring to the frequent stories in circulation about his declining health, he said the fact was [illegible]. In a business career of 25 years, he defied any man to prove that he had wronged him of a single dollar. The idea of his being an oppressor of the poor was one of the [illegible] was his friend, himself being the son of a poor man. He defied anyone to say the wages he paid were not fully up to the standard. Those [illegible] man in this town will say [illegible] to help and support him, and to know these people would [illegible] him polling day. He did not [illegible] of [illegible] against his opponent—the contest should be carried on in the most friendly manner, but he wanted his opponents and his followers to treat his record as it deserved, and if reports are circulated about him that were unfounded, he would repeat them. It was largely because of these stories that the electors found him in the field to-day. He felt called upon to remain them, and was determined to leave the matter with the electors for their decision. But before his election came on they had to carry Mr. Stratton's campaign to a triumphant result, and when that is done the contest in the following January for the House of Commons will be virtually decided. He hoped they would go at once to work earnestly. He had once been defeated by a single vote, consequently every vote should be polled. He promised to do his very best to bring his own nomination to a successful issue.

The meeting was brought to a close by three cheers each for Mr. Cox, Mr. Stratton and the Queen.

JUSTIN McCARTHY—Nov. 25th.

The Hand of Death

Places Its Cold Grasp on a Prominent and Well-Known Citizen.

Yesterday morning Wm. Tassie, LL.D., headmaster of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, was suddenly stricken down with heart disease, and in a few hours was no more. The unfortunate gentleman was in apparent good health on first rising in the morning, but while sitting on a chair a few minutes afterwards, was seized with a spasm and fell to the floor. He was quickly returned to the bed and Dr. Burnham summoned, who, after doing all in his power to alleviate the pain, left him in the hope that all would be well. About 11.30 Dr. Tassie was again stricken down, and was in the last throes of agony on the arrival of Drs. Burnham and Halliday, who could do nothing to relieve him. He passed away in a few moments, leaving a faithful wife to mourn his loss.

Deceased came to Peterborough from Toronto, where he managed a private school, two years ago last September, and since his stay here has identified himself with the educational interests of the town. He was formerly head-master of Galt Collegiate Institute, in which school he has had the pleasure of teaching some of the now most prominent men of the country. His nephews, Wm. Tassie, of Toronto, Alex. Tassie, of London, and a Mr. Eager, of Barlington, are in town. The remains will be taken to Nelson, near Hamilton, where deceased's father is buried, via the 8 a.m. C. P. R. train to-morrow. Dr. Tassie was well known over the whole province, and the numerous consolatory telegrams the bereaved wife has received to-day from Ottawa, Toronto, and other cities, testify to the esteem in which he was held. The whole town of Peterborough will mourn his loss.

Personal.

Mr. John Wilson, street and bridge inspector, is seriously ill.

German Measles at Halifax.

HALIFAX, Nov. 21.—Two cases of contagious disease developed on the passage of the steamer Sardinian which arrived from Liverpool this afternoon. Dr. Wickwire, medical officer of the port pronounced the disease as German measles and not a serious malady. The sufferers are two small children in the steerage. They were placed in the hospital. None of the other steerage passengers showed symptoms of the disease but it is considered not improbable that it will develop in some of them in due time.

Chicago's Sunday Tragedy.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—A revolting double tragedy occurred in a tenement house on North Ashland avenue this afternoon. Mrs. Emma Smith, 19 years old and only recently married, was shot dead by Charles Gregor, a dissipated bartender whose advances she refused. Gregor committed suicide.

Cargo of Cotton Consumed.

ST. JOHN, Nfld., Nov. 21.—The steamship Barrowmore, which left Baltimore Nov. 15 cotton laden for Liverpool, has arrived here. The vessel's cargo took fire Friday last and will be totally destroyed. The hull of the ship is not materially damaged. There are 300 head of cattle on board.

Sank as She Reached the Shore.

ST. JOHN, Nfld., Nov. 22.—The direct northern mail steamer Hercules while passing through the Western Tickle, near Fogo, Notre Dame Bay, struck the sunken steamship Summerside. She proceeded towards Bean's rock, fast filling and with all her fires out but one, and reached Fogo with ten feet of water in her hold. She barely reached the shore when she sank.

Vinegar Works at Belleville Burned.

BELLEVILLE, Nov. 22.—Moody & Co.'s vinegar works on Dundas-street were destroyed by fire this morning. Loss on stock rather greater than the insurance, which amounted to $4,350. The building and machinery were owned by D. R. Leavens and valued at $1,000; insured for $3,000.

Reconstruction of the German Army.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The full scheme of army reconstruction includes increased field artillery, a new regiment of siege artillery, with a contingent of engineers, and augmented divisions of cavalry and horse artillery. Associated with these changes are projects fixing the limits of service in each grade and a revised scheme of promotion.

Other Overseas Markets.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's from leading trade centres throughout the country show a moderate gain in the volume and distribution in a few lines of staples, noticeably in dry goods. The primary cause is the arrival of cold weather, and seasonable goods are in more active demand with the practical settlement of the packing houses strike at Chicago. News is received of the threatened strike of 20,000 Fall River spinners, who demand the restoration of the 1884 rate of wages. No advance has been made in eastern pig iron prices, but the market is very firm and $20 for No. IX. is looked for at St. Louis, and Pittsburg prices are advancing and are relatively higher than at New York. At Boston and New York dry goods jobbers report trade dull but with no accumulation of stocks. A few additional makes of cotton have been advanced in price. Wheat has been a little [illegible] and more active, but prices are still below the level anticipated, owing to the enormous stocks in sight and heavy receipts. Exports continue quite large.

Four Miners Frightfully Burned.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Pa., Nov. 22.—A terrible explosion occurred in a burning Standard coal mine this morning. The explosion occurred in what is called the "gas heading," and has been feared ever since the mine took fire. The miners all got out without injury except four, who were frightfully burned.

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 30c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 30 per cent higher.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines.—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.

GENTLEMEN.—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spermicleus trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child under 2 years of age, and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Why

Will people pay rent when houses and lots can be purchased on such easy terms as are offered by the undersigned, come and inspect our work and see for yourselves how we construct our houses. Our chief aim and study is to build substantial, warm, frost and damp proof houses. I am offering good building lots, and will build solid brick houses, nine-inch walls, stripped and lathed, two stories, for less money than you can buy frame or veneered buildings. We cordially invite those who anticipate erecting or buying to inspect our work and prove for themselves that our houses are not merely built to sell. Every house I've sold gives first-class satisfaction, and I am determined that every house I build shall be a standing testimony to honest building. JOHN CARLISLE. BOODLERS CONFESS.

THE STORY OF THE BROADWAY STEAL TOLD IN COURT.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—One of the greatest sensations in connection with the case of the boodle aldermen took place in court yesterday. The trial of ex-Ald. McQuade, one of the principals in the Broadway steal, has been proceeding for several days before Recorder Smyth and a special jury. There have been rumors that interesting revelations might be expected, and the court room has been daily crowded. But a regular bombshell was thrown into the aldermanic camp to-day when one of the indicted members of the boodle board gave the whole snap away.

The informer was ex-Ald. Fullgraff. He testified that he was at a special meeting of the Board of Aldermen held in May, 1884. It was agreed among them that it was necessary for a majority of the Board to unite for the purpose of dealing with any business transactions or affairs that might come before the Board. Another meeting was held a week after at witness' office after his men had gone home. It was after six o'clock. The meeting was held in May before the passage of the Broadway railway bill. There were thirteen members of the Board present, including defendant, McLoughlin, Kinney, Sayles, Waite, McCabe, Duffy, Jachne and three others. It was agreed to vote together on anything of a business nature. Thirteen was a majority of the board. Nothing was said about the Broadway Railroad. The next meeting of the thirteen was at McLoughlin's house; McLoughlin was chairman. The first business discussed was the Broadway Railroad franchise; it was stated two other companies applied for the franchise; it was stated that one company, the cable road, had offered $750,000 for the franchise, one-half cash, one-half bonds. The Broadway Surface Railroad had offered $500,000 cash for the franchise. Witness thought Jeachne said it would not be advisable to accept the Cable Company's offer, because the company was not reliable; that it would be better to give it to the Broadway Railway for $500,000 cash. A vote was taken and it was unanimously decided to give it to the Broadway Railroad. Twenty-two thousand dollars was to be given each member. There was another meeting at McLoughlin's house, at which twelve were present. The question came up who should be appointed to receive and distribute the money. McCabe suggested Moloney, as he was used to the business. Duffy proposed Keenan. Some one thought Moloney could not be trusted with so much money, and Keenan was unanimously agreed on. Some one said Keenan would like them to let him know when it was all right. It was also arranged that Moloney [illegible] other votes in order that the resolution might be passed over the veto. All [illegible] took place before Aug. 1. There was another meeting of the thirteen at McLoughlin's in relation to the subject of overriding the Mayor's veto, at which most of the talking was done by Jachne and DeLacy. The majority of them, however, talked on the subject. It was stated that more votes would have to be obtained to pass the resolution over the Mayor's veto, that money would be required for that purpose, and accordingly it was received that each member of the thirteen should receive $22,000 instead of $22,000, as previously arranged. The witness then told of his meeting with Moloney and of his signing the call for the special meeting. After meeting Moloney he went to Twomey's house, and from there to his office, when he proceeded about 2.30 o'clock to the City Hall, where the special meeting of the Common Council was held.

Fullgraff's evidence caused an immense sensation. He spoke in a very low tone but every word was eagerly taken in by the crowd present that thronged the court room. The defendant McQuade had an excitable conference with his counsel, Mr. Newcombe, and then the latter rose to cross-examine the witness. Mr. Newcombe read some of the witness's testimony before the Senate Committee as to when he first heard of the alleged bribery and asked him if the answer given by him then was true. The witness said it was true as were also the answers given by him to-day. On further cross-examination Fullgraff freely, but somewhat shamefacedly admitted the falsity of some of his testimony before the Senate Committee and acknowledged that he had before that committee deliberately committed perjury. Mr. Newcombe read parts of the witness's testimony before the Senate Committee, and over and over again compelled him to acknowledge that he then committed perjury, and that he had done so knowingly and deliberately.

The trial was continued to-day, when ex-Ald. Duffy also turned state's evidence, his story being much the same as Fullgraff's, only his memory was somewhat defective. When asked why he turned State's evidence, Duffy replied: "I have a wife and two children, and I felt that this was a load on my conscience and on their heads. I never was in any such thing before and I was drawn into it like a fool. I came to the conclusion that the best thing I could do was to tell the truth; and I am here to-day to tell the truth."

Witnesses to prove the prisoner's good reputation and to show that he has for years been in well-to-do circumstances were examined. McQuade was given a good character and it was shown that his deposits in bank were generally from $20,000 to $25,000.

Ex-Ald. John O'Neill was called for the defence. He is one of the accused boodlers. He denied having one of the members of the "combine" denied attending any caucus of the members in the Aldermanic chamber; denied attending the meeting at Fullgraff's office; did not remember attending any meeting at McLoughlin's; never attended any meeting for the purpose of "combine" or [illegible] never attended a meeting where Moloney presided. He did not remember attending a meeting at which an [illegible] was given to Moloney to [illegible] Broadway Railroad franchise. He never received any money from the Broadway Company or any other gang was disappointed.

Ex-Ald. Reilly, O'Neill and Keenan were arraigned before Recorder Smyth this afternoon. Reilly's trial was fixed for December 2, and it was ordered that those of the other two defendants should follow consecutively.

William Jachne was indicted [illegible] Fullgraff and Duffy had testified [illegible] such capacity. Jachne was [illegible] their position.

DAVITT IN DANGER.

An Alleged Plot to Kill the "Father of the Land League."

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The Herald says: The announcement in a despatch from Detroit that there was a conspiracy on foot to kill Michael Davitt because of his opposition to the measures proposed by revolutionary Irishmen, created considerable comment in Irish-American circles in this city. The threats against the life of the one-armed patriot were talked over yesterday at the meeting of the Irish National League. While the members of the league were not inclined to say anything to outsiders about Davitt or his affairs, a fair idea of the trouble was gleaned from other and reliable sources. According to this story, it seems that Mr. Davitt when he denounced the Phœnix Park (Dublin) "removals," four years ago, became involved with former friends. Since then the gap has been widening, and the suspicion has gone forth that he could not be relied upon, and that he had become mysteriously wealthy. These stories, whether true or false, had a bad effect in the Western country, where they were widely circulated.

Davitt, during his present trip, has been badly received in several places. The circulation of a story which found its way into the newspapers stating that he was constantly shadowed by English detectives, who were taking notes of his speeches, ostensibly to use against him when he returned to Ireland, has been looked upon as a sort of deception. These and other little circumstances which have found their way into print, have tended to create a feeling of a serious nature against Davitt. Then it was also remarked that he had become a more pronounced advocate of parliamentary methods than even Parnell, and this was certainly a strange change for a man who had always before been looked upon as an extremist. While Davitt was love-making at Oakland, Cal., and was capturing the heart of an heiress, he did not offend any one, but when he mounted the lecture platforms and denounced "deeds of desperation," on more than one occasion he was hissed. At Helena, Mon., quite recently, he came near being mobbed, and in Nebraska the trouble was aggravated. Some violent articles have also appeared against him in Irish newspapers.

NO MONEY FOR SALARIES.

New Orleans City Officials Must Work During December Without Pay.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—The city authorities of New Orleans are worrying over the defective budget. The income of the city for the current year was based on an estimate of a large sum derived from the sale of the street railway franchises. These, however, have not yet been sold, and, as a consequence, the city finds itself in a financial straight, so far as payment of its officials for December are concerned. Mayor Guillotte says that he will recommend the suspension of all city officials during December—that is, as far as pay is concerned—and he expects that the men will submit to this. He says it is hard, but cannot be helped. The city is utterly unable to pay any except the most necessary and urgent expenses, such as feeding prisoners and horses and paying for hauling the garbage. The street and bridge gangs and city officials will have to work without pay. The city cannot create a floating debt, and unless they do this the men cannot be paid. The Mayor will have to lose his own salary, he says, and he is by no means a rich man. What the council will do he does not know, but he will certainly recommend the suspension of all employes. Most of them, he thinks, will work during December without pay, in order to retain their places. This affects only the city officials, clerks and administrators, the interest on the debt, fire, water and other municipal obligations being fully provided for.

EXTRADITION NOT NECESSARY.

An Italian Can be Tried at Home for Murder Committed in Another Country.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 21.—The mystery of the brutal murder of Guiseppe Davina, an Italian railroad laborer who was found on October 21, 1884, lying with his skull crushed in a ravine on the outskirts of Chester, Pa., was solved yesterday by an announcement of the arrest of a man in Italy, around whom Philadelphia officials have formed a strong chain of circumstantial evidence. A fellow laborer who had been seen with Davina before the murder and who suddenly disappeared was suspected of the murder. He was traced to New York, where he took steamer for Italy. The case was then reported to the Italian Consul, who communicated with the home authorities, and to-day Consul Galli notified Chief Kelly that Mavaciante Ciampi, the suspected man, was under arrest in Friganto. A watch and chain, identified as the property of Davina, were found in the prisoner's possession. Under the Italian law an Italian can be convicted and hanged in Italy for the murder of an Italian in a foreign country.

A GREAT STORM COMING.

Shall The World's Prediction of Yesterday be Verified?

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Signal Service states that a great storm is brewing, and predicts that by the middle of the week a gale of wind, and rain and snow accompanied by perhaps a zero fall in the thermometer, will arrive from the West and cross the lake with terrible vengeance, doing great damage to vessels out of port. The storm is raging in Central Nebraska to-day, and is travelling eastward at railroad speed. It will be here by Wednesday.

A Socialistic Labor Delegate.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Over fifty new delegates took seats in the Trades Assembly yesterday. Wm. R. Thompson, member of the Executive Committee of the Federal Trades of United States and Canada, gave notice that the first Congress of Federation would meet in Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 7, and that the assembly was entitled to one delegate. After a warm contest Edward Mulvaney, Socialist, was chosen, receiving 76 votes to 62 for George Schilling, Socialist.

Germany's Foreign Policy.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The National says that in the speech from the throne on the opening of the Reichstag, important declarations will be made with reference to Germany's foreign policy. Prince Bismarck will return to Berlin to take an active part in the debates. The Chancellor has sent to the Bundesrath a bill curtailing solicitors' charges, and a bill creating a School of Oriental Languages in Berlin.

Hawarden the Liberal Headquarters.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Mr. Gladstone has invited Mr. Morley, Earl Spencer and Earl Ripon to visit him during December before Parliament meets. Further meetings of Liberal leaders are likely to take place at Hawarden to discuss the various measures of the coming session. Mr. Gladstone's home is expected to be made a regular headquarters of the Opposition.

Crazy King Otto in Parachse.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—A story is current that King Otto of Bavaria having somewhat recovered from his attack of mania was permitted to walk outside the park of the Schloss-Furstenried, attended only by Captain Schubart, when an exciting scene occurred on the highway. Otto leaped upon Schubart, threw him down, and, falling himself on his knees in the roadway, crying that he was in paradise and that he would never return to Furstenried. It cost a painful struggle and a resort to force to get him safely back in the Schloss. He is now absolutely forbidden to go outside the grounds.

Labor Troubles at Ghent.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 22.—The Communal Council at Ghent has forbidden the striking cotton operatives there to hold a demonstration. Orders have been issued instructing the police to disperse all assemblages in the streets. The civic guard has been called out and the regular troops have been largely reinforced, and all are under orders to hold themselves in readiness for instant action. The most intense excitement prevails. Large numbers of workmen are arriving at Ghent to take the places of the strikers in the factories. The masters have applied to the council for protection for the mills and the workers.

Murderous Horse Thieves.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 21.—A bloody tragedy occurred here about midnight. Marshal McGuire and Officer Henry attempted to arrest two horse thieves, Chas. Ross and "Kid" Johnson. Ross pulled a revolver and shot Henry through the heart and McGuire through the left lung. The horse thieves immediately mounted horses and escaped to the mountains. A sheriff's posse is in pursuit.

IN FAVOR OF PEACE.

Report of the Budget Committee of the Austrian Delegations.

PESTH, Nov. 22.—The Budget Committee of the Austrian delegation, in making its report on the foreign estimates, alludes to what it calls "the universal disapproval of Gen. Kaulbars' arbitrary interference compared with the wise and moderate attitude of the Bulgarians." Referring to the speeches made by Emperor Francis Joseph and Count Kalnoky on Austria's foreign relations, the committee declares that "the Austrians are ever ready to make any sacrifice when the honor of the monarchy has to be defended, but are grateful that they enjoy the blessings of peace."

The committee further says it rejoices over Count Kalnoky's statement that in foreign affairs the confidence [illegible] is justified by the clear and unselfish policy of the Government, and that it is grateful that [illegible]'s relations with Germany have been strengthened without affecting her friendly relations with Russia. Allusion is made to the accord and identity of interests between England and Austria in many important points, and reference is made to the fact that Austria expects to reach an understanding with Italy which will prove mutually advantageous and in the interest of peace.

The committee applauds and approves Count Kalnoky's efforts to amicably settle the questions pending with Russia and hopes they may succeed, and expresses confidence that Kalnoky will probably safeguard the interests of the monarchy.

The Triple Alliance Dead.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The fact that the Russians in Bulgaria have been placed under French protection is regarded in European capitals as signifying that the triple alliance is dead.

Nicholas Stands a Poor Chance.

VIENNA, Nov. 22.—Austrian diplomats and officials believe that the rupture between Russia and Bulgaria will facilitate a solution of the crisis in the Balkans. It is thought the Powers will disapprove of any precipitate action respecting the proposed election of Prince Nicholas of Mingrelia to the Bulgarian throne.

HOME AND FOREIGN.

A death has occurred at Brosiau from Asiatic cholera.

Gen. Kaulbars has arrived at Stamboul, and will remain there some days.

Hog cholera prevails near Urbana, Ohio. One farmer lost eighty hogs out of a herd of 200 from the disease.

SIR JOHN'S ONTARIO LIEUTENANT.

At the present time the electors of Ontario are being importuned to reject Hon. Mr. Mowat and install Mr. Meredith in his place. In point of ability, statesmanship and fitness to guide the destinies of the most important province of the Confederation, there is not room for a moment's comparison between Mr. Mowat and Mr. Meredith. In Mr. Mowat's favor we have his vastly superior ability and experience, his ability to strike out for himself an independent course of action and follow it, his persistent loyalty to the best interests of the province, and his unconquerable tenacity in resisting aggression against those interests. On the other hand we have Mr. Meredith with a fair share of ability, but without a single idea of action independent of Ottawa dictation. We all know how bitter, relentless and persistent have been Sir John's attacks upon the rights of Ontario; we all know how nobly Mr. Mowat opposed these attacks and how successfully he repulsed them. We all know how Mr. Meredith, turning his back upon the province he wishes now to have placed under his protection and guidance, not only did not resist Sir John's attempts, but traitorously joined forces with him and did all in his power to assist his Ottawa master in injuring the province of Ontario. Mr. Meredith now asks to be made ruler of Ontario. Have his sentiments undergone any change? Is he ready to mark out an independent and patriotic course of action in reference to the administration of the trust he seeks? Not in the least. Sir John, Ontario's bitterest enemy, speaking at Walkerton a few days ago, said:

"Mr. Meredith being at the head of Ontario will greatly strengthen the Government of which I am the head. I pray you don't neglect the Local elections."

There is no mistaking the meaning of these words, especially when Sir John has recently alluded to Mr. Meredith as his "lieutenant." They mean that the two are to work hand and glove together to carry out Sir John's political schemes. The word "lieutenant" in the idea of submission. There is no doubt that Mr. Meredith is prepared to go any length in yielding fealty to his superior political officer. This relation of Mr. Meredith to Sir John, is enough to condemn his candidature for Mr. Mowat's place. But there is another grave objection to making Mr Meredith premier of Ontario. He has no following of sufficient ability to make his cabinet strong enough to command respect. Possessing no backbone himself, he has no backing to assist in supporting a vacillating spine. In the last legislature his following was weak, not only in numbers but in ability and the indications are that his following in the next legislature will not be strengthened in either respect. The people of Ontario will long hesitate before they go back on Hon. Mr. Mowat, and fill his place, with Meredith, Lieutenant to Captain McDonald of Ottawa. "With Captain Macdonald at Ottawa and Lieutenant Meredith at Toronto, Ontario would probably have been about half her present size, with all the timber and minerals the property of someone else. Fortunately for that Province Mr. Mowat was not a lieutenant, but an opponent of Sir John's."

THE Toronto News after speaking well of Mr. Meredith's personal qualifications as leader of the Ontario Opposition, though it gives him credit with possessing little back bone or patriotism, refers to the weakness of his following in the Ontario legislature, as follows:—

"Meredith has a poor crowd at his back. I hear that Stratton, of Peterborough, is almost sure to defeat Carnegie, and one stick of Meredith's poor timber will be gone.

THE average "independent" in politics condemns all parties, and, in regard to the Dominion and Ontario Governments, asserts that they are "sixes." It is certainly "six of one and half a dozen of the other," but with a difference. While the Dominion Government has a deficit of about six millions, the Ontario Government has a surplus of about six millions. There you have it, honest elector. Think about it.

The parentage of joking.—It's a wise joke indeed that knows its own father.

MR. COX AND WEST PETERBOROUGH.

The following is from the Globe:—We have to congratulate the electors of West Peterborough, and particularly the Liberal electors, on Mr. Geo. A. Cox's acceptance of the Reform nomination for that constituency. The remarkable spontaneity and unanimity of the convention in requesting him to stand had the happy effect of overcoming a reluctance which we are well aware that he entertained. With very extensive business interests to watch over it was not possible for Mr. Cox to wish to enter the House, or to enter eagerly into an election contest. At the same time he is too good a citizen and too good a Liberal to back out of the candidature to which he has been called. The country urgently requires release from the gang of boodlers now misconducting its affairs, and it has a claim upon its best citizens which Mr. Cox has acknowledged by his self-sacrificing course. It is to be hoped that his example will be effective in inducing other such Liberals to place themselves unreservedly in the hands of their friends. Few can have stronger business reasons for wishing to remain in private life, and none who can unite every element of the Reform party to hold or redeem a constituency should hesitate to prefer the public service to their private interest.

No one will attempt to deny Mr. Cox's eminent services to Peterborough town and the country adjacent. His energy converted the Midland Railway from a broken down concern to a serviceable line of transportation, and the activity and enterprising appearance of Peterborough are largely due to his exertions and example. The local Liberals have done well in bringing him into the field, and we have every confidence that he will succeed in redeeming the constituency from the Boodlers.

TRIP ACROSS GREENLAND.

A U.S. Lieutenant Discovers a New Route for Arctic Explorers.

HALIFAX, Nov. 23.—Lieut. Pearcy, who has been on an expedition to Greenland for the purpose of satisfying himself of the feasibility of traveling across that country and thus opening a new route for Arctic explorers, arrived in Halifax to-day on his way home to the United States. Landing at a Danish settlement on the west coast of Greenland, he journeyed eastward for 100 miles over an unbroken field of snow, and then returned to the starting place. This was his principal journey, and he was accompanied on it by the Assistant Danish Governor, but he made several short ones alone. His observations and experience satisfied him that Greenland can be crossed over from west to east by future expeditions to the North Pole. On his hundred-mile trip Lieut. Pearcy and his companion had to travel on snowshoes and haul the sleds containing their provisions themselves, the snow being too soft for dogs. They experienced no hardships, and returned to the coast in good condition. One hundred miles inland the elevation above the sea was found to be 7500 feet.

A K. of L. Candidate for Kent.

CHATHAM, Nov. 22.—The Reform Convention unanimously nominated Archibald Campbell as its candidate to represent the County of Kent in the Dominion Parliament. Before accepting he said he was already the nominee of the Knights of Labor, and if there was anything in their platform that the Reformers would not heartily support, he requested that they should make another choice, as he intended to represent the K. of L. principles. After reading the constitution of that body (which was fully endorsed by the convention) he was chosen amidst vociferous cheering.

Sunday Work on the Welland Canal.

ST. CATHARINES, Nov. 22.—The meeting held in the city recently at the instigation of some ministers respecting the employes of the Welland Canal and others working on Sunday led the Chief of Police to send a constable out on Sunday along the line of the Welland Canal from Lock 10 down to Port Dalhousie, to take the names of those engaged at work. The constable took the names of twenty lock-tenders, and summonses will be issued against them for desecrating the Sabbath. The men say they will resist the payment of any fine that may be imposed.

An Imposing Widow and a Diminutive Man.

HALIFAX, Nov. 22.—John Hall, alias Sparks, was to-day committed by the City Stipendiary for trial on a charge of bigamy. Hall is a diminutive specimen of humanity and is 68 years old. His second wife is an imposing looking widow of middle age, named Mary Patterson, and she gave up a situation as stewardess on the Allan steamer Carthagonian to marry Hall, who was known to her as Sparks.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefitted the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with Green's August Flower and Boschee's German Syrup, as the reduction of thirty six cents per dozen has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The August Flower for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, and the German Syrup for Cough and Lung troubles have, perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10c. remain in the same size. eodw41tf

GOUGH'S LADDER TO FAME.

One Price and Square Dealing to All!

This week, the public will receive the benefit of an extraordinary LOW PURCHASE of SEASONABLE OVERCOATS and SUITS, and any intending purchaser will miss it, if they do not call and examine them. We are determined to be the Poor Man's Friend, and if in fulfilling this mission, we break the back bone of those High Price Clothiers, I am sorry, as I wish them no harm. But having inaugurated this in PETERBOROUGH, I must bow to the line, let the chips fall where they may. On account of my Extremely Low Prices, some people are very skeptical, and designing dealers will tell them that My Goods are Shoddy, etc. Well, be this as it may, I only ask the public to praise me as they prove me, and in the face of this, I boldly make the assertion, that My Stock for Superiority in Texture and Make, surpasses anything in the County of Peterborough, and is only equalled by one Store in Toronto, and surpassed by none in Canada. I defy any man to contradict this, and prove the assertion, if they do, I will forfeit $1,000. Remember, by One Price and Square Dealing to all, I will ascend the Hill of Fame, and as I do, I assure those who help me, that I never wish to meet them coming down. Always keep in mind, that the man who does as he ADVERTISES, and Refunds the Money if Goods are not Satisfactory, is GOUGH, THE WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN.

LOW PRICE AND ONE PRICE SYSTEM

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

Some will have it that the Scott Act is a failure; others protest that it is not. This point we do not intend to argue, but hold that each is a failure to protect the body against the coming blizzards without Furs. So variable are the opinions of people, that some, attracted by cheap Excursions, try Toronto for good bargains, and in general are sold. But others of good judgment, and understanding the real value of come from such places as Toronto, Rochester, Chicago and Winnipeg to get their wants supplied from our manufacture, and are thereby the gainers. We sell better goods at retail prices than can be bought at wholesale. Highest prices paid for raw furs.

A DOMESTIC STORY.

BY WILKIE COLLINS.

VI.

Mrs. Presty had not very seriously exaggerated the truth, when she described her much-indulged granddaughter as "a child who had never been accustomed to wait for anything since the day when she was born."

Governesses in general would have found it no easy matter to produce a favorable impression on Kitty, and to exert the necessary authority in instructing her, at the same time. Spoilt children (whatever moralists may say to the contrary) are companionable and affectionate children, for the most part—except when they encounter the unfortunate persons employed to introduce them to useful knowledge. Mr. and Mrs. Linley (guiltily conscious of having been too fond of their only child to subject her to any sort of discipline) were not very willing to contemplate the prospect before Miss Westerfield on her first establishment in the school-room. To their surprise and relief there proved to be no cause for anxiety after all. Without making an attempt to assert her authority, the new governess succeeded nevertheless when older and wiser women would have failed.

The secret of Sydney's triumph over adverse circumstances lay hidden in Sydney herself.

Everything in the ordinary routine of life at Mount Morven was a source of delight and surprise to the unfortunate creature who had passed through six years of cruelty, insult, and privation at her aunt's school. Look where she might, in her new sphere of action, she saw pleasant faces and heard kind words. At meal-times wonderful achievements in the art of cookery appeared on the table which she had not only never tasted, but never even heard of. When she went out walking with her pupil they were free to go where they pleased without restriction of time, except the time of dinner. To breathe the delicious air, to look at the glorious scenery, were enjoyments so exquisitely exhilarating that by Sydney's own confession she became quite lightheaded with pleasure. She ran races with Kitty, and nobody reproved her. She rested, out of breath, while the stronger child was ready to run on —and no merciless voice cried "None of your laziness; time's up!" Wild flowers that she had never yet seen might be gathered, and no offence was committed. Kitty told her the names of the flowers and the names of the summer insects that flashed and hummed in the hillside breeze; and was so elated at teaching her governess that her rampant spirits burst out in singing. "Your turn next," the joyous child cried, when she, too, was out of breath. "Sing, Sydney—sing!"

Alas for Sydney! She had not sung since those happiest days of her childhood, when her good father had told her fairy stories and taught her songs. They were all forgotten now. "I can't sing, Kitty; I can't sing." The pupil, hearing this melancholy confession, became governess once more. "Say the words, Syd, and hum the tune after me." They laughed over the singing lesson until the echoes of the hills mocked them, and laughed, too. Looking into the school-room one day Mrs. Linley found that the serious business of learning was not neglected. The lessons went on smoothly, without an obstacle in the way. Kitty was incapable of disappointing her friend and playfellow, who made learning easy with a smile and a kiss. The balance of authority was regulated to perfection in the lives of these two simple creatures. In the school-room the governess taught the child. Out of the school-room the child taught the governess. Division of labor was a principle in perfect working order at Mount Morven—and nobody suspected it! But, as the weeks followed each other, one more remarkable circumstance presented itself, which ever person in the household was equally quick to observe. The sad Sydney Westerfield, whom they all pitied, had now become the pretty Sydney Westerfield whom they all admired. It was not merely a change—it was a transformation. Kitty stole the handiness from her mother's room, and insisted that her governess should take it and look at herself. "Papa says you're as plump as a partridge, and mamma says you're as fresh as a rose, and Uncle Randal wags his head and tells them he saw it from the first. I heard it all when they thought I was playing with my doll—and I want to know, you best of nice girls, what you think of your own self?"

"I think, my dear, it's time we went on with our lessons."

"Wait a little, Syd; I have something else to say."

"What is it?"

"It's about papa. He goes out walking with us—doesn't he?"

"Yes."

"He didn't go out walking with me—before you came here. I've been thinking about it; and I'm sure papa likes you. What are you looking in the drawer for?"

"For your lesson-books, dear."

"Yes—but I haven't quite done yet. Papa talks a good deal to you, and you don't talk much to papa. Don't you like him?"

"Oh, Kitty!"

"Then you do like him?"

"How can I help liking him? I owe all my happiness to your papa."

"Do you like him better than mamma?"

"I should be very ungrateful if I liked anybody better than your mamma."

Kitty considered a little and shook her head. "I don't understand that," she declared, roundly. "What do you mean?"

Sydney cleaned the pupil's slate and set the pupil's sums, and said nothing. Kitty placed a suspicious construction of her own on her governess' sudden silence.

"Perhaps you don't like my asking questions?" she suggested. "Perhaps you meant to puzzle me?"

Sydney sighed and answered "I'm puzzled myself."

VII.

In the autumn holiday time friends in the south, who happened to be visiting Scotland, were invited to stop at Mount Morven on their way to the highlands, and were accustomed to meet the neighbours at the Linleys at dinner on their arrival. The time for this yearly festival had now come round again; the guests were at home; and Mr. and Mrs. Linley were occupied in making their arrangements for the dinner party. While she was reading out her cards of invitations, "Our table will be full at dinner," she said to her husband; "Miss Westerfield had better join us in the evening with Kitty."

"I suppose so," Linley answered with some hesitation.

"You seem to doubt it, Herbert. Why?"

"I was only wondering——"

"Wondering about what?"

"Has Miss Westerfield got a gown, Catherine, that will do for a party?"

Linley's wife looked at him as if she doubted the evidence of her own senses. "Fancy a man thinking of that!" she exclaimed. "Herbert, you astonish me."

He laughed uneasily. "I don't know how I came to think of it—unless it is that she wears the same dress every day. Very neat; but (perhaps I'm wrong) a little shabby, too."

"Upon my word, you pay Miss Westerfield a compliment which you have never paid to me! Wear what I may, you never seem to know how I am dressed."

"I beg your pardon, Catherine. I know that you are always dressed well."

That little tribute restored him to his place in his wife's estimation. "I may tell you now," she resumed, with her gentle smile, "that you only remind me of what I had thought of already. My milliner is at work for Miss Westerfield. The new dress must be your gift."

"Are you joking?"

"I am in earnest. To-morrow is Sydney's birthday; and here is my present." She opened a jeweler's case and took out a plain gold bracelet. "Suggested by Kitty," she added, pointing to an inlaid miniature portrait of the child. Herbert read the inscription: To Sydney Westerfield, with Cathe rine Linley's love. He gave the bracelet back to his wife in silence; his manner was more serious than usual—he kissed her hand.

HELLO! BROWN,

"What are you looking so sad about, this morning?"

"Well, I'll tell you, Jones. I bought a very fine Tent from TURNER, and one of my friends wanted to borrow it."

"And did you lend it?"

"Well, I guess not. The last Tent I had got used up by lending. I told him to go to J. J. TURNER, the great Tent maker, and he would rent or sell him a tent."

"You did right, Brown."

GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

CURES ALL HUMORS,

from a common Blotch, or Eruption, to the worst Scrofula. Salt-rheum, "Fever-sores," Scaly or Rough Skin, in short, all diseases caused by bad blood are conquered by this powerful, purifying, and invigorating medicine. Great Eating Ulcers rapidly heal under its benign influence. Especially has it manifested its power in curing Tetter, Moco Mash, Moths, Glandular Swellings, Kings Evil, Boils, Carbuncles, Sore Eyes, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Blip-Joint Disease, White Swellings, Goitre, or Thick Neck, and Enlarged Glands. Send ten cents in stamps for a large treatise, with colored plates, on Skin Diseases, or the same amount for a treatise on Scrofulous Affections.

"THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE." Thoroughly cleanse it by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution, will be established.

CONSUMPTION,

which is Scrofulous Disease of the Lungs, is promptly and certainly arrested and cured by this God-given remedy, if taken before the last stages of the disease are reached. From its wonderful power over this terrible fatal disease, when first offering this now obscure remedy to the public, Dr. Pierce thought seriously of calling it his "Consumption Cure," but abandoned that name as too limited for a medicine which, from its wonderful combination of tonic, or strengthening, alterative, or blood-cleansing, anti-bilious, pectoral, and nutritive properties, is unequaled not only as a remedy for consumption of the lungs, but for all

CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE

Examiner Bindery.

Merchants and business men, now is the time to call at the EXAMINER bindery and leave your orders for journals, day books, ledgers, invoice books, cheque books, and all blank books used in business. Don't wait till the moment you want to use them. All blank books last longer for not being used immediately after being finished.

St. John's Church.

We are requested to announce that special services of prayer on behalf of missions will not be held on Tuesday, but on some day in the following week, notice of which will be given next Sunday. This service is to be general in the Anglican communion throughout the world.

W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held yesterday afternoon in the Y. M. C. A. hall. A favorable report was received from the Visiting Committee; also a communication from Mrs. Chisholm, and a pleasing and interesting item from a Guelph paper on the Union work there, were read by the president.

Peterborough Musical Society.

We are requested to announce that there will be no meeting of the Peterborough Musical Society in their rooms this evening. The practice has been postponed to give members an opportunity of attending Mr. Hoover's concert this evening. Also that Mr. Seward's rudimentry class, in sight reading, will meet in Hartley's Music rooms, next Tuesday evening.

The Cause of Ireland.

There is every indication that there will be a crowded house at Bradburn's Opera House on Thursday evening, when the celebrated Justin McCarthy will deliver his great address on "The Cause of Ireland." Single fare tickets, good for Thursday and Friday, Nov. 25th and 26th, will be issued by the G. T. R from Millbrook, Campbellford, Lakefield, Hastings and Keene. Tickets 75 and 50 cents. No one should miss this great occasion.

Couldn't do Better.

Said Police Magistrate Dumble to the EXAMINER this morning at the Police Court:—"Will you kindly mention in your paper that the Town Council might do a worse thing than have this room cleaned up,—say, once in three months, anyway?" and Mr. Dumble is about right. The floor of the room is covered with a thick layer of dust and littered with scraps of paper. A thorough renovation would do the "Hall of Justice" all sorts of good.

Distinguished Visitors.

General Middleton and Miss. Col. Villiers Arrive To-night—Big Reception Tomorrow.

Col. Rogers has received a telegram stating that Gen. Middleton and staff (and probably Lady Middleton), Lieut.-Col. Villiers, D. A. G., and Major King, District Paymaster, will arrive to-night by the 6.42 C. P. R. express from Toronto. Lieut.-Col. Villiers originally intended coming to Peterborough via the Grand Junction Railway, but has since telegraphed Col. Rogers that he will accompany General Middleton. The telegram also stated that the General had despatched his horses to Peterborough. It is expected that his mount on the occasion of the review will be the old war horse which carried him to victory in the Northwest rebellion. The visitors will be received at the station by the mayor and council, who will escort them to the Oriental hotel, where they will remain over night. To-morrow morning the General and his staff will be driven about the town in carriages, and in the afternoon the review of the 57th Battalion takes place. The inspection ground has not yet been decided upon. Immediately following the review the unveiling of the Brown memorial fountain will take place in the presence of the troops.

It is necessary that every member of the 57th Battalion should attend drill to-night, for special reasons. Lieut.-Col. Villiers will be present and make a brief inspection, in order to ascertain the strength and standing of the corps. The new belts are to be given out to-night, and every volunteer should be provided with one of these. Major King, the District Paymaster, will make out the rolls at the shed to-night, and only those present will receive any pay.

JUSTIN McCARTHY—Nov. 25th.

A Waif Wafted.

Yesterday afternoon a ten-year old youngster applied to P. C. Adams for assistance in finding his uncle, one John Sage, who, he said, lived in or near Peterborough. The lad said he had walked all the way from Rosemount over the C. P. R. in search of his relative. At a late hour it was found that the party in question lived in Smith, and the lad was given lodging in the police station over night and despatched on his way this morning. The poor little fellow bore numerous evidences of hard usage and want.

At the Opera House To-Night.

Mr. A. T. Hoover's grand concert takes place at the Opera House to-night, and if the citizens of Peterborough have a taste for high class entertainments, the house will be filled. First and foremost of the artists comes Mrs. Caldwell, Canada's finest soprano, whose Cuckoo song is a marvellous combination of tones and trills, while her other songs are equally powerful and charming. Then comes Herr Scanichsen, the German violinist of Buffalo, late of Hamburg, who on account of the illness of Herr Jacobsen, will take the latter's place on the programme. He is said to be fully the equal of Herr Jacobsen. Mr. Thos. Dean, Peterborough's popular baritone, will sing, and Miss Cluxton and the Misses Lech will delight the audience with their specialties. The programme is one to satisfy the most exacting taste, and no doubt Mr. Hoover's efforts will be appreciated.

The Late Dr. Tassie.

The remains of the late Dr. Tassie were taken to the C. P. R. station at 8 o'clock this morning, the funeral procession passing down George street. The hearse was preceded by about forty male pupils of the Collegiate Institute, who took this means of showing the sorrow they felt at their late esteemed master's death. The immediate friends and relatives of deceased and the members of the School Board followed in carriages. The body will be buried at Nelson, near Hamilton, where deceased's father lies. There will be some difficulty in securing a successor to Dr. Tassie, one who will take the deep interest in the school and school matters, and who will make such an excellent teacher as the late Principal. The School Board are, however, doing their best, and it is hoped by next week the Collegiate Institute will be in complete running order again.

A Hallelujah Wedding.

A rustle of interest was created on the street on Saturday evening, says the Port Hope Times, by the intelligence that a hallelujah wedding, the first performed in Port Hope, was to be celebrated in the Salvation Army barracks that evening at eight o'clock. That being's arrival the barracks was crowded. The appearance of the bride and groom, Mrs. Annie Graham and John Duffy, was greeted with demonstrative satisfaction. One of the attaches of the Army then read the declaration to be made by the contracting parties. The declaration bristled with cast-iron promises to live unitedly and severally for, give all to, and advance the interests in every possible way of, the Salvation Army. Every clause closed with the last three words with sounding reasonance. After the bride and groom had pledged themselves, their present and future possessions, to the Army, the officer then gave permission to proceed. The Rev. Mr. Hall then mounted the platform. Some at this juncture got excited and impatiently called them to "let 'er go." The impressive marriage ceremony was then performed by the rev. gentleman. Its conclusion was the signal for wild cheering, and the affair was at end. The bride maintained a demure and modest presence during the ordeal, while a happy light beamed in the eyes of the groom. The dress of the bride was the severely plain "army" outfit, but the groom was glowing in the regulation fiery red cardigan.

Furs.

To maintain my reputation as a successful buyer against all competition at the fur market held by the trappers at Haliburton, formerly at Minden, is no easy task to perform, yet my success has been and is such, that hosts of buyers have vanished and new ones come, only to find failure in their mission. My aim has always been to secure the choicest lots, as I have orders on hand for such for Canadian retailers as well as for European markets, where they can depend on my good judgement. This last season has been a failure for the trappers in this section as regards quantity, as the late spring hunts bid fair to exterminate a source of wealth. Beaver and Otter, of which there is a great demand fall short of supply. Fortunately, such a condition I foresaw, as the call in Leipsig had been very strong for beaver, which prompted me to buy almost the whole quantity of furs offered last spring, to the disappointment of Toronto buyers, and the result is that I hold the choicest goods of which the following letter from a gentleman in Fort Hope, formerly an officer in the Hudson's Bay Fur Company, which speaks for itself is ample evidence. W. LECH.

SIRS,—The Beaver Cape you made, gives entire satisfaction and much superior to anything of the kind produced in Fort Hope.

Job Dress Goods in sale at the Golden Lion. R. FAIR.

The "Four Corner" Candidate.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—I would like to warn my Protestant friends of the East riding to be on their guard against the machinations of Mr. McLeod, whose purpose appears to be to endeavour to split up the reform party by his foolish rant about Archbishop Lynch and popery in politics. I will venture to assert in the calmly work of [illegible] Protestant and Catholic [illegible] war of religious feelings [illegible] and peaceable community. I have been hitherto of the belief that Mr. McLeod was a fire brand and a mere tool of the Tory party to try to get Protestant Reformers to vote against their party by raising the no-popery cry. Fractious to put upon chairman of the present registrar of this county, Mr. McLeod was on caucus and discern a Reformer as could be desired, but because Mr. Mowat did not give this office to Mr. McLeod he all at once looked through other spectacles and the latter to be a different light. Mr. Mowat was all right up to the time he gave this office to a Roman Catholic, and not to Mr. McLeod. Now, the Catholics were all right, the party but immediately thereafter Mr. Mowat was a bad man, and the Catholics were a dangerous people, and should be trampled and put down. But it is easy to understand the object of Mr. McLeod's candidature at the approaching elections. He knows he cannot be elected, but his Tory allies hope that he will draw off a sufficient number of Reform votes to weaken the Reform party, and thus give the victory to them. But Mr. McLeod will be disappointed in this unholy work. I was in Peterborough on Saturday last, and I there had my suspicions verified. I saw Mr. McLeod in secret and confidential conversation with two of the greatest and most bigoted tories of the county, and I saw enough to convince me that he was an enemy in sheep's clothing, and that he was acting in the interests of the Tory party, and to help them to steal in their candidates at the coming elections. I warn my Protestant friends not to be deceived by him. My business does not require me to meddle in politics, but it requires me to oppose dishonesty. Mr. McLeod is a poor specimen of his hardy countrymen, who love liberty, and who fought for it until they won it. There were no Judas Iscariots among them, and they laid down their lives in thousands, and their life's blood flowed over the heather until their liberties were won, and the entire world looked on with approval. They were united and they gave up all personal ill-feeling, all local causes of complaint, they fought shoulder to shoulder, and died the death of the righteous, for their country's sake.

The Water Company's Share in Honoring a Hero.

At the last meeting of the town council Mr. A. Rutherford, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee, was instructed to confer with the Peterborough Waterworks Company relative to their supplying the Brown Memorial fountain with water. He did so, and to day received the following letter:—

A. Rutherford, Esq., Chairman Fire, Water and Light Committee.

DEAR SIR,—I am instructed by the directors of the Peterborough Water Company to inform you that considering that the drinking fountain in the Central Park is erected by the citizens of the town as a memorial to the late Capt. Brown, of his services in the Northwest, they also desire to contribute towards so laudable an object, and they have therefore resolved to make a gift to the citizens of this town of water for the same. The company will also carry out the necessary excavations and furnish pipes and fittings necessary to supply the water.

Yours truly,

The Riverside Lacrosse Club will hold another grand assembly in the Ashburnham town hall, on Friday evening, November 26th.

The Temperance Hall Meeting.

Mr. Carnegie held his first meeting of the campaign at the Temperance Hall, 4th line of Smith, on Monday evening. There were between thirty and forty persons present. Mr. Paul occupied the chair, and Mr. Carnegie, with his scrap-book and the same old speech, held the floor for about an hour and a half. As usual, he dealt largely in figures, reviewing and condemning the redistribution act of 1874, which he had the effrontery to describe the "Gerrymander" act. He also dealt with the Agricultural College, the school book question, colonization roads, etc. —the same old story the electors have heard so often. The address caused no enthusiasm, but fell flat. Not one round of applause, not one encouraging assent cheered the speaker in his weary wading through his combination of figures.

A Big Day.

This evening at the Salvation Army barracks a sort of double-barrelled entertainment takes place—the "swearing in" of Adjutant Bolton, the new divisional officer for Peterborough division, and the "farewell" to Major Margetts, Adjutants McHardy and Van Allen, and about a dozen other officers who are about to carry on the warfare in Eastern Canada. A march-out was held this afternoon at 2.30, followed by a holiness meeting in the barracks. To-night the ceremonies mentioned above take place.

The departing officers arrived in town this morning. They are: Major Margetts, who leaves Toronto division to take charge of New Brunswick and Newfoundland districts; Captains Carpenter and Roberts; Lieutenants Hoyle, Chapman, Dussie and Fry; and Cadet Smith. These officers are all to be under the charge of the Major in their new mission.

EXPLANATORY!

Or, a Few Facts for This Week.

An Explicit Fact which we wish the public to understand, and that is, that we are selling a pure All Wool Grey Flannel at 18c. per yard.

An Excitable Fact that we are selling Heavy Tweed Effects for Dresses at 8c. per yard which astonish every lady that has seen them.

An Eventful Fact to be remembered is our Ulster and Mantle Cloths and the prices which we are selling them at.

A Fact of Integrity and that is we keep faith with the public in every article we advertised.

A Fact to be Remembered and that is we don't sell or propose to sell goods at cost, nor do we sell you the best All Wool Flannels at 18c. per yard, we sell you the goods as we advertise them. It would never do to sell Flannels that cost 20c. per yard at 18c.

BLACK SILK—We have the best Black Gro Grain Silk at $1.00 per yard in Canada, and every lady is welcome to compare it with any silk she wishes at 20 per cent higher.

MR. J. W. CROSBY
who has had several years experience as traveller and dealer in HIGH GRADE PIANOS and ORGANS, has settled in Peterborough, where he will offer for sale the Emerson Piano, Boston, Gerard Heintzman Piano, Toronto; Stephenson Piano, Kingston; and the famous Chickering and Steinway Piano at moderately low prices. My Organs are the best in the market, contain the most music, and sweet and yet powerful in tone, have the simplest and most durable stop action used, pump the slowest and will last a lifetime. As I have no expensive attaches with high salaries and commissions to support I am prepared to give by far the best bargains. My motto is truthfulness, justice and economy. Intending purchasers will consult their own interests by inspecting my sample Instruments, as I will not be undersold. Organs from $40 to $400.
